become vacant. Such appointments shall be so made that not more than a majority of the commissioners belong to the same political party, and the other commissioner shall be chosen from the other political party polling in such county at the last general election either the highest or the next highest number of votes. If the office of any commissioner become vacant before the expiration of his term, such vacancy shall be filled, for the unexpired term, by the appointment of a person of the same political faith as his predecessor at the time of his appointment. Each commissioner shall be paid by the county for his services, a sum to be fixed by the board of supervisors, not exceeding, excepting in the county of Onondaga, the rate of four dollars per day, for the time necessarily and actually occupied in the performance of his duties, and his necessary and reasonable expenses incurred while absent from his home in the discharge of his duties, but the total amount paid to any commissioner for his services and expenses in any one year shall not exceed five hundred dollars in Onondaga county nor three hundred dollars in any other county. [Tax Law, § 51, as amended by L. 1918, ch. 287; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5878.]

§ 3. EXAMINATION OF ASSESSMENT-ROLLS BY COMMISSIONERS; EQUALIZATION OF VALUATIONS; VACANCY IN OFFICE OF COMMISSIONERS.

Between the first day of September and the time of the annual meeting of the board of supervisors in each year, the commissioners shall examine the assessment-rolls of the several towns in their county and shall visit each town therein once in each alternate year between such dates, or once in each year when deemed necessary by them, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the valuations in one town or ward bear a just relation to the valuations in all the towns and wards in the county, and they may increase or diminish the aggregate valuations of real estate in any town or ward by adding or deducting such sum upon the hundred in accordance with the rule of equalization specified in section fifty of this chapter, as may, in their opinion, be necessary to produce a just relation between all the valuations of real estate in the county, but they shall in no instance reduce the aggregate valuations of all the towns and wards below the aggregate valuations thereof as made by the assessors. [Tax Law, § 52, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5879.]

§ 4. COMMISSIONERS' REPORT OF EQUALIZED VALUATIONS.

On or before the tenth day of the annual meeting of the board of supervisors in each year the commissioners shall file with the clerk of such board of supervisors their report of the equalized valuations of real estate, signed by a majority of such commissioners, and the same shall be binding and conclusive on such board of supervisors as an equalization of the assessments of real estate for such year.

The table of percentages and an abstract of the evidence upon which the percentages are determined shall be published in the proceedings of the board of supervisors and a certified copy of the percentages and evidence furnished the tax commission. [Tax Law, § 53, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323, and L. 1917, ch. 92; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5880.]

§ 5. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY CHANGE DESCRIPTIONS OF REAL PROPERTY.

The board of supervisors of each county, at its annual meeting, shall examine the assessment-rolls of the several tax districts, and shall make such changes in the descriptions of the real property as may be necessary to render such descriptions sufficiently definite for the purposes of collection of taxes by sale thereof.[2] If a sufficiently definite description cannot be obtained during the session, the board shall cause the same to be obtained for the next annual session, and the property shall not be taxed until such description is obtained, and shall then be taxed for the year so omitted, in the manner provided for taxing omitted lands. [Tax Law, § 54, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 315; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5880.]

§ 6. REVIEW OF ASSESSMENT AGAINST NON-RESIDENT OWNERS OF RENTS RESERVED BY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

If an assessment of taxable rents shall have been made against any person in any tax district of which he is not an actual resident, the board of supervisors of the county shall have the same power and authority in all respects, and it shall be its duty to correct such assessments as to the valuation of such rents and as to the gross amount for which such persons shall be assessed therefor, as the assessors of a tax district have as to the assessment of personal property of an actual resident of such tax district. The board may reduce the amount of any such assessment, if necessary, to make such assessment just when compared with the other assessments of property upon such roll.[3] [Tax Law, § 55; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5880.]

§ 7. CORRECTION OF ERRORS BY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS; PETITION OF ASSESSORS FOR CORRECTION; PETITION TO BE SERVED ON OWNER.

If it shall be made to appear to the board of supervisors of any county, upon the verified petition of the assessors of any tax district:

First. That any property taxable therein has, by any mistake in transcribing or copying the assessment-roll of the preceding year, been placed on the assessment-roll delivered to the supervisor at a valuation less

3. As to the taxation of rents reserved, see Tax Law, sec. 8, ante, p. 492. Such taxable rents reserve are included in the fifth column of the assessment-roll. See Tax Law, sec. 21, sub. 5, ante, p. 518.

Power same as assessors. The power of correction conferred upon the board than that actually appearing upon the original roll signed by the assessors, such board shall insert in the assessment-roll of the current year an assessment of the property upon the valuation equal to the difference between the actual valuation made by the assessors and the amount at which, by such mistake, the property was placed upon the roll of the preceding year, and tax the same at the rate per centum imposed upon property in such tax district in the year in which the mistake occurred.

Second. That any taxable property therein has been omitted from the assessment-roll of the preceding year, such board shall place the same on the roll of the current year at its valuation for the preceding year, to be fixed by the assessors in their petition, and shall tax the same at the rate per centum of the preceding year.

Third. That taxable property has been omitted from the assessment-roll for the current year, such board shall place the same thereon at a valuation to be fixed by the assessors in their petition, and shall tax the same at the rate per centum of the current year.[4]

Fourth. That an assessment of the shares of stock of a bank or banking association, as provided in article two of the tax law, has been omitted or erroneously made for the current year, such board shall place the same thereon at a valuation to be fixed by the assessors in their petition and shall tax the same at the rate provided in article two.

A copy of the petition under the second, third or fourth subdivision of this section, with a notice of the presentation thereof to the board of supervisors, shall be served personally on the person or corporation alleged to be liable to taxation for the property omitted from the assessment-roll, at least ten days before the meeting of the board of supervisors; and the board of supervisors shall take no action on such petition, unless proof of the personal service of such petition and notice be made to them by affidavit. The board of supervisors shall give to the person alleged to be liable to taxation for such property an opportunity to be heard, and on such hearing and review the board of supervisors shall have, as to such omitted property, all the powers of the assessors of a of supervisors by Laws 1858, ch. 357, § 1, from which this section was originally revised, in the case of a non-resident taxpayer assessed upon rents reserved, is the same which the assessors have in the case of a resident of the town, and no other or greater. People ex rel. Youmans v. Supervisors of Delaware, 60 N. Y. 381.

Failure to specify amount reserved. An assessment upon rents reserved by various leases upon the whole of a patent of land without specifying the amount reserved upon each lease, or any of the leases, and against "John Kortright and other legal heirs of the late John Kortright, deceased, or their heirs or assigns," the John Kortright first named being also dead at the time of the assessment,—held void, being defective in not specifying the persons assessed, as in the case of any personal estate, and in not specifying each rent assessed. Idem.

Valid assessment. Where rents accruing under perpetual leases had been assessed to a person not the owner, and upon petition the same property was put upon the roll of the following year, assessed to the owner, and a tax levied for the preceding year,—held, that such assessment was legal and valid. tax district in reviewing and correcting the assessment-roll.[5] The whole amount of tax levied upon the land or property omitted in the tax levy of the preceding year shall be deducted from the aggregate of taxation to be levied on the tax district for the current year before such tax is levied. [Tax Law, § 56, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5881.]

Correction of assessments, and returning and refunding of erroneous taxes. The board of supervisors of any county may correct any manifest clerical or other error in any assessment or returns made by any one or more town officers to such board, or which may, or shall have properly come before such board for its action, confirmation or review; and cause to be refunded to any person the amount collected from him of any tax erroneously or improperly assessed or levied, and upon the order of the county court, it shall refund any such tax. In raising the amount so refunded, or necessary to supply the deficiency caused by the correction of any error in such assessment, such board shall, in the same or next ensuing tax-levy, adjust and apportion such amount upon the property of the several towns and wards of the county as shall be just, taking into consideration the portion of the state, county, town and ward included therein, and the extent to which such town or ward has been benefited thereby. Such board shall ascertain, fix and determine the amount which any person or corporation is equitably entitled to receive back from any town for taxes paid while the boundary line between towns was in dispute and cause the same to be levied and collected. [Tax Law, § 56a, as added by L. 1916, ch. 323.]

§ 8. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY CORRECT MANIFEST ERRORS, AND CAUSE MONEYS ILLEGALLY COLLECTED TO BE REFUNDED.

Any such board may correct any manifest clerical or other error in any assessment or returns made by any one or more town officers to such board, or which may, or shall have properly come before such board for its action, confirmation or review; and cause to be refunded to any person the amount collected from him of any tax illegally or improperly assessed or levied, and upon the order of the county court, it shall refund any such tax.[6] In raising the ahount so refunded, or necessary to supply the de-

5. Assessment of omitted property. Boards of supervisors, in including in the assessment roll of a town omitted property, must give the owner of such property an opportunity to be heard. In including in the assessment of such property the board is to be governed by the provisions of sections 34-38 of the Tax Law, ante, pp. 533-542, relating to the correction of assessment-rolls by assessors.

Powers of supervisors as to assessments. The supervisors have no authority to add to the asssessment-roll, at the suggestion of the assessors, the name of a person whom they had previously omitted as not liable to assessment. Where the supervisors add a tax which they have no jurisdiction to place upon the roll, the supervisor of a town who delivers the roll to the collector is liable in damages for a sale thereunder. Marsh v. Bowen, 12 Abb. N. C. 1; see, also, Overing v. Foote, 43 N. T. 290.

6. References. This section should be considered in connection with sec. 56 of the Tax Law, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323. Section 296, ante, of the Tax Law provides for the auditing and allowing by the board of supervisors of the amount paid under an assessment which has been declared illegal, erroneous or unequal in ficiency caused by the correction of any error in such assessment, such board shall, in the same or next ensuing tax-levy, adjust and apportion proceedings instituted to review the assessment made by the assessors pursuant to the provisions of secs. 290-295, ante, of the Tax Law.

This section contemplates a presentation of the matter to the board of supervisors in the first instance before application shall be made to the County Court, and if power exists and the facts justify it that court may direct the tax to be refunded, whether the conclusion of the board shall have been favorable to the claimant of not. Matter of Trustees of Village of Delhi, 139 App. Div. 412, 124 N. Y. Supp. 487, affd. 201 N. Y. 408.

A legal remedy is provided by this section if a general tax for county and town purposes has been levied without authority or contrary to law. People ex rel. Toms v. Board of Supervisors, 199 N. Y. 150.

Distinction between erroneous and an illegal assessment. There is a clear distinction between a case of erroneous or over-assessment and a case of an assessment made under an unconstitutional law, or without authority of any law. For instance, a tax warrant, regular on its face, issued for the collection of a tax levied under an erroneous assessment, would afford protection to the officer serving it, while a tax warrant issued for the collection of a tax levied under an unconstitutional law, or without authority of law, would afford no protection whatever. Norris v. Jones, 81 Hun, 304, 310, 27 N. Y. Supp. 209. See, also, Weaver v. Devendorf, 3 Denio, 117; Nat. Bank of Chemung v. City of Elmira, 53 N. Y. 49; Matter of Ulster Co. Sav. Bank, 20 Hun, 481; People ex rel. Ithaca Sav. Bank v. Beers, 67 How. Pr. 219, 226; Harris v. Supervisors of Niagara Co., 33 Hun, 279, s. c., 16 Abb. N. C. 284; Williams v. Board of Supervisors, 78 N. Y. 561.

Errors which may be corrected. Only such errors can be corrected by the board of supervisors or the County Court as are manifest from an inspection of the roll itself without argument or evidence. Matter of Trustees of Village of Delhi, 139 App. Div. 412, 129 N. Y. Supp. 487.

This section does not subject all assesments to review, or permit a correction of all errors, but simply of those which are apparent by an examination of the assessment-roll or return, without extrinsic evidence to make them clear; the errors of the assessors in making assessments and substantial errors of judgment or of law are not subject to correction. Hermance v. Supervisors of Ulster, 71 N. Y. 481. See, also, Matter of Young, 26 Misc. 186, 56 N. Y. Supp. 861. Nor does this section authorize the correction of an assessment because of its being excessive. Matter of Baumgarent, 39 App. Div. 174, 57 N. Y. Supp. 284. This section has reference merely to clerical corrections and the performance of ministerial duties in reference thereto, and does not empower the supervisors to make assessments to pay claims disallowed by a town board. Armstrong v. Fitch, 126 App. Div. 527, 110 N. Y. Supp. 736.

Where assessors and collector have jurisdiction of the person and property, the presumption is that the tax was legally assessed and collected, and the burden is on the petitioner to show the contrary. Matter of Peek, 80 Hun, 122, 61 St. Rep. 802, 30 N. Y. Supp. 59.

Where assessment has been made in name of the wrong person, it is within this section, and taxes paid thereon, even though by the actual owner, are recoverable; owner need not object to a valid assessment, nor do successive, voluntary payments of taxes waive the illegality. Matter of Reid, 31 Misc. 156, 64 N. Y. Supp. 1121.

The statute was designed to relieve from taxes not legally chargeable to the person,—taxes which he should not be required in any manner to pay; the terms illegal or improper assessment or levy of tax had reference to the tax itself rather than to the method of making the assessment or levy—to an illegal tax rather than to the erroneous assessment or levy of a legal one. Harris v. Supervisors of Niagara Co., 33 Hun, 279, 16 Abb. N. C. 282.

Where assessors have not acquired jurisdiction to assess a tax, the acts of the board of supervisors in levying it are void. Matter of Douglas, 48 Hun, 318, 1 N. Y. Supp. 126.

Dispute as to boundary. Where same property is assessed and tax paid in such amount upon the property of the several towns and wards of the two towns, because of a dispute as to boundary, and the board of supervisors refuse to ascertain the amount to be refunded, the statute may be invoked, whether an action will be against the assesors and collector or not. People ex sel. Witherbee v. Supervisors, 85 N. Y. 612.

Refund upon order of county court. The board of supervisors under this section is required to refund any tax erroneously paid, upon the order of the County Court. The power of the court is limited to directing the refunding of an illegal tax that has been paid. It cannot order the board to cancel a tax illegally imposed. Matter of Buffalo Mut. Gas Light Co., 144 N. Y. 228; 39 N. E. 86. The court in this case, in speaking of the power of the County Court said: "The legislature anticipated the possibility that the board might neglect or refuse to refund an illegal tax to the person who had paid it. In such cases the board is required by the statute to cause it to be refunded upon the order of the county judge, and this is the only power which the statute has conferred upon that officer. The power to refund a tax once paid, conferred by statute upon a board or officer of special and unlimited jurisdiction, does not carry with it by implication the power to cancel the tax before payment, or to restrain its collection." This case overrules in effect the case of Matter of Douglas, 48 Hun, 318.

Where part of the water works of a village were situated outside its limits in the adjoining town and the town levied an assessment against the village for "Water works, 45 acres, valuation $14,000," and the village, without taking any proceedings to correct the roll, paid the tax and then applied to the supervisors for a refund on the ground that only eight acres of the water works were outside the limits of the village, which application was denied, the County Court has no jurisdiction to apportion the tax and remit a portion of it. Matter of Trustees of Village of Delhi, 139 App. Div. 412, 124 N. Y. Supp. 489, affd. 201 N. Y. 408.

Where exempt property has been assessed, and the tax paid under protest, the County Court may direct the board to refund the amount paid. Williams v. Board of Supervisors, 78 N. Y. 561; Matter of New York Catholic Protectory, 77 N. Y. 342.

The section only authorizes a refund in case a tax has been collected under compulsion of law. It does not authorize the refund of a tax voluntarily paid without any effort having been made to collect it. Matter of McCue v. Supervisors, 162 N. Y. 235, 56 N. E. 627. See, also, Matter of Reid, 52 App. Div. 243, 65 N. Y. Supp. 373. Payments made under a mistake of law are not recoverable. Van Hise v. Board of Supervisors, 21 Misc. 572, 48 N. Y. Supp. 874. See, also Matter of Eckerson, 25 Misc. 645, 56 N. Y. Supp. 373. But see Matter of Edison Elec. Ill. Co., 22 App. Div. 371, 48 N. Y. Supp. 99, where it is held that a corporation which paid a local tax on its personal property, without knowledge of an exemption, was entitled to a refund.

County Court has no jurisdiction until application has been made to the board of supervisors to refund the tax illegally collected. In re Gilloren, 38 N. Y. Supp. 954.

See generally as to power of court to order a refund, Matter of Buffalo Mut. Gas-Light Co., 144 N. Y. 228; Matter of Peck, 80 Hun, 122, 126, 30 N. Y. Supp. 59; Matter of Gilloren, 16 Misc. 130, 38 N. Y. Supp. 954; Matter of Ulster Co. Sav. Bank, 20 Hun, 481.

Voluntary payment cannot be recovered.—Where an assessment is void on its face and a person without duress in fact pays the tax levied upon such assessment, it is a voluntary payment and cannot be recovered under this section. So, where an assessment although valid on its face, but in fact illegal and void, is paid by a person with knowledge of the facts which render the assessment void and without duress in fact it is a voluntary payment. Matter of Village of Delhi, 201 N. Y. 408, 414.

Proceeding to compel refund. In such a proceeding affidavits of an assessor will not be received to show that in making the assessment the assessors included other property than the property upon the assessment roll; neither can the court determine whether the assessment was illegal and improper, since the court can do nothing except what the board of supervisors may have done in the first instance. Matter of Village of Medina, 52 Misc. 621, 103 N. Y. Supp.

county as shall be just, taking into consideration the portion of the state, county, town and ward included therein, and the extent to which such town or ward has been benefited thereby.

Such board shall ascertain, fix and determine the amount which any person or corporation is equitably entitled to receive back from any town, for taxes paid while the boundary line between towns was in dispute and cause the same to be levied and collected. [County Law, § 16; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 717.]

§ 9. CERTAIN ERRORS IN ROLL TO BE CORRECTED.

An error in the description of a parcel or portion of real property shall not invalidate the assessment against such parcel or portion, if such description is sufficiently accurate to identify the parcel or portion. The entry of the name of the owner, last known owner or reputed owner of a separate parcel or portion of real property shall not be regarded as part of such assessment, but merely as an aid to identify such parcel upon the roll.[6a] [Tax Law, § 55a, as renumbered and amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5885.]

§ 10. REASSESSMENT OF PROPERTY ILLEGALLY ASSESSED.

Whenever, by the final judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, it appears to the board of supervisors that any property liable to taxation in any year was erroneously or illegally assessed, and that by reason of such erroneous or illegal assessment, such property did not become subject to taxation for such year, the board shall place the same on the roll of the current year at the valuation thereof, if any, fixed by the assessors for such preceding year; and in case no valuation was fixed by the assessors, such property shall be assessed by the board at such valuation as they may determine for the preceding year. Before fixing such valuation, the board of supervisors shall give to the owners of such property, at the time of the assessment by the board, a notice of at least five days and an opportunity to be heard, and on such hearing, the board shall have, as to such property, all the powers of the assessors of a tax district in reviewing and correcting an assessment-roll. Such property shall be taxed at the rate per centum of such preceding year. The whole amount of tax on property levied in pursuance of this section shall be deducted from the aggregate of taxa-

1018. The application of the taxpayer is informal and not governed by any established rules of procedure. Matter of Adams v. Supervisors, 154 N. Y. 619.

6a. Error in name of owners. Though, in the assessment of real estate for taxes, the use of the name of only one of several tenants in common in connection with the equivalent term "and others" is an error in the name of the owners it does not affect the validity of the assessment, that contingency being provided for by section 63 (now § 55a) of the Tax Law, section 9 of which declares that the assessment "shall be deemed as against the real property itself" and that it "shall be holden and liable to sale for any tax levied upon it." Where property known as 210 North Clinton street and listed on a well-known, duly authenticated map in general use and filed in the county clerk's office as block 147 was conveyed as block 146, reference being had to another map, and the assessors in using the term "block 147, No. 210 North Clinton street" did not refer to any map, the assessment is valid even though the names of the owners, all of whom were nonresidents, did not appear on the assessment-roll. Sheldon v. Russell (1915), 91 Misc. 278, 154 N. Y. Supp. 632, affd. (1916), 172 App. Div. 793, 159 N. Y. Supp. 169.

tion to be levied on the tax district for the current year, before such tax is levied.[7] [Tax Law, § 57; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5882.]

§ 11. LEVY OF TAXES BY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The board of supervisors of each county shall, at its annual meeting, levy the taxes for the county, including the state tax, upon the valuations as equalized by it and estimate and set down in a separate column in the assessment-roll of each tax district therein, opposite to the sums set down as the valuation of real and personal property the sum to be paid as a tax thereon, including the state tax, as fixed by the comptroller.[8] Such assess-

7. Reassessment. The evident purpose of this section, which was new in the Tax Law of 1896, is to permit the board of supervisors to re-asses property which has been declared by a court of competent jurisdiction, in proceedings brought for the review of the original assessment, to have been erroneously or illegally assessed. Proceedings for the review of assessment are authorized by sections 290-296, ante, of the Tax Law. If in such proceedings an assessment is declared illegal or erroneous, the effect of the judgment is to render invalid the assessment for that year, and except for the provisions of the above section, no authority would be imposed upon any person or board to reassess such property for the year in which it was declared to have been illegally assessed.

This section does not apply to village assessors. People ex rel. Glen Head Realty Co. v. Garland, 72 Misc. 413.

8. County charges to be levied upon taxable property. The moneys necessary to defray the county charges of each county shall be levied on the taxable property in the several towns therein, in the manner prescribed in the general laws relating to taxes; and in order to enable the county treasurer to pay such expenses as may become payable from time to time, the board of supervisors shall annually cause such sum to be raised in addition to their county, as they may deem necessary for such purpose. County Law, sec. 242.

As to what constitute county charges, see County Law, sec. 240, ante, p. 37.

Town charges to be levied upon taxable property. It is provided in section 170 of the Town Law (ante, p. 388), that "all town charges specified in this section shall be presented to the town board for audit, and the moneys necessary to defray such charges shall be levied on the taxable property in such town by the board of supervisors." It is also provided by County Law, sec. 12, sub. 3, that the board of supervisors shall "annually direct the raising of such sums in each town as shall be necessary to pay its town charges."

Manner of levying tax. The board is required to estimate and set down in a fifth (now eighth) column, opposite to the valuations, the respective sums in dollars and cents, rejecting the fractions of a cent, to be paid as a tax thereon. Newman v. Supervisors of Livingston, 1 Lans. 476, affd. 45 N. Y. 676; People v. Hagadorn, 104 Id. 516.

Affidavit of assessors must be attached to roll, in order to give supervisors jurisdiction to levy tax. Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401; Van Rensselaer v. Whitbeck, 7 id. 517; Westfall v. Preston, 49 Id. 349.

ment-roll shall, when the warrant is annexed thereto, become the tax-roll of the tax district, and a copy thereof shall be delivered to the proper supervisor, who shall deliver it to the clerk of the proper city or town to be kept by him for its use. [Tax Law, § 58, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5882.]

§ 12. TAX-ROLL COLLECTOR'S WARRANT TO BE ATTACHED TO; CONTENTS OF WARRANT.

On or before December fifteenth in each year, or such date as may be designated by a resolution of the board of supervisors of any county, not embracing a portion of the forest preserve, not later, however, than the first day of February in each year, the board of supervisors shall annex to the tax-roll a warrant under the seal of the county, signed by the chairman and clerk of the board, commanding the collector of each tax district to whom the same is directed to collect from the several persons named in said tax roll the several sums mentioned in the last column thereof, opposite their respective names, except taxes upon the shares of stock of banks and banking associations, on or before the first day of the following February, where the same is annexed on or before the fifteenth of December, in each year, as above provided. But where, however, the time of annexing the same and performing the several duties herein imposed is deferred to a later date by resolution as aforesaid, then on or before the first day of May, following the said later date, and further commanding him to pay over on or before the said first day of February or first day of May, as the case may be, if he be a collector of a city or a division thereof, all moneys so collected appearing on said roll to the treasurer of the county, or if he be a collector of a town:

Copying assessment-roll. In each county it is usually the custom for the supervisor of each town to copy the assessment-roll for his town. Under section 23 of the County Law (ante, p. 17), the board of supervisors is authorized to allow to each member of the board for his services in making a copy of the assessment-roll, three cents for each written line for the first one hundred lines; two cents per line for the second hundred written lines; and one cent per line for all written lines in excess of two hundred, and one cent for each line of the tax roll actually extended by him. A line means a straight row of words and figures between the margins of the page, and does not include additions to the assessment-roll, such as totals of columns, recapitulations and totals of items. Smith v. Hedges (1918), — N. Y. —, 119 N. E. 396.

Expense of copy of tax-roll. Preparation of a copy of the tax-roll for delivery to the collector of taxes, if the supervisors do not use the original tax-roll for such purpose, may be paid for at "one-half the compensation authorized for making a copy of the assesment and tax rolls," as provided by section 23 of the County Law. Opinion of Atty. Genl. (1916), 9 State Dept. Rep. 428.

Extending line. The process of ascertaining the amount of the tax by multiplying the assesed value by the rate and setting it down in the column, is the

1. To the supervisor of the town, all the moneys levied therein for the support of highways and bridges, moneys to be expended by overseers of the poor for the support of the poor and moneys to defray any other town expenses or charges.

2. To the treasurer of the county, the residue of the money so to be collected.[10]

If the law shall direct the taxes levied for any locality for special purpose in a city or town to be paid to any person or officer other than those named in this section, the warrant shall be varied so as to conform to such direction. The warrant shall authorize the collector to levy such taxes by distress and sale, in case of non-payment. The corrected assessment-roll, or a fair copy thereof, shall be delivered by the board of supervisors to the collector of the tax district on or before December extending of the line mentioned in § 23 of the County Law. Pearsall v. Brower, 120 App. Div. 584, 105 N. Y. Supp. 207.

9. By the Highway Law, it is provided in section 104 that the moneys levied and collected for highway purposes shall be paid to the supervisor, who is the custodian thereof and accountable therefor.

10. For form of collector's warrant, see Form No. 52, post.

The mere omission of the dollar mark in stating the value of the property and the amount of the tax, in a tax warrant, does not render the warrant irregular or invalid, for the law supplies the omission in support of the manifest intent. American Tool Co. v. Smith, 32 Hun 121; 14 Abb. N. C. 378, affd. 96 N. Y. 670. A defect in the warrant in not specifying the return day, is cured by the statute authorizing the extension of the time for the collection of taxes in that county. Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401. The warrant is not void because the persons who signed it did not attach to their signature their official description or designation. Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473.

The warrant and the assessment-roll constitute one process. Johnson v. Learn, 30 Barb. 616, 618.

A warrant issued to a collector directing him to collect from persons "named in the assessment-roll, to which this warrant is annexed, the several sums mentioned in the last column thereof, to wit, the fifth column, and set opposite to the names of such persons respectively, together with your fees thereon," and which further provides that "it is the duty of the collector to demand payment of taxes charged to him on his property; and in case any person or persons named in said assessment-roll shall refuse or neglect to pay the tax imposed on him or them, you will levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person or persons who ought to pay the same," when construed in connection with the assessment-roll is sufficient to authorize the collection of the general tax stated in the fifth column of the roll, and also the highway tax stated separately in the sixth column. Bennett v. Robinson, 42 App. Div. 412; 59 N. Y. Supp. 197.

In issuing a warrant for the collection of taxes the action of the board of supervisors is not the act of the several members, as supervisors of the towns respectively, but the corporate act of the county. Newman v. Supervisors, 45 N. Y. 676.

fifteenth, in each year, unless another date is designated by the board of supervisors in the manner above specified, then in that event, on or befor such date so designated.[11]

3. In Suffolk county, to the county treasurer also the amounts raised by separate items in the warrant for the requirements of the several school districts within the town. The county treasurer shall pay, on or before February fifteenth, or as soon thereafter as sufficient funds have been paid in by the collector for such purpose, to the treasurers of the respective school districts at least one-half of the amount so raised. The balance due the district shall be paid by the county treasurer as soon as the funds become available. [Tax Law, § 59, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323, and by L. 1918, ch. 291; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2883; subd. 3, added by L. 1918, ch. 519.]

§ 13. STATEMENT OF TAXES UPON CERTAIN CORPORATIONS BY CLERK OF SUPERVISORS.

The clerk of each board of supervisors shall, within five days after the tax warrant is completed, deliver to the county treasurer a statement showing the names, valuation of property and the amount of tax of every railroad corporation and telegraph, telephone and electric light line and gas company including a company engaged in the business of supplying natural gas in each tax district in the county, and on refusal or neglect so to do, shall forfeit to the county the sum of one hundred dollars, to be sued for by the district or county attorney in the name of the county.[12] [Tax Law, § 60, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 556, and L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5884.]

§ 14. STATEMENT OF EQUALIZED VALUATION TO BE FORWARDED TO THE TAX COMMISSION BY CLERK OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The clerk of each board of supervisors and in the city of New York the department of taxes and assessments, shall, on or before the second Monday in December, transmit to the tax commission in the form to be pre-

11. Time of delivery. The provision requiring the assessment-roll and warrant to be delivered to the collector by the fifteenth (now first) day of December is directory merely; a delay does not invalidate the warrant. Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401; Supervisors of Oswego v. Betts, 6 N. Y. Supp. 934. But the delivery to the receiver of taxes of a town of a warrant for the collection of taxes, after the return day of the warrant has passed, vests in him no power to enforce payment of the tax. Matter of Long, 40 App. Div. 152, 57 N. Y. Supp. 929.

Quasi-judicial duties of board in relation to the completion and delivery of the roll and warrant cannot be delegated, but merely clerical duties may. Colman v. Shattuck, 62 Id. 348; First Nat. Bank v. Waters, 7 Fed. Rep. 152; Nehasane Park Assoc. v. Lloyd, 7 App. Div. 359, 40 N. Y. Supp. 58; Village of Upper Nyack v. Jewett, 86 Id. 254, 83 N. Y. Supp. 838, affd. 181 N. Y. 514.

The board cannot issue a warrant for the collection of taxes in blank authorizing some person to fill in the proper amounts to be collected. People v. Hagadorn, 36 Hun 610; affd., 104 N. Y. 516.

The rolls must be completed before the warrants for the collection of the tax are annexed thereto. The insertion of the necssary figures in the assessment- roll to complete it after the valuations have been determined is clerical. Bellinger v. Gray, 51 N. Y. 610; Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401.

§ 15. CLERK OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS TO FURNISH COUNTY TREASURER WITH ABSTRACT OF TAX-ROLLS.

On or before the first day of December in each year, the clerk of the board of supervisors shall transmit to the treasurer of the county an abstract of the tax-rolls, stating the names of the collectors, the amount of money which each is to collect, the purpose for which it is to be collected, and the persons to whom and the time when it is to be paid. The county treasurer, on receiving such account, shall charge to each collector the amount to be collected by him.[13] [Tax Law, § 62, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5885.]

§ 1. STATE TAX DEPARTMENT.

There is hereby created a state tax department the head of which shall be the state tax commission. The commission shall consist of three commissioners appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate, one of whom shall be designated by the governor as president of the commission. Upon the appointment of a successor to the president of the commission the governor shall designate such successor or another member of the commission as president. The commissioners first appointed shall hold office for one, two and three years from January first, nineteen hundred and fifteen. Their successors shall be appointed for full terms of three years from the expiration of the terms of their predecessors in office. If a vacancy shall occur otherwise than by expiration of term it shall be filled by appointment for the unexpired term. Each commissioner shall devote his entire time to the duties of his office. Any commissioner may, after notice and an opportunity to be heard, be removed by the governor for inefficiency, neglect of duty or misconduct in office.

The president of the commission shall receive an annual salary of six thousand five hundred dollars, and each of the other commissioners shall receive an annual salary of six thousand dollars. [Tax Law, § 170, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 502, and L. 1915, ch. 317; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5938.]

Subordinates. The commission shall appoint and may remove a secretary, and shall fix his annual salary at a sum not to exceed four thousand dollars. The commission may also appoint such deputy tax commissioners, tax assistants, agents, statisticians, experts or other assistants or employees as may be necessaary for the exercise of its powers and the performance of its duties under this chapter, all of whom shall be in the classified civil service; and the commission shall prescribe their duties and fix their compensation, which shall not exceed in the aggregate the amount annually appropriated by the legislature for that purpose. [Tax Law, § 170a, as added by L. 1915, ch. 317,]

Bureaus. There shall be in the tax department such bureaus as the tax commission may deem necessary within the appropriations therefor. Each bureau in the department shall be in charge of a deputy tax commissioner subject to the supervision and direction of the commission, and in addition to their respective duties as prescribed in this chapter, each bureau and the persons in charge thereof shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to them by the commission. [Tax Law, § 170b, as added by L. 1915, ch. 317.]

Expenses. The commissioners, the deputy tax commissioners, the secretary, agents, experts, statisticians, tax assistants and other employees of the commission shall be entitled to receive from the state their actual and necessary expenses while engaged, outside the city of Albany, in the performance of their duties. Detailed statements of such expenses, duly verified, shall be submitted bearing the approval of the president of the commission, except those rendered by the commissioners need not be approved by the president. [Tax Law, § 170c, as added by L. 1915, ch. 317, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 323.]

§ 2. GENERAL POWERS AND DUTIES OF STATE TAX COMMISSION.

The state tax commission shall:

First. Investigate and examine, from time to time, as to the methods of assessment within the state, and confer with, advise, assist and direct assessors and other officials charged by the statutes of this state with duties relating to the assessment of property for taxation.

Second. Furnish local assessors with such information and instructions as may be necessary or proper to aid them in making assessments. Assessors shall comply with such instructions and their compliance may be enforced by the commission.

Third. Make such reasonable rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, as may be necessary for the exercise of its powers and the performance of its duties under this chapter, and prescribe the form of blanks, reports, assessment-rolls, and other records relating to the assessment of property for taxation, and furnish such forms to assessors and other officers at the expense of the state. Local assessors shall follow the forms so prescribed and the commission shall enforce their use.

Fourth. On and after April fifteenth, nineteen hundred and fifteen, assess, determine, revise, readjust and impose the corporation taxes under article nine of this chapter.

Fifth. As provided in article two of this chapter fix and determine the full value of special franchises and equalize the same with other real property in the town, city or village in which the special franchises are situated.

Sixth. Administer, supervise and enforce the tax on mortgages as provided in article eleven of this chapter.

Seventh. Take testimony and proofs, under oath, with reference to any matter within the line of its official duty. Any member of such commission may be designated for that purpose.

Eighth. Require from all state and local officers such information as may be necessary for the proper discharge of its duties.

Ninth. Hold meetings at an office to be assigned it in one of the state buildings at Albany, at such times as may be fixed by the president or a majority of the commission or by adjournment thereof, or at such other places as it may designate.

Tenth. Compile and publish statistics relating to state and local taxation and assessments therefor.

Eleventh. Have general supervision of the assessment of property for taxation throughout the state, make investigations thereof and of the general system of state taxation from time to time.

Twelfth. To inquire into the provisions of the laws of other states and jurisdictions; to confer with tax commissioners of other states regarding the most effectual and equitable methods of assessment and taxation, and particularly regarding the best methods of reaching all property and avoiding conflicts and duplication of taxation of the same property, and to recommend to the legislature such measures as will bring about uniformity of methods of assessment and harmony and co-operation between the different states and jurisdictions in matters of taxation.

Thirteenth. Perform the other powers and duties conferred upon it by law.

Fourteenth. Prepare an annual report to the legislature and recommend such changes or amendments to the tax laws as it may deem advisable. [Tax Law, § 171, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 317, and L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5939.]

Administer oaths and compel testimony. The members of the tax commission, their deputies, secretary or other officer or employee duly designated and authorized by the commission for that purpose shall have power to administer oaths and take affidavits in relation to any matter or proceeding in the exercise of the powers or duties of the commission under this article. The commission shall have power to subpoena and require the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers and documents pertinent to the investigations and inquiries which it is authorized to conduct, and to examine them in relation to any matter which it has power to investigate and to issue commissions for the examination of witnesses who are out of the state or unable to attend before the tax commission or excused from attendance.

A justice of the supreme court either in court or at chambers shall have power summarily to enforce by proper proceedings the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production and examination of books, papers and documents called for by the commission's subpoenas.

Any person who shall testify falsely in any material matter pending before the commission shall be guilty of and punishable for perjury.

The officers who serve the commission's summons or subpoenas and witnesses attending in response thereto shall be entitled to the same fees as are allowed to officers and witnesses in civil cases in courts of record. [Tax Law, § 171a, as added by L. 1915, ch. 317, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 323.]

Conference of local assessors. The commission may request the local assessors of every tax district in the state to meet with the commission once in two years, upon a day and at a place designated, for the purpose of considering matters relating to taxation, securing more uniformity of valuation throughout the state, and discussing and formulating desirable changes in the laws relating to taxation and method of assessment. The traveling and other necessary expenses incurred by the local assessors in attending such meeting shall be a charge against the county within which the district which they represent is located. In counties wholly within a city such expenses shall be a charge against said city. [Tax Law, § 171b, as added by L. 1915, ch. 317, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 323.]

§ 3. OFFICIAL SEAL.

The state tax commission shall have and use an official seal; and the records, its proceedings and copies of all papers and documents in its possession and custody may be authenticated in the usual form, under such seal and the signature of any one of the tax commissioners, deputy commissioner or the secretary, and shall be received in evidence in the same manner and with like effect as deeds regularly acknowledged or proven. [Tax Law, § 172, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 317, and L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5939.]

§ 4. TAX COMMISSIONERS TO VISIT COUNTIES.

The tax commission shall cause an official visit to be made in every county in the state at least once in two years, and inquire into the methods of assessment and taxation, and ascertain whether the assessors faithfully discharge their duties and particularly as to their compliance with the provisions of this chapter requiring the assessment of all property not exempt from taxation at its full value. The members of the board of supervisors of the county and the assessors of the cities, towns and villages within the county shall meet at the place or places within the county designated by the commission. Supervisors in addition to the compensation provided by section twenty-three of the county law, and assessors, shall be entitled to receive compensation at the rate of four dollars per day for each calendar day actually and necessarily spent in attending a meeting within the county held for the purpose of conference with the state tax commission or a member of such commission and mileage at the rate of eight cents per mile by the most direct route from his residence, in going to and returning from the place within the county where such meeting is held. Such compensation and mileage shall be a county charge in reference to the town officials and a village charge for the village assessors. [Town Law, § 173, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 120, L. 1915, ch. 317, and L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5940.]

§ 4a. REASSESSMENT BY COMMISSION; PROCEDURE.

At any time within thirty days after the completion of posting and publishing notice of final completion of the assessment-roll by the assessors of any tax district, if the commission shall have reason to believe from information furnished by any taxpayer or otherwise that such assessment-roll shows undervaluations, inequalities, omissions or irregularities, sufficient to make it inequitable as between owners of real property taxable within the tax district or as between the tax district and other tax districts in a county or in a city comprising more than one county, it may apply to any justice of the supreme court of the judicial district within which such tax district is wholly or partly located, for an order directed to the assessor or board of assessors of such tax district, requiring such assessor or board to show cause at a time and place specified therein, why such assessment-roll should not be corrected. Service of a copy of said order and the affidavit upon which the same was granted on one assessor shall be deemed sufficient service. Such order shall be returnable before the justice issuing it, on a day not later than ten days from the date of the issue thereof. If it shall appear upon the return day of such order that such assessment-roll shall not have been prepared and completed in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, such justice acting summarily may by order direct such assessor or board to correct such inequalities, irregularities, omissions and undervaluations, and in his discretion, may cancel such roll and direct that a new assessment-roll for such tax district be made by such assessor or board and in either case shall fix and determine the date on which such new or corrected assessment-roll shall be completed, the date on which application for review of the new or corrected assessment shall be heard, and the date on which the new or corrected roll shall be filed and delivered to the supervisors or other lawful authority.

Notice of such hearing for review shall be given one week in advance in the same manner as the notice of the first completion of the assessment-roll so corrected or cancelled. After the determination of complaints the assessor or board shall attach a certificate to the new or corrected assessment-roll that such roll has been completed in conformity with the provisions of the order of the justice, and such roll shall be the assessment-roll of such tax district in place of the assessment-roll cancelled or corrected by order of such justice. If such new or corrected assessment-roll cannot be completed in time to take the place of the original assessment-roll in such district for the levy and collection of taxes for the current year, said taxes shall be levied and collected upon the basis of the original assessment-roll and when the new or corrected assessment-roll is completed the inequalities in the taxes levied on the basis of the original assessment-roll shall be remedied and compensated in the levy and collection of taxes in such district for the year next following the completion of the new or corrected assessment-roll by crediting the taxes levied in excess of what they would have been had the reassessment been made in time, or charging in addition the difference between the amounts levied on the basis of the original assessment-roll and the amounts which would have been levied on the basis of the new or corrected assessment-roll, as the case may be.

In cities the mayor or a borough president and in towns a supervisor and in villages the president or a trustee may apply to the tax commission on behalf of the tax district which he wholly or in part represents, for a hearing and determination of the question of inequalities or undervaluations in the assessment of property as between such tax district and other tax districts in the county or in a city where said city comprises more than one county. After such application a hearing shall be held and upon a determination that sufficient inequalities or undervaluations exist therefor, the commission shall apply to a justice of the supreme court as in this section provided, for the correction of the assessment-roll of the tax district, or tax districts complained of. For the purposes of this section an incorporated village shall be deemed a tax district. [Tax Law, § 173a, as added by L. 1915, ch. 317, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 323, and L. 1917, ch. 94.]

§ 5. STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION; POWERS AND DUTIES.

The commissioners of the land office and the members of the tax commission shall constitute the state board of equalization. The state board of equalization shall meet in the city of Albany on the first Tuesday in September in each year, for the purpose of examining and revising the valuations of real and personal property of the several counties as returned to the state tax commission, and shall in accordance with the rules of equalization set forth in section fifty of this chapter so far as applicable fix the aggregate amount of assessment for each county, upon which the comptroller shall compute the state tax. In so fixing such aggregate amount of assessment for a county the state board of equalization shall not include the shares of stock of banks or banking associations assessed pursuant to article two of this chapter. The board may increase or diminish the aggregate valuations of real property in any county by adding or deducting such sum as in its opinion may be just and necessary to produce a just relation between the valuations of real property in the state. But it shall, in no instance, reduce the aggregate valuations of all the counties below the aggregate valuations thereof as so returned. The comptroller shall immediately ascertain from this assessment, a copy of which shall be transmitted to him, the proportion of state tax each county shall pay, and mail a statement of the amount to the county clerk, and to the chairman and clerk of the board of supervisors of each county.[1] [Tax Law, § 174, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 317, and L. 1916, chs. 249, 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5940.]

§ 6. SUPERVISORS MAY APPEAL FROM EQUALIZATION OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS; CONSENT OF TOWN BOARD; APPEAL, HOW BROUGHT.

The mayor of a city in behalf of said city, a borough president in behalf of his borough, any supervisor in behalf of a city or town which he wholly or in part represents, may appeal to the tax commission, from any act or decision of the board of supervisors, in the equalization of assessments and the correction of the assessment-rolls. If such appeal is brought in behalf of a town, a majority of the town board of such town, if in behalf of a city, a majority of the common council or board of estimate of such city, shall first consent to and approve the bringing of such appeal. Such appeal shall be brought within ten days after the delivery of the assessment-roll to the collector by filing in the office of the county clerk a notice thereof, with such consent endorsed thereon or annexed thereto, together with the affidavit of the mayor or supervisor so appealing, that in his opinion injustice has been done to such city or town by the act or decision from which the appeal is taken; and also within such time, by serving personally or by mail, a duplicate or copy of such notice, consent and affidavit on the chairman or clerk of the board of supervisors, and by mailing such a copy or duplicate to the tax commission.[2] [Tax Law, § 175, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 317, and L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5940.]

1. Action of board is judicial. The action of the state board of equalization in the discharge of the duty imposed upon it in examining the valuations of the property of the several counties is judicial in its character, and when it has acquired jurisdiction, any error in its judgment or mistake in its conclusions can be asserted only in some direct proceeding for review. Mayor, etc., of New York v. Davenport, 92 N. Y. 604.

2. Duties of commissioners on appeal. Upon the appeal of a town the duty of the state assessors is to receive evidence and determimne: 1. Whether injustice has been done to the appellant; 2. What deductions, if any, should be made in the valuations; 3. To what towns the deductions should be added.

§ 7. FORM OF PETITION; RULES OF STATE BOARD; TIME AND PLACE OF HEARING APPEAL.

The tax commission may prepare a form of petition and notice of appeal from decisions of the board of supervisors in the equalization of assessments and rules and regulations in relation to bringing such appeals to hearing or trial. Such rules shall provide for a hearing on the papers and proofs submitted to the board of supervisors on making the equalization, and also for the taking of additional evidence offered by either party. The commission may, by its deputies, agents or other assistants, examine and inquire into the equalization appealed from, and may receive in evidence at such hearing the testimony of its examining deputies, agents or other assistants. The appeal shall be heard in the county in which it originated. Such hearing shall be had at a time and place to be fixed by the commission upon notice of at least twenty days by mail to the party appealing and to the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county in which the appeal is taken.[3] If the appellant or his successor fails to appear at the time and place appointed or upon any day to which such hearing and trial shall be adjourned, the commission shall make an order dismissing the appeal, which shall have the same effect as if the appeal had not been sustained after a hearing on the merits. [Tax Law, § 176, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 317; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5942.]

For this purpose they should take into consideration the valuation of all the towns separately in the county. People ex rel. Supervisors of Westchester v. Hadley, 76 N. Y. 337, revg. 16 Hun 113.

Upon a certiorari to review the action of the state assessors, it was held that the admission in evidence of records of deeds, the considerations expressed in which were claimed to be evidence of the value of the property, was not the violation of "any rule of law, affecting the rights of the" relators under Code Civil Procedure, § 2140, subd. 3. People ex rel. Schabacker v. State Assessors, 47 Hun 450.

The participation of a member of the state board who was absent from the hearing, in the decision—held not to vitiate the proceeding. People ex rel. Supervisors of Westchester v. Hadley, 14 Hun 183.

Secret session of board of equalization no ground for charge of misconduct, where party complaining had been fully heard, nor neglect of the assistance of such party in arriving at result. People ex rel. Mayor, etc., of New York v. McCarthy, 102 N. Y. 630.

The fact that the board, after a short secret session, adopted a schedule of equalization prepared by one of the assessors—held not to affect the validity of the decision arrived at. Id.; Mayor, etc., of New York v. Davenport, 92 N. Y. 604.

3. Conduct of hearing. The fact that the state board of equalization, after giving a county full opportunity to present proof, information and augument,

Commission's review of equalization by board of supervisors. The tax commission shall have power on complaint to review the equalization fixed by the board of supervisors of any county or other lawfully constituted authority. Due notice of the hearing on such review shall be given by the commission to the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county, whose duty it shall be to transmit a copy of such notice to the mayor of cities in such county and to each supervisor of the county. In the city of New York such notice shall be given to the secretary of the board of taxes and assessments. [Tax Law, § 176a, as added by L. 1915, ch. 317, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 323.]

went into secret session when deliberating upon the equalization of assessments, excluding the representatives of the county from participation therein, and declined their assistance and advice in making such equalization, does not justify a charge of misconduct against the board. People ex rel. Mayor, etc. v. McCarthy, 102 N. Y. 630; see, also, Mayor, etc., of New York v. Davenport, 92 N. Y. 604.

The state board has power to control the manner of the hearing and to determine what proofs shall be presented. They are not confined to the reception of purely legal evidence, but may receive affidavits. People ex rel. Hunt v. Priest, 90 App. Div. 520, 85 N. Y. Supp. 481, affd. 180 N. Y. 532.

It was held in the case of People ex rel. Supervisors v. City Assessors, 22 Wk. Dig. 453, that the rulings of the state board on questions of evidence cannot be reviewed by certiorari.

In the case of People ex rel. Schvacker v. State Assessors, 47 Hun, 450, it was held that a technical error by the state board in the admission of evidence does not invalidate its decision. In the case last cited the court sustains the proposition that the state board is governed and controlled by statutory provisions and by the rules and regulations made by it in pursuance of authority conferred by statute; and that while it has not full power to render a decision of its own volition and without evidence, yet it is to some extent vested with a discretionary power to take action without restricting its proceedings to strict technical rules.

Evidence as to valuation. The state board is confined in making its equalization to the valuation of real estate, and it cannot be required to hear testimony as to the amount of personal property. People ex rel. Supervisors v. Hadley, 76 N. Y. 337.

The price stated in a conveyance to have been paid on a private sale of real estate, is not competent evidence of value, and a comparison of the difference between the consideration stated in transfers of real estate, and the assessed valuation of such real estate, in two counties of the state, is not conclusive evidence to show that the assessed valuation in one county is nearer the real value than in the other county. People ex rel. Mayor v. McCarthy, 102 N. Y. 630; see, also, People ex rel. Carter v. Williams, 20 N. Y. Supp. 350.

The supervisors have no authority to consider, for the purposes of equalization, property upon which no valuation has been fixed by the local assessors,

§ 8. TAX COMMISSION, DETERMINATION OF; HOW MADE AND WHAT TO CONTAIN.

On appeal by any town, city, or borough from the board of supervisors' or other lawful authority's equalization or on review thereof by the commission of its own motion or on complaint the commission shall review the equalization made by the board of supervisors of the county or other lawful authority and shall determine whether any, and if any, what deductions or additions ought to be made from or to the aggregate corrected value of the real and personal property of any tax district as made and to what tax district or districts in such county the amount of such deductions or additions, if any, shall be added or subtracted; and shall certify their determination, in writing, to such board of supervisors or other lawful authority and forward the same by mail within ten days thereafter to the clerk of the board, directed to him at his post-office address, and forward a copy thereof to the supervisor or borough president appealing, if any. Such determination shall have the same force and effect as an original equalization made by the board of supervisors or other lawful authority within the time prescribed by law and shall be carried into effect by such board or other lawful authority.[4] In the

and the state board has no original jurisdiction in that respect, but merely an appellate power to review the action of the supervisors. They cannot take into consideration the question whether personal property was assessed below its true value, or erroneously exempted. People ex rel. Supervisors v. Hadley, 1 Abb. N. C. 441.

4. Determination by state board. It is the duty of the state board, upon an appeal by a town, to determine: (1) Whether the town appealing has suffered injustice, as compared with other towns in the county; (2) whether such town shall have a deduction from its valuation, and the amount thereof; (3) upon what other town or towns such deduction shall be placed, and the portion thereof which shall be placed on each. The comparison is not between the town appealing and the residue of the county as an entirety, but between such town and the other towns as distinct and separate organizations. If, in considering the value of all the towns of the county, separately, they find that an excessive valuation has been placed upon the appealing town as compared with some towns in the county, they may remedy the injustice by imposing the excess upon such towns. People ex rel. Supervisors v. Hadley, 76 N. Y. 337.

Opinion of witnesses. Where state assessors relied upon the opinion of witnesses as to value rather than the consideration shown to be paid upon sales of real estate as shown by the records, decision of assessors was affirmed. People v. Williams, 48 N. Y. St. Rep. 207, 20 N. Y. Supp. 350.

Evidence as to personalty assessed. Section 3 of Laws 1876, ch. 49, does not limit the subjects upon which the evidence may be taken by the state assessors, nor exclude evidence of the real estate aliunde the assessors' valuation, nor any inquiry into the value of personalty, though the action of the board may ulti-

Method of carrying out commission's equalization. If any such equalization by the tax commission cannot be completed in time to take the place of the original equalization by the board of supervisors or other lawful authority, the commission shall determine the amount of state and county taxes paid or payable by any town, city or borough in the county under the original equalization, in excess of or less than that which such town, city or borough would have paid under the equalization as made by the commission. Any excess so determined shall be subtracted with interest, and any deficiency shall be added, with a proportionate part of such interest allowance, from or to the amount of county and state taxes charged in the next succeeding year to each such town, city or borough. [Tax Law, § 177a, as added by L. 1915, ch. 317, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 323.]

§ 9. COSTS ON APPEAL TO BE FIXED BY TAX COMMISSION; LIMITATION OF AMOUNT.

The tax commission shall certify the reasonable expense on every appeal from an equalization by the county board of supervisors, or other lawful authority, not exceeding the sum of two thousand dollars for services of counsel and one thousand dollars for all other expenses, including the compensation and expense of the stenographer. If such appeal is not sustained, the costs and expenses thereof so certified shall be a charge upon the tax district or districts taking such appeal and shall be levied thereon by the board of supervisors.[5] If the appeal is sus-

Supervisors of Westchester v. Hadley, 76 N. Y. 337 (1879), on the ground that in the latter case there was evidence tending to show there was personal property not assessed, while here the evidence related to personal property which had been assessed.

Mandamus. A decision certified and forwarded by mail, within ten days after it was made, but not until after the commencement of the next annual session—held sufficient to support a mandamus for its execution. People ex rel. Robinson v. Supervisors of Ontario, 85 N. Y. 323, revg. 17 Hun, 501.

5. Costs upon dismissal of appeal. Where an appeal to the state board is dismissed, the costs and expenses incurred by the board of supervisors may be audited by the board and charged against the city or town appealing, and included in the amount of tax to be levied upon such city or town; and in case tained, the amount of such costs and expenses so certified shall be levied by the board of supervisors upon, and collected from, the county in the assessment and collection of taxes for the current year, except the tax district or tax districts whose appeal is sustained.[5a] If there shall be appeals by more than one tax district in the county, some of which are sustained and some dismissed, the commission shall decide what portion of such costs and expenses shall be borne by any tax district whose appeal is dismissed. Where no hearing is had on an appeal the costs and expenses shall be in the discretion of the tax commission but in no event shall exceed the amounts previously set forth in this section. [Tax Law, § 178, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 317, and L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5943.]

of a city where such tax is raised by action of the common council, its levy and collection may be enforced by mandamus. People ex rel. Supervisors v. Common Council of Kingston, 101 N. Y. 82.

The words "costs and expenses," as used in this section, are not given the same meaning as when used in reference to actions; they are intended to afford an indemnity and protection against all costs and expenses of whatever nature which may be incurred by the Board in taking an appeal. People ex rel. Burhans v. Supervisors, 32 Hun, 607.

5a. Costs; when county charge. The reasonable costs and expenses incurred by certain supervisors on an appeal from the decision of a board of supervisors equalizing assessments are a proper charge against the county, but the bills for counsel fees must be audited by the board of supervisors before they are paid by the county treasurer. Opinion of Atty. Genl., Feb. 17, 1913.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

COLLECTION OF TAXES.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Notice of Receipt of Tax-roll and Warrant.

When the collector receives the tax-roll and warrant his first duty is to post notices in five conspicuous public places in the town, specifying one or more convenient places where he will attend for at least three days in each week for thirty days from the date of posting the notices, to receive taxes. It is proper for the collector to publish the notice in one or more newspapers published in the town, but the law does not require it. A non-resident is entitled to notice by mail if he demands it and pays the collector a fee of twenty-five cents. A non-resident, either a person or corporation, may file with the town clerk a statement containing a description of the premises assessed, and his name, residence and post-office address, which operates as a request to mail notices of taxes due. The town clerk must notify the collector of the filing of such statement, and the collector must mail such notices or lose his five per cent. fee if the tax is not paid within 30 days. The collector must attend at the time and place specified to receive taxes.

Collection of Taxes not Paid Within Thirty Days.

The collector must call upon each person, who does not pay within thirty days, at least once, and demand the tax. If the tax is not paid the collector may levy on any personal property belonging to the person taxed, found within the county. He may cause the property levied upon to be sold at public auction, and take from the proceeds of the sale the tax, his fees and the expenses of the sale, paying over to the owner any surplus. The law provides for the trial of conflicting claims to such surplus. [See Tax Law, § 71, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323, § 307.]

Explanatory note.

Payment of Tax by Certain Corporations.

A railroad, telegraph, telephone or electric light or gas company may pay its tax, with one per centum fees, to the county treasurer, within thirty days after notice received by the county treasurer from the clerk of the board of supervisors. The fees belong to the collector. If the tax is not paid within thirty days, the county treasurer must notify the collector, who must then collect the tax under his warrant. School taxes may be paid by railroad companies to the county treasurer, who is required to return the amount paid to the several school districts. [See Education Law, §§ 427-431, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 216.]

Collection of taxes against telegraph, telephone and electric light companies may be enforced by the collector by sale of instruments, wires, etc.

Removal of Person Taxed from County.

Where a person against whom a tax is levied has removed from the county so that collection of the tax may not be enforced, the collector may apply to the county court for an order, directed to the sheriff of the county where the person taxed may be, requiring him to collect such tax out of the personal property belonging to such person, found in his county. Such order has the force of an execution on a judgment and should be executed in the same manner. The sheriff makes his return to the county treasurer of the county from which the order was issued and the amount collected is credited to the proper town.

Supplementary Proceedings.

If a collector returns a tax as unpaid for want of personal property out of which to collect the tax, the county treasurer or supervisor of the town may apply to the court for the institution of supplementary proceedings. Such proceedings are to be prosecuted in the same manner as proceedings supplementary to execution.

Fees of Collector.

The law gives the collector a fee of one per cent. on all taxes collected within the period of thirty days from the date of the notice that he has received the assessment-roll, unless the aggregate amount of taxes to be collected is $2000 or less, in which case he is entitled to two per cent. After the period of thirty days he is entitled to five per cent. Such fees are added to the taxes, to be paid by the person assessed. The collector is entitled to two per cent. on all taxes returnd as unpaid, payable by the county treasurer.

Return of Unpaid Taxes.

The collector is credited by the county treasurer with the amount of taxes returned as unpaid. Such return must be accompanied by an affidavit to the effect that he has not been able, upon diligent inquiry, to find any personal property upon which he could make a levy. The collector may add five per cent. to the taxes returned as unpaid.

The return is attached to the assessment-roll, and is to be in the form prescribed by the State Board of Tax Commissioners. If a stay or injunction has been issued, the time for making the return is extended for a period of thirty days beyond the termination of the stay.

Payments by Collector.

The collector must pay over to the officers named in the warrant the taxes collected by him, within one week after the time prescribed therein. Such officers are to deliver to the collector duplicate receipts, one of which should be kept by the collector and the other delivered to the county treasurer, to be filed by him as evidence that the collector is discharged from liability, to the extent of such receipts. If the collector fails to pay over the County Court must make an order, on the application of the County Treasurer, directing the sheriff to levy on the property of the collector. If after such a levy there is a deficiency still unaccounted for, the supervisor must sue on the undertaking of the collector.

Extension of Time to Collect Taxes.

The county treasurer, upon the application of the supervisor of a town, may extend the time for the collection of taxes by a collector to a day not later than April 1.

Vacancies in Office of Collector.

The town board is required to fill a vacancy in the office of collector. Upon giving the same bond as required of a collector he succeeds to the powers of the former collector, and is entitled to the same fees on all moneys collected by him. The original warrant is delivered to the new collector. If it has been lost or destroyed a new one is to be issued by the chairman and clerk of the board of supervisors.

Explanatory note.

Satisfaction of Collector's Bond.

Upon the settlement of the accounts of a collector by a county treasurer, he must give to the Collector or his sureties, a written certificate of such settlement. When such certificate is filed in the office of the county clerk, the undertaking is satisfied, and the collector and his sureties are released from all further liability.

Every collector, upon receiving a tax-roll and warrant, shall forthwith cause notice of the reception thereof to be posted in five conspicuous public places in the tax district, specifying one or more convenient places in such tax district, where he will attend from nine o'clock in the forenoon until four o'clock in the afternoon, at least three days, and if in a city, at least five days, in each week for thirty days from the date of the notice, which shall be the date of the posting or first publication thereof, which days shall be specified in such notice, for the purpose of receiving the taxes assessed upon such roll.[1] The collector shall attend accordingly.

and any person may pay his taxes to such collector at the time and place so designated, or at any other time or place.[2] In a city, the notice in addition to being posted shall be published once in each week, for two weeks successively, in a newspaper published in such city. [Tax Law, § 69, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5886.]

Nonresidents; statement of taxes. On the written demand of a nonresident owner of real property included in such tax-roll, and the payment by such owner to the collector of the sum of twenty-five cents, the collector shall within twenty-four hours after the receipt of such demand mail in a postpaid envelope directed to such nonresident owner, to the address to be furnished in such demand, a statement of the amount of taxes assessed against such property with a notice of the dates and places fixed by him for receiving taxes. Such notice shall be valid and continue in effect until canceled by such person or corporation. The town clerk shall, within five days after the delivery of the warrants for the collection of taxes in such tax districts, furnish to the collectors of the town, and the collector of each village and school district in which such real property is situated, and such collectors shall within such time apply for, a transcript of all notices so filed, and each of such collectors shall within five days after the receipt of such transcripts mail to each person or corporation filing such notice, at the postoffice address stated therein, a statement of the amount of taxes due on said property and the times and places at which the same may be paid. In case said statement shall not be furnished as herein provided, such person or corporation shall not be liable for fees for collection in excess of one per centum. Upon the filing of such notice the town clerk shall be entitled to receive a fee of one dollar from the person or corporation offering such notice, which shall be in full for all services rendered hereunder. 2. Payment on Sunday. Where last day provided in notice falls on Sunday, taxes may be paid on Monday. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1902) 152.

Notice by collector; nonresidents in cities. A person or corporation who is the owner of, or liable to assessment for, an interest in real property situated and liable to assessment and taxation in any city of this state in which he or it is not actually a resident, may file with the city clerk of such city a notice stating his name, residence and post office address, or in case of a corporation, its principal office, and a description of the property sufficient to identify the same. Such notice shall be valid and continue in effect until canceled by such person or corporation. The city clerk shall, within five days after the delivery of the warrants for the collection of any tax in any such tax district, furnish to the collector or to the person by whatever name of office charged with the collection of such taxes, and such collector, or other person, shall within such time apply for a transcript of all notices so filed and each such collector or other person, within five days after the receipt of such transcripts, shall mail to each person or corporation filing such notice, at the post office address stated therein, a statement of the amount of taxes due on such property and the times and places at which the same may be paid. In case said statement shall not be furnished as herein provided, such person or corporation shall not be liable for fees for collection in excess of one per centum and in all cases where, by the provisions of any special law, no fee is charged where such tax is paid within thirty days or more after the delivery of such tax-roll and warrant and the publication of such notice, no fee shall be charged or collected by such collector for the collection of such tax within the time limited by such special law for the payment of such tax. Upon the filing of such notice, the city clerk shall be entitled to receive a fee of one dollar from the person or corporation offering such notice, which shall be in full for all services rendered herein. [Tax Law, § 70a, as added by L. 1915, ch. 485, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 323.]

§ 3. COLLECTOR TO CALL UPON TAXPAYERS AFTER EXPIRATION OF THIRTY DAYS; LEVY ON PERSONAL PROPERTY BECAUSE OF FAILURE TO PAY; SALE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY; DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS.

After the expiration of notice period of thirty days, as provided in section sixty-nine of this chapter, the collector shall call, at least once, on every person taxed upon such roll whose taxes are unpaid, at his usual place of residence, if he is an actual inhabitant of such tax district, and demand payment of the taxes charged to him on his property.[3] If the owner of a parcel or portion of real property is a resident of the tax district in which such parcel or portion of real property is assessed, and his name is correctly entered on the assessment-roll, he shall be personally liable for the tax assessed against such parcel or portion of real property. If any person shall neglect or refuse to pay any tax imposed on him, the collector shall levy upon any personal property in the county belonging to or in the possession of any person who ought to pay the tax, and cause the same to be sold at public auction for the payment of such tax, and the fees and expenses of collection; and no claim

3. The tax roll and warrant constitute one process. If each is regular upon its face, the process will fully protect the collector in forcing a collection of the tax. Bennett v. Robinson, 42 App. Div. 412; 59 N. Y. Supp. 197; Chegaray v. Jenkins, 5 N. Y. 376; Van Rensselaer v. Witbeck, 7 N. Y. 517; Patchin v. Ritter, 27 Barb. 34; Johnson v. Learn, 30 Barb. 616.

In the case of Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401, it was held that when a copy of the assessment-roll with the warrant attached, is delivered to the town collector, it is not necessary to attach the affidavit of the assessors or a copy of it in order to protect the collector.

of property to be made thereto by any other person shall be available to prevent such sale.[4] The collector shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for mak-

The fact that the roll did not show in express terms that the amount assessed was a valuation of capital stock, but it was placed under a column headed "Valuation of Personal Property," is not such an indication of error on the part of the assessors as to destroy the protection of the warrant. Niagara Elevating Co. v. McNamara, 50 N. Y. 653.

Liability of collector. The authority conferred upon a tax collector by his warrant is special and exceptional, and must be pursued according to its terms. First Nat. Bank of Sandy Hill v. Fancher, 48 N. Y. 524.

In Hendrickson v. Brown, 1 Caines Cas. 92 (1803), a theatre had been assessed as a dwelling-house, but as the assessor had jurisdiction to assess it in some form, the warrant was held a justification to the collector.

A warrant issued by supervisors of a county for the collection of taxes is valid, so as to protect the collector, although the persons signing are not described in it as supervisors, nor designated as such in connection with their signatures. Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473.

Where a warrant for the collection of a poor tax was regular on its face, it being the duty of the overseer collecting the tax not to act without his colleague's consent—held, that it was to be presumed that he acted by authority. Downing v. Ruger, 21 Wend. 178.

Where the warrant is regular on its face, is issued by authorities having jurisdiction, and is directed against the owner and his property, the collector is protected. Strong v. Walton, 47 App. Div. 114, 62 N. Y. Supp. 353; Hulder v. Golden, 36 N. Y. 446; Bullis v. Montgomery, 50 Id. 352; Troy & L. R. R. Co. v. Kane, 72 Id. 614.

If the warrant issued to the collector is regular on its face, he is not bound to inquire whether the taxes were legally assessed. Wollsey v. Morris, 96 N. Y. 311; and this is so even though the collector knew of facts which would invalidate the assessment. Thomas v. Clapp, 20 Barb. 165. But where the illegality of a tax appears on the face of the warrant the collector who levies under it is liable to trespass. Bank of Utica v. City of Utica, 4 Paige, 399; Clark v. Hallock, 16 Wend. 607; Franklin v. Pearsall, 21 J. & S. 271. Where it appears that the tax roll was verified before the third Tuesday in August, the time fixed for its final review and correction, it is a nullity, and the defect being apparent upon the face of the process, the collector is not thereby protected. Westfall v. Preston, 49 N. Y. 349.

A warrant to collect tax "in the fifth column," justifies the collection of a highway tax in a sixth column. Bennett v. Robinson, 42 App. Div. 412, 59 N. Y. Supp. 197.

Execution of warrant after return day. Where a warrant is executed after the return day, the officer issuing it is not liable though it be otherwise invalid. Nor will the receipt of the money collected make him liable in damages for its execution, unless he had notice that it was collected after the return day. Van Rensselaer v. Kidd, 6 N. Y. 331.

Payment of tax by third persons. Mortgagees may pay tax and add the amount to the mortgage debt. Sidenberg v. Ely, 90 N. Y. 257. The mortgagee cannot compel an assignee for the benefit of creditors to pay taxes on the property mortgaged. Matter of Lewis, 81 N. Y. 421. Unpaid taxes upon real estate of the testator must be paid by his executor out of the personalty of the testator. Smith v. Cornell, 111 N. Y. 554.

A referee selling real property under a judgment rendered in an action to foreclose a mortgage, or for partition or dower, must pay all taxes assessed out of the proceeds of the sale. Code Civ. Proc., sec. 1676.

Supplementary proceedings for the collection of taxes may be instituted by the supervisor or county treasurer. Tax Law, sec. 299, post.

4. Levy on personal property. The authority to proceed by distress and sale to collect a tax is permissive and not mandatory. United States Trust Co. v. Mayor, 77 Hun 182, 190; 28 N. Y. Supp. 344.

The statute authorizes a levy upon any personal property in the possession of any person who ought to pay the tax. The possession referred to means an actual, physical, and not merely a legal or constructive possession, and an actual possession by the consent of the owner, although unaccompanied by an ownership in the possessor, is a possession within the meaning of the statute. Hersee v. Porter, 100 N. Y. 403. In this case the constitutionality of such provision was attacked. The court in declaring the statute to be constitutional said: "The ing such levy in addition to any other fees and expenses of collection if such tax is paid before the day of sale and to a fee of one dollar for making such levy and one dollar for conducting the sale in addition to any other fees and expenses of collection, if such tax is not paid before the day of sale. Public notice of the time and place of sale of the property to be sold shall be given by posting the same in at least three public places in the tax authority to seize and sell any property in the possession of a person taxed for the payment of the tax has been a part of the statute law of the state since 1801. . . . In view of this long and continued acquiescence by the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the government in the legislation now in question, the court would not, we think, be justified in departing from the common understanding that the statutory authority to seize any property in the possession of the person taxed, for the payment of the tax, justifies the seizure and sale of the property of a third person so situated. Each individual in the community has notice of the law, and is presumed to understand that if his chattels are by his consent or permission in the possession of another, they can be taken for a tax against the person in possession. The law was probably framed to prevent fraud and collusion and disputes as to title, and each individual in the community may be assumed to have consented that his property shall be subject to the right of the state in this way to enforce the power of taxation."

The statute refers to actual physical possession, and not to mere legal or constructive possession; and an actual possession by the consent of the owner, though unaccompanied with any ownership in the possessor, is a possession within the meaning of the statute. Personal property mortgaged, and after default still in the possession of the mortgagor, is liable to distress and sale for his taxes. Hersee v. Porter, 100 N. Y. 403.

The collector is not authorized to seize a chair belonging to the husband for a tax due from the wife, even though occupied by the wife at the time of levy. The chair is not deemed within her possession sufficient to justify such levy. Hubbell v. Abbott, 21 Misc. 780, 47 N. Y. Supp. 1129.

A town collector may seize not only goods and chattels belonging to the person taxed, but any goods and chattels in his possession. Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473; Strong v. Walton, 47 App. Div. 114, 62 N. Y. Supp. 353.

The possession of a boarder in a house or hotel of the furniture in the rooms occupied by him is not such as authorizes seizure for taxes assessed against such boarder. Denton v. Carroll, 4 App. Div. 532; 40 N. Y. Supp. 19. And possession of the goods by a firm of which the person taxed is a member, would not bring the case within the statute. Stockwell v. Vietch, 38 Barb. 650; 15 Abb. Pr. 412.

The statute does not apply to property belonging to another person in no way liable for the tax which is transiently upon the lands assessed, but in the possession of the owner for his own purposes. Lake Shore & Mich. S. R. R. Co. v. Roach, 80 N. Y. 339.

Property in the possession of a person taxed which was purchased with pension money is exempted from levy under this section. Strong v. Walton, 47 App. Div. 114; 62 N. Y. Supp. 353. But the fact that the personal property in the possession of the taxpayer is in his possession under an agreement that the title is not to pass to him until its purchase price is paid does not affect the right of the collector to levy on such property. Pauly v. Wahle, 29 Hun, 116.

Where the owner of the real estate assessed resided on the land with a tenant who was working it on shares, it was held that the occupancy and possession of the tenant was that of the owner for the purpose of taxation, and that the tenant's possession of goods liable to distress for taxes, was the possession of the owner. Coie v. Carl, 82 Hun, 360; 31 N. Y. Supp. 565.

The statute requires that land of a non-resident shall be assessed without district where the sale is to be made, at least six days previous thereto.[5] If the proceeds of such sale shall be more than the amount of such tax, the fees of the collection and the expenses of the sale, the surplus shall be paid to the person against whom the tax was assessed. If any other person shall claim the surplus, on the ground that the property sold belonged to him, and such claim be admitted by the person for the payment of whose tax the sale was made, such surplus shall be paid to such other person. If such claim be contested by the person for the payment of whose tax the property was sold, such surplus shall be paid over by the collector to the supervisor of the town, who shall retain the same until the rights of the parties thereto shall be determined by due course of law, or by agreement naming the owner in the roll; the collector, therefore, cannot levy a tax upon the personal property of the non-resident. The warrant does not authorize the seizure and sale of the property of persons not named, or whose names it is apparent the assessors had no right to set down. N. Y. & Harlem R. R. Co. v. Lyon, 16 Barb. 651.

Possession by husband or wife. A levy upon property owned by the plaintiff to satisfy a tax assessed against plaintiff's husband for a farm owned in fact by her,—held to be void, and the warrant to be no justification to the collector. Hallock v. Rumsey, 22 Hun, 89.

Where a married woman is in possession of a farm under contract of sale, the horses belonging to and used by her on the farm are not subject to levy under a warrant issued for the collection of a tax upon the farm, assessed by the assessors of the town in which it is situated, against the husband. Van Nostrand v. Hubbard, 35 App. Div. 201, 54 N. Y. Supp. 739.

The interest of a tenant in common of personalty may be levied upon. Dinehart v. Wilson, 15 Barb. 595.

Rolling stock of a railroad is liable to seizure and sale to satisfy a tax against the company. Randall v. Elwell, 52 N. Y. 521.

Bank money. Assessments were made against resident stockholders in a bank of the town, upon their bank stock, and the collector levied upon money of the bank to satisfy the taxes. Held, that he was not justified in so doing, although the bank held funds with which the tax, if its validity was not contested, would have been paid. First Nat. Bank. of Sandy Hill v. Fancher, 48 N. Y. 524.

The personal property of the vendee of land assessed before its conveyance to him is not liable to seizure to satisfy the tax. Everson v. City of Syracuse, 29 Hun, 485, reversed on another ground, 100 N. Y. 577.

Taxes levied prior to the death of a testator upon real property in which a trust is created by the testator's will are not a charge against the trust estate, but are payable out of the testator's general estate. Matter of Doheny, 70 App. Div. 370, 75 N. Y. Supp. 24, affd. 171 N. Y. 691.

Tender of part of tax. Where taxes are levied on both real and personal estate belonging to a taxpayer, tender of an amount equal to the tax against the real estate must be accepted by the collector. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1894) 326.

in writing made by them and filed with the supervisor. The collector upon payment of the taxes shall state in the column of the tax-roll provided therefor, the date of such payment, and shall write his name after such date. [Tax Law, § 71, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323, and L. 1917, ch. 356; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5888.]

§ 4. SETTLEMENT OF CONFLICTING CLAIMS TO SURPLUS OF TAX SALE; ACTION BY CLAIMANT TO RECOVER AMOUNT OF SURPLUS.

Whenever a surplus from the sale of any property for unpaid taxes in the hands of the supervisor of a town shall be claimed by any person other than the person for whose tax such property was sold, and such claim shall not be settled by a stipulation filed with the supervisor, as provided by this chapter, such claimant may maintain an action against such person, or such person may maintain an action against such claimant, to recover such money and, for the purposes of such action, the defendant shall be deemed to be in possession of the surplus in the hands of the supervisor.[6] Upon the production of a certified copy of a final judgment, rendered in favor of either party, the supervisor shall pay such surplus to the party recovering the same. No other cause of action shall be joined, nor any set-off or counterclaim be allowed in an action brought pursuant to this section, and if an execution issue on a judgment rendered in such action, it shall direct that the costs only of such judgment be levied thereon. [Tax Law, § 307; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6055.]

§ 5. COLLECTION OF TAXES ASSESSED AGAINST STOCKS IN BANKS AND BANKING ASSOCIATIONS; COLLECTOR MAY LEVY ON STOCK.

Every bank or banking association shall retain any dividend until the delivery to the collector of the tax-roll and warrant of the current year, and within ten days after such delivery shall pay to such collector so much of such dividend as may be necessary to pay any unpaid taxes assessed on the stock upon which such dividend is declared. In case the owner of such stock resides in a place other than where the bank or banking association is located, the same power may be exercised in collecting the tax so assessed as is given in case a person has removed from a tax district in which the assessment was made. The tax so assessed shall be and remain a lien on the shares of stock against which it is assessed till the payment of such tax, and if the stock is transferred it shall be subject to such lien. The collector or county treasurer may foreclose such lien in any court of record, and collect from the avails of the sale of the stock the tax assessed against the same. In addition thereto, the same remedy may be had for the collection of the tax on such shares as is now provided by law for enforcing payment of personal tax against residents.[7] [Tax Law, § 72; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5891.]

6. Duty of supervisor as to surplus moneys. Section 71 of the Tax Law, ante, requires the collector to pay over to the supervisor of the town the surplus remaining after the payment of the tax for which the property was sold as provided in that section, in case there is any controversy as to the ownership of such property. The supervisor under the above section is to retain such money until the rights of the contesting parties are determined.

§ 6. RAILROAD, TELEGRAPH, TELEPHONE, ELECTRIC LIGHT OR GAS CORPORATIONS MAY PAY TAX TO COUNTY TREASURER; DUTIES OF COUNTY TREASURER.

Any railroad, telegraph, telephone, electric-light or gas company including a company engaged in the business of supplying natural gas, may, within thirty days after receipt of notice by the county treasurer from the clerk of the board of supervisors, pay its tax, with one per centum fees, to the county treasurer, who shall credit the same with such fees to the collector of the tax district, unless otherwise required by law. If not so paid the county treasurer shall notify the collector of the tax district where it is due, and he shall then proceed to collect under his warrant. Until such notice from the treasurer the collector shall not enforce payment of such taxes, but may receive the same, with the fees allowed by law, at any time.[8] [Tax Law, § 73, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 221; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5892.]

7. Section 24 of the Tax Law (ante), relating to the assessment and taxation of shares of banks and banking associations, provides that the tax assessed upon such shares shall be paid by the bank or banking association to the treasurer of the county wherein it is located. Such section contains a complete scheme for the assessment, taxation and payment of taxes by banks and banking associations, and probably supersedes the provisions of the above section.

8. References. The clerk of the board of supervisors is required to deliver a statement to the county treasurer, showing the names, valuations and amount of tax, as appearing upon the assessment-roll of the several tax districts, of each railroad, telegraph, telephone and electric light corporation therein. Tax Law, sec. 60, ante.

If a town or city has unpaid bonds outstanding, issued to aid in the construction of a railroad, the tax collected on account of such railroad in such town or city is to be paid to the treasurer of the county, to be applied in the purchase of such bonds. General Municipal Law, sec. 13, post.

The demand is a condition precedent to a right of action, and the bringing of such action is not a demand. McLean, as Receiver, v. The Manhattan Medicine Co., 22 J. & S. 371 (1887, Gen. T.), revg. 3 N. Y. St. Rep. 550.

§ 7. PAYMENT OF SCHOOL TAX BY RAILROAD, TELEGRAPH, TELEPHONE, ELECTRIC LIGHT AND GAS COMPANIES TO COUNTY TREASURER.

Notice to railroad companies and certain other corporations of assessment and tax.— 1. It shall be the duty of the school collector in each school district in this state, within five days after the receipt by such collector of any and every tax or assessment-roll of his district, to prepare and deliver to the county treasurer of the county in which such district, or the greater part thereof, is situated, a statement showing the name of each railroad, telegraph, telephone, electric light or gas company, including a company engaged in the business of supplying natural gas, appearing in said roll, the assessment against each of said companies for real and personal property respectively, and the tax against each of said companies.

2. It shall thereupon be the duty of such county treasurer, immediately after the receipt by him of such statement from such school collector, to notify the ticket agent or manager of any such railroad, telegraph, telephone, electric light or gas company, including a company engaged in the business of supplying natural gas assessed for taxes at the station or office nearest to the office of such county treasurer or to notify the company at its principal office within this state personally or by mail, of the fact that such statement has been filed with him by such collector, at the same time specifying the amount of tax to be paid by such company. [Education Law, § 427, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 216; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 1216.]

Payment within thirty days.—Any railroad company heretofore organized, or which may hereafter be organized, under the laws of this state, and any telegraph, telephone, electric light or gas company including a company engaged in the business of supplying natural gas may within thirty days after the receipt of such statement by such county treasurer, pay the amount of tax so levied or assessed against it in such a district and in such statement mentioned and contained with one per centum fees thereon, to such county treasurer, who is hereby authorized and directed to receive such amount and to give proper receipt therefor. [Education Law, § 428, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 216; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 1216.]

Collection if not so paid.—In case any railroad company and any telegraph, telephone, electric light or gas company including a company engaged in the business of supplying natural gas shall fail to pay such tax within said thirty days, it shall be the duty of such county treasurer to notify the collector of the school district in which such delinquent railroad company is assessed, of its failure to pay said tax, and upon receipt of such notice it shall be the duty of such collector to collect such unpaid tax in the manner now provided by law together with five per centum fees thereon; but no school collector shall collect by distress and sale any tax levied or assessed in his district upon the property of any such company until the receipt by him of such notice from the county treasurer. [Education Law, § 429, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 216; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 1217.]

Education Law, § 431; General Municipal Law, § 13.

Amount to be paid over to collector of district.—The several amounts of tax received by any county treasurer in this state, under the provisions of the last three sections, of and from such companies, shall be by such county treasurer placed to the credit of the school district for or on account of which the same was levied or assessed, and on demand paid over to the school collector thereof, and one per centum fees received therewith shall be placed to the credit of, and on demand paid to, the school collector of such school district. [Education Law, § 430, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 216; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 1217.]

Companies may pay collector.—Nothing in the last four sections contained shall be construed to hinder, prevent or prohibit any railroad company or telegraph, telephone, electric light or gas company including a company engaged in the business of supplying natural gas from paying its school tax to the school collector direct, as provided by law. [Education Law, § 431, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 216; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 1217.]

§ 8. RAILROADS IN TOWNS BONDED FOR THE CONSTRUCTION THEREOF, TO PAY TO COUNTY TREASURER; INVESTMENT OF MONEY BY COUNTY TREASURER.

If a town, village or city has outstanding unpaid bonds, issued or substituted for bonds issued, to aid in the construction of a railroad therein, so much of all taxes as shall be necessary to take up such bonds, except school districts and highway taxes, collected on the assessed valuation of such railroad in such municipal corporation, shall be paid over to the treasurer of the county in which the municipal corporation is located. Such treasurer shall purchase with such moneys of any town, village or city, such bonds, when they can be purchased at or below par, and shall immediately cancel them in the presence of the county judge.[9] If such bonds cannot

9. By L. 1899, ch. 336, jurisdiction was conferred upon the court of claims to hear, audit and determine the claim of any county where state taxes collected of a railroad corporation in towns aiding in the construction of the railroad had been paid by the county treasurer to the state treasurer.

In the case of County of Ulster v. State of New York, 79 App. Div. 277, the determination of the court of claims, in a case brought under this act, that the state was not liable to repay to the counties the amount of tax so paid by county treasurers to the state treasurer was reversed. The court in this case held that ch. 907, L. 1869, as amended by ch. 283, L. 1871, from which the above section of the General Municipal Law was derived, was enacted for the purpose of relieving the county from the payment of the state tax upon the property of a railroad in a town bonded for its construction.

Application of taxes on railroad bonds. County treasurers are authorized to retain any portion of the taxes due from their counties to the state to apply on railroad bonds, but the proper method for securing such taxes is by application to the comptroller for repayment of the same. Such application should contain a statement sufficient to satisfy the comptroller that the amount of money claimed is really due to the county treasurer. Rept. of Atty. Genl., Feb. 15, 1909.

Application of section; duties of officers. The provisions of the above section are applicable to any municipality having outstanding bonds issued in aid of the construction of any railroad. The assessors and boards of supervisors should ascertain the amount required to be paid under the provisions of such section to the county treasurer and should specify such amount in the tax roll and warrant. If such amount has been so specified, the collector may make the proper deduction of be purchased at or below par, such treasurer shall invest such moneys in the bonds of the United States, of the state of New York, or of any town or village or city of such state, issued pursuant to law; and shall hold such bonds as a sinking fund for the redemption and payment of such outstanding railroad aid bonds. If a county treasurer shall unreasonably neglect to comply with this section, any taxpayer of the town, village or city having so issued its bonds may apply to the county judge of the county in which such municipal corporation is situated, for an order compelling such treasurer to execute the provisions of this section. Upon application school and road taxes and pay the balance to the county treasurer. If the duty of making the separation has not been discharged before payment to the county treasurer, it devolves upon him to make the separation and invest the proper amount as directed by the statute. Matter of Clark v. Sheldon, 106 N. Y. 104.

If the county treasurer neglects to comply with the provisions of this section and pays the amount that should be apportioned to the discharge of railroad aid bonds in payment of county and state taxes an action may be maintained by the town against the county to recover the money so misappropriated. Strough v. Board of Supervisors, 119 N. Y. 212; 23 N. E. 552; see, also, Pierson v. Supervisors of Wayne County, 155 N. Y. 105; 49 N. E. 766. The supervisors have no jurisdiction over the fund and cannot legislate concerning it, nor direct nor control the act of the county treasurer with reference to it. Nor can a town meeting by its vote authorize the application of such fund for any other purpose than the payment of such bonds. In the hands of the county treasurer it is a trust fund upon which the law has impressed a distinct purpose and any action that diverts it from that purpose is illegal. Clark v. Sheldon 134 N. Y. 333; 32 N. E. 23. As to the right of a town to compel a proper application of this fund, see Kilbourne v. Board of Supervisors, 137 N. Y. 170; 33 N. E. 159; Woods v. Supervisors, 136 N. Y. 403; 39 N. E. 1011; People ex rel. McMillan v. Supervisors, 136 N. Y. 281; 32 N. E. 854; Ackerman v. Board of Supervisors, 72 Hun, 616; 25 N. Y. Supp. 196.

Effect where taxes have been paid into general fund of county. Where the taxes have been paid by the county treasurer into the general fund of the county, and are not identifiable, but the general fund had always exceeded the amount of such taxes, an order requiring their investment as prescribed by the statute was proper. Spalding v. Arnold, 125 N. Y. 194.

Illegal payment to treasurer. A town may recover moneys paid by railroad company on account of taxes assessed in such town to the county treasurer, when it appears that he paid such moneys to the supervisor instead of applying them to the redemption of outstanding bonds issued to aid in the construction of such railroad. Town of Walton v. Adair, 111 App. Div. 817, 97 N. Y. Supp. 868, affd. 191 N. Y. 509.

Enforcement of judgment requiring supervisors to invest railroad taxes. A judgment directing a board of supervisors to deposit with the county treasurer for the benefit of a town, to be invested by him in pursuance of the above section, the taxes levied and collected on the assessed valuation of certain railroad property in such town, is not complied with by merely levying and collecting the sum specified without giving any direction for the use of the money as a sinking fund for the benefit of such town. The town may enforce the judgment by a writ of peremptory mandamus to compel the board of supervisors to again levy and collect the sum and pay it over to the county treasurer for the benefit of the town. People ex rel. Town of Walton v. Board of Supervisors, 173 N. Y. 297, reversing 75 App. Div. 184, 77 N. Y. Supp. 676.

of the town board of any town, the board of supervisors of the county in which said town is situated may authorize payment by the county treasurer of all moneys thus paid to him in any year by the railroads mentioned in this section, to the supervisor of such town, for its use and benefit; to be applied either to the purchase of outstanding railroad aid bonds or the payment of interest thereon, and any payment heretofore made in good faith by the treasurer of any county to any town or to the supervisor thereof, of the taxes received, in any year by such treasurer, from railroad corporations in that town is hereby validated.[9a] The county treasurer of any county in which one or more towns therein shall have issued bonds for railroad purposes, shall when directed by the board of supervisors or county judge of the county, execute and file in the office of the clerk of the county an undertaking with not less than two sureties, approved by such board or judge, to the effect that he will faithfully perform his duties pursuant to this section. The annual report of a county treasurer shall fully state, under the head of "railroad sinking fund", the name and character of all such investments made by him or his predecessors, and the condition of such fund. [General Municipal Law, § 13; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2115.]

§ 9. TAX AGAINST TELEGRAPH, TELEPHONE AND ELECTRIC LIGHT LINES; COLLECTORS MAY LEVY ON INSTRUMENTS; RETURN OF UNPAID TAXES TO COUNTY TREASURER; COUTY TREASURER MAY SELL LINES.

Collection of tax against a telegraph, telephone or electric light line may be enforced by sale of the instruments and batteries connected with such line, and in case there is not sufficient personal property, together with such instruments and batteries, to pay such tax and the per centage due the collector, he shall return a statement thereof to the county treasurer as other unpaid taxes are returned, and the county treasurer shall proceed to sell such part of the line in the tax district where the tax was levied as may be necessary to satisfy the unpaid taxes and per centage, in the manner now provided by law for the sale of lands on execution, and upon such sale shall execute to the purchaser a conveyance of such part of said line, and the purchaser shall thereupon become the owner thereof.

9a. Constitutionality. The act from which the above section was derived has been declared constitutional. Matter of Clark v. Sheldon, 106 N. Y. 104.

The part of this section which provides: "Any payment heretofore made in good faith by the treasurer of any county to any town, or to the supervisor thereof, of the taxes received in any year by such treasurer from railroad corporations in that town is hereby validated," is unconstitutional so far as it attempts to take from a town an existing cause of action. Town of Walton v. Adair, 96 App. Div. 75, 89 N. Y. Supp. 23.

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent collection of such taxes by any procedure now provided by law. [Tax Law, § 74; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5892.]

10. SEQUESTRATION OF PROPERTY OF CORPORATIONS FOR FAILURE TO PAY TAXES.

It shall be the duty of the attorney-general, on being informed by the comptroller, tax commission or by the county treasurer of any county that any incorporated company refuses or neglects to pay the taxes imposed upon it, pursuant to articles one and two of this chapter, to bring an action in the supreme court for the sequestration of the property of such corporation, and the court may so sequestrate the property of such corporation for the purpose of satisfying taxes in arrears, with the costs of prosecution, and may, also, in its discretion, enjoin such corporation and further proceedings under its charter until such tax and the costs incurred in the action shall be paid. The attorney-general may recover such tax with costs from such delinquent corporation by action in any court of record. [Tax Law, § 306, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6054.]

§ 11. TAXES ON RENTS RESERVED; COLLECTOR MAY LEVY ON PERSONAL PROPERTY OF OWNER FOUND IN COUNTY; WHEN TENANT MAY BE COMPELLED TO PAY.

If any tax upon any such tax-roll upon rents reserved is not paid, the collector shall collect the same by levy and sale of the personal property of the persons against whom the tax is levied, which may be found within the county. If no sufficient personal property belonging to such person can be found in the county, the collector shall collect such tax of the tenant or lessee in possession of the premises, on which the rent is reserved, in the same manner as if such tax had been assessed against such tenant or lessee. Every such tenant or lessee paying any such tax, or of whom any such tax shall be collected, shall be entitled to have the amount thereof, with interest, deducted from the amount of rent reserved upon such premises, which may be due or may thereafter become due thereon, or may maintain an action to recover the same.[10] [Tax Law, § 75; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5893.]

10. The value of taxable rents reserved is included in the fifth column of the assessment-roll, and if the name of the person entitled to receive the rent cannot be ascertained by the assessors the tax is to be assessed against the tenant in possession of the real property. See Tax Law, sec. 21, sub. 5, ante.

§ 12. COLLECTOR TO RETURN UNPAID TAXES ON DEBTS OWING TO NON-RESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES TO COUNTY TREASURER; COUNTY TREASURER; TO ISSUE A WARRANT TO SHERIFF TO COLLECT AMOUNT OF TAX.

If it shall appear by the return of any collector that a tax imposed upon a debt owing to a person residing out of the United States remains unpaid, the county treasurer shall, after the expiration of twenty days from such return, issue his warrant to the sheriff of any county in this state where any debtor of any such non-resident creditor may reside, commanding him to make[11] of the real and personal property of such non-resident the amount of such tax, to be specified in a schedule annexed to the warrant, with his fees and the sum of one dollar for the expense of issuing such warrant, and to return the warrant to the treasurer issuing the same, and to pay over to him the money which shall be collected by virtue thereof, except the sheriff's fees, by a day therein to be specified within sixty days from the date thereof. The taxes upon several debts owing to a non-resident shall be included in one warrant. The taxes upon several debts owing to different non-residents may be included in the same warrant, and the sheriff shall be directed to levy the sum specified in the schedule annexed, upon the real and personal property of the non-residents, respectively, opposite to whose names, respectively, such sums shall be written, with fifty cents for the expenses of the warrant. Such warrant shall be a lien upon and shall bind the real and personal property of the non-residents against whom issued from the time an actual levy shall be made upon any property by virtue thereof, and the sheriff to whom the warrant shall be directed shall proceed upon the same, in all respects, with like effect, and in the same manner, as prescribed by law in respect to execution against property issued upon judgment rendered in the supreme court, and shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the same, to be collected in the same manner.[12] [Tax Law, § 76, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5893.]

§ 13. SHERIFF TO RETURN WARRANT FOR COLLECTION OF TAXES ON DEBTS OWING TO NON-RESIDENTS; NEGLECT TO MAKE RETURN; PROCEEDINGS IF WARRANT IS RETURNED UNSATISFIED.

If any sheriff shall neglect to return any such warrant as directed 11. The use of the word "make" in this sentence is apparently an error. It probably was intended for the word "take." The same language was used in sec. 6 of L. 1851, ch. 371, and was retained in the revision of 1896.

12. As to assessment of debts owing to non-residents of the United States, see Tax Law, sec. 31, ante.

therein, or to pay over any money collected by him in pursuance thereof, he shall be proceeded against in the supreme court by attachment in the same manner, and with like effect, as for a similar neglect in reference to an execution issued out of the supreme court in a similar action, and the proceedings therein shall be the same in all respects. If any such warrant shall be returned unsatisfied, wholly or partly, the county treasurer may obtain an order from a judge of the supreme court of the district, or a county judge of the county, of such treasurer issuing the warrant, requiring such non-resident or any person having property of such non-resident or indebted to him, to appear and answer concerning the property of such nonresident. The same remedies and proceedings may be had in the name of such county treasurer or comptroller before the officer granting such order, and with a like effect, as are provided by law in proceedings against a judgment debtor supplementary to execution against him, returned wholly or in part unsatisfied. The expenses of a county treasurer, and such compensation as the board of supervisors may allow him for his services under this section, and for making and transmitting to the assessors of the several towns of his county an abstract or copy of the statements of the agents of non-resident creditors, shall be a county charge. [Tax Law, § 77, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5894.]

§ 14. APPLICATION TO COUNTY COURT FOR ORDER DIRECTING SHERIFF TO COLLECT TAX WHEN PERSON HAS REMOVED FROM COUNTY; CERTIFIED COPY OF ORDER TO BE DELIVERED TO SHERIFF OR CONSTABLE OF COUNTY TO WHICH PERSON HAS REMOVED.

If it shall satisfactorily appear by affidavit to the county court of any county that a tax legally levied therein cannot be collected because of the removal of the person taxed to any other county of the state, such court shall, upon application of the collector of any tax district or of the county treasurer of the county, grant an order, directed to the sheriff of the county where such person may be, to collect the same out of his personal property with interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum from the date of said order. Such order shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which it is granted, and a certified copy thereof delivered to the constable or sheriff of the county where the person liable for the tax may be, and such constable or sheriff, on receiving the same shall execute it, and make a like return, and be entitled to the same fees and subject to the same liabilities and penalties for neglect as upon execution from any court of record. The sheriff receiving such moneys shall pay the same to the county treasurer of the county where it was levied, to the credit of the town in which it was assessed. [Tax Law, § 298, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6051.]

§ 15. SUPERVISOR OR COUNTY TREASURER MAY INSTITUTE SUPPLEMENTARY PROCEEDINGS FOR COLLECTION OF UNPAID TAXES.

If a tax exceeding ten dollars in amount levied against a person or corporation is returned by the proper collector uncollected for want of personal property out of which to collect the same, the supervisor of the town or ward, or the county treasurer or the president of the village, if it is a village tax, within one year thereafter, apply to the court for the institution of proceedings supplementary to execution, as upon a judgment docketed in such county, for the purpose of collecting such tax and fees, with interest thereon from the fifteenth day of February after the levy thereof. Such proceedings may be taken against a corporation, and the same proceedings may thereupon be had in all respects for the collection of such tax as for the collection of a judgment by proceedings supplementary to execution thereon against a natural person, and the same costs and disbursements may be allowed against the person or corporation examined as in such supplementary proceedings, but none shall be allowed in his or its favor.[13] The tax, if collected in such proceeding, shall be paid to

13. Supplementary proceedings. The proceedings authorized by this section for the collection of unpaid taxes are the same as those provided for the collection of a judgment by proceedings supplementary to execution as contained in sections 2432-2463 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Under section 2463 of the code corporations are not subject to supplementary proceedings "except in those actions or special proceedings brought by or against the people of the state." But by the above provision corporations may be proceeded against in the same manner as a natural person.

Section applies to a foreign corporation licensed to do business in this state. Matter of Bruerg (1916), 174 App. Div. 298, 160 N. Y. Supp. 96.

The jurisdiction to issue the order does not rest upon a corporation's failure to appear before the assessors, but upon the fact that a tax has been returned by the collector uncollected for want of personal property out of which to enforce it. Matter of Maltbie (1917), 179 App. Div. 395, 165 N. Y. Supp. 550.

In general. A dissolution of an order for examination in supplementary proceedings may be moved for on the ground that the order was improvidently granted. Bassett v. Wheeler, 84 N. Y. 466.

Upon an appeal from a motion to set aside supplementary proceedings, the question whether the person proceeded against was a resident will not be viewed in the court of appeals if the evidence is conflicting. Id.

A payment made as directed in supplementary proceedings,—held a voluntary one, in an action against the assessors for lack of jurisdiction, the order itself not authorizing seizure. Drake v. Shurtliff, 24 Hun 422.

The fact of ownership of sufficient personal property out of which the collector could have taken the tax is not a defense to supplementary proceedings for its collection. Matter of Hartshorn, 44 N. Y. St. Rep. 16, 17 N. Y. Supp. 567.

The provisions of this section exempting a county treasurer from the

the county treasurer or to the supervisor of the town, and if a village tax, to the treasurer of the village. The costs and disbursements collected shall belong to the party instituting the proceedings, and shall be applied to the payment of the expense of such proceedings. The president of a village and a county treasurer shall have no compensation for any such proceeding. A supervisor shall have no other compensation except his per diem pay for time necessarily spent in the proceeding.[14] [Tax Law, § 299; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6051.]

§ 16. DISMISSAL OF SUITS OR PROCEEDINGS.

Where the person or corporation against whom a proceeding or suit is brought to collect a personal tax in arrears is unable for want of property to pay the tax in whole or in part, or where for other reasons upon the facts as they existed either before or after the assessment was made it appears to the court just that said tax should not be paid, the court may dismiss such suit or proceeding absolutely, without costs, or on payment of such part of the tax as may be just or on payment of costs, and may direct the cancellation or reduction of the tax.[15] [Tax Law, § 301, as amended by L., 1909, ch. 374; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6052.]

§ 17. CANCELLATION OF PERSONAL TAX VOID FOR WANT OF JURISDICTION.

If a personal tax, levied against a person or corporation, or the property of a person or corporation, is void for want of jurisdiction of such person payment of costs do not apply to an unsuccessful appeal by him from an order dismissing the proceeding. Matter of Pryor, 67 App. Div. 316, 73 N. Y. Supp. 961.

Sufficiency of application. The application need only allege the facts stated in the above section and need not allege facts sufficient to show that the assessors and board of supervisors had jurisdiction to impose the tax in question. Matter of Conklin, 36 Hun, 588.

When order cannot be vacated. An order under this section directed to the treasurer of a corporation cannot be vacated on the ground that tax was excessive, where no objection was presented to assessors; nor for immaterial error in the warrant. Matter of Adler & Co., 174 N. Y. 287, affg. 76 App. Div. 571, 78 N. Y. Supp. 690.

14. Punishment for non-payment of tax. Neglect or refusal to pay any tax shall not be punishable as a contempt or as misconduct; and no fine shall be imposed for such non-payment nor shall any person be imprisoned or otherwise punishable on account of non-payment of any tax or of any fine imposed for refusal or neglect to pay such tax. This section shall not apply to proceedings supplementary to execution upon judgments recovered for taxes. Tax Law, § 300.

or corporation and has been returned by the proper collector uncollectible for want of personal property out of which to collect the same, the person or corporation against whom or against whose property the said tax was levied may then apply to the supreme or county court in the county in which is located the tax district where said tax was levied, for an order cancelling the said tax, and upon notice to the president of the village, county treasurer, supervisor of the town or, in the case of a city, upon notice to its attorney or to the corporation counsel, and upon satisfactory proof by affidavit, the court shall make an order directing the cancellation of said tax from the assessment-roll by the county treasurer, comptroller, or other officer in whose custody and control the said roll may be.[16] [Tax Law, § 302, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323, and L. 1918, ch. 530; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6053.]

§ 18. WHEN TAX IS PAID BY TENANT HE MAY RETAIN AMOUNT FROM RENTAL.

If a tax upon real property shall have been collected of any occupant or tenant, and any other person, by agreement or otherwise, ought to pay such tax, or any part thereof, such occupant or tenant shall be entitled to recover, by action, the amount which such person ought to have paid; or to retain the same from any rent due or accruing from him to such person for the land so taxed. [Tax Law, § 78; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5894.]

§ 19. PAYMENT OF TAXES ON PART OF PROPERTY.

The collector shall receive the tax on personal property, or on part of any lot, piece or parcel of land charged with taxes, provided the person paying such tax shall furnish such particular specification of such part, and in case the tax on the remainder thereof shall remain unpaid the collector shall enter such specification on his return to the county treasurer, clearly showing the part on which the tax remains unpaid, and if the part on which the tax shall be so paid shall be an undivided share, the person paying the same shall state to the collector who is the owner of such share, and the collector shall enter the name of such owner on his account of arrears of taxes, and such share shall be excepted in case of a sale for the tax on the remainder. [Tax Law, § 79, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5894.]

§ 20. PAYMENT OF TAXES ON STATE LANDS IN FOREST PRESERVE.

The treasurer of the state, upon the certificate of the comptroller as to the correct amount of such tax, shall pay the tax levied upon state lands in the forest preserve, by crediting to the treasurer of the county in which such lands may be situated, such taxes, upon the amount payable by such county treasurer to the state for state tax. No fees shall be allowed by the comptroller to the county treasurer for such portion of the state tax as is so paid. [Tax Law, § 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5895.]

§ 21. FEES OF COLLECTOR.

On all taxes paid within thirty days from the date of notice that he has received the roll, the collector shall be entitled to receive, if the aggregate amount shall not exceed two thousand dollars, two per centum, and otherwise one per centum, in addition thereto. On all taxes collected after the expiration of such period of thirty days, the collector shall be entitled to receive five per centum in addition thereto. The collector shall be entitled to receive from the county treasurer two per centum as fees for all taxes returned to the county treasury as unpaid. In Suffolk county no fees shall be paid by the county treasurer on return taxes. [Tax Law, § 81, as amended by L. 1909, ch. 240, and L. 1916, ch. 332; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5895.]

§ 22. RETURN BY COLLECTOR OF UNPAID TAXES; CONTENTS OF RETURN; FORM PRESCRIBED BY TAX COMMISSIONERS.

Each collector shall immediately upon the expiration of his warrant make and deliver to the county treasurer an account of unpaid taxes, upon the tax-roll annexed to his warrant, which he shall not have been able to collect, verified by his affidavit, that the sums mentioned therein remain unpaid, and that he has not, upon diligent inquiry, been able to discover any personal property out of which the same could be collected by levy and sale, and upon the verification of the said account by the county treasurer he shall be credited by the county treasurer with the amount of such account.[17] In making such return of unpaid

17. For form of affidavit to be attached to a collector's return of unpaid taxes, see Form No. 57, post.

The form of the return of the collector is prescribed by the state board of tax commissioners.

A return by a collector, the affidavit to which has no venue, is a nullity. A return which does not state that the account is a transcript of the assessment-roll, nor that the figures were taken from the assessment-roll, nor that the sums claimed to be due were for the taxes assessed against the property, is insufficient. Where taxes, the collector shall add thereto five per centum of the amount thereof.[18] In case such tax is uncollected upon lands assessed to a resident he shall also state the reason why the same was not collected. In the county of Suffolk such return shall consist of the tax-roll and warrant together with the affidavit of the collector known also as the receiver of taxes that the taxes therein appearing, not marked paid, remain unpaid and that he has not upon diligent inquiry been able to discover any personal property out of which the same could be collected by levy and sale, together with a statement of the total amount of such unpaid taxes, and that he has in an appropriate column in said tax-roll opposite the tax levied upon each separate parcel, or person therein named or described, inserted five per centum of the amount of the unpaid tax, and no separate copy or account of such unpaid taxes shall be made or required of collectors, or receivers in such county. Any collector who has heretofore failed in making such return of unpaid taxes, may make such return, whether his term of office has expired or not, verified by his affidavit, to the county treasurer any time within eight years after such failure and before the lands against which said taxes are assessed are advertised for sale pursuant to this chapter, and in case any collector shall heretofore or hereafter fail to add said five per centum the county treasurer shall add the same. Such return shall be indorsed upon or attached to said roll, and shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be in the form to be prescribed by the state tax commission. Such tax and percentage may be paid to the county treasurer at any time before a return is made to the comptroller, or in the county of Suffolk such tax, percentage and interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum computed from the first day of February after the same was levied may be paid to the county treasurer at any time before the first day of August succeeding the date of the warrant and thereafter at any time before the sale of the land for such unpaid tax, upon the payment of such tax, percentage and interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum, computed from the first day of February after the same was levied and the cost of advertising the land for sale for such unpaid taxes as apportioned by the county treasurer among the several parcels liable to be sold. The county treasurer in counties in which lands are sold by him for the nonpayment of taxes, is hereby authorized to incur and pay for such expenses as he may deem necessary for the examination of collector's returns and descriptions of property to be sold pursuant to this chapter, and the procurement of proper collector's returns and the examinations and procurement of matters and facts as he may deem necessary to make a valid tax sale hereunder, but such expense shall not exceed the amount of the five per centum added as aforesaid. [Tax Law, § 82, as amended by L. 1916, chs. 323, 332, and L. 1917, ch. 39; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5859.]

§ 33. STAY BY INJUNCTION OR OTHERWISE OF COLLECTION OF TAXES, TO OPERATE AS AN EXTENSION OF TIME FOR MAKING RETURN OF TAXES AFFECTED.

Any stay, lawfully granted by any court of record by injunction or other order or proceeding, of the collection of any tax existing at the expiration of the period for the collection of the tax under any warrant or process in the hands of the collector or other officer for the collection thereof, or existing at the time of the expiration of the term of office of the collector or officer holding such warrant, shall operate as an extension of the time within which such collector or other officer may collect there was nothing in the return of the collector or in the return of the county treasurer showing that the taxes unpaid were assessed upon non-resident lands, they did not lay a foundation for a sale by the comptroller. Thompson v. Burhans, 61 N. Y. 52.

Sufficient statement. A collector of taxes sufficiently states the reason why the tax was not collected where he states that he has not been able with diligent inquiry to discover any personal property out of which the tax could be collected by levy and sale. Smith v. Russell (1916), 172 App. Div. 793, 159 N. Y. Supp. 169.

18. The addition of five per cent. to the amount of unpaid taxes by the collector in making his return of unpaid taxes on nonresident lands is no error; the section applies to nonresident as well as other lands. such tax until such stay is terminated and for the period of thirty days thereafter. As to all other taxes to be collected under any such warrant or process the collector or officer holding the warrant or process shall make a return thereof within the time prescribed by law. [Tax Law, § 83; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5896.]

§ 24. PAYMENT BY COLLECTOR OF TAXES COLLECTED; OFFICERS TO GIVE COLLECTOR DUPLICATE RECEIPTS; RECEIPTS TO BE FILED.

Every collector shall, within one week after the time prescribed in his warrant for the payment of the moneys directed therein to be paid, pay to the officers and persons specified therein, the sums required in such warrant to be paid to them respectively.[19] The officers and persons other than the county treasurer, to whom any such money shall be paid, shall deliver to the collector duplicate receipts therefor, one of which duplicates shall be filed by the collector with the county treasurer and shall entitle him to a credit in the books of the county treasurer for the amount therein stated to have been received, and no other evidence of such payment shall be received by the county treasurer. If any greater amount of taxes shall be levied in any town than the town charges thereof, and its proportionate share of the state taxes and county charges, the surplus shall be paid by the collector to the county treasurer, who shall place it to the credit of such town, and it shall go to the reduction of the tax upon the town for the succeeding year. [Tax Law, § 84; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5897.]

19. Payments by collector. The collector cannot pay claims against the county and credit himself with the amount thereof. Matter of Boyce, 2 Cow. 444. The statute requires that the warrant should direct the payments to be made to the commissioner of highways of such moneys as are raised for highway purposes, and to the overseer of the poor such as are raised for the support of the poor. Notwithstanding the warrant directs a payment to be made contrary to the provisions of the statute, the collector must pay the money raised for such purposes to the highway commissioner and to the overseer of the poor respectively. People v Pennock, 60 N. Y. 421. Section 104 of the Highway Law makes the supervisor the custodian of highway moneys, and directs all such moneys to be paid to him.

The presumption is that taxes received by the collector are paid over to persons to whom they are directed to be paid by law. Bank of Commonwealth v. Mayor, 43 N. Y. 184.

Moneys collected under L. 1874, ch. 296, appropriating the amount of county taxes on a railroad to the payment of bonds,—held, that the taxes should be paid to the railroad commissioners direct and not to the county treasurer. Bridges v. Supervisors of Sullivan, 92 N. Y. 570.

Duties of supervisor. Under section 98 of the Town Law, ante, the supervisor of each town is to receive and pay over all moneys raised therein for defraying town charges, except those raised for the support of highways and bridges, and of the poor.

§ 25. COLLECTOR FAILING TO MAKE PAYMENTS; COUNTY COURT TO ORDER SHERIFF TO LEVY ON PROPERTY OF COLLECTOR; RETURN OF SHERIFF.

If any collector shall neglect or refuse to pay over the moneys collected by him, to any of the persons to whom he is required to pay the same by his warrant, or to account for the same as unpaid, the County Court, on proof of such fact by affidavit, on application of the county treasurer, shall make an order directed to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to levy such sum as shall remain unpaid by such collector out of his property, personal and real, and pay the same to the county treasurer, within sixty days from the date of such order. The sheriff shall cause the same to be executed, and pay to the county treasurer the money levied by virtue thereof, deducting for his fees the same compensation that the collector would have been entitled to retain. If the whole sum due from the collector, or if a part only, or if no part thereof, shall be collected, the sheriff shall state the fact in his return, which shall be made as in case of an execution, and the county treasurer shall give notice to the supervisor of the town, city or division thereof, of any amount which may remain due from such collector. If the sheriff shall neglect to execute the order, or to pay over the money collected thereon, within the time limited thereby, he shall be liable therefor as in case of an execution, and the county treasurer shall immediately prosecute such sheriff and his sureties for the sum due from him, which sum when collected shall be paid into the county treasury.[20] [Tax Law, § 303; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6053.]

§ 26. COUNTY TREASURER TO MAKE PAYMENTS TO PROPER OFFICERS OUT OF MONEYS COLLECTED.

The county treasurer shall pay over the moneys received from the sheriff upon such order in the manner directed by the warrant to the collector. If the whole amount of moneys due from the collector shall not be collected on such warrant, or otherwise, the county treasurer shall first retain the amount which ought to have been paid to him before making any payment to the town officers. [Tax Law, § 304; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6054.]

§ 27. SUPERVISORS TO PROSECUTE COLLECTOR'S UNDERTAKING FOR DEFICIENCY.

If it appears that the whole or any part of the moneys due from the collector has not been thus collected, the county treasurer shall forthwith give notice to the supervisor of the town or ward of the amount still due from such collector. The supervisor shall forthwith cause the undertaking of the collector to be prosecuted, and shall be entitled to recover thereon the sum due from the collector with costs of the action. The moneys received shall be applied and paid by the supervisor in the same manner as they should have been by the collector. [Tax Law, § 305; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6054.]

§ 28. COUNTY TREASURER MAY EXTEND TIME FOR COLLECTION OF TAXES; NEW BOND OF COLLECTOR.

The county treasurer, upon application of the supervisor of any town or common council of any city in his county, may extend the time for collection of taxes remaining unpaid to a day not later than April first, following, in case the collector shall pay over all moneys collected by him, and renew his bond in a penalty twice the amount of the taxes remaining uncollected, approved by the proper officer upon filing the same, as the original bond is required to be filed, and delivering a certified copy thereof to such treasurer. Collectors and receivers of taxes who have filed a bond as required by statute, shall not be required to renew their bonds. This section shall not affect any special law relating to the extension of time for the collection of taxes, nor be construed to extend the time for the payment of the state tax by the county treasurer, as required by this chapter.[21] [Tax Law, § 85, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 332, and L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5897.]

Provision does not apply to city or village collectors unless specially so provided. Village of Warren v. Phillips, 30 Barb. 646.

21. Provision of County Law, applicable to extensions. The following section of the County Law (sec. 150) covers the same ground as the above section of the Tax Law. The Tax Law is a later enactment and will control if inconsistent with the provisions of such section of the County Law: "The county treasurer may extend the time for the collection of taxes in any town or ward, but no extension shall be permitted until the collector of taxes of the town, city or ward in which such extension shall be asked shall pay over to the county treasurer all the taxes collected by him, and renew his undertaking as the supervisor of his town shall approve, and furnish evidence by his oath, and other competent testimony, if any, as such treasurer shall require, that he has been unable, for cause stated, to collect all the taxes within the time required by his warrant; but such extension shall not in any case be made beyond the first day of April in any year, unless ninety per cent. of such taxes shall have been collected and paid over to him." (County Law, sec. 150.)

§ 29. FILLING VACANCY IN OFFICE OF COLLECTOR; NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT TO COUNTY TREASURER; WARRANT TO BE DELIVERED TO NEW COLLECTOR.

If a person chosen to the office of collector of a town shall refuse to serve or be disabled from entering upon or completing the duties of his office from any cause, the town board shall forthwith appoint a collector for the remainder of the year, who shall give the same undertaking, be subject to the same duties and penalties and have the same powers and compensation as the collector in whose place he was appointed.[21] The supervisor of the town shall forthwith give notice of such appointment to the county treasurer. Such appointment shall not exonerate the former collector or his sureties from any liability incurred by him or them. If a warrant shall have been issued by the board of supervisors before the appointment of a collector to fill a vacancy or before the appointment of a collector under this section, the original warrant, if obtainable, shall be delivered to the collector so appointed and shall give him the same powers as if originally issued to him. If such warrant is not obtainable, a new one shall be issued by the chairman and clerk of the board of supervisors of the county, directed to the collector appointed, with the same force and effect as if originally issued to him. Upon any such appointment, the supervisor of the town, if he shall deem it necessary, may extend the time limited for the collection of taxes, for a period not exceeding thirty days, and forthwith give notice of such extension to the county treasurer. [Tax Law, § 86, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5898.]

§ 30. SHERIFF TO COLLECT TAXES IN CASE OF COLLECTOR'S FAILURE TO EXECUTE BOND, UNLESS VACANCY BE FILLED; DUTIES OF SHERIFF THEREUNDER.

If the collector of any tax district in the state shall neglect or refuse to execute an official bond or undertaking as required by law, or the supervisor of the town shall refuse or neglect to approve and file the same, within the time prescribed by law, and a new collector shall not have been appointed within ten days after the time when such bond or undertaking should have been filed, the board of supervisors shall deliver the tax-roll or a copy thereof with the warrant annexed, to the sheriff, who shall give a like undertaking as is required from the collector, and who shall then proceed with the collection of the taxes levied therein in like manner as collectors are authorized by law to do, and with like powers and subject to the same duties and obligations. Every such warrant shall require all payments therein specified to be made by the sheriff within sixty days after the receipt of the warrant by him. The expense of the collection of such taxes by him, if any, over and above the fees lawfully chargeable by the collector, shall be audited by the board of supervisors and shall be a charge upon the town. [Tax Law, § 87; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5898.]

§ 31. COLLECTOR'S BOND, SATISFACTION OF, BY COUNTY TREASURER; FORM OF SATISFACTION; FILING THEREOF.

Upon the settlement of the account of taxes directed to be collected by a collector in any town or city, except in the city of New York, the county treasurer shall, if requested, and if the collector shall have fully paid or duly accounted for all the taxes which he was by law to collect, give to such collector or any of his sureties, a written certificate of such settlement, duly acknowledged, and upon the filing thereof in the office of the clerk where the undertaking is recorded, the clerk shall enter satisfaction of such undertaking which shall thereby be discharged,[22] except that in counties containing cities of the first class such satisfaction when so entered shall only discharge the lien of said bond or undertaking upon the real estate of the collector and his sureties, but the liability of the collector and his sureties upon such bond or undertaking for a failure upon the part of such collector to pay over moneys collected by him shall be in no wise impaired. [Tax Law, § 88; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5899.]

22. Satisfaction of collector's undertaking. By section 115 of the Town Law, ante, p. 308, the undertaking of a collector must be filed by the supervisor in the office of the county clerk, and it is to be entered in a book provided for that purpose in the same manner as judgments are entered of record; and every such undertaking is a lien on the real estate of the collector and his sureties until it is satisfied. The certificate of the county clerk that the taxes collected by the collector have been fully paid over or duly accounted for constitutes, when filed in the office of the county clerk, a satisfaction of the undertaking of the collector.

How collector can be released. There are but two ways in which a collector receiving a valid warrant can be released. 1. By paying the proper officer the gross sum he is required to collect; 2. By returning warrant with an itemized account of unpaid taxes duly verified. The alleged loss of the assessment-roll will not excuse him. Village of Olean v. King, 5 N. Y. St. Rep. 169, affd. 116 N. Y. 355.

§ 31-a. REASSESSMENT OF TAXES LEVIED ON IMPERFECTLY DESCRIBED REAL PROPERTY.

The county treasurer of any county from which accounts of unpaid taxes are not returned to the comptroller shall examine the accounts of arrears of taxes received from the collector of each tax district and shall reject all taxes charged on real property deemed to be so imperfectly described or erroneously assessed, in form or substance, that the collection of the same by the sale of such real property cannot be enforced, and shall, on or before May first, deliver a transcript thereof to the supervisor of the tax district in which the real property on which taxes have been so rejected shall be located. Such supervisor shall, if in his power, within thirty days thereafter, cause an accurate description of such real property to be made and returned to such treasurer, with the correct amount of taxes thereon, each kind of tax being stated separately, and if necessary, he may cause a survey and map of any of such real property to be made, and the expense of such survey and map on or for each lot or parcel shall be returned to such treasurer and be a legal charge upon such real property and be collected with the taxes thereon. A statement of the taxes on real property in each tax district remaining so rejected on the first day of July, including the amount of taxes, fees and interest thereon, shall be forwarded by the treasurer to the supervisor of the tax district in which such real property was assessed, and such supervisor shall, prior to the first day of the annual meeting of the board of supervisors in such county, add to the assessment-roll of the tax district in which the real property is situated, for the then current year, an accurate description of such real property, the correct amount of taxes thereon, the tax of each year and kind of tax separately, stating that it is a reassessment, and charge the same therewith. The board of supervisors shall direct the collection of such taxes so added to the assessment-roll, and they shall be considered the taxes of the year in which the description shall be perfected. If such tax be not levied upon such real property as herein required, the board of supervisors shall cause the same with interest thereon at the rate of ten per centum per annum, to be levied upon the tax district in which originally assessed and collected with the other taxes of the same year. [Tax Law, § 88-a, as added by L. 1913, ch. 666, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 323.]

§ 32. REASSESSMENT OF UNPAID TAXES ON RESIDENT REAL PROPERTY; SUPERVISOR TO INCLUDE IN TAX-ROLL; RATE OF INTEREST ON UNPAID TAXES; TO BE REGARDED AS NON-RESIDENT THEREAFTER.

When the tax on any real property, not assessed as nonresident, is returned as unpaid and so remains, the county treasurer shall, unless such tax shall have been rejected as provided by section eighty-eight-a, immediately deliver a transcript thereof to the supervisor of the tax district in which such tax was assessed. Such supervisor shall, if in his power, within thirty days thereafter, cause an accurate description of such real property to be made and returned to said treasurer, with the correct amount of taxes thereon, each kind of tax being stated separately, and if necessary, he may cause a survey and map of any of said real property to be made, and the expense of such survey and map on or for each lot or parcel shall be returned to said treasurer, and be a legal charge upon such real property and be collected with the taxes thereon. The amount of such tax shall bear interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum from the first day of February until paid, or until the sale of such property to satisfy such tax by the county treasurer, or if the property is located in a county embracing a portion of the forest preserve until the return of such unpaid tax to the comptroller. And such real property and the tax thereon shall be regarded for all purposes of assessment, collection and sale as nonresident, and subject to all the provisions of the tax law in relation to nonresident real property and nonresident taxes.[23] [Tax Law, § 89, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 666, and L. 1916, chs. 323, 332; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5899.]

23. Sale for unpaid taxes. Where taxes on resident real property were returned as unpaid, an assessment must first be made against the land as such in the part of the assessment-roll relating to non-resident lands before a sale for such unpaid taxes can be made. People ex rel. McGuinness v. Lewis, 127 App. Div. 107, 111 N. Y. Supp. 398.

Tax on resident real property returned by the collector as unpaid should be transmitted to the comptroller without reassessment (since the amendment of this section in 1902). Rept. of Atty. Genl., June 1, 1911.

§ 33. COUNTY TREASURER TO PAY MONEY TO CREDITORS OF COUNTY. Each county treasurer shall pay to the creditors of the county from the moneys paid to him by the collectors of taxes of the several towns therein, such sums and in such manner as the board of supervisors of the county direct. [Tax Law, § 90; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5900.]

§ 34. COUNTY TREASURER TO BE CHARGED WITH AMOUNT OF STATE TAX; WHEN STATE TAX IS TO BE PAID OVER; COUNTY TREASURER MAY BORROW MONEY FOR PAYMENT OF STATE TAX; INTEREST ON AMOUNT WITHHELD.[24]

The comptroller shall charge each county treasurer with the amount of the state tax levied on his county, except the tax for schools, crediting him with his fees, if any, but no fees shall be allowed by the comptroller for such portion of the state tax as is credited by him for unpaid non-resident taxes. The county treasurer of each county shall, after retaining his fees thereon, at the rate of one per centum thereof, which shall not, however, in any case exceed fifteen hundred dollars, for all taxes for state purposes including schools pay the state tax to the treasurer of the state as follows: One-third of the state tax exclusive of the state tax for schools on or before the fifteenth day of February, one-third thereof on or before the fifteenth day of April, and unless otherwise provided by law, the balance thereof on or before the fifteenth day of May in each year, and notify the comptroller of such payment.[25] Whenever the state tax for schools, payable by any county, shall exceed the apportionment to such county of state school moneys as made by the state commissioner of education, in accordance with the provisions of the education law, such excess shall be paid by the treasurer of such county to the treasurer of the state on or before the fifteenth day of March in each year, and such treasurer shall notify the state commissioner of education of such payment. If there are not sufficient funds in the county treasury standing to the credit of any town to pay the state tax chargeable thereto, the treasurer shall borrow sufficient money upon the credit of the county and charge the same against such town, with interest thereon until the same is paid.[26] If any county treasurer shall not pay over the state tax, in-

Liability of county for uncollected state taxes. Under the system of taxation in force in this state, the state deals not with individuals, but with counties as representing divisions or areas of taxation. In case of his failure or neglect to pay to the state the tax due, or to render an account thereof to the comptroller, it is not until the remedies against him and against his bondsmen have been exhausted and the loss by reason of that default has been thus ascertained, that the county is required to act or any duty is attached to it. The fees of the county treasurer for collecting and paying over the school tax shall be allowed and paid by the commissioner of education.[27] [Tax Law, § 91; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5901.]

§ 35. STATE COMPTROLLER TO STATE ACCOUNTS WITH COUNTY TREASURER; TO INSTITUTE PROCEEDINGS AGAINST COUNTY TREASURER FOR FAILURE TO PAY OVER.

The comptroller shall state annually on June first, the account of each county treasurer, and if any part of the state tax is unpaid at that date, the comptroller shall transmit by mail to the county treasurer a copy of such accounts and requisition that he must pay the balance due the state within thirty days, and if the tax is not paid within such time, the comptroller shall, unless he is satisfied by due proof that the treasurer has not received such balance, and has used due diligence in collecting the same, forthwith deliver a copy of the account to the attorney-general, who shall take the necessary proceedings to collect the same of the county treasurer or his sureties or otherwise, with interest as provided by the last preceding section. The comptroller may also, in his discretion, direct the board of supervisors of the county to institute the necessary proceedings on the undertaking of such county treasurer and sureties. The comptroller shall also transmit to the board of supervisors on or before October tenth, a statement of account between his office and the county treasurer. [Tax Law, § 92; B. C. & G. Cons. § 36. LOSSES BY DEFAULT OF COLLECTOR OR TREASURER, HOW BORNE.

All losses sustained, and all deficiences in any taxes, or in the payments to be made therefrom, by reason of the default of any collector, shall be chargeable to the town, or city, of which he is collector. If occasioned by the default of the treasurer of any county in the discharge of his official duties, such losses shall be chargeable to such county. Any judgment against such treasurer for any such loss or deficiency on account of the state tax upon which an execution shall have been issued and returned unsatisfied shall be conclusive as to the fact of such loss or deficiency, and the amount of such deficiency shall thereupon become a charge against such county, and the board of supervisors thereof shall add all such losses or deficiencies to the next year's taxes of such town, city or county, and levy the same thereon.[28] [Tax Law, § 93; B. For the purpose of giving such receipt, each collector shall have a book of blank receipts, so arranged that when a receipt is torn therefrom a corresponding copy or stub will remain. The tax commission shall prescribe the form of such receipts, stubs and books and they shall be furnished to the town collector by the board of supervisors, at the expense of the county; to the city collector by the common council, at the expense of the city; to the village collector by the village trustees at the expense of the village; to the school collector by the trustee or trustees at the expense of the school district. The expense of mailing receipts shall be a proper charge against the city, town, village or school district. At

CHAPTER XXXIX.

SALES BY COUNTY TREASURER FOR UNPAID TAXES AND REDEMPTION OF LANDS SOLD.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Sales by County Treasurer.

In counties embracing any portion of the forest preserve, the county treasurer certifies as to the correctness of collectors' returns of unpaid taxes and transmits the same to the state comptroller. The lands upon which such taxes were assessed are then sold by the state comptroller. In all other counties, and also in St. Lawrence, Lewis, Clinton, Warren, Washington and Oneida Counties, lands, upon which unpaid taxes are assessed and returned, are sold by the county treasurer as provided in this chapter.

SECTION 1. Assessment-roll to be returned by collector to county treasurer; county treasurer to transmit accounts, etc., if his county embraces a part of the forest preserve.
2. Sale of lands by county treasurer for unpaid taxes in counties embracing no portion of the forest preserve.
3. List of property to be sold and notice of a sale to be published; sale.
3a. New certificate upon setting aside sale.
4. Owner may redeem within one year.
5. Redemption of real property stricken from tax rolls.
6. Conveyance by county treasurer, if real property sold be not redeemed.
7. Effect of conveyance.
8. Purchase money, when to be refunded by boards of supervisors.
9. County treasurer to transmit to comptroller list of lands to be sold; sale of lands owned by the state or upon which it has a lien.
10. Provisions relative to comptroller to apply to treasurer.
11. Expense of publishing notice to redeem.

§ 1. ASSESSMENT-ROLL TO BE RETURNED BY COLLECTOR TO COUNTY TREASURER; COUNTY TREASURER TO TRANSMIT ACCOUNTS, ETC., IF HIS COUNTY EMBRACES A PART OF THE FOREST PRESERVE.

The collector shall return the original assessment-roll to the county treasurer, and when the treasurer finds an account of unpaid taxes on real property or unpaid taxes on corporations, received from a collector to be a true transcript of such original assessment-roll to which the collector's warrant is attached with the descriptions furnished by the supervisor as provided in section eighty-nine, he shall add to it a certificate that he has examined and compared the account with such roll and found it to be correct, and after crediting the collector with the amount thereof, he shall, except in Saint Lawrence, Franklin, Lewis, Clinton, Warren, Washington and Oneida counties, in case his county embraces a portion of the forest preserve, before the first day of May next ensuing, transmit such account, affidavit and certificate to the comptroller who may, before acting thereon, return any such account to the county treasurer for correction, who shall make such correction and return to the comptroller in one month thereafter or as the comptroller may otherwise direct.[1] [Tax Law, § 100, as amended by L. 1913, chs. 377, 642, L. 1915, ch. 328, and L. 1918, ch. 159; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5903.]

§ 2. SALE OF LANDS BY COUNTY TREASURER FOR UNPAID TAXES IN COUNTIES EMBRACING NO PORTION OF THE FOREST PRESERVE.

Whenever any tax charged on real estate, in the counties of Saint Lawrence, Franklin, Lewis, Clinton, Warren, Washington and Oneida, or in a county not including a portion of the forest preserve, is returned to the county treasurer, he shall not return the same to the comptroller, but if such tax, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per centum per annum, computed from the first day of February, after the same is levied, shall remain unpaid for six months from that date, such county treasurer shall advertise and sell such real estate as herein provided for the payment of such tax and interest and the expenses of such sale. The expense of publication of the notice of sale and the list of lands to be sold and the expense of conducting the sale, and the expense of publication of the notice of unredeemed lands, if thereafter redeemed, shall be a charge on the land liable to be sold and shall be added to the tax and interest. The county treasurers of the counties of Rockland and Suffolk may defer the sale of any parcel of nonresident real estate in their respective counties for unpaid taxes, until the unpaid taxes thereon with accrued interest shall amount in the aggregate to the sum of two dollars.[1a] The county treasurer of Suffolk county on the order of the board of supervisors of said county may defer for not exceeding two years from the date of the levy of the tax, the sale for unpaid taxes of such properties subject thereto as such board may specify, and the unpaid taxes on such parcels shall meantime be charged with interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum. [Tax

1. Application of the provision requiring a certificate of the county treasurer to the effect that he has compared the account of unpaid taxes with the assessment roll and found it to be correct, relates only to proceedings to sell by the State Comptroller and has no application to a sale by the county treasurer. Smith v. Russell (1916), 172 App. Div. 793, 159 N. Y. Supp. 169.

1a. Delay in selling land for unpaid taxes. An unexplained delay of thirteen months by county treasurer in selling real estate for unpaid taxes is unreasonable; a delay of one month, cannot, however, be said to be unreasonable. The question as to what constitutes a reasonable time will be determined by the circumstances of each case. People ex rel. Carman v. Lewis, 102 App. Div. 408, 92 N. Y. Supp. 642.

§ 3. LIST OF PROPERTY TO BE SOLD AND NOTICE OF A SALE TO BE PUBLISHED; SALE.

The county treasurer shall immediately after the expiration of such six months cause to be published at least once in each week for six weeks, in two newspapers designated for the publication of the session laws, a list of real estate so liable to be sold, together with a notice that such real estate will, on a day at the expiration of said six weeks specified in such notice, and the succeeding days, be sold at public auction at the courthouse in the county where the same is situated, to discharge the taxes, interest and expenses that may be due thereon, at the time of such sale.[2] Such list shall contain the name of the owner or occupant of each piece of real estate to be sold, as the same appears upon the assessment-roll of the year in which unpaid taxes were assessed, a brief description of such real estate, and the total amount of such unpaid taxes for the year advertised, which said total amount shall include all taxes, interest, expenses and other charges against the property for the year advertised. The comptroller may prescribe the form and manner of preparing such list, which when so prescribed shall be followed so far as possible by the several counties of the state. No such list shall be published until the same shall have been submitted to and approved by the state comptroller. On the days mentioned in such notice the county treasurer shall begin the sale of said real estate and continue the same from day to day. The charges for publishing such notice shall be seventy-five cents per folio for the first insertion, and fifty cents per folio for each subsequent insertion. The counties of Saint Lawrence, Frankling, Lewis, Clinton, Warren, Washington and Oneida, and the counties of the state other than those in the forest preserve are empowered to acquire and hold such lands. Within twenty days after the time for redemption has expired the county treasurer of each of the counties of Saint Lawrence, Franklin, Lewis, Clinton, Warren, Washington and Oneida shall file with the comptroller a certified statement

Purchase of land at tax sale by county. Where land offered for sale at a tax sale is brought in by the county because of the failure of other parties to bid for it, the same payments are to be made by the county that would have been required of an individual; for instance, the county must pay a proportionate share of the expenses of sale, including the expense of publishing the notice of sale, and charge the same pro rata on the real property sold. Armstrong v. County of Nassau. 101 App. Div. 116, 91 N. Y. Supp. 867.

Collection of taxes in Suffolk county. Chapter 620 of the Laws of 1873, as amended by ch. 80 of Laws of 1875, which is a special statute governing the collection of taxes in Suffolk county, has not been specifically or impliedly repealed or superseded, and is still in force. Welstead v. Jennings, 104 App. Div. 179, 93 N. Y. Supp. 339, affd. 185 N. Y. 588.

2. Publication of notice. It is not required that the notice be in the body of the newspaper and not in the supplement, as in the case of sales by the comptroller (§ 120), and therefore it is not essential that the publication shall be in any particular part of the newspaper. Morton v. Horton, 189 N. Y. 398, revg. 101 App. Div. 322, 91 N. Y. Supp. 950.

In proceedings to sell lands of a non-resident for taxes, failure to return the tax to the county treasurer as unpaid constitutes a defect, as does also the inclusion of three lots in a single assessment. Howell v. Rowe (1914), 85 Misc. 560, 147 N. Y. Supp. 482.

of all tracts or parcels of land situated in the forest preserve which have been bid in by the county and have not been redeemed, and shall sell and convey to the state any tract or parcel of land specified in such statement which the comptroller shall designate within six months after such statement is filed, upon the payment of the taxes, interest and expenses due thereon at the time of the sale, and also all taxes assessed thereon since such sale, and the comptroller shall draw his warrant on the state treasurer for the amount thereof or credit the county with such amount on the books of his office. After the expiration of such six months, in the counties of Saint Lawrence, Franklin, Lewis, Clinton, Warren, Washington and Oneida, and after the time for redemption has expired in any other county, the county treasurer is authorized in the name of the board of supervisors of the county to sell and convey under his hand and seal such lands as have not been conveyed to the state in the manner and upon such terms as the board of supervisors of the county may direct. [Tax Law, § 151, as amended by L. 1913, chs. 377, 642, L. 1915, 328, and L. 1918, ch. 159; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5933.]

§ 3-a. NEW CERTIFICATE UPON SETTING ASIDE SALE.

If a purchaser shall not have paid his bid, or the same shall not have been collected from him at the expiration of one month from the conclusion of the sale at which the bid was made, the county treasurer may set aside the sale of land for which the bid is made and all rights of the purchaser under such bid shall thereby be extinguished. A certificate of such sale may thereupon be issued by the county treasurer to any person who will pay the same amount as would have been payable by the original purchaser if the sale had not been set aside. If such certificate shall not have been sold within three months from the date of such sale the county treasurer shall transfer the same to the county, in which case the whole quantity of land liable to sale for the purchase money mentioned in the certificate shall be covered by such purchase, the same as if no person had offered to bid therefor at the sale. The change of purchaser made pursuant to this section and the time when made shall be noted in the sales book, and the certificate issued shall confer upon the county the same rights as it would have acquired had the land been bid in for it at the sale. [Tax Law, § 151-a, as added by L. 1913, ch. 369.]

§ 4. OWNER MAY REDEEM WITHIN ONE YEAR.

The owner, occupant or any other peron having an interest in any real estate sold for taxes as aforesaid may redeem the same at any time within one year after the last day of such sale, by paying to the county treasurer of the county, for the use of the purchaser, the sum mentioned in his certificate, together with interest thereon at the rate of ten per centum per annum, to be computed from the date of such certificate, and any tax which the holder of said certificate shall have paid between the days of sale and redemption provided such purchaser shall have notified the county treasurer thereof immediately upon the payment of such tax together with the share of the expense of the publication of notices to redeem the real estate sold in such county for unpaid taxes, as apportioned by the county treasurer to the real estate so redeemed, which expense shall be in the first instance a county charge and shall be at the same rate as that provided for the publication of notices of tax sales. In case any parcel of real estate mentioned in such notice to redeem shall not be redeemed within the one year allowed by law for such redemption then and in that event the share of the expense of the publication of notices to redeem such unredeemed real estate sold in any such county for unpaid taxes, as apportioned by the county treasurer, together with interest thereon for one year at the rate of ten per centum per annum, shall be laid before the board of supervisors of such county for re-assessment as are other taxes and shall be by such board of supervisors re-assessed upon the assessment-roll of the current year against such real estate and shall be a lien thereon. [Tax Law, § 152, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 332; B. C. &. G. Cons. L., p. 5935.]

§ 5. REDEMPTION OF REAL PROPERTY STRICKEN FROM TAX ROLLS.

The real property struck down to a county at said tax sale and omitted from the tax rolls as provided in section fifty of this chapter shall not be subject to further sale after having been once so sold for taxes. The real property so omitted from the tax rolls may be redeemed by the owner, occupant or any person having an interest in the same, provided the county has not acquired a title in fee to such property, upon the payment to the county treasurer for the use and benefit of the county of a sum equal to the gross amount of the taxes, expenses of such sale, penalty and interest thereon, together with the tax and interest thereon which would have been due on said real property had it been taxed during each of the years it was omitted from the tax rolls. The said taxes for each of the years during which said real estate is so omitted from the tax rolls shall be computed on the basis of the assessed valuations returned on said real property by the assessors of the several tax districts and at the rate fixed by the board of supervisors as the tax rate for the tax district within which such real estate is situated. [Tax Law, § 153; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5935.]

§ 6. CONVEYANCE BY COUNTY TREASURER, IF REAL PROPERTY SOLD BE NOT REDEEMED.

If such real estate, or any portion thereof, be not redeemed as herein provided, the county treasurer shall execute to the purchaser a conveyance of the real estate sold, the description of which real estate shall include a specific statement of whose title or interest is hereby conveyed, so far as appears on the record, which conveyance shall vest in the grantee an absolute estate in fee, subject, however, to all claims the county or state may have thereon for taxes or liens or incumbrance. The county treasurer shall receive from the purchaser fifty cents for preparing such conveyance, and ten cents additional for each piece or parcel of land described therein, exceeding the first. All purchases made for the county shall be included in one conveyance, for which the county treasurer shall receive ten dollars. Every such conveyance shall be executed by the treasurer of the county, under his hand and seal, and may be recorded in the same manner and with like effect as a conveyance of real estate properly acknowledged or proven.[2a] The money

2a. Application. This section has no reference to tax deeds or certificates executed by the state comptroller under § 131 of the Tax Law. Sheldon v. Russell, 91 Misc. 278, 154 N. Y. Supp. 632.

The provisions of section 154 to the effect that if real real estate sold by a county treasurer is not redeemed the title of the purchaser shall become absolute and that the description of lands shall include a specific statement of whose title is conveyed "so far as appears from the record" related only to the record in the county treasurer's office, not to the county clerk's records. Smith v. Russell (1916), 172 App. Div. 793, 159 N. Y. Supp. 169.

received by the county treasurer on every such sale shall be applied by him, after deducting the expenses thereof, in like manner as if the same had been paid to him by the collectors of the several towns. [Tax Law, § 154; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5936.]

§ 7. EFFECT OF CONVEYANCE.

A purchaser or his legal representative may, upon receiving a conveyance under and by virtue thereof, possess and enjoy for his own use the real estate described in such conveyance, unless redeemed as herein provided, and after the expiration of the time to redeem the same, may cause the occupant of such real estate to be removed therefrom, and the possession to be delivered to him in the same manner and by the same proceedings, and before the same officers as in case of a tenant holding over after the expiration of his term without permission of his landlord.[3] [Tax Law, § 155; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5936.]

§ 8. PURCHASE MONEY, WHEN TO BE REFUNDED BY BOARDS OF SUPERVISORS.

Whenever any purchaser under such sale shall be unable to regain possession of the real estate purchased by him, or when the county treasurer shall have canceled any such sale, or when any such sale shall have been canceled by a judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, in either case by reason of an error or irregularity in the assessment or levying of a tax, or in proceedings for the collection thereof, the board of supervisors of the county shall refund the purchase money so paid, with interest upon the same being presented and audited as other county charges, and such money shall be charged to the tax district from which the tax was returned, and the same shall be levied and collected in the succeeding year and paid to the county treasurer.[4] [Tax Law, § 156, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 268; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5936.]

§ 9. COUNTY TREASURER TO TRANSMIT TO COMPTROLLER LIST OF LANDS TO BE SOLD; SALE OF LANDS OWNED BY STATE OR UPON WHICH IT HAS A LIEN.

The county treasurer of any county not embracing a portion of the forest preserve shall, at least two months prior to any tax sale to be held by him, transmit to the comptroller an accurate and complete list of all the lands in such county to be sold thereat. The state comptroller shall, at least two weeks prior to any such tax sale, transmit to such county treasurer a list of Limitation upon actions to vacate sale.—The Tax Law of 1896 repealed chapter 442 of the Laws of 1855 which prescribed a limitation upon actions to vacate a sale of land for unpaid taxes, also chapter 217 of the Laws of 1891 which extended the operation of said statute of 1885; but rights which had become vested and fixed by said statute before repeal remain unaffected thereby. Howell v. Rowe (1914), 85 Misc. 560, 147 N. Y. Supp. 482,

3. Title of purchaser. Where taxes are regularly assessed against parties in possession of land and claiming title thereto, and the right of possession, and the land is sold for non-payment of the taxes, the purchaser gets a good title as against those in possession and all claiming under them. Croner v. Cowdrey, 139 N. Y. 471, 54 N. Y. St. Rep. 728.

4. Assignment by county treasurer of certificate of sale. Where, prior to the expiration of the time to redeem from a tax sale property which has been bid in by the county, a person claiming an interest in the property, for the purpose of protecting such interest, pays the amount of the unpaid taxes and receives from the county treasurer an assignment of the certificate of sale, such assignee is entitled, under this section, if the assessment under which the sale was made proves to be void, to have refunded to him the money paid by him to the county treasurer. People ex rel. Stephens v. Supervisors, 104 App. Div. 176, 93 N. Y. Supp. 344.

all lands advertised to be sold at such tax sale, belonging to the state, or which shall then be mortgaged to the commissioners for loaning certain moneys of the United States, or against which the state holds a bond or lien, for any part of the purchase money thereof, or for which the state may then hold a tax sale certificate. The county treasurer conducting such sale shall bid in for the state all lands described in the list transmitted to him by the comptroller, and shall, at the close of such sale, transmit to the comptroller a verified and itemized statement showing the amount of each bid made in the name of the state thereat, and the state comptroller shall, within ten days after the receipt by him of such statement, draw his warrant on the state treasurer for the amount thereof or credit the county with the amount of such statement on the books of his office.[5] [Tax Law, § 157; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5937.]

§ 10. PROVISIONS RELATIVE TO COMPTROLLER TO APPLY TO TREASURER.

The provisions of article six of this chapter, entitled "sales by comptroller for unpaid taxes and redemption of lands" shall, in so far as it is not otherwise herein provided, govern and control the action of the county treasurer,[2] who shall perform the duties therein devolved upon the comptroller and the same rights and remedies shall be deemed to exist under the provisions of this article as are provided for in said article six. [Tax Law, § 158; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5937.]

§ 11. EXPENSES OF PUBLISHING NOTICE TO REDEEM.

Where a tax sale has been held by a county treasurer pursuant to this article, the expense of publishing the notice to redeem as required by section one hundred and thirty of this chapter shall be apportioned as equitably as may be between the several pieces or parcels included therein. The amount so apportioned to any parcel shall be paid to the county treasurer by the purchaser at the tax sale upon the execution of a conveyance to him. If a parcel of land is redeemed subsequent to the publication of the notice, the person redeeming shall pay to the county treasurer, in addition to the amount required by section one hundred and fifty-two, the expense

§ 1. DEFINITIONS.

The term "real property" as used in this article, in addition to the definition thereof contained in section two of this chapter, includes everything a conveyance or mortgage of which can be recorded as a conveyance or mortgage of real property under the laws of the state. The term "mortgage" as used in this article includes every mortgage or deed of trust which imposes a lien on or affects the title to real property, notwithstanding that such property may form a part of the security for the debt or debts secured thereby. Executory contracts for the sale of real property under which the vendee has or is entitled to possession shall be deemed to be mortgages for the purposes of this article and shall be taxable at the amount unpaid on such contracts. A contract or agreement by which the indebtedness secured by any mortgage is increased or added to, shall be deemed a mortgage of real property for the purpose of this article, and shall be taxable as such upon the amount of such increase or addition.[1] [Tax Law, § 250, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6017.]

§ 2. EXEMPTION FROM LOCAL TAXATION.

All mortgages of real property situated within the state which are taxed by this article and the debts and the obligations which they secure, together with the paper writings evidencing the same, shall be exempt from other taxation by the state, counties, cities, towns, villages, school districts and other local subdivisions of the state, except that such mortgage shall not be exempt from the taxes imposed by sections twenty-four to twenty-four-g, both inclusive, one hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and eighty-eight, one hundred and eighty-nine and

1. Mortgages executed before act of 1906. The repeal of the provisions of the act of 1905, ch. 729, which provided for an annual tax on mortgages by the provision of the act of 1906, ch. 532, providing for a recording tax on mortgages, leaves mortgages executed before the passage of the latter act open to taxation under §§ 2 and 3; the law of 1905 created no contract between the state and individuals, and taxation of such prior mortgages is not unconstitutional as impairing contracts. People ex rel. Cassavoy v. Dimond, 121 App. Div. 559, 106 N. Y. Supp. 277.

A lease for five years is real property within the meaning of this section, and does not lose its character after the expiration of two years of the term, People ex rel. Elias Brewing Co. v. Gass, 53 Misc. 363, 104 N. Y. Supp. 884, affd. 120 App. Div. 147, 104 N. Y. Supp. 185, affd. 190 N. Y. 565. A lease for three years is real property within the definition herein included. Atty. Genl. Opin. (1915) 4 State Dept. Rep. 524.

Effect of law on contracts of sale. A vendee under a contract to purchase lands cannot reject the title because a mortgage, though having one year to run, contained a provision that should the law for the taxation of mortgages be changed so as to increase the tax thereon, and the owner fail to pay, the mortgagee might declare the mortgage due on thirty days' notice. Frank v. Frank, 123 App. Div. 802, 108 N. Y. Supp. 549.

A contract of sale under which, before the execution of the deed, the vendee may come into possession, should be taxed as a mortgage on presentation for record, unless affidavit is made that the vendor is in possession. Rept. of Atty. Genl., March 22, 1912.

A trust deed may be a mortgage subject to a recording tax. Rept. of Atty. Genl., April 15, 1909. And an instrument granting and releasing real property in trust, which secures to the trustees a lien upon said real property for advances made by them, is taxable. Opinion of Atty. Genl., Jan. 8, 1913.

A conveyance of lands to trustees for the benefit of creditors of the grantor's deceased husband, made pursuant to an agreement whereby the trustees, endowed with a power of sale, were to pay the creditors of the deceased husband from the proceeds of the sale after deducting expenses, interest on mortgages, etc., the balance to be returned to the grantor, does not create a mortgage, there being no agreement article ten of this chapter.[2] [Tax Law, § 251, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323, and L. 1917, ch. 485; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6018.]

§ 3. EXEMPTIONS.

No mortgage of real property situated within this state shall be exempt, and no person or corporation owning any debt or obligation secured by mortgage of real property situated within this state shall be exempt from the taxes imposed by this article by reason of anything contained in any statute, or by reason of any provision in any private act or charter which is subject to amendment or repeal by the legislature, or by reason of non-residence within this state or for any other cause.[3] [Tax Law, § 252; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6018.]

§ 4. RECORDING TAX.

A tax of fifty cents for each one hundred dollars and each remaining major fraction thereof of principal debt or obligation which is, or under for a reconveyance to the grantor, or for a defeasance. Hence, such agreement is entitled to record without payment of the mortgage recording tax. Dryer v. Hopper (1914), 162 App. Div. 590, 147 N. Y. Supp. 1028.

Payment of tax. It was the intent of the legislature to permit the parties to agree as to who should pay the tax. Seaman's Bank v. Fell, 162 App. Div. 223, 147 N. Y. Supp. 465.

2. Exemption may be claimed at any time before the assessors complete their assessment. Matter of Pullman, 52 Misc. 1, 102 N. Y. Supp. 356.

The re-examination of an assessment, made by a town board of assessors may be had on certiorari only where the prior examination before the board involved a dispute and a doubt, and not where such examination was entirely conclusive permitting the assessors but one course of action. People ex rel. Glen Telephone Co. v. Hall, 57 Misc. 308, 109 N. Y. Supp. 402.

3. Effect on special exemptions. Where a charitable education institution is exempted by its charter from paying the recording tax provided for by this section, such exemption, so far as mortgages belonging to it are concerned, must be deemed to have been repealed by this section. People ex rel. Cooper Union v. Gass, 190 N. Y. 323, revg. 119 App. Div. 280, 104 N. Y. Supp. 643.

The exemption clause goes only to the extent to which the mortgage in question is taxable and has been taxed. Hence, the owner of a bond of a foreign corporation, secured by real estate, the greater part of which is situated in this state, is entitled to an exemption only to the extent to which such property has been taxed by recording the mortgage in other counties of the state, where a portion of the real property is situated. People ex rel. Braeburn Assn. v. Hanking, 154 App. Div. 679.

Mortgages refunding prior mortgages and wiping them out of existence, are not entitled to any exemption from the recording tax imposed by this section, as they are not additional or supplemental mortgages within the meaning of section 255. Atty. Genl. Opin., 6 State Dep. Rep. 445 (1915).

any contingency may be secured at the date of the execution thereof or at any time thereafter by a mortgage on real property situated within the state recorded on or after the first day of July, nineteen hundred and six, is hereby imposed on each such mortgage, and shall be collected and paid as provided in this article. If the principal debt or obligation which is or by any contingency may be secured by such mortgage recorded on or after the first day of July, nineteen hundred and seven, is less than one hundred dollars, a tax of fifty cents is hereby imposed on such mortgage, and shall be collected and paid as provided in this article. [Tax Law, § 253, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6018.]

§ 5. OPTIONAL TAX ON PRIOR MORTGAGES.

Whenever any mortgage other than a mortgage specified in section two hundred and sixty-four has been recorded prior to July first, nineteen hundred and six, the record owner thereof may file with the recording officer of the county in which the real property, or any part thereof, on which said mortgage is a lien, is situated, a written statement under oath verified by the record owner or the agent or officer of such record owner describing such mortgage by giving the date of the same and the liber and page of the record thereof together with the names of the parties thereto, specifying the amount then remaining unpaid on the debt or obligation secured thereby, and electing that it shall become subject to the tax prescribed by section two hundred and fifty-three of this chapter. Whenever any unrecorded mortgage has been executed and delivered prior to July first, nineteen hundred and six, the owner thereof may record the same upon filing with the recording officer a similar statement and paying the tax as herein prescribed. A tax shall thereupon be computed, levied and collected upon the amount of the principal debt or obligation unpaid at the time of the filing of such statement, or of the recording of such mortgage and filing of such statement. On the payment of such tax as herein provided, the recording officer shall note on the margin of the record of such mortgage the fact of such statement and of the amount of the tax paid, attested by his signature, whereupon such mortgage and the debt or obligation secured thereby shall be entitled to the exemptions and immunities conferred by this article, and all of the provisions of this article shall thereafter be applicable to said mortgage. Whenever the original mortgage is presented to the clerk together with the statement he shall also note on said original mortgage the fact of the filing of the said statement and also the amount of the tax paid duly attested by his signature, which endorsement shall be conclusive evidence of the payment of such tax. [Tax Law, § 254; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6019.]

§ 6. SUPPLEMENTAL MORTGAGES.

If subsequent to the recording of a mortgage on which all taxes, if any, accrued under this article have been paid, a supplemental instrument or mortgage is recorded for the purpose of correcting or perfecting any recorded mortgage, or pursuant to some provision or covenant therein, or an additional mortgage is recorded imposing the lien thereof upon property not originally covered by or not described in such recorded primary mortgage for the purpose of securing the principal indebtedness which is or under any contingency may be secured by such recorded primary mortgage, such additional instrument or mortgage shall not be subject to taxation under this article, unless it creates or secures a new or further indebtedness or obligation other than the principal indebtedness or obligation secured by or which under any contingency may be secured by the recorded primary mortgage, in which case, a tax is imposed as provided by section two hundred and fifty-three of this chapter on such new or further indebtedness or obligation, and shall be paid to the proper recording officer at the time such instrument or additional mortgage is recorded. If at the time of recording such instrument, or additional mortgage any exemption is claimed under this section, there shall be filed with the recording officer and preserved in his office a statement under oath of the facts on which such claim for exemption is based. The determination of the recording officer upon the question of exemption shall be reviewable by the tax commission.[3a] [Tax Law, § 255, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6019.]

3a. Recording of lease after contract therefor.— Where a contract for a lease is assigned to secure an indebtedness and on its recording is taxed as a mortgage, no further tax accrues or is due upon the lease itself when it is delivered and recorded. Report of Atty. Genl., March 22, 1912.

Claim of exemption.—In order that a supplemental mortgage be exempt from the payment of a mortgage tax upon recording a statement under oath of the facts on which a claim for exemption is based must be filed with the recording officer at the time of recording such mortgage in accordance with the provisions of this section. Opinion of Atty. Genl., June 17, 1914.

§ 7. MORTGAGES FOR INDEFINITE AMOUNTS OR FOR CONTRACT OBLIGATIONS.

If the principal indebtedness secured or which by any contingency may be secured by a mortgage is not determinable from the terms of the mortgage, or if a mortgage is given to secure the performance by the mortgagor or any other person of a contract obligation other than the payment of a specific sum of money and the maximum amount secured or which by any contingency may be secured by the mortgage is not expressed therein, such mortgage shall be taxable under section two hundred and fifty-three of this chapter upon the value of the property covered by the mortgage, which shall be determined by the recording officer to whom such mortgage is presented for record, unless at the time of presenting such mortgage for record the owner thereof shall file with the recording officer a sworn statement of the maximum amount secured or which under any contingency may be secured by the mortgage. If such maximum amount is expressed in the mortgage or in a sworn statement filed as required by this section, such amount shall be the basis for assessing the tax imposed by this article. A statement filed by the owner of a mortgage pursuant to this section shall thereafter at all times be binding upon and conclusive against such owner, the holders of any bonds or obligations secured by such mortgage and all persons claiming through the mortgagee any interest in the mortgage or the mortgaged premises. If the maximum amount secured or which by any contingency may be secured by the mortgage is not expressed in the mortgage or in a sworn statement as authorized by this section, the recording officer at the time such mortgage is offered for record may require the mortgagor or mortgagee to furnish him with proofs as to such facts as he deems necessary for the purpose of computing the value of the property covered by the mortgage and such proofs shall include an affidavit of appraisal of the value of the property made by at least two competent, disinterested persons and shall be preserved in his office. His determination and copies of the proofs as to the basis for computing the tax on such mortgage shall be forwarded to and subject to review by the state tax commission. Such mortgage shall not be recorded until the statement is filed or the proofs are furnished as required by this article. [Tax Law, § 256, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 665, and L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6020.]

§ 8. PAYMENT OF TAXES.

The taxes imposed by this article shall be payable on the recording of each mortgage of real property subject to taxes thereunder. Such taxes shall be paid to the recording officer of any county in which the real property or any part thereof is situated. It shall be the duty of such recording officer to indorse upon each mortgage a receipt for the amount of the tax so paid. Any mortgage so indorsed may thereupon or thereafter be recorded by any recording officer and the receipt for such tax indorsed upon each mortgage shall be recorded therewith. The record of such receipt shall be conclusive proof that the amount of tax stated therein has been paid upon such mortgage.[4] [Tax Law, § 257; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6021.]

§ 9. EFFECT OF NON-PAYMENT OF TAXES.

No mortgage of real property shall be recorded by any county clerk or register, unless there shall be paid the tax imposed by and as in this article provided. No mortgage of real property which is subject to the taxes imposed by this article shall be released, discharged of record or received in evidence in any action or proceeding, nor shall any assignment of or agreement extending any such mortgage be recorded unless the taxes imposed thereon by this article shall have been paid as provided in this article. No judgment or final order in any action or proceeding shall be made for the foreclosure or the enforcement of any mortgage which is subject to the tax imposed by this article or of any debt or obligation secured by any such mortgage, unless the taxes imposed by this article shall have been paid as provided in this article; and whenever it shall appear that any mortgage has been recorded or that any advance has been made on a prior advance mortgage or on a corporate trust mortgage without payment of the tax imposed by this article there shall be paid in addition to the amount of the tax a sum equal to one per centum thereof for each month the tax remains unpaid, which sum shall be added to the tax and paid or collected therewith. [Tax Law, § 258, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 665, and L. 1916, ch. 323; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6021.]

4. A lease of real property is a chattel real and creates an interest in real property, and a mortgage thereon comes within the recording act and may not be recorded without payment of the recording tax. People ex rel. Elias Brewing Co. v. Gass, 120 App. Div. 147, 104 N. Y. Supp. 885, affd. 190 N. Y. 565.

§ 10. TRUST MORTGAGES.

In the case of mortgages made by corporations in trust to secure payment of bonds or obligations issued or to be issued thereafter, if the total amount of principal indebtedness which under any contingency may be advanced or accrue or which may become secured by any such mortgage which is subject to this article has not been advanced or accrued thereon or become secured thereby before such mortgage is recorded, it may contain at the end thereof a statement of the amount which at the time of the execution and delivery thereof has been advanced or accrued thereon, or which is then secured by such mortgage; thereupon the tax payable on the recording of the mortgage shall be computed on the basis of the amount so stated to have been so advanced or accrued thereon or which is stated to be secured thereby. Such statement shall thereafter at all times be binding upon and conclusive against the mortgagee, the holders of any bonds or obligations secured by such mortgage and all persons claiming through the mortgagee any interest in the mortgage or in the mortgaged premises. Whenever a further amount is to be advanced under the original mortgage, or shall accrue thereon or become secured thereby, the corporation making such mortgage shall pay the tax on such amount at or before the time when such amount is to be advanced, accrues or becomes secured and shall, at the time of paying such tax, file in the office of the recording officer where such mortgage has been or is first recorded and with the tax commission a statement, verified by the secretary, treasurer or other proper officer, of said corporation of the amount of principal indebtedness to be so advanced, accruing or becoming secured, and the certification of any bond or bonds by the trust mortgagee shall be deemed an advance under this article. Such additional tax shall be paid to the recording officer where such mortgage has been or is first recorded and a receipt therefor shall be indorsed upon the mortgage and payment therefor shall be noted in the margin of the record of such mortgage and if requested a duplicate receipt for such payment shall also be given to the party paying such tax and the note of such payment or additional payment or such receipt shall have the same force and effect as the record of receipt of the tax which under this article is payable at or before the recording of the mortgage. If such additional tax is not paid as required by this section, the trust mortgagee shall not certify any bond or other obligation issued on account thereof. The corporation making such mortgage or the owner of the property which secures the mortgage debt shall annually within thirty days after July first, and until it shall appear by such statement that the maximum amount of principal indebtedness secured by such mortgage has been advanced, has accrued or become secured and the tax thereon paid, file in the office of the tax commission and the recording officer where such mortgage has been or is first recorded a statement, verified by the secretary, treasurer or other proper officer of said corporation showing:

1. The name of the mortgagor and the mortgagee;

2. The date of the mortgage and the county where first recorded;

3. The maximum amount of principal debt or obligation which under any contingency may be secured by such mortgage;

4. The amount advanced on such mortgage during the year ending June thirtieth preceding, with the date and amount of each advancement;

5. In the case of a mortgage recorded prior to July first, nineteen hundred and six, the first annual statement filed under this section as hereby amended, shall state the total amount advanced prior to July first, nineteen hundred and six, and the date and the amount of each subsequent advancement to the end of the period covered by the statement.

A failure to file any statement required by this section within the specified time shall subject the corporation or other person required to file such statement to a penalty of not less than one dollar nor more than one hundred dollars for each one thousand dollars of the maximum amount of principal indebtedness which is or under any contingency may become secured by the mortgage, which penalty in the aggregate shall not exceed the sum of five thousand dollars, recoverable by the attorney-general in an action brought in the name of the people of the state of New York. [Tax Law, § 259, as amended by L. 1909, ch. 412, L. 1913, ch. 665, L. 1916, ch. 323, and L. 1917, ch. 573; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6021.]

§ 11. DETERMINATION AND APPORTIONMENT BY STATE TAX COMMISSION.

When the real property covered by a mortgage is situated in more than one tax district, the state tax commission shall deduct from the relative assessments of such real property in the respective tax districts covered by such mortgage any prior existing mortgage liens and shall then apportion the tax paid on such mortgage between the respective tax districts upon the basis of the relative assessments of such real property as the same appear on the last assessment-rolls less the deduction, if any. If, however, the whole or any part of the property covered by such a mortgage is not assessed upon the last assessment-roll or rolls of the tax district or districts in which it is situated, or is so assessed, as a part of a larger tract, that the assessed value cannot be determined, or if improvements have been made to such an extent as materially to change the value of the property so assessed, the tax commission may require the local assessors in the respective tax districts, or the mortgagor, or mortgagee, to furnish sworn appraisals of the property in each tax district, and upon such appraisals shall determine the apportionment. If such mortgage covers real property in two or more counties, the tax commission shall determine the proportion of the tax which shall be paid by the recording officer who has received the same to the recording officers of the other counties in which are situated the tax districts entitled to share therein. When any recording officer shall pay any portion of a tax to the recording officer of another county, he shall forward with such tax a description sufficient to identify the mortgage on which the tax has been paid, and the recording officer receiving such tax shall note on the margin of the record of such mortgage the fact of such payment, attested by his signature. The tax commission shall make an order of determination and apportionment in respect to each such mortgage and file a certified copy thereof with the recording officer of each county in which a part of the mortgaged real property is situated.

When the real property covered by a mortgage is partly within the state and partly without the state it shall be the duty of the tax commission to determine what portion of the mortgage or of advancements thereon shall be taxable under this article.[5] Such determination shall be made in the following manner: First: Determine the respective values of the property within and without the state, and deduct therefrom the amount of any prior existing mortgage liens, excepting such liens as are to be replaced by prior advancements and the advancement under consideration. Second: Find the ratio that the net value of the mortgaged property within the state bears to the net value of the entire mortgaged property. Third: Make the determination of the portion of the mortgage or of the advancement thereon which shall be taxable under this article by applying the ratio so found. If a mortgage covering property partly within and partly without the state is presented for record before such determination has been made, or at the time when an advance is made on a corporate trust mortgage or on a prior advance mortgage, there may be presented to the recording officer a statement in duplicate verified by the mortgagor or an officer or duly authorized agent of the mortgagor, in which shall be specified the net value of the property within the state and the net value of the property without the state covered by such mortgage. One of such statements shall be filed by the recording officer and the other shall be forthwith transmitted by him to the state tax commission. The tax payable under this article before the determination by the tax commission shall be computed upon such portion of the principal indebtedness secured by the mortgage, or of the sum advanced thereon, as the net value of the mortgaged property within the state bears to the net value of the entire mortgaged property as set forth in such statement. The tax commission shall on receipt of the statement from the recording officer and on not less than ten days' notice served personally or by mail upon the mortgagor, the mortgagee and the state comptroller, proceed to make the required determination. In determining the separate values of the property within and without the state the tax commission shall consider only the tangible property, real and personal, except that leases of real property shall be deemed tangible property. For the purpose of determining such value the tax commission may require the mortgagor or mortgagee to furnish by affidavit or verified report such information or data as it may deem necessary, and may require and take the testimony of the mortgagor, mortgagee or any other person. A certified copy of the order of determination and apportionment shall be delivered personally or by mail to the mortgagor, the mortgagee and the state comptroller, and any tax under such determination which has not been paid shall be paid within ten days after service of such certified copy; if, however, the tax paid at the time of filing the statement hereinbefore specified with the recording officer is in excess of the tax determined to be payable, the certificate of determination and apportionment shall direct the recording officer to refund to the person paying such tax the amount of such excess; provided that no refund shall be made of any taxes paid pursuant to a previous determination.

5. Mortgage covering real property in this state and real and personal property in foreign state; method of assessing tax.—Where a trust mortgage, covering lands in this state together with lands in a foreign state and also personal property of large value in the foreign state, is offered for record in this state as required by the statute, the amount of the mortgage tax to be paid in this state should not be determined upon the ratio between the value of the real property in this state and the real property in the foreign state, excluding the value of the foreign personal property covered by the mortgage. On the contrary, it should be determined by the ratio between the value of the real property in this state and the value of the real and personal property, taken together, situated in the foreign state. The fact that the statute states that in assessing such tax the commissioner shall consider only the value of "tangible" property covered by the mortgage does not mean that the value of personal property covered is to be excluded. People ex rel. C. & B. Transit Co. v. Byrnes (1914), 162 App. Div. 223, 147 N. Y. Supp. 465.

The tax commission shall adopt rules to govern the procedure and the manner of taking evidence in all the matters provided for by this section and may require verified statements to be furnished either by boards of assessors, recording officers or other persons having knowledge in relation to such matters. Failure on the part of any person or officer to furnish a statement or other data when required so to do pursuant to the provisions of this section shall render such person or officer liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be recovered by the attorney-general in an action brought in the name of the people of the state of New York.

In making determination and apportionment under this section the tax commission shall consider each advancement made upon a mortgage after July first, nineteen hundred and six, as a new mortgage. In all cases under this section in which it shall appear that the prior incumbrances exceed the assessed or appraised value of the property in one or more tax districts the commission may, by a process of equalization or otherwise, establish a basis of apportionment that will be equitable and fair. [Tax Law,

§ 12. PAYMENT OVER AND DISTRIBUTION OF TAXES.

Upon the first day of each month the recording officer of each county shall pay over to the county treasurer all moneys received during the preceding month upon account of taxes paid to him as herein prescribed, after deducting the necessary expenses of his office as provided in section two hundred and sixty-two, except taxes paid upon mortgages which under the provisions of section two hundred and sixty are to be apportioned by the tax commission between several counties, which taxes and money shall be paid over by him as provided by the determination of said tax commission within five days after the filing of said determination in his office. The county treasurer of each county shall on the first day of January, April, July and October in each year, after having deducted the necessary expenses of his office provided in two hundred and sixty-two, transmit one-half of this net amount collected under the provisions of this article to the state treasurer and shall receive from the state treasurer a receipt therefor countersigned by the comptroller. The remaining portions thereof in the counties of New York, Kings, Queens, Richmond and Bronx shall be paid into the general fund of the city of New York and be applied to the reduction of taxation, and in the other counties of the state the remaining portion shall be held by the respective county treasurers subject to the order of the board of supervisors as hereinafter provided. Prior to the first day of November in each year the recording officer shall cause to be prepared a statement containing a description of all mortgages upon which taxes have been paid by a reference to the date of each mortgage, the name of the mortgagor and mortgagee, the amount of the principal debt upon which the tax was paid together with the book and page where said mortgage is recorded, together with the tax district in which the mortgaged property is situated, and if situated in two or more tax districts the amount apportioned to each tax district by the tax commission, and the amount deducted for his necessary expenses as approved by the tax commission and shall file the statement with the clerk of the board of supervisors, and a copy thereof with the tax commission. The boards of supervisors of the several counties shall, on or before the fifteenth day of December in each year, ascertain from the statement filed with their clerk by the recording officer the location of the mortgaged property with respect to the several tax districts and the amount of tax properly to be credited to each tax district, which shall be applicable to the payment of state, county and city, or town expenses; except that where a town contains within its limits an incorporated village, or portion thereof, the supervisor shall apportion to the village or villages so much of the share credited to the said town as the assessed value of said village or portion thereof bears to twice the total assessed valuation of the town, and the remaining balance shall be applicable to the payment of state, county and town taxes. The board of supervisors of each county, on or before the fifteenth day of December each year, shall determine the respective sums applicable hereunder to each of the foregoing purposes and shall issue their warrant for the payment to the city treasurer or town supervisor, of the amount payable to the said city or town, and their warrant for the payment to the village treasurer of the sum of money to which the village shall be entitled, which sum shall be credited to the general fund of the village. § 13. EXPENSES OF OFFICERS.

Recording officers and county treasurers shall severally be entitled to receive all their necessary expenses for the purposes of this article, including printing, hire of clerks and assistants, being first approved and allowed by the tax commission, which shall be retained by them out of the moneys coming into their hands.[6] [Tax Law, § 262, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 323; B. § 14. SUPERVISORY POWER OF TAX COMMISSION AND COMPTROLLER.

The tax commission shall have general supervisory power over all recording officers in respect of the duties imposed by this article and they may make such rules and regulations for the government of recording officers in respect to the matters provided for in this article as they may deem proper, provided that such rules and regulations shall not be inconsistent with this or any other statute. Whenever a duly verified application for a refund of mortgage taxes, erroneously collected by a recording officer, is made to the tax commission it shall be the duty of such commission to determine the amount that has been erroneously collected and make an order directing such recording officer to refund the amount so determined from mortgage tax moneys in his hands, or which shall come to his hands, to the party entitled to receive it and charge such amount back to the tax district that may have been credited with the same. If any recording officer shall have collected and paid over to the treasurer of any county, a tax paid upon a mortgage which under the provisions of section two hundred and sixty of this chapter is to be apportioned by the tax commission between several counties before such apportionment has been made, or if any recording officer shall have paid over to such treasurer more money than required on account of mortgage taxes such recording officer shall make a report to the tax commission in the form of a verified statement of facts and said commission shall determine the method of adjustment and issue its order accordingly. The comptroller shall have general supervisory power over all county treasurers in respect to the duties imposed upon them by this article, and may make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with this or any other statute, for the government of said county treasurer record, are limited in their scope by this section to the "necessary expenses for the purposes" of the article of which it forms a part. The word "necessary" may express something indispensable, or it may be construed as reasonable, useful and proper, dependable upon the character of its application. When used with reference to the public, it should be construed strictly for the benefit of the public. People ex rel. Frost v. Woodbury (1914), 213 N. Y. 51.

Employment of counsel.—In the absence of specific authority, the funds received by the recording officer cannot be ordered by the court to be paid for any purpose, except by express authority of the legislature. Construction should not be given to this statute which would admit of the employment of counsel by a recording officer, and thus empower him to create a liability for payment therefor against the state and county, and the funds owned by them respectively. as he deems proper to secure a due accounting for all taxes and moneys collected or received pursuant to any provision of this article. All recording officers and county treasurers shall furnish such bond, conditioned for the faithful and diligent discharge of the duties required of them respectively by this article, to the people of the state, within such time, with such sureties and in such penal amount, not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars, as the comptroller may prescribe. The provisions of this section shall cover all transactions subsequent to July first, nineteen hundred and five. [Tax Law, § 263, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 398, L. 1915, ch. 447, and L. 1916, ch. 336; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6027.]

§ 15. TAX ON PRIOR ADVANCE MORTGAGES.

Whenever any part of the amount of the principal indebtedness which is or under any contingency may be secured by a mortgage recorded prior to July first, nineteen hundred and six, is advanced after July first, nineteen hundred and six, the tax prescribed by section two hundred and fifty-three of this article is hereby imposed on the amount of principal indebtedness so advanced, which tax shall be payable at the same time and in the same manner as taxes imposed by section two hundred and fifty-nine of this article, and all the provisions of section two hundred and fifty-nine in relation to the time and manner of paying such tax, the filing of statements in relation to the time and amount of such advances, and penalties for failure to file the same shall apply to advances made under this section and the payment of a tax thereon, except that if the mortgagor is not a corporation, such statement shall be filed by the owner of the mortgage, who, for failure to do so, shall be subject to the penalties prescribed by such section. In case said mortgage was given to secure the payment of a series of bonds, the mortgagor may, at the time of paying such tax, present to the recording officer, the bonds representing the portion of the principal indebtedness secured by said mortgage upon which the tax is to be paid, and also filed with said recording officer a statement verified by the mortgagor or an officer or duly authorized agent or attorney of the mortgagor specifying that said bonds, so presented, are the bonds representing that portion of the principal indebtedness secured by said mortgage upon which the tax is to be paid and that said bonds are secured by a mortgage recorded in said office stating the date of said mortgage and the liber and page of the record of the same. It shall be the duty of such recording officer to indorse upon each of said bonds, so presented to him, a statement signed by him to the effect that the tax imposed by this article on that portion of the principal indebtedness secured by said mortgage represented by said bonds has been paid, and said statement shall be conclusive proof of such payment. Notwithstanding the exception contained in section two hundred and fifty-four, the record owner of any mortgage recorded prior to July first, nineteen hundred and six, other than a corporate trust mortgage, may file in the office of the recording officer where such mortgage is first recorded a statement in form and substance as required by section two hundred and fifty-four of this article, except that it shall specify and state the amount of all advancements made thereon prior to said date, giving the date and amount of each advancement and the amount of such prior advancements remaining unpaid, and thereby elect that the same be taxed under this article; and any mortgagor or mortgagee under a corporate trust mortgage given to secure a series of bonds or the owner of any such bond or bonds secured thereby may file in the office of the recording officer where such mortgage is first recorded a statement in form and substance as required by section two hundred and fifty-four of this article, except that it shall specify the serial number, the date and amount of each bond and otherwise sufficiently describe the same to identify it as being secured by such mortgage, and thereby elect that such bond or bonds be taxed under this article, and such bond or bonds shall be taxed upon the whole amount thereof notwithstanding the provisions of section two hundred and sixty of this article. A tax shall thereupon, in the case of mortgages other than corporate trust mortgages, be computed, levied and collected upon the amount of the principal debt or obligation represented by said unpaid prior advancements at the time of filing such statement, or, in the case of a corporate trust mortgage, upon the amount of the bond or bonds specified in the statement filed, at the rate prescribed by section two hundred and fifty-three of this article. Said bonds representing prior advancements under corporate trust mortgages and taxed as herein provided may be presented to the recording officer, whose duty it is to collect said tax, for indorsement and he shall thereupon indorse upon each of said bonds a statement, attested by his signature, of the payment of the tax as provided in this section in respect to bonds representing subsequent advancements, and the record owner of any other mortgage taxed upon prior advancements as herein provided may present said mortgage to the recording officer and thereupon such officer shall note upon the same the filing of the statement and the amount of the tax paid, attested by his signature. In all such cases the recording officer shall note on the margin of the record of such mortgage the filing of such statement and the amount of the tax paid, and, in case of bonds secured by corporate trust mortgages, the serial number of each such bond. The words "bond" and "bonds" as used in this section shall be deemed to embrace all notes or other evidences of indebtedness secured by mortgages taxable under this section. In case of any mortgage taxable under this section, the portion of the indebtedness secured thereby upon which the tax imposed by this section is paid, and such portion only, shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of section two hundred and fifty-one of this article. Whenever the tax imposed by section two hundred and sixty-four of this article as said section existed prior to May thirteenth, nineteen hundred and seven, has been paid with respect to any mortgage, no additional tax shall accrue on such mortgage under this section as hereby enacted and such mortgage and the debt or obligation secured thereby, shall continue to be entitled to the exemptions and immunities conferred by this article and all of the provisions of this article shall remain applicable to such mortgage.

All taxes imposed by or which became due, payable or collectible on or before the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred and six, pursuant to chapter seven hundred and twenty-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and five, and all taxes which under section two hundred and fifty-eight of this chapter became due and payable on the thirtieth day of July, nineteen hunded and six, and all other taxes, if any, which were imposed by chapter seven hundred and twenty-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and five on any mortgage recorded prior to the first day of July, nineteen hundred and six, in respect to any period ending on or before the first day of July, nineteen hundred and six, shall be imposed, become due, be payable and collectible and shall be paid over and distributed in the same manner, and with the same force and effect as if this article had not been enacted; and for the purpose of collecting, paying over, distributing and enforcing any such taxes, chapter seven hundred and twenty-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and five shall be deemed to be in force, and the lien for such taxes shall attach and such taxes shall be levied and collected as provided in chapter seven hundred and twenty-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and five, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding. [Tax Law, § 264, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 601, and L. 1916, ch. 337; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6027.]

DIVISION FENCES; STRAYED ANIMALS; DOGS.

CHAPTER XLI.

DIVISION FENCES; DUTIES OF FENCE VIEWERS.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Controversies as to Division Fences.

All controversies arising in a town relative to the erection and maintenance of division fences are to be settled by the assessors and superintendent of highways acting as fence viewers. The powers and duties of such fence viewers in respect to such controversies are prescribed by the several sections of the Town Law included in this chapter.

Maintenance of Division Fences.

Division fences between adjoining tracts of land owned by different owners are to be erected and maintained by such owners, on an equitable and just basis. This does not necessarily mean that each owner must erect and maintain an equal portion of the fence. The conditions may be such as to make it "equitable and just" for one owner to maintain more than one-half of the fence. Either one of the owners may choose to let his lands lie open. In such case he can have no remedy for damages incurred from the animals of his neighbor coming upon his lands.

Proceedings to Settle Disputes.

If any dispute arises as to the portion of the fence to be erected by each owner, it shall be settled by any two of the fence-viewers, one to be selected by each owner. All parties interested are to be notified of the proceedings. If the two fence-viewers cannot agree, they shall select a third. The decision must be in writing, describe the fence to be erected, and state the proportion to be maintained by each; such decision must be filed in the office of the town clerk.

Witnesses may be subpœnaed, and examined. Each fence-viewer is entitled to compensation at the rate of one dollar and a half per day.

Damages for Failure to Maintain Division Fence.

If any person liable to contribute to the erection and maintenance of a fence shall permit the same to be out of repair, he shall be liable to pay the party injured all damages which shall thereby accrue. The amount of the damages is to be ascertained by the fence-viewers in much the same manner, as the portion of the fence to be erected by each owner, is to be ascertained.

Regulations as to Division Fences.

Electors of a town at a biennial town meeting may make rules for ascertaining the sufficiency of all fences in the town. Where such rules are adopted any person who shall neglect to keep a fence as therein directed cannot recover for damages incurred by animals coming upon his lands from adjoining lands.

SECTION 1. Who are fence viewers.
2. Division fences to be maintained by owners; lands bordering on navigable lakes and rivers.
3. When lands may lie open; owner may, upon notice, enclose lands lying open.
4. Division fences on change of title; duties of fence viewers in case of disagreement.
5. Settlement of disputes between owners; proceedings of fence viewers; decision.
6. Subpœna and examination of witnesses by fence viewers; fees and compensation of fence viewers.
7. Damages for failure to erect or repair division fence, to be ascertained by fence viewers; appraisal of damages; one owner may erect or repair fence at expense of other.
8. Division fence destroyed by accident; notice to rebuild; Effect of failure to rebuild.
9. Damages done by animals where fence is not maintained as provided by town rules and regulations.
10. Damages when person fails to build or repair fence; appraisal by fence viewers.
11. Use of barbed or other wire in the construction of division fences; fence viewers to prescribe kind of wire and how to be built.

Town Law, §§ 121, 360.

§ 1. WHO ARE FENCE VIEWERS.

The assessors and town superintendent of highways elected in every town shall, by virtue of their offices, be fence viewers of their town.[1] [Town Law, § 121, as amended by L. 1909, ch. 491; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6179.]

§ 2. DIVISION FENCES TO BE MAINTAINED BY OWNERS; LANDS BORDERING ON NAVIGABLE LAKES AND RIVERS.

Each owner of two adjoining tracts of land, except when they otherwise agree, shall make and maintain a just and equitable portion of the division fence between such lands, unless both of said adjoining owners shall agree to let their said lands lie open, along the division line, to the use of all animals which may be lawfully upon the lands of either.[2] When the adjoining lands shall border

1. Assessors and superintendents of highways of the several towns in the state are authorized to act as fence viewers only by force of the statute. Such officers of a city have no such powers. Armbuster v. Wilson 43 Hun 261.

2. Maintenance of division fences. At common law, adjoining owners were not bound as between each other, to maintain division fences unless the right to compel their maintenance had been acquired by prescription or agreement. But under this statute each owner of two adjoining tracts of land are required to build and maintain a just and equal proportion of the division fence. Roney v. Aldrich, 44 Hun, 320. The statute applies as well where lands have been partially fenced as where the owner has elected to let his land lie altogether open. Chryslar v. Westfall, 41 Barb. 159.

Kind of fence. The law touching division fences does not prescribe the kind of fence that shall be made. Ferris v. Van Buskirk, 18 Barb, 397, 400.

For whose benefit fence to be maintained. The statute was only enacted for the benefit of the owners or occupants of adjacent lands. Crandall v. Eldridge, 46 Hun, 411. But one occupying land as a tenant at will or at sufferance, is entitled to the benefit of the statute, and may maintain an action for the expense of repairing the portion of the adjoining owner. The statute is for the benefit of occupants without respect to the particular estate enjoyed. Bronk v. Brecker, 17 Wend. 320.

A " just and equitable portion " of the division fence, as used in the statute does not necessarily mean an equal portion of the fence, but a portion just and equal with reference to the cost of its construction and maintenance. People ex rel. Foote v. Dewey, 1 Hun, 259; 3 T. & C. 638.

2. Lands lying open. Owner must notify fence viewers that he elects to let his lands lie open before he can escape liability for maintenance of his portion of the fence. Perkins v. Perkins, 44 Barb. 134.

Liability for damages. Where the cattle of one of two adjoining proprietors are found trespassing upon the land of the other, the owner of the cattle, to upon any of the navigable lakes, streams or rivers of the state, the owners of the lands shall make and maintain the division fence between them down to the line of low water mark, in such lakes, streams or rivers, except those lands which overflow annually so as to be so submerged with water that no permanent fence can be kept thereon, and known as low flatlands; and when adjoining lands shall be bounded by a line between the banks of streams of water not navigable, and the owners or occupants thereof cannot agree upon the manner in which the division fence between them shall be maintained, the fence viewers of the town shall direct upon which bank of the stream, and where the division fence shall be located, and the portion to be kept and maintained by each adjoining owner. [Town Law, § 360, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 86; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6231.]

§ 3. WHEN LANDS MAY LIE OPEN; OWNER MAY, UPON NOTICE, ENCLOSE LANDS LYING OPEN.

When the owners of adjoining lands shall choose to let them lie open, as provided in section three hundred and sixty, neither of such owners shall be liable to the other in any action or proceeding for any damages done by animals lawfully upon the former's premises going upon the lands so lying open or upon any other lands of the owner thereof through such lands so lying open. Either owner of any lands so lying open and adjoining, may, unless the agreement is for a specified period, and after such agreement has expired may then have the same inclosed, by giving written notice to that effect to the owners or occupants of the adjoining lands, whereupon it shall be the duty of both parties to build and maintain their several proportions of a division fence.[3] [Town Law, § 361, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 86; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6232.]

excuse himself, must show not only that the fences which the proprietor was bound to maintain were out of repair, but also that the cattle passed over such defective fences. Angell v. Hill, 45 N. Y. St. Rep. 83, 18 N. Y. Supp. 824; Deyo v. Stewart, 4 Den. 101.

3. Removal of fence. The effect of removing a division fence and permitting the lands to lie open is to remit the parties to their common law rights and duties. Holladay v. Marsh, 3 Wend. 142. In such case the owner of the adjoining lands is not liable for any damages done by animals going upon the lands so lying open. See Van Slyck v. Snell, 6 Lans. 299. Thus, where a party removes a division fence without notice, he is liable for all damages sustained. Richardson v. M'Dougall, 11 Wend. 46.

Notice may be by parol. Holliday v. Marsh, 3 Wend. 142; Perkins v. Perkins, 44 Barb. 134.

Town Law, §§ 362, 363.

§ 4. DIVISION FENCES ON CHANGE OF TITLE; DUTIES OF FENCE VIEWERS IN CASE OF DISAGREEMENT.

Whenever a subdivision, or new apportionment of any division fence shall become necessary by reason of transfer of the title of either of the adjoining owners, to the whole, or any portion of the adjoining lands, by conveyances, devise or descent, such subdivision or new apportionment shall thereupon be made by the adjoining owners affected thereby; and either adjoining owner shall refund to the other a just proportion of the value at the time of such transfer of title, of any division fence that shall theretofore have been made and maintained by such other adjoining owner, or the person from whom he derived his title, or he shall build his proportion of such division fence.[4] The value of any fence, and the proportion thereof to be paid by any person, and the proportion to be built by him, shall be determined by any two of the fence viewers of the town, in case of disagreement. [Town Law, § 362; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6232.]

§ 5. SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES BETWEEN OWNERS; PROCEEDINGS OF FENCE VIEWERS; DECISION.

If disputes arise between the owners of adjoining lands, concerning the liability of either party to make or maintain any division fence, or the proportion or particular part of the fence to be made or maintained by either of them, such dispute shall be settled by any two of the fence viewers of the town, one of whom shall be chosen by each party; and if either neglect, after eight days' notice to make such choice, the other party may select both.[5] The fence viewers, in all matters heard by them, shall

Effect of statute. Under the common law the owner of domestic animals is liable for their trespass upon the lands of others even though such lands are not inclosed. This section modifies the common law in this respect. Wood v. Snider, 187 N. Y. 28, revg. 108 App. Div. 168, 95 N. Y. Supp. 508. See also Stafford v. Ingersoll, 3 Hill, 38.

4. Effect of subdivision or new apportionment. New obligations arise when, by sub-division or otherwise, there is a change in the extent to which the adjoining lands of one owner borders upon the lands of the other. The statute which empowers fence viewers to fix the just proportion of fence to be maintained refers to the state of things existing when they are called upon to act, and has no relation to any former ownership of the adjoining possessions. Adams v. Van Alstyne, 25 N. Y. 232.

For form of decision of fence viewers when a transfer of title has been made, see Form No. 60, post.

5. Jurisdiction of fence viewers. If there be a valid prescription binding the owner of land to maintain perpetually the fence between him and the adjoining proprietor, fence viewers have no jurisdiction under our statutes. The maintenance of a fence by one of the adjoining proprietors exclusively for see that all interested parties have had reasonable notice thereof, and shall examine the premises and hear the allegations of the parties. If they cannot agree, they shall select another fence viewer to act with them, and the decision of any two shall be reduced to writing, and contain a description of the fence, and the proportion to be maintained by each, and shall be forthwith filed in the office of the town clerk, and shall be final upon the parties to such dispute, and all parties holding under them.[6] [Town Law, § 363; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6233.]

§ 6. SUBPOENA AND EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES BY FENCE VIEWERS; FEES AND COMPENSATION OF FENCE VIEWERS.

Witnesses may be examined by the fence viewers on all questions submitted to them; and either of such fence viewers may issue subpœnas for witnesses, who shall receive the same fees as witnesses in a justice's court.[7] Each fence viewer thus employed shall be entitled to one dollar and fifty cents per diem. The party refusing or neglecting to pay the fence viewers or either of them, shall be liable to an action for the same with costs. [Town Law, § 364; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6233.]

§ 7. DAMAGES FOR FAILURE TO ERECT OR REPAIR DIVISION FENCE, TO BE ASCERTAINED BY FENCE VIEWERS; APPRAISAL OF DAMAGES; ONE OWNER MAY ERECT OR REPAIR FENCE AT EXPENSE OF OTHER.

If any person who is liable to contribute to the erection or repair of a division fence, shall neglect or refuse to make and maintain his proportion of such fence, or shall permit the same to be out of repair, he shall be liable to pay the party injured all such damages as shall accrue thereby, to be ascertained and appraised by any two fence viewers of the town, and to be recovered with costs. The appraisement shall be reduced to more than twenty years, when he might have compelled the other to maintain a part, warrants the presumption of a grant or covenant compelling him to do so. Adams v. Van Alstyne, 25 N. Y. 232.

6. For form of notice to choose fence viewer, see Form No. 61, post. For form of certificate of apportionment of division fence, see Form No. 62, post.

The decision of fence viewers having jurisdiction of the subject matter and the parties is final. People ex rel. Foote v. Dewey, 1 Hun, 529; 3 T. & C. 638.

7. References. Fence viewers being authorized to take testimony in regard to matters before them are authorized to administer an oath for that purpose. See Code Civ. Proc., sec. 843. Fence viewers, being also authorized to subpœna witnesses, may compel such witnesses to attend and give testimony. See Code Civ. Proc., secs. 852–862.

For form of subpœna by fence viewer, see Form No. 63, post.

writing, and signed by the fence viewers making it.[8] If such neglect or refusal shall be continued for the period of one month after request in writing to make or repair the fence, the party injured may make or repair the same, at the expense of the party so neglecting or refusing, to be recovered from him with costs.[9] [Town Law, § 365; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6233.]

§ 8. DIVISION FENCE DESTROYED BY ACCIDENT; NOTICE TO REBUILD; EFFECT OF FAILURE TO REBUILD.

Whenever a division fence shall be injured or destroyed by floods, or other casualty, the person bound to make and repair such fence, or any part thereof, shall make or repair the same, or his just proportion thereof within ten days after he shall be so required by any person interested therein. Such requisition shall be in writing, and signed by the party making it.[10] If the person so notified shall refuse or neglect to make or repair his proportion of such fence, for the space of ten days after such request, the party injured may make or repair the same at the expense of the party so refusing or neglecting, to be recovered from him with costs. [Town Law, § 366; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6234.]

§ 9. DAMAGES DONE BY ANIMALS WHERE FENCE IS NOT MAINTAINED AS PROVIDED BY TOWN RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Whenever the electors of any town shall have made any rule or regulation prescribing what shall be deemed a sufficient division fence in such town, any person who shall thereafter neglect to keep a fence according to such rule or regulation shall be precluded from recovering compensation for damages done by any beast lawfully kept upon the adjoining lands that may enter therefrom on any lands of such person, not fenced in conformity to the said rule or regulation, through any such defective fence.[11]

When the sufficiency of a fence shall come in question in any action, it shall be presumed to have been sufficient until the contrary be established. [Town Law, § 367; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6234.]

§ 10. DAMAGES WHEN PERSON FAILS TO BUILD OR REPAIR FENCE; APPRAISAL BY FENCE VIEWERS.

If any person liable to contribute to the erection or repair of a division fence shall neglect or refuse to make and maintain his proportion of such fence, or shall permit the same to be out of repair, he shall not be allowed to have and maintain any action for damages incurred by beasts coming thereon from adjoining lands where such beasts are lawfully kept, by reason of such defective fence, but shall be liable to pay to the party injured all damages that shall accrue to his lands, and the crops, fruit trees and shrubbery thereon, and fixtures connected with the land, to be ascertained and appraised by any two fence viewers of the town, and to be recovered, with costs; which appraisement shall be reduced to writing and signed by the fence viewers making the same, but shall be only prima facie evidence of the amount of such damages.[12] [Town Law, § 368; B. rules and regulations for ascertaining the sufficiency of all fences in such town. See Town Law, sec. 43, ante.

Application. Statute only applies where electors have prescribed as to what constitutes a sufficient fence. Tonawanda R. R. Co. v. Munger, 5 Den. 255.

Kind of fence. A fence, erected and maintained upon or near the division line of such a dangerous character as to cause serious injury and damage to the animals of an adjoining owner, is a nuisance. Rowland v. Blaird, 18 Abb. N. C. 256.

A crooked or Virginia fence is a proper division fence. Ferris v. Van Buskirk, 18 Barb. 397.

Proof of insufficiency of the fence should be made, for in no case is it to be presumed. White v. Scott, 4 Barb. 56.

Recovery of damages. The rule of damages contained in this section is declaratory of the common law. Griffin v. Martin, 7 Barb. 297.

In an action against a railroad company for an injury to a cow escaping through an insufficient fence on to the track of such company, it was held that in the absence of action by a town meeting establishing the height or strength of division fences, that it was competent to show what in that town the height and strength of such fences generally were. Leyden v. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. Co., 55 Hun, 114, 117.

12. Action for damages. The word "incurred" means brought on, and by this statute the party in default is to have no action for damages brought on himself in some manner. Deyo v. Stewart, 4 Denio 101, 103; Stafford v. Ingersol, 3 Hill 40; Clark v. Brown, 18 Wend. 213.

Town Law, § 369.

Barbed or other wire may be used in the construction of any division fence, provided, however, that the person or corporation desiring to use such material shall first obtain from the owner of the adjoining property his written consent that it may be so used. If the owner of the adjoining property refuses to consent to the building of such a fence, it may nevertheless be built in the following manner: The fence shall be of at least four strands of wire with a sufficient bar of wood at the top; and the size of such top bars and of the posts and supports of such fence, and their distances apart, shall be such as the fence viewers of the town may prescribe and with the posts no further apart than fourteen feet; and such fence shall be otherwise substantially built and a reasonably sufficient inclosure for holding the particular kind or class of cattle or animals usually pastured on either side of the fence. Nothing contained in section three hundred and sixty-seven shall be construed to authorize the electors of any town to prohibit the use of wire fences, for division fences, if such fences comply with the requirements of this section. Whenever such fence shall become so out of repair as to be unsafe, it shall be the duty of the owner or owners to immediately repair the same. But any person building such a fence without the written consent of the owner of the adjoining property shall be liable to all damages that may be occasioned by reason of such fence. But this section shall not be so construed as to permit railroad corporations to use barbed wire in the construction of fences along their lines contrary to the provisions of section 52 of the railroad law.[13] [Town Law, § 369, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 86; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6235.]

13. Use of barbed wire. The provision of the statute prohibiting or regulating the use of barbed wire in the construction of fences does not apply to fences constructed before the enactment of the statute. Stissner v. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. Co., 32 App. Div. 98; 52 N. Y. Supp. 861. In this case it was held that a flat iron ribbon one-half inch wide, with saw teeth cut in one-fourth of an inch on one side of the ribbon, one and one-half inches apart, was not a barbed wire within the prohibition of the use of such material in railroad fences under section 52 of the Railroad Law.

Where a barbed wire fence has been constructed without the consent of the adjoining owner by a tenant occupying the land, he will be liable for the resulting damages, although the statute imposes a duty upon the owner of the land to construct and maintain proper division fences. Buckley v. Clark, 21 Misc. 138; 47 N. Y. Supp. 42.

Liability. It is immaterial to defendant's liability that the fence was not built upon the division line, but was built near the line and on defendant's property. Rowland v. Baird, 18 Abb. N. C. 256.

Whether it is or is not negligence to erect barbed-wire fence is a question of fact; effect of statute relating to such fences. Although this section forbids the use of barbed wire in the construction of a division fence, except in the manner therein prescribed, without the written consent of the owner of the adjoining property, and provides that the person building a fence as therein authorized without such consent shall be liable for all damages that may be occasioned thereby, yet a barbed-wire fence is not a nuisance as a matter of law. Whether it is or not negligence to erect and maintain one is a question of fact, and the statute is to be considered in determining that question. The owner of a farm adjoining and surrounding a schoolhouse lot erected a fence on the division line between his land and the lot by setting posts on such line, on which he fastened, about four feet from the ground, a barbed wire, with barbs about six inches apart. The next day, and while the fence was incompleted, a child eleven years of age, who was not aware that the wire had been fastened to the posts, ran from the door of the schoolhouse toward the fence, looking over her shoulder and calling to a schoolmate, and while so running her neck came in contact therewith and was lacerated thereby. Upon the trial of the action to recover for the injuries the court dismissed the complaint. Held, error; that the questions of the negligence of the defendant and that of the contributory negligence of the plaintiff were for the jury. Barr v. Green (1914), 210 N. Y. 252, 104 N. E. 619.

§ 1. LIEN UPON STRAYED ANIMALS DOING DAMAGE.

Whenever any person shall have any strayed horses, cattle, sheep, swine or other beasts upon his inclosed land, or shall have any such beast on land owned or occupied by him doing damage, and such beast shall not have come upon such lands from adjoining lands, where they are lawfully kept, by reason of his refusal or neglect to make or maintain a division fence required of him by law, such person may have a lien upon such beasts for the damages sustained by reason of their so coming upon his lands and doing damage, for his reasonable charges for keeping them and all fees and costs made thereon, and he may keep such beasts until such damages, charges, fees and costs are paid, or such lien is foreclosed, upon complying with the provisions of this article relating thereto.[1] [Town Law, § 380; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6236.]

§ 2. NOTICE OF LIEN TO BE FILED WITH TOWN CLERK; FEES FOR RECORDING.

If such beasts are not redeemed within five days after coming upon such lands, the person entitled to such lien, shall deliver to the town clerk of the town, within which such lands or some part thereof shall be, a written notice subscribed by him, containing his residence, and a description of the beasts so strayed or coming upon his lands, as near as may be, and that he claims a lien on such beasts for such damages, charges, fees and costs.[2] The town clerk shall record the notice in a book to be kept by him for that purpose, for which he shall receive ten cents for each beast, to be paid by the person delivering the notice. Such book shall always be

1. Strays upon highways. Code Civ. Proc. (Gilbert's Annotated Code), secs. 3082-3115, provides a penalty for allowing animals to run at large in public streets and highways, authorizes the seizure of such animals by overseers of the highways in towns, and street commissioners in villages, or by the owner of the land upon which such animals have strayed from a street or highway, and provides procedure before a justice of the peace for the sale of such animals and the disposition of the proceeds of such sale.

Strayed animals coming upon lands owned or occupied by any person, from lands adjoining, because of insufficient or improperly maintained division fences are to be disposed of as provided in this chapter. The sections of the Code of Civil Procedure above referred to, do not apply to animals escaping through a division fence upon an adjoining owner, nor do they authorize the trial of the sufficiency of such a fence. Cowles v. Balzer, 47 Barb. 562; Cropsey v. Perry, 1 How. Pr. N. S. 40; Jones v. Sheldon, 50 N. Y. 477.

Lien upon horses found upon premises. Where horses have strayed from the highway upon premises, the owner of the premises may take possession of the horse and have a lien thereon under the provisions of the above section. The fact that after the owner of the land took possession of the horses, the owner of the horses demanded the return thereof, but made no legal offer to redeem does not affect the right of lien. Lynch v. Ford, 72 App. Div. 536, 76 N. Y. Supp. 546.

Liability for damages. Where cattle cross unfenced land abutting upon a highway and trespass upon other unfenced lands adjacent thereto but not abutting upon the highway, the owner of such animals is liable for the damages caused thereby, notwithstanding the absence of a fence. Wood v. Snider, 187 N. Y. 28 revg. 108 App. Div. 168, 95 N. Y. Supp. 508.

Damages awarded measured by injuries caused by animals and the cost of keeping them. Cook v. Gregg, 46 N. Y. 439. And see Armbruster v. Wilson, 43 Hun 261.

kept open for inspection, and no fees shall be taken by the clerk therefor. [Town Law, § 381; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6238.]

§ 3. IMPOUNDING STRAYED ANIMALS; IF NOT IMPOUNDED TO BE PROPERLY CARED FOR.

Within six days after such beasts shall have come upon such lands, such owner or occupant may cause them to be put in the nearest pound in the same town, if there be one, there to remain until they are redeemed, sold or reclaimed according to law. If there be no such pound, or he elect to keep such beasts, he shall cause them to be properly fed and cared for until they are redeemed, sold or reclaimed according to law. [Town Law, § 382; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6237.]

§ 4. OWNER OR OCCUPANT OF THE LANDS TO NOTIFY THE OWNER OF THE ANIMALS OF THE IMPOUNDING OF SUCH ANIMALS.

Within thirty days after any such beasts may have come or been found upon any lands, the owner or occupant of the lands shall serve a written notice, either personally or by mail, upon the owner of the beasts, if known, that they are upon his lands, or in pound as the case may be, and are held by him as strays or beasts doing damage, as the case may be; and if such owner is not known, he shall publish such notice, within such time, in the nearest newspaper of the county for at least two successive weeks.[4] [Town Law, § 383; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6237.]

§ 5. CHARGES FOR NOTICE; FENCE VIEWERS TO DETERMINE DAMAGES IN CASE OF DISAGREEMENT.

The person delivering the notice to the town clerk shall be entitled to receive therefor, in addition to the fees paid the town clerk, fifteen cents each for all horses, mules, cattle and swine, and five cents for each other beast described in the notice. If the charges, damages, costs and fees are

Failure to provide food and drink. The Penal Law, § 187, provides that: "A person who, having impounded any animal, refuses or neglects to supply to such animal during its confinement a sufficient supply of good and wholesome air, food, shelter and water, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

not agreed upon between the person delivering the notice and the owner of the beasts, they shall be determined by two fence viewers of the town, one of whom shall be selected by the person claiming the lien, the other by the fence viewer so selected. If such fence viewers cannot agree, they shall select another to act with them, and the decision of any two of them shall be final. [Town Law, § 384; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6238.]

§ 6. FENCE VIEWERS' FEES.

Each fence viewer shall be entitled to receive ten cents for every mile he shall be obliged to travel from his residence to the place where the beasts are kept, and seventy-five cents for certificate of the charges as ascertained by them. [Town Law, § 385; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6238.]

§ 7. FORECLOSURE OF LIEN; EFFECT OF FAILURE TO ESTABLISH LIEN.

If the owner of such beasts shall not redeem the same within three months after delivery of the notice to the town clerk, the person delivering the notice may foreclose his lien by action, or by a sale of the beasts, as herein provided. When a person claiming a lien, as herein provided, shall fail to establish the same, he shall not be entitled to receive anything for damages, charges, fees or costs, but shall be liable to pay all fees, costs and expenses incurred by reason of his keeping such beasts and the proceedings thereon. [Town Law, § 386; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6238.]

§ 8. SALE OF ANIMALS BY FENCE VIEWERS; NOTICE OF SALE.

After such three months, a fence viewer of the town, on application of the person delivering the notice, shall give at least ten days' previous notice of the time and place of the sale of such beasts, by advertisement posted up in at least five public places in the town where such beasts may have been kept, one of which shall be at or near the outside door of the town clerk's office.[5] At the time and place mentioned, such fence viewers shall sell such beasts to the highest bidder, unless redeemed by the owner. [Town Law, § 387; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6238.]

§ 9. DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS OF SALE.

Out of the proceeds from such sale, the fence viewer shall retain and pay the sums charged for such notices, fees and costs, together with the sums specified in the certificate for keeping the beasts and damages done by them; and the like charges for the sale, as are allowed on sales under executions issued out of Justices' Courts, and he shall pay the residue to the owner of the beasts, if he shall appear and demand the same. [Town Law, § 388; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6239.]

§ 10. NOTICE OF FENCE VIEWERS' MEETING FOR ASSESSMENT OF DAMAGES TO BE GIVEN TO OWNER OF ANIMALS.

When the owner of such beasts is known and resides in the same town where such beasts are kept, five days' notice of the time and place of the meetings of the fence viewers to determine the damages done by such beasts, and the charges for keeping them, shall be personally served on him; if he resides elsewhere, and his post-office address is known, such notice shall be served by mail or personally.[6] [Town Law, § 389; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6239.]

§ 11. FENCE VIEWERS TO VIEW PREMISES DAMAGED; SUBPOENAS; EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

The fence viewers shall view the premises where damages are claimed to have been done, and they may issue subpœnas, examine witnesses and take any competent evidence of the facts and circumstances[7] necessary to enable them to determine the matter submitted to them, and shall determine any dispute that may arise touching the sufficiency of any division fence around the premises where such damage was done, and from where and how the beasts came upon the lands of the person claiming such damages and charges; if they determine that for any cause the claimants' lien is not enforceable, they shall so certify, and the owner of the beasts shall thereupon be entitled to them without paying any charges thereon.[8] [Town Law, § 390; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6239.]

8. For form of certificate of fence viewers showing their determination of the dispute, see Form No. 71, post.

§ 12. FORECLOSURE OF LIEN BY ACTION.

When such lien is foreclosed by action,[9] all questions relating to damages, charges, sufficiency of fence, and from where and how such beasts came upon the lands of the person claiming such damages and charges, shall be proven upon the trial of such action, and no certificate of fence viewers upon such questions shall then be necessary.[10] [Town Law, § 391; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6239.]

§ 13. DUTIES AND FEES OF POUND MASTERS.

Every pound master shall receive and keep all beasts delivered to him as herein provided, until they shall be redeemed, sold or reclaimed, for which he shall be entitled to a reasonable compensation, not exceeding fifty cents per day for a horse or mule, twenty-five cents per day for each head of cattle, and fifteen cents per day for all other beasts, to be determined by the fence viewer making the sale, or the court before whom the action is tried, besides his fees for taking and discharging the beasts, to be paid by the owner of the beasts, if the lien is established, otherwise by the person claiming a lien thereon. [Town Law, 392; B. C. & G. Cons. L,. p. 6240.]

§ 14. SURPLUS MONEY ARISING FROM SALE OF ANIMALS, IF UNCLAIMED, TO BE PAID TO OVERSEERS OF THE POOR.

If the owner of the beasts shall not appear and demand the residue of such moneys within one year after the sale, he shall be thereafter precluded from recovering any part thereof, and the same shall be paid by the officer making the sale to the overseers of the poor of the town, or, in cities, to the officers having their powers, for the use of the poor thereof, and their receipt shall be a legal discharge to the keeper of such beasts and the officer selling the same. If the officer who shall have sold such beasts shall not, within thirty days after the expiration of the year, pay such moneys to the overseers of the poor of the town, or, in cities, to officers having their powers, he shall forfeit to the town or city double

9. Foreclosure by action. A lien on strayed animals created pursuant to this chapter may be foreclosed by action in the manner provided by secs. 1737-1741 of Code of Civ. Proc. (Gilbert's Annotated Code.)

10. Lien a defense in action for replevin. A defense, in an action for replevin of animals, that the defendant distrained them while trespassing on his lands, and detains them under the lien thereby created for the damage done, is good and sufficient. the sum so remaining in his hands, together with the amount of such moneys. [Town Law, § 393; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6240.]

§ 15. VILLAGES AND CITIES DEEMED TOWNS, FOR PURPOSES OF ASSESSING DAMAGES FOR STRAY ANIMALS.

The villages and cities of this state shall be considered towns for the purposes of this article; and the trustees of the village and the aldermen of the city shall be fence viewers therein for the purposes of this article. [Town Law, § 396; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6241.]

§ 16. ASSESSMENT OF DAMAGES OCCASIONED BY INANIMATE GOODS OR CHATTELS.

When any person shall be authorized to distrain inanimate goods or chattels doing damage, or whenever any logs, timbers, boards or plank, in rafts or otherwise, or other personal property shall have drifted upon his lands, he shall be entitled to the same remedies, and shall proceed therein in the same manner and with the same powers as herein provided with respect to beasts found doing damage, so far as such provisions are applicable. He must deliver his notice of lien to the town clerk, describing the property, within thirty days after it lodges upon his lands, and he shall keep the same in some convenient place, without removal to a pound, until the property is sold or reclaimed. The same officer shall conduct proceedings therein as in proceedings where beasts are found doing damage, and all proceeds of sale shall be, in like manner, paid over and applied, subject to the same penalties and liabilities, and with the same force and effect. The fee of the town clerk for filing and recording such notices of lien pursuant to section three hundred and eighty-one of this chapter, shall be one dollar and the charges of the land owner claiming such lien and delivering such notice to the town clerk, pursuant to this section, shall be at the rate of five cents for each such stray, but shall in no event exceed the sum of fifty dollars upon any one lien. Any lien for logs, timber, boards or plank, in rafts or otherwise, filed herein may be discharged in the manner provided in sections nineteen and twenty of the lien law, with reference to the discharge of mechanics' liens, so far as such provisions are applicable. [Town Law, § 394, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 439; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6240.]

§ 1. LICENSING OF DOGS; FORMER LAWS REPEALED.

The laws relative to licensing dogs, the assessment and payment of damages, caused by dogs, and the imposing of penalties for failure to obtain licenses, were repealed by L. 1917, ch. 800. By this act, as amended by L. 1918, ch. 439, the licensing of dogs and the payment of claims for damages caused by dogs are placed under the control of the State Department of Farms and Markets. Town officers, including town clerks, assessors, justices of the peace and constables, are required to perform many important duties as to licensing of dogs, killing dogs that are not licensed or are running at large and the assessment of damages. All fees are paid to the state, and claims when adjusted are paid out of state funds.

All local laws and laws regulating the keeping of dogs in towns, villages and cities are repealed. It is provided in section 2 of L. 1917, ch. 800, that "Article seven, constituting sections one hundred and ten to one hundred and thirty-six of chapter sixteen of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, (the County Laws) entitled, 'An act in relation to counties, constituting chapter eleven of the Consolidated Laws,' and the acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, are hereby repealed."

Agricultural Law, §§ 131, 132.

§ 2. DEFINITIONS.

When used in this act, the word "owner," referring to the owner of the dog, includes a person harboring or keeping such dog.[1] The word "kennel," when so used, means the place where five or more dogs over six months old are harbored or kept, which dogs are registered in or by a recognized registry association. The word "dog," when so used, shall include a bitch, except where provision is made for the licensing of dogs and the payment of license fees. [Agricultural Law, § 131, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800.]

§ 3. LICENSING OF DOGS AND DOG KENNELS; FEES.

Dogs to be licensed; fees.—A person who owns, harbors or keeps a dog shall obtain a license therefor, as provided herein, and shall pay the following fees: (1) two dollars for each male dog and spayed female dog; (2) three dollars for each bitch; (3) twenty dollars for a kennel of pure-bred dogs, or such sum not in excess of such sum of twenty dollars as will equal two dollars for each dog over six months old harbored or kept in such kennel, for which a special kennel license shall be given as hereinafter provided. Before any person shall be entitled to obtain a license for a spayed female dog at the reduced fee herein provided, he shall produce and deliver to such town or city clerk a certificate in writing signed by a duly licensed veterinary surgeon showing that such female dog has been spayed. There shall be paid to the town or city clerk, in addition to each license fee, a sum of twenty-five cents as a registration fee, for the services of such clerk.

Application for a license shall be made to the clerk of the town or city in which the dog is harbored or kept. Such application shall be in writing and shall state the name, sex, breed, age, color and marking of the dog for which a license is sought.

Licenses first obtained hereunder shall be applied for on or before July first, nineteen hundred and seventeen. Licenses thereafter issued shall be applied for on before March first in each year, and shall continue

1. What constitutes harboring a dog. Affording shelter or protection to a dog, temporarily or permanently, is "harboring" within the meaning of this section. Robinson v. Rowland, 26 Hun, 501.

The situs of a dog for the purpose of taxation, under the above section, is the place or town where he is kept or harbored, and not the residence of his owner. Arnold v. Ford, 53 App. Div. 25; 65 N. Y. Supp. 528. The court (per Kellogg, J.), says in this case: "The entire law seems to form a scheme of taxation wholly different from the general scheme of taxation of personal or real property, and the tax when collected forms a special fund to defray the depredations of dogs upon sheep. A fair construction of the law, it seems to me, discloses a clear intention to compel the owner or possessor of a dog to pay the tax into this sheep fund in the town where the dog is kept, and to pay the tax once each year. If the payment cannot be enforced, then it is made the duty of the collector to kill the dog. This clearly shows the intention of the legislature to make the situs of the dog, for the purposes of this tax, to be the place or town where he is kept or harbored.

for a term of one year. Licenses shall not be required for dogs under the age of four months, or under the age of six months if the owner be the breeder thereof. If such dog shall become of the age of four months, or of six months if the owner be the breeder thereof, after the first day of March, or if a person shall become the owner of an unlicensed dog after such date, or if a license issued under existing laws prior to the taking effect of this act shall expire after such date, the license fee for the balance of the twelve months shall be a proportionate part of the fee charged for one year, and the fee of twenty-five cents for the registration of such dog. Each license of a dog first issued shall take effect when issued, and shall expire on the last day of February following its issuance. Each license in renewal of a license already issued shall be for a term of one year beginning on March first. [Agricultural Law, § 132, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

Special kennel licenses.—The owner of a kennel may apply for and obtain a special kennel license, which shall be in lieu of the license issued under this chapter for each dog harbored or kept in such kennel. Upon the procuring of such special license for a kennel, the owner or owners thereof shall be exempt from any further license fee in respect to such dogs for the year for which such license is issued. The applicant shall present with his application for a kennel license a registry certificate of the registry association registering the dogs in such kennel. A copy of such certificate shall be filed with the city or town clerk. If the owner of a kennel shall harbor or keep a dog which is not covered by such a certificate, such dog shall be licensed separately and the same fee paid as in the case of other dogs. A kennel license shall continue for the same period as licenses issued under the preceding section. [Agricultural Law, § 133, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800.]

§ 4. ASSESSORS TO PREPARE LISTS OF DOGS.

The assessors of each town or police department of a city shall annually in the month of June ascertain by due inquiry the dogs owned, harbored or kept in such town or city. Each owner of a dog shall answer all questions relative to ownership of such dog, and if he answers falsely or refuses to answer such questions, he shall be subject to a penalty of ten dollars, to be recovered in an action brought therefor as hereinafter provided.

The assessors in each town and the police department of each city shall prepare a list containing the names and addresses, by street and number, if any, of the owners of dogs in such town or city, and the number and sex of dogs owned, harbored and kept by each owner, and whether such dogs are kept or harbored in kennels. Such list shall be prepared in duplicate, one of which shall be filed with the town or city clerk and the other with the department of farms and markets, on or before the tenth day of July following. The assessors shall receive as compensation for their services the sum of twenty cents for each dog listed by them, which shall be paid out of the state treasury out of moneys appropriated for the enforcement of the provisions of this chapter. [Agricultural Law, § 134, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 5. ISSUANCE OF LICENCES; PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO OBTAIN REGISTRY OF LICENCES.

Issuance of licenses; penalty for failure to obtain.— A license shall be issued upon application being made therefor and upon payment of the fee hereinbefore prescribed. Such license shall be in the form prescribed by the department of farms and markets, and shall be executed by the town or city clerk. Each license shall state the year for which it was issued and shall bear a serial number. An owner of a dog, who fails or refuses to obtain a license for such dog within thirty days after he is required to do so under the provisions of this chapter, shall be subject to a penalty of ten dollars. [Agricultural Law, § 135, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

Registry of licenses.— The town or city clerk shall register the dogs and kennels licensed under the provisions of this chapter, in a book to be provided for such purpose. The books for the registry of such licenses shall be furnished by the department of farms and markets and shall be kept in the manner prescribed by it. Such registry shall contain the name of the owner of the dog or kennel licensed, the date of the license, and the number of the tag or tags issued for each licensed dog or kennel. Such clerk shall furnish, upon the demand of the department of farms and markets transcripts of the whole or any part of such registry, and of any other records required to be kept by this chapter, and shall receive therefor compensation to be fixed by the department. [Agricultural Law, § 137, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 6. TAGS; HOW FURNISHED AND ATTACHED; BLANKS AND FORMS.

Tags to be furnished; how attached.— The city or town clerk issuing such license shall at the time of the issuance thereof deliver to the owner a metal tag. Such tag shall bear the same date and serial number as the license. The owner of the dog so licensed shall place and keep around the neck of such dog a collar of leather or other suitable material, and shall attach such tag to such collar by means of rivets, metal bands or other suitable devices. An owner of a dog shall not permit a licensed dog to be without such collar and tag during the period of the license.

And where the license thus issued is the special kennel license hereinbefore provided for, it shall be the duty of the city or town clerk to deliver to the person to whom the special kennel license is delivered as many metal tags as there are dogs over six months of age covered by such special license. The town or city clerk shall also be paid by the person to whom the same is issued a tag fee of twenty-five cents for each tag issued.

A new tag with a new number shall be furnished to the owner of a licensed dog by the city or town clerk, in place of the original tag, upon presentation of the license and proof of the loss of such original tag. The clerk shall endorse the new number of such tag on such license, and shall enter it upon the registry. The clerk shall receive for his services in issuing such new tag the sum of twenty-five cents. [Agricultural Law, § 136, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800.]

Tags and blanks to be furnished by department of farms and markets; forms.— The forms of applications for licenses and of other statements, reports, certificates and papers required to be filed or presented under the provisions of this chapter shall be prescribed by the department of farms and markets. The department shall furnish to each town or city clerk (1) a sufficient number of blank applications for licenses and licenses for the use of such clerk in licensing dogs as provided herein; (2) blank statements, reports, certificates and other documents required for the purposes of this chapter; (3) a sufficient number of suitable metal tags required to be worn by dogs licensed as provided in this chapter. The cost of such blanks and tags shall be paid by the department out of moneys appropriated therefor. [Agricultural Law, § 138, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 7. KILLING UNLICENSED DOG; KILLING DOG ATTACKING ANIMALS; DOGS RUNNING AT LARGE; DOG KILLED ON COURT ORDER.

Killing unlicensed dog.— The fact that a dog is without a tag attached to a collar, as hereinbefore required, shall be presumptive evidence that such dog is unlicensed and that a tag was not issued and attached as so required. An action shall not be maintained for an injury to or destruction of a dog without a tag, unless it shall appear affirmatively that such dog was duly licensed under this chapter and that a tag was duly fastened to the collar of the dog and was lost or removed without the owner's knowledge or consent.

A representative designated by the department of farms and markets, or any peace officer, shall seize an unlicensed dog, either on or off the owner's premises, or if the dog be not delivered to him by the owner on request and he cannot with reasonable effort secure him, he may after pursuit, kill the dog. If the owner of the dog so seized does not, within five days after such seizure, obtain a proper license, and pay the sum of two dollars as the cost of seizure, such dog may be killed or sold by such representative or peace officer. The proceeds of the sale and the charge made for such seizure shall be paid into the state treasury. Peace officers either seizing or killing or both seizing and killing dogs under the provisions of this section shall be paid two dollars for each dog seized and one dollar for each dog killed.

Incorporated societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals, humane, or other like associations or corporations, now performing duties or exercising functions with reference to dogs in cities, under existing provisions of law or contracts entered into by them with the several cities of the state in which such duties or functions are performed or exercised, shall continue to perform such duties or exercise such functions in accordance with such provisions of law or the terms of such contract. A city may designate a humane or other like association or corporation, or any of the officers or agents thereof, or any city officer or officers to enforce the provisions of this article in such city, and may fix the compensation or salary of the person or persons, association or corporation performing the services, and may provide for the disposition of fees earned in the performance of such duties, either by payment into the city treasury or otherwise. But the department of farms and markets may by an order revoke the right of any such society, association or corporation, or officer or agent thereof to perform such duties or exercise such functions, if, after notice to such society, association, corporation, or officer or agent thereof, and a hearing thereon, it shall appear that such society, association, corporation, officer or agent, has failed to discharge properly its duties or functions under such provisions of law or contracts, and may designate any such association, corporation, officer or agent or a representative of the department to enforce the provisions of this article in the place of the association or corporation, officers or agents whose authority is so revoked. Such order shall not be effective until approved by the governor. Whenever requested by any municipality, it shall be the duty of the department of farms and markets to permit impounded dogs required to be killed under this chapter, to be killed by or under the direction of such a society, association or corporation. Contracts hereafter entered into between an incorporated society for the prevention of cruelty to animals and the mayor of a city of the second class, under the provisions of section two hundred and thirty of the second class cities law, shall be subject to the approval of the department of farms and markets and shall when so approved be in full force and effect, subject to the provisions of this article; provided, however, that the compensation to be paid under such contracts shall not exceed the amount of the surplus apportioned to such cities as provided in this article. Any city or town may impose restrictions and limitations upon the keeping and running at large of dogs within such city or town, although such limitations or restrictions are not otherwise imposed by this article. [Agricultural Law, § 139 as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch 439.]

Dog to be killed for attacking animals.— Any person may kill a dog while it is attacking, chasing or worrying any domestic animal having a commercial value, or attacking fowls, or while such dog is being pursued thereafter. [Agricultural Law, § 139a, as added by L. 1917, ch. 500.]

Dogs running at large; order of department of farms and markets.— The department of farms and markets on its own motion or on the application of at least two residents, may issue an order restraining the owner of a dog, to be described in such order as dangerous to persons, domestic animals or fowls, from permitting such dog to run at large outside of and away from the premises of the owner, during a time to be specified in such order. Such order shall be served personally or by registered mail on the owner, or in case of his absence on an adult member of the family or person in charge of the premises where such dog is harbored.

An owner of a dog who, after the service of such order, causes or permits such dog to run at large in violation of such order, shall be subject to a penalty of twenty-five dollars for each offense.

Whenever in the judgment of the department of farms and markets other regulations in this article for the supervision of dogs and the protection of domestic animals and fowls have proved inadequate for such purposes in a town or county or part thereof, the said department may make and publish an order that the dogs in such town or county, or part thereof, shall be securely confined between sunset and one hour after sunrise during such portion of the year as may be deemed necessary by this department. Such order shall be posted in at least three public places in such town and published in a newspaper if any published in such town, and if there be no such newspaper, in a newspaper, if any, published in the county in which such town is located; provided that, if such order shall apply to a county or part thereof, it shall be posted in three public places in each town of such county or part thereof and published in three newspapers published in such county, if so many newspapers are published in such county, and if not in such newspapers as are published in the county. If any owner of a dog or person harboring the same, refuse or neglect to confine his dog within one week after such posting and publication as required by such order he shall forfeit the sum of ten dollars to be recovered by the department of farms and markets, and any representative of the department or policeman, constable or other peace officer shall seize and impound a dog permitted to run at large in violation of said order and hold the same until said penalty is paid, and if not paid within five days, kill the said dog in the same manner as if the dog had not been licensed and tagged under the provisions of this article.

The duly designated representative of the department or any peace officer shall, and any other person may, kill on sight any dog running at large in violation of this section, provided he shall first have made reasonable effort to secure said dog and failed.

When seizure of a dog is made under any of the provisions of this article notice of such seizure shall be immediately given to the owner thereof if he may be found upon reasonable inquiry within the time during which such dog is required to be held prior to his disposal as provided herein. Such notice may be served upon the owner either personally, by registered mail, or in case of the absence of the owner from home by leaving a copy thereof with the person in charge of the premises where such dog was harbored. Every dog seized under the provisions of this article shall be properly fed and cared for by and at the expense of such town or city until disposition thereof be made as herein provided. [Agricultural Law, § 139-b, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

Dog killed on order of court or justice.— If a dog shall attack a person who is peaceably traveling upon a street or highway or is otherwise peaceably conducting himself on premises where he may lawfully be, or shall attack his horse or team or any domestic animal having a commercial value, which is peaceably traveling on a street or highway in charge of such person, or on premises where it may lawfully be, and complaint thereof be made by the person attacked, or if a child by his parent or guardian, or in case of an animal, by the owner or person in charge of the same, or by a duly designated representative of the department of farms and markets, or any peace officer, to a justice of the peace of the town or, within a city, to a police justice or judge of a municipal court having the general jurisdiction of a justice of the peace, such justice or court shall inquire into the complaint, upon notice of not less than three days to the owner of the dog. If upon investigation of the facts he is satisfied of the truth of the complaint, such justice or court shall order the owner to kill the dog immediately. An owner who fails to kill such dog within forty-eight hours after the service, either personally or by registered mail, upon him of such order, shall be subject to a penalty of twenty-five dollars, and the further penalty of two dollars for each twenty-four hours thereafter until the dog is killed. If such order be issued and the owner fails to kill such dog as required therein, a duly designated representative of the department of farms and markets or any peace officer shall kill such dog on or off the premises of the owner, and any person may kill such dog if running at large off the premises of the owner. [Agricultural Law, § 139-c, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 8. TOWN AND CITY CLERKS TO REPORT FAILURE TO PAY; PENALTIES; FEES OF OFFICERS AND MAGISTRATES.

If any owner of a dog in a town or city neglects or refuses to obtain a license and pay the license fee to the town or city clerk as herein required, the town or city clerk shall, with ten days from the date upon which such payment is required to be made, report such fact to a justice of the peace or other magistrate in the town or city where such owner resides and to the department of farms and markets. Such justice of the peace or magistrate shall forthwith issue an order signed by him directed to any constable, policeman or peace officer of such town or city requiring him to seize and impound such dog. He shall keep the dog impounded for a period of five days, and if within that time the owner of the dog obtains a license and pays to the town or city clerk the license fee and in addition thereto the sum of two dollars, such dog shall be returned to the owner. If such license is not so obtained and such sum so paid within such time the dog shall be killed by the officer seizing and impounding him. The peace officer shall within twenty-four hours after the seizure of the dog report the same to the justice of the peace or magistrate issuing the order.

A constable, policeman or peace officer to whom shall be delivered such order shall be paid for each dog seized by him in pursuance of such order the sum of two dollars and for each impounded dog killed by him, an additional sum of one dollar. He shall also be paid for each mile necessarily traveled in complying with such order, the sum of five cents per mile to be audited and allowed by the justice of the peace or magistrate issuing such order, not exceeding in any case the sum of two dollars. The justice of the peace or magistrate shall be entitled to receive as a fee for each order issued by him the sum of twenty cents for each dog directed to be seized thereunder; but a single order shall be issued to cover all dogs included in a single report as not being duly licensed, and the total sum charged for such single order shall not exceed the sum of three dollars. The justice of the peace or the magistrate and the constable, policeman or peace officer entitled to such fees shall make out and file with the town or city clerk vouchers, in the form and manner prescribed by the department of farms and markets showing the fees to which they are entitled under this section, and upon the allowance thereof the same shall be paid by such town or city.

If a town or city clerk fail to make within the specified time a report containing the names of the owners of dogs who have neglected or refused to obtain licenses for such dogs and pay the license fee as herein provided within ten days after such neglect or refusal, or if any officer receiving an order to seize, impound or kill any dog, fail or refuse to execute said order within ten days, he shall forfeit the sum of ten dollars to be collected by the department of farms and markets. [Agricultural Law, § 139d, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 9. DAMAGES FOR INJURIES CAUSED BY DOGS; ASSESSORS TO ASCERTAIN DAMAGES; PAYMENT OF CLAIM BY STATE.

Damages for injuries caused by dogs.—The owner of a dog which shall attack, chase, worry, injure or kill domestic animals or fowls shall be liable for the damages caused thereby, to be recovered as herein provided, for the benefit of the owner of such domestic animals or fowls. Such damages shall equal the value of the animals or fowls killed, or if not killed, the amount of the damages caused by the injury of such animals or fowls, and if the damage suffered amounts to twenty-five dollars or more there shall be added thereto the sum of ten dollars as liquidated damages for the injury caused by such dog. If sheep are attacked, chased or worried, the amount of damages to be recovered shall be as above provided, and such additional or increased damages as may appear subsequently to have been suffered in the flock attacked, chased or worried by such dog. [Agricultural Law, § 139e, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

Amount of damages to be paid by the county; assignment of claim to state.—The owner of domestic animals or fowls attacked, chased, worried, injured or killed by a dog or dogs shall within ten days after discovery thereof give notice of claim to any assessor of the city or town where such animals or fowls were so attacked, chased, worried, injured or killed, that he makes a claim therefor and requests that the damages be ascertained. Such notice of claim shall set forth the facts, as claimed, including a description of such animals, the time and place where the claimant believed they were attacked, chased, worried, injured or killed, and such other circumstances in connection therewith as may be within his knowledge. The assessors, or a majority of them, shall thereupon at a time and place to be designated by them inquire into the matter, and, if necessary, examine witnesses in relation thereto. If after such inquiry they shall determine that such animals or fowls were so attacked, chased, worried, injured or killed by a dog or dogs, they shall make a certificate of such fact, the number and kind of animals or fowls, and the amount of damages if any, caused thereby. Such certificate shall also specify the amounts of their fees, which shall not exceed three dollars each for all services in connection with one claim. The difference between the value of the animals or fowls before and such value after the occurrence of the acts on which the claim is based, shall be the measure of damages, to which shall be added liquidated damages when allowed as herein provided. Such certificate shall be filed in the office of the department of farms and markets. The department may approve, reject or modify the determination of the assessors. If additional or increased damages are claimed on account of a flock of sheep being attacked, chased or worried, accruing subsequent thereto and not apparent at the time of the first appraisal of damages to the flock, a supplemental notice of claim for such damages may be given to the department of farms and markets, at any time within one year from the discovery of the original damages. Such supplemental notice of claims shall set forth the facts required to be specified in the original notice and also the facts upon which such additional or increased damages are based. The department of farms and markets shall cause such claim to be referred to the assessors of the town or city where such damages accrued, and the same proceedings shall be had thereon as in the case of an original claim.

After passing on the claim, the department shall cause to be executed a certificate in duplicate, containing the name of the owner of such animals or fowls and the amount of the damages ascertained as herein provided. One of such certificates shall be filed in the office of the comptroller, and the other delivered to the owner. The department shall cause such certificate, with notice of the filing thereof, to be sent by mail to the person in whose favor the certificate was issued. Within twenty days from the date of mailing such certificate, the person in whose favor it was issued may file a petition with the department of farms and markets for a review of the determination of the assessors, and the department shall cause an investigation to be made of the facts upon which such determination was based. The department may designate an inspector to hear the evidence to be submitted as to the claim of the petitioner. The department shall cause notice of the time and place of the investigation or hearing to be given to the petitioner, and the assessors whose determination is to be reviewed. The department shall render its decision on such review to be made within sixty days from the date of the filing of the petition, which decision shall be based upon the facts disclosed upon such investigation or hearing, and a copy of such decision shall be delivered to the petitioner, and a copy thereof shall also be filed with the comptroller. The person to whom a certificate or decision on review allowing any damages shall be issued, or his assignee or legal representative, may present the same for payment and the amount thereof and of assessor's fees shall be paid to such person and assessors, or their assignees or legal representatives, by the state treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller, out of any moneys available therefor, upon a proper receipt being signed by the person or assessor entitled to such payment and upon the presentation of an assignment to the state of the claim for damages against the owner or owners of the dog or dogs causing such damages. The form of such assignment shall be prescribed by the department of farms and markets. The comptroller shall deliver such assignment to the department. If the owner of the animals or fowls attacked, chased, worried, injured or killed shall not present to the comptroller the certificate or decision above mentioned within six months after the execution thereof, he shall be deemed to have rejected the determination of the amount of compensation to be paid for the damages incurred, and shall be liable to the assessors for their fees, and the amount thereof shall not be paid by the state, except that such fees shall be paid by the state if such person fails to pay the same within one year from the time such claim is filed. [Agricultural Law, § 139f, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 10. REPORT AS TO DOG KILLED.

Any person who shall kill a dog under the provisions of this article shall forthwith report in writing such fact to the town or city clerk or to a justice of the peace, police justice or other magistrate having jurisdiction of the town or city in which such killing took place. Such report shall state the name and address of the person who killed the dog, a description of the dog killed, together with the time, place and circumstances of the killing and the disposition made of the carcass of the dog. Such reports shall be open to public inspection at any reasonable time during the regular office hours of the office in which they are filed. A person killing a dog under the provisions of this article shall dispose of the carcass. Any person failing to make a report shall be subject to a penalty of five dollars to be recovered in an action brought therefor as provided in this article. [Agricultural Law, §139g, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 11. DISPOSITION OF FEES, PENALTIES AND DAMAGES RECOVERED.

On or before the fifth day of each month the town or city clerk shall remit to the department of farms and markets the amount of all license fees received by such clerk during the preceding calendar month, except that in a city or village where under the laws existing at the time of the taking effect of this act, any portion of the license fees for licensing dogs is paid into the police pension fund in such city or village, in which case an amount equal to the amount payable from license fees to such pension fund under the laws existing prior to the taking effect of this act shall be deducted therefrom and be paid into such police pension fund. He shall at the same time transmit to the department of farms and markets a statement showing the number of dogs of each sex licensed and the total amount of license fees received for each sex. Such statement shall be in the form prescribed by the department and shall contain such other information as it may require. The amount remitted shall not include the tag fees collected by such clerk as compensation for his services. Such tag fees shall be retained by the clerk unless his office be salaried, in which case such fees shall be disposed of as provided by law.

All moneys received for license fees and all penalties recovered under this article and all moneys recovered by the department of farms and markets in actions brought against owners of dogs on account of assigned claims for damages to domestic animals or fowls, and all moneys realized on the sale of unlicensed dogs, as provided in this chapter, shall be paid into the state treasury. The moneys paid into the state treasury under this section shall so far as necessary be apportioned by the legislature to be expended for the enforcement of the provisions of this chapter and for the payment of compensation for damages caused by dogs to domestic animals or fowls, as hereinbefore provided. [Agricultural Law, § 139h, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 12. RECOVERY OF PENALTIES; ACTIONS FOR DAMAGES.

Penalties imposed by this chapter shall be recovered in actions brought by the department of farms and markets in a court of competent jurisdiction. The department shall when it deems it for the best interests of the state, cause an action to be brought in the name of the department against the proper parties upon a claim for damages assigned to the state as provided in this chapter, by the owner of domestic animals or fowls. The department may by proper written authority authorize an inspector to bring an action in the name of the department upon such assigned claim or for the recovery of such penalties. The department may, in its discretion, compromise or settle any such assigned claim for damages. [Agricultural Law, § 139i, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 13. APPORTIONMENT TO TOWNS AND CITIES OF SURPLUS MONEYS.

In the month of January in each year, the department of farms and markets shall report to the legislature the total amount paid into the state treasury pursuant to this chapter during the preceding fiscal year, the total amount appropriated by the legislature for the enforcement of the provisions of this act, the total amount expended therefor, the total amount expended for fees of assessors as provided in section one hundred and thirty-nine-f and the amount paid out as compensation for damages to owners of domestic animals and fowls killed, injured or damaged by dogs. The surplus shall be distributed during the month of July in each year among the several towns and cities of the state, on the basis of and in proportion to the contributions made by such towns and cities on account of the provisions of this chapter. In determining the share of such surplus to be distributed to a town or city, amounts expended in a town under sections one hundred and thirty-nine-b and one hundred and thirty-nine-d and any amount paid on account of damages caused by dogs owned in such town or city shall be deducted from its distributive share. If the distributive share of a town or city for any year shall be less than the total of the amounts so expended under such sections and paid on account of such damages in such town or city for such year, the excess of such total amount over such distributive share shall be deducted from the distributive shares of such town or city for subsequent years until such excess is fully paid. If damage be done by unknown dogs it shall be deducted from the share of the town or city in which the damage was done. The department of farms and markets shall determine the amounts to be apportioned to such towns and cities and the same shall be paid to the proper financial officers of such towns and cities. The moneys when paid to any such city or town, after deducting the amount required to be paid into the police pension fund in a city or village as provided in section one hundred and thirty-nine-h, shall be first applied to the payment of any valid claims arising before the enactment of this article against such city or town for damages to sheep by dogs and otherwise; the balance, if any, to be disposed of according to existing provisions of law relating to the dog fund in force before the enactment of this article. [Agricultural Law, § 139j, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 14. ENFORCEMENT OF PROVISIONS OF CHAPTER.

The department of farms and markets shall enforce the provisions of this chapter. It may appoint three or more inspectors who shall, under the supervision and direction of the department, cause such provisions to be carried into effect and, for such purpose, shall have the powers and perform the duties prescribed by him. Each inspector shall receive an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars and his necessary expenses. The department may designate representatives for the enforcement of the provisions of this chapter, and shall fix their compensation, within the appropriations available therefor. [Agricultural Law, § 139k, as added by L. 1917, ch. 800, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

§ 15. POUNDS AND DOG CATCHERS IN CERTAIN COUNTIES.

The board of supervisors of any county having a population of over one hundred thousand, according to the last preceding federal or state census or enumeration, exclusive of the population of any city or cities in such county, may establish and maintain a pound or pounds therein, for the impounding of dogs under the provisions of this article. The board of supervisors of any such county may also create the position of dog catcher and appoint one or more persons thereto, to be removable at the pleasure of the board. Any such dog catcher shall have all the powers of a constable, policeman or police officer with respect to seizing, killing or impounding dogs under the provisions of this article, and the order provided for in section one hundred and thirty-nine-d may be directed and issued to any dog catcher with the same force and effect as though issued to a constable, policeman or police officer. The board may provide either that the compensation of such dog catchers shall consist of the fees provided for a constable, policeman or police officer under this article or that they receive monthly or annual salaries. The expense of establishing and maintaining a pound or pounds shall be a general county charge, and provided for by tax, in the same manner as other county charges. [Agricultural Law, § 1391, as added by L. 1918, ch. 439.]

Conservation Law, § 193.

§ 16. DOGS RUNNING AT LARGE IN FOREST PRESERVE.

No dog of either sex shall be taken into the Adirondack or the Catskill Park, or into forests inhabited by deer, or harbored or possessed therein, unless the owner shall first obtain a license for such dog from the commission, and pay a fee of one dollar therefor. The license shall be issued by the commission in its discretion and under such rules and regulations as it may deem advisable, and shall terminate with the calendar year in which issued. A metal tag marked with a number corresponding to the number of the license shall be issued with said license, and shall be attached to a collar and shall be at all times worn by the dog so licensed.[2] [Conservation Law, § 193, as added by L. 1912, ch. 318, and amended by L. 1915, ch. 176, and L. 1916, ch. 521.]

2. Constitutionality; action to recover penalty. The enactment of the provision of this section, as it existed prior to the amendment, which prohibited the keeping or possession of dogs in the Adirondack park and requiring every game protector to kill any dog found therein, was within the power of the legislature. The complaint, in an action to recover a penalty for a violation of said section, which alleges that defendant on or about a certain date wrongfully and unlawfully kept and possessed a dog which he owned or harbored and permitted to run at large in the public highway in the town of Lake Pleasant, Hamilton county, in this state, within the Adirondack park, as defined by section 51 of chapter 444 of the Laws of 1912, states a cause of action. People v. Call (1914), 86 Misc. 246, 149 N. Y. Supp. 168.

RELIEF OF POOR.

CHAPTER XLIV.

SUPERINTENDENT OF THE POOR; ALMS-HOUSES.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Superintendents of the Poor.

Superintendents of the poor are county officers. They are elected by the electors of the county in the same manner as other county officers. The number of superintendents varies in the several counties. Nearly all counties have but one. If there are three or more superintendents, the board of supervisors may determine that thereafter there shall be but one; so also where there is one superintendent the number may be changed to three. All vacancies are filled by the board of supervisors until the thirty-first day of December following the appointment, or until successors are elected and have qualified.

Powers and Duties of Superintendents of the Poor.

If there are three or more superintendents of the poor a majority may act. Such superintendents have the general supervision and care of poor persons in the county, either in or out of alms-houses. They do not supersede town overseers of the poor, but may, unless otherwise provided by law, direct and advise them in the performance of their duties. The superintendent is directly responsible for the maintenance of the county alms-house and the care and government of the inmates thereof. His chief duties pertain to such alms-house, and unless the board of supervisors has provided for a keeper thereof, he occupies that position.

Explanatory note.

The county superintendent is to settle all disputes as to the settlement of poor persons, and may conduct hearings for such purpose. The procedure on such hearings is regulated by statute, and is considered in the chapter entitled " Settlement and Place of Relief of Poor Persons," post.

Where poor persons are maintained at the entire expense of the county, the superintendent must audit and settle all accounts for services relating to their support, relief or transportation. County poor are as a general rule to be supported at the alms-house. But temporary assistance may be afforded by the superintendent, and such poor persons may, when they may be properly provided for elsewhere, be supported outside of the alms-house but not at a greater expense than they may be supported at the alms-house.

The superintendent may direct the overseers of the poor of the several towns to support county poor persons within their towns, where no alms-house is provided.

Alms-houses.

The county superintendent of the poor is responsible for the maintenance of the county alms-house, and for the care and control of the inmates thereof. County poor persons are maintained therein at the expense of the county. Where poor persons residing in towns are supported at the expense of towns, the superintendent must keep accounts of the expense of maintaining such persons in the alms-house, and the cost thereof is chargeable against the several towns. Only the amount actually expended can be charged to the towns. No charge may be made for the products of the county farm. The farm and buildings are for the benefit of the towns as well as the county. The superintendent must annually account to the board of supervisors for the amounts expended in behalf of the town poor, and the towns are chargeable with their just proportion thereof, which amount must be added to the taxes to be levied and collected in each town.

Temporary or Out-Door Relief of Poor Persons.

The board of supervisors may make rules and regulations in regard to the manner of furnishing temporary or out door relief to the poor in the several towns. If the board of supervisors has failed to make such rules and regulations, the town board may make them. Such rules and regulations may specify the amount which overseers of the poor may expend for the relief of each person or family. Where such provision is made it is unnecessary for the overseer of the poor to procure an order for the supervisor of the town for relief of such person or family.

2. Undertaking, how executed and approved; contents.

1. Removal of superintendents. A county superintendent of the poor is county having, or entitled to have three or more superintendents of the poor, may, at an annual meeting thereof, determine by resolution that thereafter only one county superintendent of the poor shall be elected; but no superintendent of the poor shall be elected or appointed in such county until the general election next preceding the expiration of the terms of the superintendents in office, or the office shall be vacant.[2] The term of any superintendent in office, or of any person duly elected thereto on the passage of such resolution, shall not be affected thereby. Such board may also, in counties having and entitled to have but one superintendent of the poor, in like manner determine that thereafter three superintendents of the poor be elected for such county. After the passage of a resolution, as herein provided, the powers herein conferred shall not be again exercised within a period of five years. Such resolution shall not take effect until the next calendar year succeeding its adoption.

removable by the governor after an opportunity has been given him to be heard in his defense. Public Officers Law, sec. 33, ante.

The expense of such removal is a county charge. See County Law, sec. 240, sub. 16, ante.

As to proceedings before the governor for removal, see Public Officers Law, secs. 34, 35, ante.

Supervisor not to be superintendent of the poor. The disqualification of a supervisor to the office of a superintendent of the poor applies to supervisors of wards of cities. People ex rel. Furman v. Clute, 50 N. Y. 451.

In this case it was also held that the prohibition makes a supervisor not only ineligible to hold office of superintendent, but also ineligible to an election or appointment thereto. It was also contended in this case that the restriction imposed upon a supervisor and a county treasurer was unconstitutional, since it impairs the right of suffrage by limiting the right of the elector to select and vote for a candidate from the whole body of electors, and thus interfered with his constitutional right to vote; but the court held that the act permitting the election of superintendents of the poor having been passed after the adoption of the constitutional provision, the right to vote for such officers was a privilege granted by the legislature, and could be limited by it.

Provision of the Constitution (§ 5, art. 10) declaring that "in case of elective officers no person appointed to fill a vacancy shall hold his office longer than the commencement of the political year, next succeeding the first annual election after the happening of the vacancy" has no application to office of superintendent of the poor. People ex rel. Hatfield v. Comstock, 78 N. Y. 356; People ex rel. Furman v. Clute, 50 N. Y. 451.

2. Determining number of superintendents. In the case of People ex rel. Hatfield v. Comstock, 78 N. Y. 356, it was held that superintendents of the poor are county officers whose appointment or election may be provided for by the board of supervisors as the legislature shall direct, under art. 10, sec. 2 of the Constitution. The delegation to the board of supervisors of the power of determining the number of superintendents and of filing vacancies is constitutional.

There shall continue,

1. To be elected annually in each of the counties so having and being entitled to three county superintendents, one county superintendent of the poor, who shall hold his office for three years from and including the first day of January succeeding his election, and until his successor is duly elected and qualifies;

2. To be appointed by the board of supervisors, if in session, otherwise by the county judge, a county superintendent of the poor, when a vacancy shall occur in such office, and the person so appointed shall hold the office until and including the last day of December succeeding his appointment, and until his successor shall be elected and qualifies;

3. To be elected a county superintendent of the poor in a county when a vacancy shall occur in such office, and the term of which shall not expire on the last day of the next succeeding December, and the person so elected shall hold the office for such unexpired term, which shall be designated upon the ballots of the electors, or until his successor shall be elected and qualifies;

4. To be elected in each of the counties so having, and entitled to have but one superintendent, a superintendent of the poor, who shall hold his office for three years from and including the first day of January succeeding his election, and until his successor is duly elected and qualifies;

5. To be appointed by the board of supervisors, if in session, otherwise by the county judge, a superintendent of the poor, in a county having and being entitled to but one superintendent, when a vacancy shall occur in such office; and the person so appointed shall hold the office until and including the last day of December succeeding his appointment, and until his successor shall be elected and qualifies;

6. To be elected in the succeeding year after the board of supervisors of a county having but one superintendent of the poor, shall have adopted a resolution to have three superintendents, if the term of the superintendent in office expires with such year, three superintendents of the poor for such county, for the terms of one, two and three years respectively, which terms shall be respectively designated upon the ballots of the electors voting for such officers. If the term of the superintendent in office will not expire with such succeeding year, there shall be elected two superintendents of the poor for such county, for such terms, to be so designated upon the ballots of the electors voting for such officers, as will make the terms of one of the three superintendents expire with each succeeding year, and one superintendent of the poor shall thereafter be annually elected. Such persons so elected shall hold the office from and including the first day of January succeeding his election, and until and including the last day of December of the year in which his term shall so expire, and until his successor is duly elected and qualifies. When ballots are voted without designating the term, the first name on the ballot shall be deemed as intended for the full or longer term of the officer voted for; the second name for the next longer term, and the third name for the shorter term. [County Law, § 220; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 814.]

§ 2. UNDERTAKING, HOW EXECUTED AND APPROVED; CONTENTS.

Every person elected or appointed to the office of superintendent of the poor shall, before he enters upon the duties of his office, and if appointed, within fifteen days after notice thereof, execute and deliver to the clerk of the county, to be filed in his office, his undertaking to the county, with two or more sufficient sureties, with the approval of the board of supervisors, if in session, indorsed thereon by the clerk; otherwise by the county judge of his county, or a justice of the Supreme Court of his judicial district, and in such sum as such board, judge or justice approving the same shall direct, to the effect that he will faithfully discharge the duties of his office as such superintendent of the poor, and pay according to law all moneys that shall come into his hands as such superntendent, and render a just and true account thereof to the board of supervisors of his county.[3] [County Law, § 221, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 62; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 816.]

§ 3. POWERS AND DUTIES OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS OF THE POOR.

The county superintendents of the poor shall:[4]

1. Have the general superintendence and care of poor persons who may be in their respective counties.[5]

3. As to other statutory requirements of official undertakings, see Public Officers Law, secs. 11, 12, ante. The requirements of the above section are controlling in so far as they are inconsistent with the general provisions of the Public Officers Law, but the other provisions of those sections are applicable.

4. Powers of a majority of board of superintendents. Where there are three superintendents a majority can perform and exercise any power, authority or duty imposed by statute or otherwise upon them. See General Construction Law, sec. 41.

The powers of a majority of the superintendents to transact business was considered in the case of Johnson v. Dodd, 56 N. Y. 76. It was there decided that the majority could exercise the power of the board irrespective of and without consultation with the minority.

5. General superintendence of poor persons. By sub. 1 of the above section superintendents are now given the general superintendence of all matters relating to the poor. Under the old law they only had control of county poor persons, and a general supervisory jurisdiction over all questions relating to the settlement of the poor and of the respective liabilities of the towns and counties; and all the powers conferred upon county superintendents to support and maintain the county poor, were required to be exercised at the county poorhouse, or at

2. Provide and keep in repair suitable alms-houses when directed by the board of supervisors of their county.

3. Establish rules and by-laws for the government and good order of such alms-houses, and for the employment, relief, management and government of the poor therein; but such rules and regulations shall not be valid until approved by the county judge of the county, in writing.

4. Unless a keeper be appointed by the board of supervisors, as provided by section four of this article, employ suitable persons to be keepers of such houses, and physicians, matrons and all other necessary officers and servants, and vest such power in them for the government of such houses, and the poor therein, as shall be necessary, reserving to such poor persons who may be placed under the care of such keepers, matrons, officers or servants, the right of appeal to the superintendents.[6]

5. Purchase all necessary furniture, implements, food and materials for the maintenance of the poor in such houses, and for their employment in labor, and use, sell and dispose of the proceeds of such labor as they shall deem expedient.

such other places as might have been provided for that purpose by the direction of the board of supervisors. People ex rel. Commissioners of Emigration, 27 Barb. 562.

Employment of agent by superintendent of poor to place out children. An agent employed by a superintendent of the poor, under a resolution adopted by the board of supervisors, to place out or provide homes for indigent children, need not be licensed by the state board of charities under L. 1898, ch. 264; and his expenses are a proper charge against the county. People ex rel. Spaulding v. Supervisors, 66 App. Div. 117, 72 N. Y. Supp. 782, modf. 170 N. Y. 93.

Action may be brought by superintendents of the poor, in their individual names with the addition of their name of office. Alger v. Miller, 56 Barb. 227.

6. Appointment of keeper by board of supervisors. Section 4 of the Poor Law, post, authorizes the board of supervisors to appoint one of the superintendents of the poor as keeper of the county almshouse. Unless one of such superintendents has been appointed by the board of supervisors as provided in that section, the above sub-division authorizes the county superintendents to employ such a keeper.

Whenever the board of supervisors exercises this power and appoints one of the superintendents as such keeper, the term of office of the keeper previously appointed by the superintendents terminates, although the year for which he was employed has not expired. People ex rel. McCormick v. Weldon, 14 N. Y. Supp. 447; 39 N. Y. St. Rep. 49.

Term of office of keeper. The superintendents of the poor have no power to fix by contract the duration of the keeper's term. He holds his position only during the pleasure of the appointing power. Abrams v. Horton, 18 App. Div. 208, 45 N. Y. Supp. 887. A keeper of the almshouse appointed by the superintendents of the poor, is removable at their pleasure; and such superintendents have no power to fix by contract the duration of his term. Abrams v. Horton, 18 App. Div. 208, 45 N. Y. Supp. 887.

6. Prescribe the rate of allowance to be made for bringing poor persons to the county alms-house, subject to such alterations as the board of supervisors may by general resolution make.

7. Authorize the keepers of such houses to certify the amount due for bringing such poor persons; which amount shall be paid by the county treasurer on the production of such certificate, countersigned and allowed by the county superintendents of the poor.

8. Summarily decide any dispute that shall arise concerning the settlement of any poor person, upon hearing of the parties, and for that purpose may issue subpœnas to compel the attendance of witnesses, with the like powers to enforce such process, as is given to a justice of the peace in an action pending before him; their decisions shall be filed in the office of the county clerk within thirty days after they are made, and shall be conclusive and final upon all parties interested, unless an appeal therefrom shall be taken, as provided in this chapter.

9. Direct the commencement of suits by any overseer of the poor who shall be entitled to prosecute for any penalties, or upon any recognizance, bonds or securities taken for the indemnity of any town and in the case of the neglect of any such overseer, to commence and conduct such suits, without the authority of such overseer, in the name of such superintendents.

10. Draw on the county treasurer for all necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of their duties, including their necessary personal expenses while in the discharge of such duties and their necessary expenses in attending the midwinter and annual state conventions of county superintendents of the poor, which draft shall be paid by such treasurer out of the moneys placed in his hands for the support of the poor.[7] [Subd. as amended by L. 1916, ch. 275.]

11. Audit and settle all accounts of overseers of the poor, justices of the peace, and all other persons, for services relating to the support, relief

7. Draft on county treasurer. The board of supervisors of a county have no right to direct a county treasurer not to recognize the draft of a superintendent of the poor payable to his order, nor to pay any such draft unless the object for which the money was to be paid was specified in the order. People ex rel. Serven v. Demarest, 16 Hun, 123. The court in this case said: "The superintendents give security that they will render a true account of all moneys received and expended to the supervisors, and the supervisors audit the account. It will be seen that the superintendents are an independent board. They can purchase independently, and draw moneys from the county treasurer independently. The expenditure is to be submitted to the board of supervisors. If, after the settlement of the accounts, there is any sum due to the people from the superintendents, the bond will be enforced."

The above sub-division should be considered in connection with the provision contained at the end of this section to the effect that the board of supervisors may fix the maximum sum which may be expended by the superintendent during the year, and that when such limitation is fixed, the county treasurer cannot pay orders in excess of such sum without the approval of the chairman of the board of super-or transportation of the county poor; and draw on the county treasurer for the amount of the accounts which they shall so audit and settle.[8]

12. Furnish necessary relief to such of the county poor as may require only temporary assistance, or are so disabled that they cannot be properly provided for elsewhere than at the county alms-house at an expense not exceeding that of their support at such alms-house.[9]

8. Audit of accounts. It was intimated in the case of Hayes v. Simonds, 9 Barb. 266, that the purchase of material and employment of labor by superintendents, for which they are authorized to contract, were not the class of accounts to which the statute from which the above sub-division was taken had reference. It is not reasonable to suppose that the statute can be so interpreted as to allow the superintendents to audit accounts arising from their own contracts and so make them sit as judges upon questions relating to their own conduct, and their own corporate liability. Neary v. Robinson, 98 N. Y. 84.

In the latter case it was held that the superintendents could not audit the account of an attorney retained by them for services rendered in bastardy proceedings instituted by them. The superintendent may properly employ professional assistance in such cases, but the costs incurred are a charge against the county and must be audited by the board of supervisors.

Superintendents of the poor are not bound to audit the accounts of physicians and others for services rendered in aid of county paupers by request of overseers of the poor of the several towns, although the services were rendered in pursuance of orders for temporary relief. Such accounts may be very numerous, and occasionally very trifling; and it is peculiarly fit that they should first be adjusted by the overseer, and charged by him in a general account. Ex-parte Green and Brown, 4 Hill, 558.

If superintendents refuse to audit and settle the accounts specified in this sub-division the proper remedy is by writ of certiorari. It follows then that the proceedings to determine such accounts are judicial in their nature. Vedder v. Superintendents of Schenectady County, 5 Denio, 564.

Accounts of superintendents. Superintendents must account to board of supervisors for all moneys received and paid out. City of Rochester v. Supervisors of Monroe, 22 Barb. 248.

County poor are defined in section 2 of the Poor Law as such persons as are required by law to be supported at the expense of the county. The distinction between town and county poor may be abolished by a resolution of the board of supervisors; in such case the poor of the county are to be maintained at the expense of the county and thus become county poor; see Poor Law, sec. 138, post. If a poor person has not gained a settlement in a town or city, he is a county poor person, and maintainable at the expense of the county. Poor Law, sec. 42, sub. 2, post.

9. Temporary relief. Under the law as it existed prior to the Poor Law of 1896, the county poor requiring temporary relief could not be supported by the superintendents at a place other than the county almshouse. Galup v. Bell, 20 Hun, 172; People v. Commissioners of Emigration, 27 Barb. 562. This rule is changed by the provisions of the above sub-division, and now the superintendent may furnish support, in certain cases, to poor persons at their homes.

13. Render to the board of supervisors of their county, at their annual meeting, a verified account of all moneys received and expended by them, or under their direction, and of all of their proceedings in such manner and form as may be required by the board.

14. Pay over to the county treasurer on the first day of each month all moneys received by him from any source in his official capacity, or otherwise received by him and belonging to the county since the date of the preceding payment, except such moneys as are paid out by him for incidental expenses in connection with the duties of his office, for which expenditure he shall present with such monthly report vouchers and itemized statements showing dates and purposes of such expenditures. All payment which he is authorized to make under this chapter, except as herein specified, shall be made only by orders drawn on the county treasurer, payable to the person entitled thereto and showing upon the face thereof the purpose for which the order is given.[9a] [Subd. amended by L. 1912, ch. 75, and L. 1916, ch. 275.]

15. Administer oaths and take affidavits in all matters pertaining to their office, and elicit, by examination under oath, statements of facts from applicants for relief. Expenditures by the superintendent of the poor in the administration of his department are subject to the following limitations: The board of supervisors, at its annual meeting, may fix the maximum sum which may be expended by the superintendent, at his discretion, during the next ensuing year, and may provide that expenditures in excess of that sum shall be made only with the written approval of the chairman of the board of supervisors, or of a committee of the board, composed of not exceeding three members. If such limitation is fixed and such provision made the county treasurer shall not pay any draft or order of the superintendent in excess of the sum so fixed by the board, unless it is accompanied with the written approval of such chairman or committee. [Poor Law, § 3; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4231.]

§ 4. ONE OF SUPERINTENDENTS OF THE POOR MAY BE APPOINTED AS KEEPER OF ALMS-HOUSE; COMPENSATION.

The board of supervisors of any county may, by resolution, appoint as keeper of its county alms-house one of the superintendents of the poor of such county, who shall hold such office until the expiration of his term as superintendent or until the board of supervisors, by resolution, shall determine that he shall no longer act in such capacity.[10] The board of supervisors may fix the compensation such superintendent shall receive for acting as such keeper and such compensation shall be a county charge.[11] While a resolution of the board of supervisors directing such

9-a. The right of a superintendent of the poor to draw drafts on the county treasurer for his personal expenses, if it ever existed, has been taken away by chapter 75 of the Laws of 1912 (amending this section), providing that the superintendent of the poor shall pay over to the county treasurer all moneys received by him, etc., and make payments only by orders drawn on the county treasurer payable to the person entitled thereto and showing upon the face thereof the purpose for which the order is given. Said statute makes it unlawful for the superintendent to disburse moneys himself directly and he cannot draw a draft to his own order for personal expenses. A superintendent of the poor asking a writ of mandamus to compel the payment of the draft drawn by him on the county treasurer for personal expenses is under the burden of showing that such expenses were a county charge. Strong v. Williams (1915), 167 App. Div. 714, 153 N. Y. Supp. 175.

10. A keeper of a county alms-house may be appointed by the superintendents of the poor in case the supervisors do not appoint one of such superintendents as keeper as provided in the above section. See Poor Law, sec. 3, sub. 4, ante.

11. Compensation of all superintendents of the poor is to be fixed by the superintendent to act as keeper of the county alms-house is in force, the superintendents shall not employ a keeper thereof. [Poor Law, § 4; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4234.]

§ 5. COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT MAY DIRECT OVERSEERS OF POOR TO TAKE CHARGE OF COUNTY POOR.

Whenever the county superintendents take charge of the support of any county poor person, in counties where no alms-house is provided, they may authorize the overseers of the poor of the town in which such poor person may be, to continue to support him, on such terms and under such regulations as they shall prescribe; and thereafter no moneys shall be paid to such overseers for the support of such poor person, without the order of the superintendents; or the superintendents may remove such poor person to any other town, and there provide for his support, in such manner as they shall deem expedient. [Poor Law, § 5; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4234.]

§ 6. SUPERINTENDENTS TO PROVIDE FOR SUPPORT OF IDIOTS AND LUNATICS.

The superintendents of the poor shall provide for the support of poor persons that may be idiots or lunatics, at other places than in the alms-house, in such manner as shall be provided by law for the care, support and maintenance of such poor persons.[12] [Poor Law, § 6; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4235.]

board of supervisors as provided in sec. 12, sub. 5, of the County Law. If the superintendent is also keeper of the almshouse, his compensation may be made to include his compensation as such keeper.

12. Support of insane. Lunatics cannot now be maintained at an almshouse. All pauper insane must be transferred to a state hospital. The superintendents of the poor are bound to see that all such insane are so transferred. People ex rel State Commission v. Superintendents, 20 N. Y. Supp. 10; 47 N. Y. St. Rep. 367.

By the Insanity Law, the poor and indigent insane of the county are to be committed to the state hospitals for the insane and there maintained at a state expense. Incanity Law, sec. 85, post.

If an applicant for relief as a poor person, is, in the opinion of the superintendent insane, it would be his duty to investigate the facts and take proceedings under secs. 80-82 of the Insanity Law, post, for his commitment to a state hospital for the insane. If an inmate of an almshouse becomes insane, the superintendent should take the necessary steps to secure his transfer to a state hospital.

§ 7. PESTILENCE IN ALMS-HOUSE; INMATES TO BE REMOVED.

Whenever any pestilence of infectious or contagious disease shall exist in any county alms-house or in its vicinity, and the physician thereof shall certify that such pestilence or disease is likely to endanger the health of the persons supported thereat, the superintendents of the poor of such county shall cause the persons supported at such alms-house or any of them, to be removed to such other suitable place in the same county as shall be designated by the board of health of the city, town or village within which such alms-house shall be, there to be maintained and provided for at the expense of the county, with all necessary medical care and attendance, until they can be safely returned to the county alms-house from which they were taken, or otherwise discharged. [Poor Law, § 7; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4235.]

§ 8. COUNTY TREASURER TO KEEP ACCOUNTS WITH TOWNS FOR MONEYS PAID ON ACCOUNT OF POOR; SUPERINTENDENT TO FURNISH STATEMENT.

In counties where there are town poor, the county treasurer thereof shall open and keep an account with each town, in which the town shall be credited with all the moneys received from the same, or from its officers, and shall be charged with the moneys paid for the support of its poor. If there be a county alms-house in such county, the superintendents of the poor shall, each year, before the annual meeting of the board of supervisors, furnish to the county treasurer a statement of the sums charged by them as herein directed, to the several towns for the support of their poor, which shall be charged to such towns, respectively, by the county

§ 9. SUPERINTENDENTS TO MAKE ANNUAL APPORTIONMENT TO TOWNS OF AMOUNT EXPENDED FOR SUPPORT OF POOR.

In counties having an alms-house, and where there are town poor, the superintendents shall annually, and during the week preceding the annual meeting of the board of supervisors, make out a statement of all the expenses incurred by them the preceding year for the support of the town poor, and of the moneys received therefor, exhibiting the deficiency, if any, in the funds provided for defraying such expenses, and they shall apportion the deficiency among the several towns in proportion to the number and expenses of the town poor of such towns, respectively, who shall have been provided for by the superintendents, and shall charge the towns with such proportion, which statement shall be by them delivered to the county treasurer.[14] [Poor Law, § 9; B. The amount to be charged to the towns on account of their poor maintained at the county almshouse is to be determined by the amount actually expended by the county for such maintenance. The statute contemplates that the benefits resulting from the almshouse and the property connected therewith, shall be given to the county and towns, in respect to the poor supported at such almshouse without regard to the general obligation of the towns to support their own poor. The towns cannot be charged with the products of the almshouse farm, the labor of the poor in carrying on the business of the almshouse and the occupancy by the town poor. They are only chargeable with their pro rata of the deficiency. City of Rochester v. Supervisors of Monroe County, 22 How. Pr. 248.

All orders made for the payment of expenses incurred in the maintenance of the county poor should be drawn upon the fund created by this section. No action will lie against the superintendents for failure to pay such expenses until a demand is made of them for such an order.

C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4236.]

§ 11. SUPERINTENDENT'S ESTIMATE FOR EXPENSE OF MAINTAINING COUNTY POOR; SUPERVISORS TO CAUSE SUFFICIENT AMOUNT TO BE RAISED.

The superintendents of the poor shall annually present to the board of supervisors, at their annual meeting, an estimate of the sum which, in their opinion, will be necessary during the ensuing year for the support of the county poor; and such board of supervisors shall cause such sum as they may deem necessary for that purpose, to be assessed, levied and collected, in the same manner as other contingent expenses of the county, to be paid to the county treasurer and to be by him kept as a separate fund, distinct from the other funds of the county.[16] [Poor Law, § 11; B. § 13. ALMS-HOUSE REGISTER; WHAT TO CONTAIN; OFFICERS TO FURNISH INFORMATION.

In addition to the general register of the inmates of the various alms-houses, there shall be kept a record of the sex, age, birth place, birth of parents, education, habits, occupation, condition of ancestors and family relations, and cause of dependence of each person at the time of admission, with such other facts and particulars in relation thereto as may be required by the state board of charities, upon forms prescribed and furnished by such board. Superintendents and overseers of the poor, and other officers charged with the relief and support of poor persons, shall furnish to the keepers or other officers in charge of such alms-houses, as full information as practicable in relation to each person sent or brought by them to such alms-house, and such keepers or other officers shall record the information ascertained at the time of the admission of such person, on the forms so furnished. Any commissioner or officer of the State Board of Charities, or any inspector duly appointed by it for that purpose, may visit and inspect any alms-house in this state. On such visits inquiry shall be made to ascertain:

1. Whether the rules and regulations of the board, in respect to such alms-house, are fully complied with.

[Poor Law, § 116; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4274.]

§ 3. INVESTIGATION BY BOARD OR COMMITTEE; ORDERS THEREON AS TO TREATMENT OF INMATES, ETC.

The board may, by order, direct an investigation by a committee of one or more of its members, of the officers and managers of any alms-house, or of the conduct of its officers and employees; and the commissioner or commissioners so designated to make such investigation may issue compulsory process for the attendance of witnesses and the production of books and papers, administer oaths, examine persons under oath, and exercise the same powers in respect to such proceeding as belong to referees appointed by the Supreme Court.

If it shall appear, after such investigation, that the inmates of the alms-house are cruelly, negligently or improperly treated, or inadequate provision is made for their sustenance, clothing, care and supervision, or other condition necessary to their comfort and well being, such board may issue an order in the name of the people, and under its official seal, directed to the proper officer of such alms-house, requiring him to modify such treatment or apply such remedy, or both, as shall therein be specified. Before such order is issued it must be approved by a justice of the Supreme Court, after such notice as he may prescribe, and an opportunity to be heard thereon, and any person to whom such an order is directed who shall wilfully refuse to obey the same shall, upon conviction, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. [Poor Law, § 117; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4275.]

§ 4. ALMS-HOUSE CONSTRUCTION AND ADMINISTRATION; APPROVAL OF PLANS BY BOARD.

No alms-house shall be built or reconstructed, in whole or in part, except on plans and designs approved in writing by the state board of charities, provided, however, that such approval in writing as to alms-houses to be constructed by the city of New York shall be by the board of estimate and apportionment of said city. It shall be the duty of such board to call the attention, in writing or otherwise, of the board of supervisors and the superintendent of the poor, or other proper officer, in any county, of any abuses, defects or evils, which, on inspection, it may find in the alms-house of such county, or in the administration thereof, and such county officer shall take proper action thereon, with a view to proper remedies, in accordance with the advice of such board. [Poor Law, § 118, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 251; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4275.]

§ 5. ATTORNEY-GENERAL AND DISTRICT ATTORNEYS TO AID BOARD IN LEGAL INVESTIGATIONS.

It shall be the duty of the attorney-general and of every district attorney when so required to furnish such legal assistance, counsel or advice as the board may require in the discharge of its duties under this chapter. [Poor Law, § 119; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4275.]

§ 6. STATE, NONRESIDENT AND ALIEN POOR IN COUNTY ALMS-HOUSES.

The state board of charities, and any of its members or officers, may, at any time, visit and inspect any alms-house to ascertain if any inmates are state charges, nonresidents, or alien poor; and it may cause to be removed to the state or country from which he came, any such nonresident or alien poor found in any such alms-house. [Poor Law, § 120; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4276.]

Each order shall specify the alms-house to be visited, inspected and examined, and the name of each person by whom such visitation, inspection and examination shall be made, and shall be in force for one year from the date on which it shall have been granted, unless sooner revoked.

All persons in charge of any such alms-house shall admit each person named in any such order into every part of such alms-house, and render to such person every possible facility to enable him to make in a thorough manner such visit, inspection and examination, which are hereby declared to be for a public purpose and to be made with a view to public benefit. Obedience to the orders herein authorized shall be enforced in the same manner as obedience is enforced to an order or mandate of a court of record.

Such association shall make an annual report to the state board of charities upon matters relating to the alms-house subject to its visitation. Such reports shall be made on or before the first day of November for each preceding fiscal year. [Poor Law, § 121; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4276.]

§ 1. APPLICATION BY POOR OFFICERS FOR COMMITMENT OF THE INSANE.

An overseer of the poor of a town or a superintendent of the poor of a county in which an alleged insane person may be, may apply to a judge of a court of record for an order committing such person to a state hospital for the insane. Notice of an application for such commitment by such officer must be served personally on the alleged insane person, and upon "the husband or wife, father or mother or next of kin of such alleged insane person, if there be any such known to be residing within the county, and if not, upon the person with whom such alleged insane person may reside, or at whose house he may be." The proceedings to determine the question of insanity of the person alleged to be insane are then to be conducted the same in all respects as where the commitment is sought by other persons. [See Insanity Law, § 82, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 121, and L. 1914, ch. 307; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2476.]

§ 2. COSTS OF COMMITMENT OF INSANE PERSONS CHARGE ON COUNTY, CITY OR TOWN SECURING COMMITMENT; CARE AND TREATMENT PRIOR TO TRANSFER.

The costs necessarily incurred in determining the question of the insanity of a poor or indigent or other person under this chapter, or under section twenty-six of chapter four hundred and forty-six of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-four, including the fees allowed by the judge or justice ordering the commitment to the medical examiners or medical witnesses called by him and other necessary expenses, and in securing the admission of such person into a state hospital and the expense of providing proper clothing and proper medical care and nursing, for such person in accordance with the rules and regulations adopted by the commission, shall be a charge upon the town, city or county securing the commitment; but in the city of New York all fees of medical examiners and medical witnesses appointed or called by a judge of any court in said city for the purpose of determining the question of the insanity of any such person, and not heretofore paid, may be audited and allowed in the first instance either by the judge or justice appointing the medical examiners or by the comptroller of said city and shall be paid by the chamberlain of said city on the warrant of the comptroller from the court fund and charged to the proper county within said city. If the person sought to be committed is not a poor or indigent person, the costs and expenses of the proceeding to determine his insanity and secure his commitment paid by any town, city or county may be collected by it from the estate of such person, or from the persons legally liable for his maintenance, and the same shall be a charge upon the estate of such person, or the same shall be paid by the persons legally liable for his maintenance. The compensation or fees and expenses of health officers for duties performed in respect to the examination, confinement, care and treatment of insane or alleged insane persons, as required by this act, shall in each case be determined and allowed by the judge or justice ordering the commitment or hearing the application, and shall be a charge upon the town city or county in which such persons reside or may be. If the fees and expenses so determined and allowed are a charge upon the county or town, such judge or justice shall issue a certificate stating the amount thereof, to whom to be paid, and whether a charge upon the county or a town, and if the latter, the name of the town, which shall be presented to the county treasurer and be paid by him out of any moneys available for such purpose. The county treasurer shall report the amount paid by him on account of such fees and expenses to the board of supervisors, and the amount thereof which is chargeable against any town in the county shall be levied against the taxable property thereof in the same manner as other town charges are levied. If there is no money in the county treasury available for the payment of such fees and expenses, the county treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to borrow on the credit of the county a sum sufficient to pay such fees and expenses, and may issue certificates of indebtedness therefor, the principal and interest of which, at a rate not exceeding six per centum, shall be binding upon the county, and shall be paid in the same manner as other county obligations. If the compensation or fees and expenses of health officers as so determined and allowed are a charge upon a city they shall be paid in the same manner as the other expenses of the health department or bureau in such city.[1] [Insanity Law, § 84, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 608, in effect Oct. 1, 1910.]

§ 3. POOR AND INDIGENT INSANE SUPPORTED BY STATE; PATIENTS COMMITTED BY ORDER OF CRIMINAL COURT CHARGE ON COUNTY.

All poor and indigent insane persons not in confinement under criminal proceedings, shall, without unnecessary delay, be transferred to a state hospital and there wholly supported by the state. The costs necessarily incurred in the transfer of patients to state hospitals shall be a charge upon the state. The commission shall, except as hereinafter provided, secure from the patient's estate and from relatives or friends who are liable or may be willing to assume the costs of support of inmates of state hospitals supported by the state, reimbursement at the rate fixed by the commission, in whole or in part, of the money thus expended, either directly or through the superintendents or treasurers of the respective hospitals, as provided in section fifty-four of this chapter. The commission may, in its discretion, waive the whole or a portion of the claim of the state for the cost of the support of a patient against the estate of such patient, whenever the court by which a committee was appointed shall have directed such committee to apply any part of the patient's estate for the maintenance of his family. The commission may appoint agents, whose duty it shall be to secure from relatives and friends who are liable therefor, or who may be willing to assume the cost of support of any inmate of a state hospital who is being supported by the state, reimbursement, in whole or in part, of the money so expended. The compensation of each agent shall not exceed six dollars a day, except the agent in charge of collections in New York city which shall not exceed two thousand dollars per annum. Each agent shall receive his necessary traveling and other incidental expenses incurred by him, to be approved by the comptroller. The commission may fix the rate to be paid for the support of an inmate of a state hospital by the committee of such inmate or by relatives liable for such support or by those not liable for such support, but willing to assume the cost thereof; but such rate shall be sufficient to cover a proper proportion of the cost of maintenance and of necessary repairs and improvements. The maintenance of any inmate of a state hospital, committed thereto upon a court order arising out of any criminal action, shall be paid by the county from which such inmate was committed.[1a] [Insanity Law, § 85, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 389, L. 1911, ch. 768, L. 1917, ch. 355, and L. 1918, ch. 568.]

§ 4. RELATIVES TO SUPPORT INSANE OTHER THAN THE POOR AND INDIGENT; DUTIES OF POOR OFFICERS.

The father, mother, husband, wife and children of an insane person, if of sufficient ability, and the committe or guardian of his person and estate, if his estate is sufficient for the purpose, shall cause him to be properly and suitably cared for and maintained.[2] The commission and the health officer of the city, town or village where any such insane person may be, or in the city of New York and in the county of Albany, the commissioners of public charities, may inquire into the

1a. Recovery for past support. A person receiving aid as a poor person from the officers of the poor, in the absence of representation on his part as to his responsibility or physical condition, incurs no liability to repay the amount expended in his behalf; but after commitment to a state hospital for the insane, the state may recover for cost of his maintenance, from time of his reception at such institution from a committee appointed subsequent to such commitment. City of Albany v. McNamara, 117 N. Y. 168; County of Oneida v. Bartholomew, 82 Hun, 80, 31 N. Y. Supp. 106, affd. 151 N. Y. 655; Agricultural Ins. Co. v. Barnard, 96 N. Y. 525.

2. Relatives of poor and indigent persons who are insane may be compelled to support such insane persons. Code Criminal Proc., sec. 914-920, post, p. 755. But in Long Island Hospital v. Stuart, 22 Misc. 48, 49 N. Y. Supp. 372, it was held that the Insanity Law does not make the relative liable for the cost of the support and maintenance of an insane person in a state hospital. By the preceding section of the Insanity Law, sec. 85, the commission in lunacy or the treasurer of each state hospital are authorized to secure from the patient's estate or from his relatives, reimbursement for the whole or a part of the money expended by the state in the care and maintenance of such patient.

Contract for support. Where the father of a lunatic who was not a pauper for whose support the county was chargeable, but whom he was himself bound to support and maintain, took her to the county poorhouse, under an agreement made by him with the superintendents of the poor to pay them a specified sum per week, for her board, it was held that this was a valid contract enforceable against the father. manner in which any such person is cared for and maintained; and if, in the judgment of any of them, he is not properly or suitably cared for, may apply, or cause application to be made, to a judge of a court of record for an order to commit him to a state hospital under the provisions of this article, but such order shall not be made unless the judge finds and certifies in the order that such insane person is not properly or suitably cared for by such relative or committee, or that it is dangerous to the public to allow him to be cared for and maintained by such relative or committee. The costs and charges of the commitment and transfer of such insane person to a state hospital shall be paid by the committee, or the father, mother, husband, wife or children of such person, to be recovered in an action brought in the name of the people by the commission, or in the name of the county, city or town, where such insane person resides or may be, by the proper officer thereof, or in the city of New York or in the county of Albany in the name of the commissioner of public charities. In all claims of the state upon relatives liable for the support of a patient, or upon moneys or property held by said patient, the state shall be deemed a preferred creditor. [Insanity Law, § 86, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 608, in effect Oct. 1, 1910.]

§ 5. SUPERINTENDENTS AND OVERSEERS OF THE POOR TO SEE THAT INSANE POOR BE GRANTED RELIEF; HOSPITALS TO WHICH INSANE TO BE COMMITTED.

All county superintendents of the poor, overseers of the poor, health officers and other city, or county authorities, having duties to perform relating to the poor, are charged with the duty of seeing that all poor and indigent insane persons within their respective municipalities, are timely granted the necessary relief conferred by this chapter. The poor officers or authorities above specified, except in the city of New York and in the county of Albany, shall notify the health officer of the town, city or village of any poor or indigent insane or apparently insane person within such municipality whom they know to be in need of the relief conferred by this chapter.[2a] When so notified, or when otherwise informed of such fact, the health officer of the city, town or village, except in the city of New York and the county of Albany, where such insane or apparently insane person may be, shall see that proceedings are taken for the determination of his mental condition and for his commitment to a state hospital. Such health officer may direct the proper poor officer to make an application for such commitment, and, if a qualified medical examiner, may join in making the required certificate of lunacy. When so directed by such health officer it shall be the duty of the said poor officer to make such application for commitment. When notified or informed of any poor

2-a. Designation of examiners of alleged insane; duty to notify health officer of existence of indigent insane. This section does not compel the designation of a health officer, who is a qualified examiner in lunacy, as one of the physicians to examine a person alleged to be insane and make the required certificate of lunacy. All city, town or county authorities, having duties to perform relating to the poor, except in the city of New York and the county of Albany, must notify the health officer of the town or of the village of any poor or indigent insane or apparently insane person within such municipality whom they know to be in need of the relief conferred by the Insanity Law. or indigent insane or apparently insane person in need of the relief conferred by this chapter, such health officer shall provide for the proper care, treatment and nursing of such person, as provided by law and the rules of the commission, pending the determination of his mental condition and his commitment and until the delivery of such insane person to the attendant sent to bring him to the state hospital, as provided in this chapter. In the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, in the city of New York, it shall be the duty of the trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals, and in the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond, in the city of New York and also in the county of Albany, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of public charities to see that all poor and indigent insane or apparently insane persons in such boroughs or county, respectively, are properly cared for and treated. It shall also be the duty of such trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals, or the commissioner of public charities of the city of New York or the county of Albany, to see that proceedings are taken for the determination of the mental condition of any such person in the boroughs or county mentioned, who comes under their observation or is reported to them as apparently insane, and when necessary, to see that proceedings are instituted for the commitment of such person to an institution for the care of the insane; provided that such report is made by any person with whom such alleged insane person may reside, or at whose house he may be, or by the father, mother, husband, wife, brother, sister, or child of any such person, or next of kin available, or by any duly licensed physician, or by any peace officer, or by a representative of an incorporated society doing charitable or philanthropic work. When the trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals are thus informed of an apparently insane person, residing in the boroughs of Manhattan or the Bronx, or when the commissioner of public charities of the city of New York is thus informed of an apparently insane person residing in the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens or Richmond, it shall be the duty of these authorities, respectively, to send a nurse or a medical examiner in lunacy, attached to the psychopathic wards of their respective institutions, or both, to the place where the alleged insane person resides or is to be found. If, in the judgment of the chief resident alienist of the respective psychopathic wards or of the medical examiner thus sent, the person is in immediate need of care and treatment or observation for the purpose of ascertaining his mental condition, he shall be removed to such psychopathic ward for a period not to exceed ten days, and the person or persons most nearly related to him, so far as the same can be readily ascertained by such trustees, or commissioner, shall be notified of such removal.

When an order of commitment has been made as provided in this chapter, such health officer, or, in the city of New York and in the county of Albany, the authorities above specified in their respective boroughs or county, shall see that such insane persons are, without unnecessary delay, transferred to the proper institutions provided for their care and treatment as the wards of the state. Before sending a person to any such institution, they shall see that he is in a state of bodily cleanliness and comfortably clothed with suitable or new clothing, in accordance with the regulations prescribed by the commission. Each patient shall be sent to the state hospital, within the district embracing the county from which he is committed, except that the commission may, in its discretion, direct otherwise, but private or public insane patients, for whom homeopathic care and treatment may be desired by their relatives, friends or guardians, may be committed to the Middletown state homeopathic hospital, or the Gowanda state homeopathic hospital, from any of the counties of the state, in the discretion of the judge granting the order of commitment; and the hospital to which any patient is ordered to be sent shall, by and under the regulations made by such commission, send a trained attendant to bring the patient to the hospital. Each female committed to any institution for the insane shall be accompanied by a female attendant, unless accompanied by her father, brother, husband or son. The commission may, by order, direct that any person it deems unsuitable therefor shall not be so employed or act as such attendant. After the patient has been delivered to the proper officers of the hospital, the care and custody of the municipality from which he is sent shall cease.

In no case shall any insane person be confined in any other place than a state hospital or duly licensed institution for the insane, for a period longer than ten days, nor shall such person be committed as a disorderly person to any prison, jail or lock-up for criminals. Except in the city of New York and the county of Albany, the health officer of the town, village or city wherein an insane or alleged insane person may be shall see that such person is cared for in a place suitable for the comfortable, safe and humane confinement of such person, pending the determination of the question of his sanity and until his transfer to a state hospital or some other proper institution for the insane as provided in this chapter. Such person shall not be confined in any such place without an attendant in charge of him, and the said health officer shall select some suitable person to act as such attendant.

The proper authorities of any such town, city or county may provide a permanent place for the reception and temporary confinement, care and nursing of insane or alleged insane persons which shall conform in all respects to the rules and requirements of the commission; all poor and indigent insane persons received at any such place for investigation of their mental condition or pending commitment and transfer to a state hospital shall be maintained therein at the expense of such town, city or county. Any person apparently insane, and conducting himself in a manner which in a sane person would be disorderly, may be arrested by any peace officer and confined in some safe and comfortable place until the question of his sanity be determined, as prescribed by this chapter. The officer making such arrest shall immediately notify the health officer of the town, village or city, except in the city of New York and in the county of Albany, who shall forthwith take proper measures for the determination of the question of the insanity of such person, and for his proper care and treatment as provided in this section, pending his transfer to an institution for the insane. Whenever in the city of New York an information is laid before a magistrate that a person is apparently insane the magistrate must issue a warrant directed to the sheriff of the county in which the information is made, or any marshal or policeman of the city of New York, reciting the substance of the information, and commanding the officer forthwith to arrest the person alleged to be insane, and bring him before the magistrate issuing the warrant. If upon arraignment it appears to the magistrate issuing the warrant that the person so arraigned before him is apparently insane it shall be the duty of the magistrate, if such information is laid in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, to commit such apparently insane person to the care and custody of the board of trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals at Bellevue hospital, and therein kept in a safe and comfortable place until the question of his sanity be determined as prescribed by this chapter, and in the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond the said magistrate shall commit such apparently insane person to the care of the commissioner of public charities who shall keep such person in a safe and comfortable place until the question of his sanity be determined as herein prescribed. Whenever in the city of New York a person is committed as apparently insane as above provided it shall be the duty of the board of trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals or the commissioner of public charities, as the case may be, to forthwith take proper measures for the determination of the question of the insanity of such person. [Insanity Law, § 87, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 608, and L. 1912, ch. 121.]

§ 6. APPREHENSION AND CONFINEMENT OF DANGEROUS INSANE; DUTIES OF SUPERINTENDENTS AND OVERSEERS OF THE POOR.

When an insane person is possessed of sufficient property to maintain himself, or his father, mother, husband, wife or children are of sufficient ability to maintain him, and his insanity is such as to endanger his own person, or the person and property of others, the committee of his person or estate, or such father, mother, husband, wife or children must provide a suitable place for his confinement, and there maintain him in such manner as shall be approved by the health officer of the town, village or city where he is confined, and in accordance with the rules of the commission.[3a] The health officers of towns, villages and cities, or in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx in the city of New York the board of trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals, and in the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond, in said city, and also in the county of Albany, the commissioner of public charities are required to see that the provisions of this section are carried into effect in the most humane and speedy manner.

Upon the refusal or neglect of a committee, guardian or relative of an insane person to cause him to be confined, as required in this chapter, the officers named in this section shall apply, or cause application to be made, to a judge of a court of record of the city or county, or to a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district in which such insane person may reside or be found, who, upon being satisfied, upon proper proofs, that such person is dangerously insane and improperly cared for or at large, shall issue a precept to one or more of the officers named, commanding them to apprehend and confine such insane person in some comfortable and safe place; and such officers in apprehending such insane person shall possess all the powers of a peace officer executing a warrant of arrest in a criminal proceeding.[4] Unless an order of commitment has been previously granted, such officers shall forthwith make, or cause to be made, application for the proper order for his commitment to the proper institution for the care, custody and treatment of the insane, as authorized by this chapter, and if such order is granted, such officer shall take the necessary legal steps to have him transferred to such institution. Pending such transfer the health officer of the proper town, village or city, and, in the city of New York and the county of Albany, the officers above named for the respective boroughs, or county, shall see that such insane person is cared for in a suitable place and is provided with proper medical care and nursing.[5] The cost and expense incurred by the health officer in the performance of his duties under this section shall, when allowed by the judge or justice ordering the commitment, be a charge against the town, city or county liable for the costs of the commitment of an insane person under this chapter and shall be paid in the manner prescribed by section eighty-four of this chapter.[6] [Insanity Law, § 88, as amended by L. 1910. ch. 608, and L. 1912, ch. 121; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2483.]

§ 7. DISCHARGE OF PATIENTS; DUTIES OF SUPERINTENDENT OF THE POOR.

The superintendent of a state hospital, on filing his written certificate with the commission, may discharge any patient, except one held upon an order of a court or judge having criminal jurisdiction in an action or proceeding arising out of a criminal offense at any time, as follows:

1. A patient who, in his judgment, is recovered.
2. A patient who, in his opinion, is a dotard, not insane.

5. Unlawful confinement; harsh treatment. A person who confines an idiot, lunatic or insane person, in any other manner or in any other place than as authorized by law, and a person guilty of harsh, cruel or unkind treatment of or any neglect of duty towards any idiot, lunatic or insane person under confinement, whether lawfully or unlawfully confined, is guilty of a misdemeanor. Penal Law, § 1121.

6. Application of section. The above section relates to dangerously insane persons. The father is therein required to provide a suitable place for his lunatic son's confinement, and upon his refusal or neglect so to do, legal proceedings may be instituted, and a commitment ordered on proper proof. Long Island State Hospital v. Stuart, 22 Misc. 48, 51; 49 N. Y. Supp. 372.

It is the duty of the committee or relatives of a lunatic to provide for his confinement if he be dangerously insane; and in case of their neglect the duty is imposed on certain public officers. Perkins v. Mitchell, 31 Barb. 461, 473.

3. Any patient who is not recovered but whose discharge in the judgment of the superintendent, will not be detrimental to the public welfare, or injurious to the patient; provided, however, that before making such certificate, the superintendent shall satisfy himself, by sufficient proof, that friends or relatives of the patient are willing and financially able to receive and properly care for such patient after his discharge. When the superintendent is unwilling to certify to the discharge of an unrecovered patient upon request, and so certifies in writing, giving his reason therefor, any judge of a court of record in the judicial district in which the hospital is situated may, upon such certificate and an opportunity of a hearing thereon being accorded the superintendent, and upon such other proofs as may be produced before him, direct, by order, the discharge of such patient, upon such security to the people of the state as he may require, for the good behavior and maintenance of the patient. The certificate and the proof of the order granted thereon shall be filed in the clerk's office of the county in which the hospital is situated, and a certified copy of the order in the hospital from which the patient is discharged. The superintendent may grant a parole to a patient, not exceeding one year, under general conditions prescribed by the commissioner. The hospital paroling a patient shall not be liable for his expenses while on parole. Such liability shall devolve upon the relative, committee or person to whose care the patient is paroled, or the proper poor official of the town or county in which he may have found domicile.

The commission may, by order, discharge any patient in its judgment improperly detained in any institution. A poor and indigent patient discharged by the superintendent, because he is an idiot, or a dotard not insane, or an epileptic, not insane, or because he is not a proper case for treatment within the meaning of this chapter, shall be received and cared for by the superintendent of the poor or other authority having similar powers, in the county from which he was committed. A patient, held upon an order of a court or judge having criminal jurisdiction, in an action or proceeding arising from a criminal offense, may be discharged upon the superintendent's certificate of recovery, approved by any such court or judge.[7] tendent or physician in charge of a licensed private institution, on filing his written certificate with the commission, may discharge any patient who is recovered, or if not recovered, whose discharge will not be detrimental to the public welfare, or injurious to the patient. The superintendent or physician in charge of such institution may, subject to the approval of the commission, refuse to discharge any patient, if, in his judgment, such discharge will be detrimental to the public welfare or injurious to the patient, and if the committee or relatives of such patient to provide properly for his care and treatment, the superintendent or physician in charge of such institution may apply to the commission for the transfer of the patient to a state hospital, provided the patient so sought to be transferred is a legal resident of the district in which the hospital is located, to which the transfer is sought.

The superintendent or physician in charge of a licensed private institution may grant a parole to a patient not exceeding six months, under general conditions prescribed by the commission. [Insanity Law, § 94, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 121, and L. 1917, ch. 335; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2487.]

§ 8. MANNER OF RECEIVING PUPILS AT THE SYRACUSE STATE INSTITUTION FOR FEEBLE-MINDED CHILDREN.[8]

Feeble-minded children may be received into such institution upon the official application of a county superintendent of the poor, or the commissioners of charity of a city of the state having such officers. In the admission of feeble-minded children, preference shall be given to poor or indigent children over all others, and to such as are able or have parents able to support them only in part, over those who are or who have parents who are able to wholly support such children. § 9. DISCHARGE OF STATE PUPILS FROM SUCH INSTITUTION; EXPENSE OF RETURN TO BE AUDITED BY SUPERINTENDENT OF THE POOR.

When the manager shall direct a state pupil to be discharged from the institution, the superintendent thereof may return him to the county from which he was sent, and the superintendent of the poor of the county shall audit and pay the actual and reasonable expenses of such return.[9] If any town, county or person is legally liable for the support of such pupil, such expenses may be recovered by action in the name of the county by such superintendent of the poor. If the superintendent of the poor neglect or refuse to pay such expenses on demand, the treasurer of the institution may pay the same and charge the amount to the county; and the treasurer of the county shall pay the same with interest after thirty days, out of any funds in his hands not otherwise appropriated; and the supervisors shall raise the amount so paid as other county charges. [State Charities Law, § 69, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 449; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5399.]

§ 10. EXPENSE OF CLOTHING STATE PUPILS TO BE PAID BY COUNTY; SUPPORT OF PUPILS TO BE PAID BY PARENTS AND RELATIVES; EXPENSE OF REMOVAL.

The supervisors of any county from which state pupils may have been received shall cause to be raised annually, while such pupils remain in the institution, the sum of twenty dollars for each pupil, for the purpose of furnishing suitable clothing, which shall be paid to the treasurer of the institution on or before the first day of April.[10] The superintendent may agree with the parent, guardian or committee of a feeble-minded child, or with any person, for the support, maintenance and clothing of such a child at the institution, upon such terms and conditions as may be prescribed, in the by-laws, or approved by the managers. Every parent, guardian, committee, or other person applying for the admission into the institution of a feeble-minded child who is able, or whose parents or guardians are of sufficient ability to provide for his maintenance therein, shall at the time of his admission, deliver to the superintendent an undertaking, with one or more sureties, to be approved by the managers, conditioned for the payment to the treasurer of the institution of the amount agreed to be paid for the support, maintenance and clothing of such feeble-minded child, and for the removal of such child from the institution without expense thereto, within twenty days after the service of the notice hereinafter provided. If such child, his parents or guardians are of sufficient ability to pay only a part of the expense of supporting and maintaining him such undertaking shall be only for his removal from the institution as above mentioned; and the superintendent may take security by note or other written agreement, with or without sureties, as he may deem proper, for such part of such expenses as such child, his parents or guardians are able to pay, subject, however, to the approval of the managers in the manner that shall be prescribed in the by-laws. Notice to remove a pupil shall be in writing, signed by the superintendent and directed to the parents, guardians, committee or other person upon whose request the pupil was received at the institution, at the place of residence mentioned in such request, and deposited in the post-office at Syracuse with the postage prepaid. If the pupil shall not be removed from the institution within twenty days after service of such notice, according to the conditions of the agreement and undertaking, he may be removed and disposed of by the superintendent as herein provided, in relation to state pupils, and the provisions of this article respecting the payment and recovery of the expenses of the removal and disposition of a state pupil, shall be equally applicable to expenses incurred under this section. This section, as amended, shall supersede and control any other provision of this chapter inconsistent herewith in its application to such institution. § 11. COMMITMENTS TO ROME STATE CUSTODIAL ASYLUM; DUTIES OF SUPERINTENDENT OF THE POOR.

The superintendents of the poor of the various counties of the state may commit to such asylum, if vacancies exist therein, such feeble-minded persons and idiots residing in their respective counties, or who are inmates of county almshouses, according to the by-laws and regulations of the asylum. All commitments shall be in the form prescribed by the board of managers. Insane idiots or epileptics shall not be committed to such asylum. The maintenance of the institution and inmates thereof shall be a charge upon the state, except that a feeble-minded person or idiot who is possessed of sufficient property to pay for maintenance in the asylum, or the father, mother, committee or guardian who is responsible for the care of such feeble-minded person and is financially able in the judgment of the board of managers to reimburse the state in addition to a proper financial ability to support himself and remaining family, shall pay the treasurer of the asylum yearly an amount equal to the yearly per capita cost of such maintenance as determinated by the board of managers yearly, and upon the refusal of such parent, committee or guardian to make payment as herein provided the superintendent of such asylum may bring action in the name of the asylum to recover for such reimbursement to the state for such maintenance. Where it becomes necessary to have a committee of a feeble-minded incompetent person appointed to legally settle an estate in which such incompetent feeble-minded person has a legal or financial interest, the superintendent of the asylum is hereby empowered to make application to a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of such committee. [State Charities Law, § 94, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 165; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5403.]

§ 12. ADMISSION OF PATIENTS TO CRAIG COLONY FOR EPILEPTICS; APPLICATIONS BY SUPERINTENDENTS OF THE POOR; POOR EPILEPTICS TO BE PLACED IN COLONY.

1. The superintendent of the poor or the proper city poor law officer shall have two qualified physicians examine each eligible candidate for admission to the Craig Colony for Epileptics as to mental competency and have them state in writing, under affidavit on prescribed forms the results of such examination of the applicant. Such examiner shall not be a relative of the applicant or a manager, superintendent or be otherwise connected with the Craig Colony for Epileptics and shall be a reputable physician, a graduate of an incorporated medical school and shall be in the actual practice of his profession for at least three years. The superintendent of the poor or city poor law officer mentioned under the laws governing the colony shall then if the applicant appears incompetent make application to a judge of a court of record of the county or a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district in which the alleged incompetent epileptic resides or may be, for the purpose of having the incompetency of such applicant determined in the usual manner. If the applicant is adjudged incompetent he shall then be committed by the court to the Craig Colony for Epileptics under the provisions of this act.

2. All applicants for admission to the Craig Colony for Epileptics, who are alleged to be incompetent mentally shall have an opportunity for a hearing before the court to whom the application is to be made for the commitment of the applicant to the said Craig Colony for Epileptics.

Notice of the application for commitment shall be served personally at least three days before making such application, upon the epileptic alleged to be incompetent and also upon the husband or wife, father or mother or next of kin to such alleged incompetent epileptic, if there be any such known to be residing within the county and if not, upon the person with whom such alleged incompetent epileptic may at the time reside.

The judge, to whom the application is to be made, may dispense with such personal service or may direct substitute service to be made upon some person to be designated by him. He shall in the certificate to be attached to the application form state his reason for dispensing with personal service, if such service is not deemed necessary or advisable. The judge to whom such application is made, may if no demand is made for a hearing in behalf of the alleged incompetent, proceed forthwith to determine the question of incompetency and if satisfied that the alleged epileptic is incompetent may issue an order for the commitment of such person to the custody of the Craig Colony for Epileptics. Such judge may in his discretion require other proofs in addition to the petition and certificate of the medical examiner and before mentioned poor law officer.

3. The order of commitment shall be accompanied by a written statement of the judge as to the financial condition of the incompetent epileptic and of the persons legally liable for his maintenance as far as can be ascertained. The superintendent of the Craig Colony for Epileptics shall, whenever a vacancy exists in the quota allowed the county of which the applicant is a legal resident, admit the applicant. The petition of the applicant, the certificate of the medical examiners, the order directing a further hearing as provided in this section, if one be issued, and the decision of the judge or referee, and the order of commitment shall be presented at the time of the commitment to the superintendent of Craig Colony for Epileptics and verbatim copies shall be forwarded by such superintendent and filed in the office of the state board of charities. The superintendent of Craig Colony for Epileptics may refuse to receive any person upon any such order, if the papers required to be presented shall not comply with the provisions of this section, or if in his judgment, such person is not epileptic within the meaning of this statute, or if received, such person may be discharged.

If a person ordered to be committed, pursuant to this chapter, or any friend in his behalf, is dissatisfied with the final order of a judge or justice committing him, he may within ten days after the making of such order appeal therefrom to a justice of the supreme court other than the justice making the order, who shall cause a jury to be summoned as in case of proceedings for the appointment of a committee for the incompetent person, and shall try the question of such incompetency in the same manner as in proceedings for the appointment of a committee. If the verdict of the jury be that such person is incompetent, the justice shall certify that fact and make an order of commitment as upon the original hearing. Such order shall be presented, at the time of the commitment of such incompetent epileptic, to the superintendent in charge of said colony to which the person is committed, and a copy thereof shall be forwarded to the state board of charities by such superintendent or person in charge and filed in the office thereof. Proceedings under the order shall not be stayed pending an appeal therefrom, except upon an order of a justice of the supreme court, and made upon a notice, and after a hearing, with provisions made therein for such temporary care or confinement of the alleged incompetent epileptic as may be deemed necessary. If a judge shall refuse to grant an application for an order of commitment of an incompetent epileptic proved to be dangerous to himself or others, if at large he shall state his reason for such refusal in writing, and any person aggrieved thereby may appeal therefrom in the same manner and under like conditions as from an order of commitment.

4. The costs necessarily incurred in determining the question of the incompetency of a poor or indigent epileptic under this chapter including the fees allowed by the judge or justice ordering the commitment to the medical examiner or medical witnesses called by him and other necessary expenses, and in securing the admission of such person into said colony and the expense of providing proper clothing for such person in accordance with the rules and regulations adopted by the state board of charities, shall be a charge upon the town, city or county in which the alleged incompetent epileptic shall have gained a legal settlement under the provisions of the poor law and in case such person has gained no such legal settlement, then such expense shall be a charge upon the county in which the incompetent person may be at the time of the commitment; but in the city of New York all fees of medical examiners and medical witnesses appointed or called by a judge of any court of said city for the purpose of determining the question of the incompetency of such person, and not heretofore paid, may be audited and allowed in the first instance either by the judge or justice appointing the medical examiners or by the comptroller of said city and shall be paid by the chamberlain of said city on the warrant of the comptroller from the court fund and charged to the proper county within said city. If the person sought to be committed is not a poor or indigent person, the costs and expenses of the proceeding to determine his incompetency and secure his commitment paid by any town, city or county may be collected by it from the estate of such person, or from the persons legally liable for his maintenance.

5. It shall be the duty of said colony, and for that purpose it is hereby vested with the authority to detain all such mentally incompetent epileptics as shall be duly committed thereto in accordance with the provisions of law and the rules and regulations of said colony including the right to arrest and return any who may escape therefrom, until duly discharged by the board of managers of said colony, or by an order of the supreme court.

6. The superintendent of the Craig Colony for Epileptics shall be given power under this act to secure the commitment of such of its inmates who, after being admitted in any other manner than by commitment, prove after examination to be mentally incompetent, after an opportunity has been given the relatives or legal guardian of such patient to be heard, such commitment to be made by the court in the case of such an individual the same as in case of a person regularly committed at the time of admission to the colony.

7. It shall be the duty of the superintendent of the poor in every county and of the poor authorities of every city to furnish annually to the state board of charities, a list of all epileptics in their respective jurisdictions, so far as the same can be ascertained with such particulars as to the condition of such epileptic as shall become a charge for his or her maintenance on any of the towns, cities or counties of this state. It shall be the duty of all poor authorities of such city, and of the county superintendent of the poor, and of the supervisors of such county, to place such epileptics in the said colony, as soon as accommodations are available. Any parent, guardian or friend of an epileptic within this state may make application to the poor authorities of any city or the superintendent of the poor of any county where such epileptic resides, showing by satisfactory affidavit or other proof, that the health, morals, comfort or welfare of such epileptic may be endangered or not properly cared for, if not placed in such colony; and thereupon it shall be the duty of such officer or board to whom such application may be made to place such epileptic in said colony when accommodations are available. The board of supervisors shall provide for the support of such patients, except those properly supported by the state, and may recover for the same from the parents or guardians.[13] Preference shall always be given to poor or indigent epileptics, or the epileptic children of poor or indigent persons, over all others; and preference shall always be given to such as are able to support themselves only in part, over those who are able or who have parents who are able wholly to furnish such support.

8. There shall be received and gratuitously supported in the colony, epileptics of normal mentality residing in the state, who, if of age, are unable, or if under age whose parents or guardians are unable to provide for their support therein. They shall be designated state patients. All such epileptics of normal mentality shall be received into the colony, only upon the official application of a county superintendent of the poor,

13. Accounts for support of patients chargeable to a county should be submitted to the clerk of the board of supervisors in the manner prescribed by the State Charities Law, § 47, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 405.

As to the audit of such accounts by the board of supervisors, see County Law, sec. 12, ante, p. 24.

or the poor authorities of any city upon forms approved by the state board of charities containing the written request of the persons desiring to send them, stating the name, age, place of nativity, if known, the town, city or county in which such applicants respectively reside and the ability of their respective parents or guardians or others to provide for their support in whole or in part, and if in part only, stating what part; and stating also the degree of relationship or other circumstances of connection between the applicant and the persons requesting their admission; which statement in all cases must be verified by the affidavits of the petitioners and accompanied by the opinions regarding epilepsy and mental competency, with affidavit, of a qualified physician; all residents of the same county with the epileptic patient and all acquainted with the facts and circumstances stated. An epileptic of proved normal mentality thus received shall not be detained after he or his relative nearest of kin or legal guardian, if a minor, shall have given due notice in writing of his or their intention to leave or remove him from the colony. Such additional number of epileptics as can be conveniently accommodated shall be received into the colony by the managers on such terms as shall be just and shall be designated as private patients. [State Charities Law, § 109, as added by L. 1914, ch. 39; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5411.]

§ 13. SUPPORT OF STATE PATIENTS AT CRAIG COLONY; PAYMENT OF EXPENSE OF CLOTHING BY COUNTIES.

State patients shall be provided with proper board, lodging, medical treatment, care and tuition; and the managers of the colony shall receive for each state patient supported therein a sum not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars per annum; which payments, if any, shall be made by the treasurer of the state, on the warrant of the comptroller, to the treasurer of the said colony, on his presenting the bill of the actual time and number of patients in the colony, signed and verified by the superintendent and treasurer of the colony and by the president and secretary of its board of managers, and approved by the fiscal supervisor. The supervisors of any county from which such patients may have been received into the colony shall cause to be raised annually while such patients remain in the colony, the sum of thirty dollars for each of such state patients for the purpose of furnishing suitable clothing, and the same shall be paid to the treasurer of the colony on or before the first day of April of each year.[14] [State Charities Law, § 110, as amended by L. 1909, ch. 149, B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5412.]

§ 14. APPORTIONMENT OF STATE PATIENTS AMONG COUNTIES.

Whenever applications are made at one time for admission of more state patients than can be properly accommodated in the colony, the managers shall so apportion the number received, that each county may be represented in a ratio of its dependent epileptic population to the dependent epileptic population of the state, as shown by statistics furnished by the state board of charities. [State Charities Law, § 111; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 5412.]

§ 15. STATE, NONRESIDENT AND ALIEN POOR NOT TO BE ADMITTED TO CERTAIN INSTITUTIONS.

A poor person shall not be admitted as an inmate into a state institution for the feeble-minded, or epileptics, unless a resident of the state for one year next preceding the application for his admission. The state board of charities, and any of its members or officers, may at any time, visit and inspect any institution subject to its supervision to ascertain if any inmates

All such appointments, with the exception of those to the institution for the blind in the village of Batavia, shall be made by the commissioner of education upon application, and in those cases in which, in his opinion, the parents or guardians of the applicants are able to bear a portion of the expense, he may impose conditions whereby some proportionate share of expense of educating and clothing such pupils shall be paid by their parents, guardians or friends, in such manner and at such times as the commissioner shall designate, which conditions he may modify from time to time, if he shall deem it expedient to do so. [Education Law, § 972, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140, and L. 1912, ch. 60.]

§ 2. CLOTHING FOR STATE PUPILS ADMITTED TO DEAF AND DUMB INSTITUTIONS.

1. The supervisors of any county in this state from which county state pupils may be hereinafter appointed to any institution for the instruction of the deaf and dumb, whose parents or guardians are unable to furnish them with suitable clothing, are hereby authorized and required to raise in each year for each such pupil from said county, the sum of thirty dollars.

2. The supervisors of any county in this state from which state pupils shall be sent to and received in the New York institution for the blind, whose parents or guardians shall, in the opinion of the commissioner of education, be unable to furnish them with suitable clothing are hereby authorized and directed, in every year while such pupils are in said institution, to raise and appropriate thirty dollars for each of said pupils, and to pay the sum so raised to the said institution, to be by it applied to furnishing such pupils with suitable clothing while in said institution.

3. If in any case all or any of said moneys are not expended before the expiration of the periods of appointment of such pupils, as provided in the foregoing subdivisions of this section, then the unexpended residue shall go into the general clothing fund of the said institutions, to be devoted to furnishing state pupils with suitable clothing. [Subd. amended by L. 1917, ch. 179.]

4. If said sums shall not be paid to the said institutions, as required in subdivisions one and two of this section, within six months after the annual meeting of the supervisors of any of said counties, the sums so unpaid shall bear interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum, from the expiration of said six months until the same be paid. [Subd. amended by L. 1917, ch. 179.]

5. The supervisors of any county in this state from whose pauper institutions pupils shall be sent to the said institution for the blind, shall raise, appropriate and pay to the order of the comptroller of the state, towards the expense of educating and clothing such pupils, a sum equal to that which the county would have to pay to support the pupils as paupers at home. This subdivision does not apply to the counties of New York, Kings, Queens, Nassau and Suffolk.

6. The supervisors, or officers corresponding thereto, of the counties of New York, Kings, Queens, Nassau and Suffolk, from which state pupils shall be sent to and received in the New York institution for the blind, whose parents or guardians shall, in the opinion of the commissioner of education, be unable to furnish them with suitable clothing, are hereby authorized and directed, in every year while such pupils are in said institution, to raise and appropriate fifty dollars for each of said pupils from said counties respectively, and to pay the sum so raised, to the said institution, to be by it applied to furnishing such pupils with suitable clothing while in said institution.

7. If in any year hereafter there shall be any surplus of the amount above required to be paid yearly by the said counties for clothing for pupils from said counties, respectively, then such surplus shall be deducted pro rata the ensuing year from the amount above required to be paid by the said counties respectively. [Education Law, § 975, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

§ 3. ADMISSION OF PUPILS TO NEW YORK SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION.

All blind persons of suitable age and capacity for instruction, who are legal residents of the state, shall be entitled to the privileges of the New York state school for the blind, without charge, and for such a period of time in each individual case as may be deemed expedient by the board of trustees of said school; provided, that whenever more persons apply for admission at one time than can be properly accommodated in the school, the trustees shall so apportion the number received, but each county may be represented in the ratio of its blind population to the total blind population of the state; and provided further, that the children of citizens who died in the United States service, or from wounds received therein during the late rebellion, shall take precedence over all others. [Education Law, § 991, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

Blind persons from without the state may be received into the school upon the payment of an adequate sum, fixed by the trustees, for their boarding and instruction; provided that such applicant shall in no case exclude those from the state of New York. [Education Law, § 992, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

Applications for admission into the school shall be made to the board of trustees in such manner as they may direct, but the board shall require such application to be accompanied by a certificate from the county judge or county clerk of the county or the supervisor or town clerk of the town, or the mayor of the city where the applicant resides, setting forth that the applicant is a legal resident of the town, county and state claimed as his residence. [Education Law, § 993, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

§ 4. CLOTHING AND TRAVELING EXPENSES OF THOSE ADMITTED TO STATE SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND; WHEN TO BE FURNISHED OR PAID FOR BY THE COUNTY.

1. When any blind person shall, upon proper application, be admitted into the school, it shall be the duty of his parents, guardians or other friends, to suitably provide such person with clothing at the time of entrance and during continuance therein, and likewise to defray his traveling expenses to and from the school, at the time of entrance and discharge, as well as at the beginning and close of each session of the school, and at any other time when it shall become necessary to send such person home on account of sickness or other exigency.

2. And whenever it shall be deemed necessary by the trustees to have such person permanently removed from the school, in accordance with the by-laws and regulations thereof, the same shall be promptly removed upon their order, by his parents, guardians or other friends. [Education Law, § 1004, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

1. If the friends of any pupil from within the state of New York shall fail through neglect or inability to provide the same with proper clothing or with funds to defray his necessary traveling expenses to and from the school, or to remove him therefrom, as required in the preceding section, the trustees shall furnish such clothing, pay such traveling expenses, or remove such pupil to the care of the overseers of the poor of his township, and charge the cost of the same to the county to which the pupil belongs, provided that the annual amount of such expenditures on account of any one pupil shall not exceed the sum of sixty dollars.

2. And in case of the death of any pupil at the school, whose remains shall not be removed or funeral expenses borne by the friends thereof, the trustees shall defray the necessary burial expenses, and charge the same to his county as aforesaid.

3. Upon the completion of their course of training in the industrial department, the trustees may furnish to such worthy poor pupils as may need it, an outfit of machinery and tools for commencing business, at a cost not exceeding seventy-five dollars each, and charge the same to the proper county as aforesaid. [Education Law, § 1005, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

§ 5. ITEMIZED ACCOUNTS AGAINST COUNTIES, PAYMENT OF SUCH ACCOUNTS.

On the first day of October in each year, the trustees shall cause to be made out against the respective counties concerned, itemized accounts, separate in each case, of the expenditures authorized by the preceding section, and forward the same to the board of supervisors chargeable with the account.[1] The board shall thereupon direct the county treasurer to pay the amount so charged to the treasurer of the institution for the blind, on or before the first day of March next ensuing. [Education Law, § 1006, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

The counties against which said accounts shall be made out as aforesaid, shall cause their respective treasurers, in the name of their respective counties, to collect the same, by legal process, if necessary, from the parents or estates of the pupils who have the ability to pay, on whose account the said expenditures shall have been made; provided that at least five hundred dollars' value of the property of such parents or estate shall be exempt from the payment of the accounts aforesaid.[2] [Education Law, § 1007, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

§ 6. INDIGENT DEAF-MUTES TO BE PLACED IN INSTITUTIONS; APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION; WHEN EXPENSE A CHARGE AGAINST COUNTY.

Whenever a deaf-mute child under the age of twelve years shall become a charge for its maintenance on any of the towns or counties of this state, or shall be liable to become such charge, it shall be the duty of the overseers of the poor of such town or of the board of supervisors of such county to place such child in one of the institutions enumerated in the next section. [Education Law, § 977, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

Upon the application of any parent, guardian or friend of a deaf-mute child, within this state, over the age of five years and under the age of twelve years, the overseer of the poor or the supervisor of the town where such child may be, shall place such child in one of the institutions authorized by the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-two, chapter thirty-six, to receive such pupils as follows:

5. The Albany home school for the oral instruction of the deaf at Albany; or,

6. To any other institution in the state for the education of deaf-mutes as to which the state board of charities shall have filed with the commissioner of education a certificate to the effect that said institution has been duly organized and is prepared for the reception and instruction of such pupils. [Education Law, § 978, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 140.]

The children placed in said institutions, in pursuance of the last two sections, shall be maintained therein at the expense of the county from where they came, but such expense shall not exceed three hundred and fifty dollars each per year, until they attain the age of twelve years, unless the directors of the institution to which a child has been sent shall find that such child is not a proper subject to remain in said institution, provided, however, that during the continuance of the war with the German empire and its allies and until the thirtieth day of June following the termination thereof, such expense for each child may be at the rate of not to exceed four hundred dollars per year. [Education Law, § 979, as amended by L. 1910, chs. 140, 322, and by L. 1917, ch. 179, and L. 1918, ch. 243.]

The expenses for the board, tuition and clothing for such deaf-mute children, placed as aforesaid in said institutions not exceeding, for each child, the amount of expense for maintenance allowed by the preceding section, shall be raised and collected as are other expenses of the county from which such children shall be received; and the bills therefor, properly authenticated by the principal or one of the officers of the institution, shall be paid to said institution by the said county; and its county treasurer or chamberlain, as the case may be, is hereby directed to pay the same on presentation, so that the amount thereof may be borne by the proper county. [Education Law, § 980, as amended by L. 1910, chs. 140, 322, L. 1917, ch. 179, and L. 1918, ch. 243.]

§ 7. PUPILS MAY BE SENT TO WESTERN NEW YORK INSTITUTION FOR DEAF MUTES.

Supervisors of towns and wards and overseers of the poor are hereby authorized to send to the Western New York Institution for Deaf-Mutes, deaf and dumb persons between the age of six and twelve years, in the same manner and upon the same conditions as such persons may be sent to the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, under the provisions of chapter three hundred and twenty-five of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-three. [L. 1876, ch. 331, § 2.]

§ 8. ADMISSION OF PUPILS TO NORTHERN NEW YORK INSTITUTION FOR DEAF MUTES AT MALONE.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

GENERAL POWERS AND DUTIES OF OVERSEER OF THE POOR IN RESPECT TO RELIEF OF POOR.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Overseers of the Poor.

Overseers of the poor are town officers. The number, election and qualifications of such officers are considered in chapter xx. In this chapter we will treat of their powers and duties in respect to the relief of the poor. Subsequent chapters will treat of their duties as to the settlement of poor persons, the care of bastards and other subjects.

Relief of Poor Persons in County Alms-house.

The theory of the law is that all poor persons who require permanent relief, and who may be safely removed, shall be relieved and provided for in the county alms-house. The overseer must consider the circumstances of each person requiring relief, and remove him to the alms-house or support him in the town, as seems most suitable.

Relief of Poor Persons Generally.

A person needing relief, either temporary or permanently, must apply to the overseer of the poor. After investigation the overseer is to furnish such relief as the necessities of the person may require. If the person relieved resides in the town, the cost of the relief is a charge upon the town. If he does not reside in the town, the overseer is allowed such sums as he necessarily expends, to be paid by the county treasurer, on the order of the county superintendent. If it appears that the person applying for relief should be relieved and cared for at his home, or is in such physical condition that he cannot be removed to the alms-house, the overseer must apply to the supervisor of the town for an order to expend such sum as may be required for such relief. Such order entitles the overseer to receive, either from the county treasurer or the supervisor, the amount expended or contracted to be paid by such overseer in giving such relief. Unless rules and regulations have been adopted by the board of supervisors, as provided by section 13 of the Poor Law, ante, page 680, not more than ten dollars can be expended by the overseer for the temporary relief of a poor person, without the written sanction of the superintendent of poor.

Where there is no alms-house in a county, the overseer may, with the written approval of the supervisor, make an order in writing for such allowance, weekly or otherwise, as the necessities of the poor persons require.

The overseer must examine monthly into the conditions and necessities of each person supported by the town out of the alms-house, and provide for such allowances, weekly or otherwise, as the circumstances may in his judgment require.

Settlement of Accounts ; Books to be Kept.

All accounts for care, support, supplies or attendance must be settled once in three months and paid, if there are available funds. All accounts must be verified before audit by the overseer.

The overseer must keep a book in which he must enter the name, etc., of each poor person relieved by him, and a statement of the causes, direct or indirect, which operated to render relief necessary. He must also enter the moneys paid out and received on account of each person relieved. Such book must be laid before the town board at its first annual meeting, together with an itemized account of moneys received and paid out.

Estimates of Expenditures.

Overseers of the poor must present to the town board at its meeting held on the Thursday before the annual meeting of the board of supervisors, an estimate of the sum which they shall deem necessary to be raised for the support of the poor for the ensuing year. They should include in such estimate any deficiency in the town poor fund. The board of supervisors must cause the amount estimated to be raised by tax upon the town.

Poor Law, § 20.

SECTION 1. When poor persons to be relieved in county alms-house; duties of overseer of the poor in respect thereto.
2. Care of poor persons not to be put up at auction.
3. Expense of removal and temporary relief prior to removal to be paid to overseer by county treasurer.
4. Persons removed to county alms-house, how supported and when discharged.
5. Temporary relief of poor persons who cannot be removed to alms-houses; order of supervisor.
6. Relief of poor persons in counties having no alms-house.
7. Overseer to examine monthly the needs of the poor supported in his town; settlement of accounts; form of accounts and verification.
8. Books to be kept by overseers of the poor; overseers to present books to the town board; duties of the town board; overseer to have books of accounts present at town meeting.
9. Statement of accounts and estimate of overseer of the poor to be made to town board; approval of estimate by town board; if approved to be presented to board of supervisors.
10. Accounts of town officers.
11. Supervisor to report to clerk of board of supervisors, abstract of accounts of overseers of the poor.
12. Treatment of poor persons in hospitals.

§ 1. WHEN POOR PERSONS TO BE RELIEVED IN COUNTY ALMS-HOUSE; DUTIES OF OVERSEER OF THE POOR IN RESPECT THERETO.

When any person shall apply for relief to an overseer of the poor, in a county having an alms-house, such overseer shall inquire into the state and circumstances of the applicant; and if it shall appear that he is a poor person, and requires permanent relief and support, and can be safely removed, the overseer shall, by written order, cause such poor person to be removed to the county alms-house, or to be relieved and provided for, as the necessities of the applicant may require.[1] If the county be one where the Permanent relief for poor persons. The above section of the Poor Law was derived from R. S., pt. 1, ch. 20, tit. 1, sec. 39. Under the former law it was provided that a poor person who "is in such indigent circumstances as to require permanent relief and support, and can be easily removed, the overseer shall, by a written order, cause the poor person to be removed to the county poor house, or to the place provided as aforesaid to be relieved and provided for as the necessities of such applicant may require." But the above section has modified the law, and a poor person may now be removed to the alms-house or be relieved and provided for elsewhere as his necessities may require. It is doubtful, however, if the change thus made in this section was for the purpose of permitting the permanent relief of poor persons in a county having a county alms-house at a place other than such alms-house. Section 23 of the Poor Law, post, prescribes the method of granting temporary relief to poor persons at a place outside of an alms-house and permits the granting of relief to a poor person who is sick, lame or otherwise disabled so that he cannot be removed to the county alms-house. The law would therefore seem to contemplate the granting of permanent relief in the county alms-house in all cases except where temporary relief only is required, and where the poor person who seeks relief is sick, lame or disabled.

Under the old law it was held unless the poor person was an idiot or lunatic, the proper place for his maintenance was at the county alms-house. City of Rochester v. Supervisors of Monroe County, 22 Barb. 252; Nuns of the Order of St. Dominick v. Long Island City, 48 Hun, 306; Robbins v. Walcott, 66 Barb. 63.

In counties where there is no county poor house, and the towns are severally liable for the support of their own poor, moneys raised for the support of the poor are placed in the hands of the overseers of the poor; and when an overseer pays out money for the support of a pauper, or contracts for his support, he is entitled to appropriate the money, in the first case, and retain it in his own hands in the other. He has absolute control of the fund and is liable only for moneys not lawfully appropriated. Robbins v. Wolcott, 66 Barb. 63.

In the absence of express statutory provisions, there is no obligation or duty imposed upon towns to contribute to the support of persons residing within their limits. People ex rel. Blenheim v. Supervisors, 121 N. Y. 345; 24 N. E. 830.

Duties of overseer as to relief. The overseers are authorized by sec. 25 of the Poor Law, post, to examine into the condition and necessities of poor persons supported outside of county alms-houses. Under the above section the overseer is directed to investigate the state and circumstances of a person requiring permanent relief. The circumstances which control the exercise of the power to grant relief to poor persons are so various in the cases of different persons, and are so incapable of being defined by strict rules, that much must be left to the judgment and discretion of the officers. It was held in the case of City of Albany v. McNamara, 117 N. Y. 168; 22 N. E. 931, that the question as to the propriety of granting relief to a poor person is confided to the discretion of the poor authorities, and if they grant it, the presumption is that they have made such investigations as they deemed necessary and determined the question as to the right of the party to relief, and therefore their determination cannot be reviewed. In this case it was also held that where money had been supplied to a poor person by the officer without expectation of reimbursement, that such officer's misjudgment as to the necessities of the person relieved, raised no implied promise on the part of such poor person to repay the moneys expended in his behalf; and further, that the possession of some property by a person does not always and necessarily preclude him from a just claim for relief.

The public benefit conferred by the poor laws is personal to the individual. It is contemplated that he shall apply for the relief afforded thereby. It is no part of the duty of the overseer to seek him out and press these benefits to the county or not; and if no such designation be made, such person shall be deemed to belong to the town whose overseer made such order.[2] [Poor Law, § 20; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4239.]

§ 2. CARE OF POOR PERSONS NOT TO BE PUT UP AT AUCTION.

No officer or persons whose duty it may be to provide for the maintenance, care or support of poor persons at public expense, shall put up at auction or sale, the keeping, care or maintenance of any such poor persons to the lowest bidder, and every contract which may be entered into in violation of this provision shall be void. [Poor Law, § 143; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4282.]

Unless such poor person is properly chargeable to the town, the overseer, in addition to the expense of such removal, shall be allowed such sum as may have been necessarily paid out, or contracted to be paid, for the relief or support of such poor person, previous to such removal and as the superintendent shall judge was reasonably expended while it was improper or inconvenient to remove such poor person, which sum shall be paid by the county treasurer, on the order of the superintendent.[3] [Poor Law, § 21; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4239.]

§ 4. PERSONS REMOVED TO COUNTY ALMS-HOUSE, HOW SUPPORTED AND WHEN DISCHARGED.

The person so removed shall be received by the superintendents, or their agents, and be supported and relieved in a county alms-house until it shall appear to them that such person is able to maintain himself, or, if a minor, until he is bound out or otherwise cared for, as hereinafter upon him. The poor person is not the chooser of the place and manner of his support, and must take what is to be had in the way the law confers it. Smith v. Williams, 13 Misc. 761; 35 N. Y. Supp. 236.

2. For form of order of overseers of a town to remove a poor person to the county poor house, see Form No. 74, post.

3. For form of superintendent's order to pay expenses incurred by overseers for the removal of a poor person, see Form No. 75, post.

provided, when they may, in their discretion, discharge him. [Poor Law, § 22; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4240.]

§ 5. TEMPORARY RELIEF OF POOR PERSONS WHO CANNOT BE REMOVED TO AIMS-HOUSES; ORDER OF SUPERVISOR.

If it shall appear that the person so applying requires only temporary relief, or is sick, lame or otherwise disabled so that he cannot be conveniently removed to the county alms-house, or that he is a person who should be relieved and cared for at his home under article six,[4] of this chapter [the Poor Law], the overseers shall apply to the supervisor of the town, who shall examine into the facts and circumstances, and shall, in writing, order[5] such sums to be expended for the temporary relief of such poor person, as the circumstances of the case shall require, which order shall entitle the overseer to receive any sum he may have paid out or contracted to pay, within the amount therein specified, from the county treasurer, to be by him charged to the county, if such person be a county charge, if not, to be charged to the town where such relief was afforded; but no greater sum than ten dollars shall be expended or paid for the relief of any one poor person, or one family, without the sanction, in writing,[6] of one of the superintendents of the poor of the county, which shall be presented to the county treasurer, with the order of the supervisor, except when the board of supervisors or town board has made rules and regulations as prescribed in section thirteen of this chapter.[7] [Poor Law, § 23; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4240.]

6. For form of the written sanction of a county superintendent of the poor for the expenditure of a greater sum than $10 in the temporary relief of a poor person, see Form No. 77, post.

7. Power of overseer as to temporary relief. The question of the propriety of granting relief is primarily in the sound discretion of the overseer. If the overseer applies for an order for the granting of relief to a poor person, and the order is given by the supervisor, the presumption is that both the overseer and the supervisor examined into the necessities of the particular case, and that the condition of the poor person was such as to warrant the issuing of the order, and that the poor person was entitled to relief. Matter of Chamberlain, 73 Misc. 256. See also City of Albany v. McNamara, 117 N. Y. 168, 22 N. E. 931. A liability in excess of $10 cannot be incurred by the overseer without the sanction of one of the superintendents of the poor, but except in such a case, the overseer's power of granting temporary relief is independent of the control of the superintendents of the

§ 6. RELIEF OF POOR PERSONS IN COUNTIES HAVING NO ALMS-HOUSE.

If application for relief be made in any county where there is no county alms-house, the overseer of the town where such application is made shall inquire into the facts and circumstances of the case, and with the written approval of the supervisor of such town, make an order in writing for such allowance, weekly or otherwise, as they shall think required by the necessities of such poor person. If such poor person has a legal settlement in such town, or in any other town in the same county, the overseer shall apply the moneys so allowed to the relief and support of such poor person. The moneys so paid by him, or contracted to be paid, when the poor person had no legal settlement in the town, and charged to the town in which he had legal settlement, shall be drawn by such overseer from the county treasurer on producing such order. If such person has no legal settlement in such county, the overseer shall, within ten days after granting to him poor. Gere v. Supervisors, 7 How. Pr. 255; Nuns of St. Dominick v. Long Island City, 48 Hun, 306, 1 N. Y. Supp. 415.

Where an overseer refuses or neglects to apply for an order for the relief of a poor person settled in his town, an action will not lie against such overseer in behalf of a person who has supported such poor person at his own expense, voluntarily, and without request from such overseer. Milklaer v. Rockfeller, 6 Cow. 276.

A family which has been receiving poor relief from their town, should, upon their confinement under quarantine by the health board of the village within which they reside, be supported at town expense. Opinion of Atty. Genl., Feb. 14, 1913.

Order for relief. Under the law as it existed prior to 1896 the order was to be issued by a justice of the peace; under the present law such order is issued by the supervisor. The requirement of an order is a statutory protection against extravagant or improper expenditure by overseers of the poor. Osterhoudt v. Rigney, 98 N. Y. 222, 237.

If no fraud is shown and no injury results to a taxpayer, such taxpayer cannot maintain an action against an overseer of the poor for expending more than $10 for the relief of a poor person without the written consent of the supervisor. Cobb v. Remsdell, 14 N. Y. Supp. 93; 37 N. Y. St. Rep. 457. The inquiry as to the necessity of the order need not be made jointly by the overseer and supervisor. The order is the act of the supervisor and may be based upon his own examination. As has been already stated, it is presumed that the overseer has determined as to the necessity of the relief before making his application for an order. See Adams v. Supervisors of Columbia County, 8 Johns. 323.

The overseer of a town under this section cannot expend more than $10 for the temporary relief of a person who cannot be removed to the alms-house, unless he is authorized to do so by the order of the supervisor of the town and the written sanction of one of the superintendents of the poor of the county; he cannot compel the supervisor to make the order, and he has performed his entire duty when he has made the application therefor; he cannot be made liable for a neglect of duty where he has applied for the order and it has not been granted. Brazee v. Stewart, 59 App. Div. 476, 69 N. Y. Supp. 231.

any relief, give notice thereof, and that such person has no legal settlement in such county, to one of the county superintendents, and until the county superintendents shall take charge of the support of such poor person, the overseer shall provide for his relief and support, and the expense thereof from the time of giving such notice shall be paid to such overseer by the county treasurer, on the production of such order and of proof by affidavit of the time of the giving of such notice, and shall be by him charged to the county.[8] [Poor Law, § 24; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4241.]

The overseer of the poor of a town or city shall at least once each month, examine into the condition and necessities of each person supported by the town or city out of the county alms-house, and provide within the provisions of this chapter for such allowances, weekly or otherwise as the circumstances may in his judgment require.[9] All accounts for care, support, supplies or attendance, connected with the maintenance of such poor person or family, shall be settled, once in three months, and paid if there be funds for that purpose. No bill, claim or account for care, support, supplies or attendance, furnished to poor persons, by order of the overseer of the poor, or otherwise, shall be audited or allowed by the overseer, unless such bill,

8. Relief in counties having no alms-house. The law as it existed prior to 1896 was construed in the case of Robbins v. Walcott, 66 Barb. 62, where the court used the following language: "In those counties in which there is no poor house an overseer is authorized to make an order for the allowance of such sum, weekly or otherwise, as the necessities of the poor person may require. If such pauper has a legal settlement in the town where the application is made, or in any other town of the same county, the overseer is required to apply the money to the relief of such pauper. The money paid by the overseer, or contracted to be paid pursuant to such order, shall be drawn by him from the county treasury on producing the order. If such pauper has not a legal settlement in some town of the county in which the application is made, then notice is to be given to the superintendent of the poor, and the overseer may support the pauper after such notice and until the superintendent assumes his support, and the overseer is to be paid therefor from the county treasury."

9. The poor persons to whom allowances may be made as provided in this section, are those who, under sec. 20 of the Poor Law, ante, are relieved and provided for at a place other than an alms-house; those under sec. 23 of the Poor Law, ante, requiring temporary relief; those under sec. 24 of the Poor Law, ante, supported by towns in counties having no alms-house; and poor and indigent soldiers, sailors and marines, supported as provided in secs. 80-83 of the Poor Law, post.

claim, or account be verified by the claimant, to the effect that such care, support, supplies or attendance have been actually furnished for such poor persons, that such poor persons have actually received the same, and that the prices charged therefor are reasonable and not above the usual market rates.[10] [Poor Law, § 25; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4242.]

Overseers of the poor, who receive and expend money for the relief and support of the poor in their respective towns and cities, shall keep books to be procured at town or city expense, in which they shall enter the name, age, sex and native country of every poor person who shall be relieved or supported by them, together with a statement of the causes, either direct or indirect, which shall have operated to render such relief

Powers of overseers to contract. Overseers of the poor may contract for the support of poor persons within the scope of their authority; and contracts so made are valid and obligatory upon them in their official capacity and upon their successors; but if they transcend their authority, though they may be individually responsible, their successors are not. Palmer v. Vandenbergh, 3 Wend. 193. If an overseer makes a contract for the relief of a poor person, without the order or approval of the supervisor or other authority granted by statute, he may be held personally liable on such contract. King v. Butler, 15 Johns. 281. But the case of Olney v. Wicks, 18 Johns. 122, seems to hold a contrary doctrine. In that case it was held that, while the overseer contracts in his official capacity, and expressly intends in such capacity to bind the town, he is not personally responsible, and an action will not lie against him personally. And in the case of Holmes v. Brown, 13 Barb. 599, it was held that "the cases where an action has been held to lie against an overseer of the poor for the support of paupers, are placed upon the ground that the credit was given to the person individually, in his private capacity, and not as the officer or agent of the town."

In the case of Overseers of the Poor of Norwich v. Overseers of Pharsalia, 15 N. Y. 341, the town of Pharsalia was liable for the support of certain paupers who were for the time being in the town of Norwich. The overseer of Pharsalia promised the overseers of Norwich, that if they would provide for such paupers, he would pay the expenses incurred. It was held that it was not within the official power of the overseer of Pharsalia to make such a contract, and that the plaintiffs were confined to the remedy given by statute, viz., the audit of the account by the superintendents of the poor and the levying of the amount by the board of supervisors on the town of Pharsalia for the benefit of Norwich. This case did not involve the question necessary, so far as the same can be ascertained.[11] They shall also enter upon such books a statement of the name and age, and of the names and residences of the parents of every child who is placed by them in a family, with the name and address of the family with whom every such child is placed, and the occupation of the head of the family. They shall also enter upon books so procured, a statement of all moneys received by them, when and from whom, and on what account received, and of all moneys paid out by them, when and to whom paid and on what authority, and whether to town, city or county poor; also a statement of all debts contracted by them as such overseers, the names of the persons with whom such debts were contracted, the amount and consideration of each item, the names of the persons for whose benefit the debts were contracted, and if the same have been paid, the time and manner of such payment. The overseer shall lay such books before the board of town auditors or the common council of the city, at its first annual meeting in each year and, upon being given ten days' notice thereof, at any adjourned or special meeting of such board or council, together with a just, true and verified itemized account, of all moneys received and expended by them for the use of the poor since the last preceding annual meeting of said board, and a verified statement of debts contracted by them as such overseers and remaining unpaid.[12] The board or council shall compare said account with the entries of the personal liability of the overseers, but it was intimated that if the contract was not within the scope of the official power of the overseer, no action would lie thereon against the town.

Under section 10 of the Town Law, post, contracts of overseers are deemed the contracts of the town. This section has shifted the direct liability of town officers for contracts made by them to the town, and makes the town the proper party defendant or plaintiff in actions or special proceedings upon contracts in which the town is interested, and it has been held under that section that the contracts of overseers of the poor in the discharge of their official duties are the contracts of the town which alone may be sued upon them. Miller v. Bush, 87 Hun, 507; 34 N. Y. Supp. 286.

The omission of an overseer to lay his books of account before the town board, and the audit of his accounts by the board without a comparison of the items in the account with the items in the book is a mere irregularity, and does not deprive the board of the power to audit the claim. in the book and shall examine the vouchers in support thereof, and may examine the overseers of the poor, under oath, with reference to such account. They shall thereupon audit and settle the same, and state the balance due to or from the overseer, as the case may be. Such account shall be filed with the town or city clerk, and at every annual town meeting, the town clerk shall produce such town accounts for the next preceding year, and read the same, if it be required by the meeting. The overseers of the town shall have such books present each year at the annual town meeting, subject to the inspection of the voters of the town, and the entries thereon for the preceding year shall there be read publicly at the time reports of other town officers are presented, if required by a resolution of such meeting. No credit shall be allowed to any overseers for moneys paid, unless it shall appear that such payments were made necessarily or pursuant to a legal order. [Poor Law, § 26; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4242.]

§ 9. STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTS AND ESTIMATE OF OVERSEER OF THE POOR TO BE MADE TO TOWN BOARD; APPROVAL OF ESTIMATE BY TOWN BOARD; IF APPROVED TO BE PRESENTED TO BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Such overseers shall make to the town board, at its second annual meeting in each year,[13] a written report, stating their account as provided in the last section, continued to that date, and any deficiency that may then exist in the town poor fund, with their estimate of the sum which they shall deem necessary for the temporary and out door relief and support of the poor in their town for the ensuing year, and in counties where there is no county alms-house, their estimate of such sum as they shall deem

Reports of overseers as evidence in action against sureties. In an action against sureties upon the official bond of an overseer of the poor to recover the money misappropriated by such overseer, the reports made by the overseer under the provisions of this section are competent against the sureties as proof of the condition of his accounts, both as to receipts and disbursements. Town of Goshen v. Smith, 61 App. Div. 461, 70 N. Y. Supp. 623, affd. 173 N. Y. 597.

13. The second annual meeting of the town board of a town is held on the Thursday preceding the annual meeting of the board of supervisors. Town Law, sec. 133, ante. The accounts of overseers of the poor are to be presented to the town board at its first meeting held on the Tuesday preceding the biennial meeting and on a corresponding date in each alternate year (Town Law, sec. 132, ante), at the same time as the accounts of other town officers. The object of the report provided for by this section is to enable the town board to make an estimate of the amount that will be required during the ensuing year for the support of the poor.

necessary to be raised and collected therein for the support of the poor for the ensuing year. If such board shall approve the statement and estimate so made or any part thereof, they shall so certify in duplicate, one of which certificates shall be filed in the office of the town clerk, and the other shall be laid by the supervisor of the town, before the board of supervisors of the county, on the first day of its next annual meeting. If such overseers of any town shall fail or neglect to estimate the sum to be raised and collected for the support of the poor of their town for the ensuing year, or the supervisor of any town shall fail or neglect to present such estimate for the support of the poor of their town to the board of supervisors, the the board of supervisors shall estimate the sum to be raised and collected by such town for the support of the poor of such town, which estimate shall be based upon the amount of the cost of the support of the poor of such town for the preceding year. The board of supervisors shall cause the amount of such deficiency and estimates, as so certified, or the sum estimated by such board of supervisors, together with the sums voted by such town, for the relief of the poor therein to be levied and collected in such town, in the same manner as other town charges, to be paid to the overseers of the poor of such town, and the warrants attached to the tax-rolls in such county shall direct accordingly. The moneys so raised shall be received by such overseers, and applied toward the payment of such deficiency, and for the maintenance and support of the poor, for whose relief such estimates were made. The town board shall also, on or before

14. Where estimates are not made. Under ch. 334, L. 1845, from which in part the above section was derived, it appeared that an overseer of the poor instead of pursuing the system provided by the above section, procured supplies upon his own credit and presented his accounts annually to the board of audit for allowance, the amount audited being put in the schedule of accounts and levied by the board of supervisors with other town charges. It was held that the failure to follow the requirements of the statute did not deprive the overseer of his power to provide for the relief of the poor, and that the advances made by him were properly audited and charged against the town; that while the overseer was not bound to furnish supplies upon his own credit, and the act contemplates that he shall be put in funds in advance, under the provisions of the section, authorizing the town board to include in its estimate such sum as shall be necessary "to supply any deficiency in a preceding year," it had power to audit all sums expended where no provision had been made therefor the preceding year. the first day of December, annually certify to the county superintendents, the name, age, sex and native country, of every poor person relieved and supported by such overseers during the preceding year, with the causes which shall have operated to render them such poor persons, the amount expended for the use of such person, as allowed by the board, and the amount allowed to each overseer for the services rendered in relation to temporary or town relief. The town board shall include in such annual statement to the county superintendents and the county superintendents shall include in their own report to the state board of charities a statement of the name and age, and of the names and residence of the parents of every child who has been placed by such overseers in a family during the preceding year, with the name and address of the family with whom such child is placed, and the occupation of the head of the family. [Poor Law, § 27, as amended by L. 1909, ch. 429; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4245.]

§ 10. ACCOUNTS OF TOWN OFFICERS.

The accounts of any town officer for personal or official services rendered by him, in relation to the town poor, shall be audited and settled by the town board charged to such town. But no allowance for time of services shall be made to any officer for attending any board solely for the purpose of having his account audited or paid.[15] [Poor Law, § 28; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4244.]

§ 11. SUPERVISOR TO REPORT TO CLERK OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS, ABSTRACT OF ACCOUNTS OF OVERSEERS OF THE POOR.

The supervisor of every town in counties where all the poor are not a county charge, shall report to the clerk of the board of supervisors, within fifteen days after the accounts of the overseers of the poor have been settled by the town board at its first annual meeting in each year, an abstract of all such accounts, which shall exhibit the number of poor persons that have been relieved or supported in such town the preceding year, specifying the number of county poor, and town poor, the whole expense of such support, the allowance made to overseers, justices, constables or other officers, which shall not comprise any part of the actual expense of maintaining the poor.[16] [Poor Law, §141; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4282.]

§ 12. TREATMENT OF POOR PERSONS IN HOSPITALS.

1. Any city or county, in which a hospital duly incorporated is situated, may send to and support, in the same, such sick and disabled indigent persons as require medical or surgical treatment, and when admitted the authorities of such city or county shall pay to such hospital such sum per week as may be agreed upon or found to be just during the period in which such person shall remain in such hospital.

2. In all counties of this state in which there are not adequate hospital accommodations for indigent persons requiring medical or surgical care and treatment, or in which no appropriations of money are made for this specific purpose, it shall be the duty of county superintendents of the poor, upon the certificate of a physician approved by the board of supervisors, or of the overseers of the poor in the several towns of such counties, upon the certificate of a physician approved by the supervisor of the town, as their jurisdiction over the several cases may require, to send all such indigent persons requiring medical or surgical care and treatment to the nearest convenient and suitable hospital, the incorporation and management of which have been approved by the state board of charities, provided transportation to such hospital can be safely accomplished. The authorities of such county or town shall pay to such hospital such reasonable sum per week, for the care and treatment of such indigent persons, as may be agreed upon by the authorities of the county or town and the directors of such hospital, and provision for the payment for such care and treatment shall be made in the annual budgets of such county or town. [Poor Law, § 30, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 309, and L. 1916, ch. 483; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4245.]

15. Accounts of town officers for services rendered in relation to the town poor are to be audited at the second meeting of the town board, held on the Thursday preceding the annual meeting of the board of supervisors. The form of accounts and the verification thereof by affidavit are to be made in accordance with the provisions of sec. 175, post, of the Town Law.

16. For form of report of supervisor to the clerk of the board of supervisors of abstracts of overseer's accounts, see Form No. 83, post.

CHAPTER XLIX.

SETTLEMENT AND PLACE OF RELIEF OF POOR PERSONS.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Settlement of Poor Persons.

Settlement in this connection has much the same meaning as residence. A poor person acquires a settlement in a town, so as to make the cost of his relief a charge against such town, by residing therein for one year. A settlement so acquired is not lost except by a continuous residence in another place for a period of one year. A minor son or daughter has the same settlement as his or her father, unless the son is married and has resided apart from his father for one year, or unless the daughter has married and is living with her husband, in which case her settlement is that of her husband. A married woman cannot gain a settlement apart from her husband.

Relief of Poor as Affected by Settlement.

The law requires every poor person to be relieved in the place where he may be. If he has a settlement in a town or city in the county, he must be maintained at the expense of such town or city. If he has not gained a settlement in the county he must be supported and relieved by the superintendent of the poor at the expense of the county. If a poor person has a settlement in one town and is in another town where he requires relief, the overseer of the poor of the latter town must give him the necessary relief, and then give notice to the overseer of the former town requiring him to provide relief for such poor person.

Determination of Dispute as to Settlement.

Within ten days after the service of such notice, the overseer of the poor served therewith, may notify the overseer of the poor of the town where the poor person may be, that, at a time and place specified, he will appear before the county superintendent of the poor to contest the alleged settlement. The county superintendent then hears and determines the controversy. The decision of the superintendent is final and conclusive.

Failure to Care for Poor Person.

After the decision is given the proper overseer must provide for the poor person in accordance with such decision. If he fails to do so, the overseer of the poor of the town where the poor person may be, must give the necessary relief and report the expense thereof to the board of supervisors, who must levy the amount thereof upon the town where such poor person has a settlement.

Unlawful Removal of Poor Person.

It is a crime to send, remove, or entice to remove, or bring or cause to be sent, removed or brought any poor or indigent person to any other town. A poor person so brought, removed, or enticed, or who shall come of his own accord from one town, city or county into another, not chargeable with his support, must be maintained by the county superintendent of the county where he may be. Such superintendent must then notify the proper officer of the removal of such poor person, and require him forthwith to take charge of such poor person. The law then provides the procedure for determining as to the town, city or county liable for the support of such poor person.

SECTION 1. Settlements of poor persons, how gained; separate settlement of minor.

2. Settlement of married women; when determined by that of parents.
3. Poor person not to be removed, but supported in the town where he may be.
4. Proceedings to determine settlement; notice to appear before county superintendents.
5. Hearing before superintendents; decision.
6. Effect of failure of overseer to provide for poor person, when notified by overseer of other town; board of supervisors to charge support of poor person to proper town.
7. Superintendent to determine who are county poor; proceedings for such determination.
8. Support of county poor in counties having no alms-house; proceedings to determine who are county poor.
9. All decisions of superintendents of the poor to be entered in books; copy to be filed with county clerk.
10. Appeals to county court from decisions of county superintendents of the poor; decision on appeal.

SECTION 11. Unlawfully removing or enticing a poor person from one town to another a misdemeanor.
12. Proceedings where a person has been enticed or has come from one town or county to another.
13. Upon receipt of notice superintendent or overseer to take poor person or serve denial of removal.
14. In case of neglect to deny removal, support of poor person to be a charge upon the town and county from which removed; actions to recover.
15. Actions to recover, to be brought within three months from service of denial.
16. Penalty for bringing foreign poor into state; action to recover penalty; person found guilty, to transport poor person out of state.

§ 1. SETTLEMENTS OF POOR PERSONS, HOW GAINED; SEPARATE SETTLEMENT OF MINOR.

Every person of full age, who shall be a resident and inhabitant of any town or city for one year, and the members of his family who shall not have gained a separate settlement, shall be deemed settled in such town or city, and shall so remain until he shall have gained a like settlement in some other town or city in this state, or shall remove from this state and remain therefrom one year.[1] A minor may be emancipated from his or her father or mother and gain a separate settlement:

1. Settlement in general. It is the purpose of the law that the settlement of a poor person is gained by his residence in a town or city for a period of one year. Such settlement continues until he has gained a like settlement in some other town or city. L. 1897, ch. 203, added a new sec. 57 to art. 3 of the Poor Law, which provided that a person who has gained a settlement in a town or city loses the same by continuous residence elsewhere for one year. This provision radically changed the existing law by relieving a town or city from the obligation of supporting a poor person after he has finally left its boundaries and has resided continuously for one year in other municipalities. People ex rel. May v. Maynard, 160 N. Y. 453; 55 N. E. 9; Matter of Connellan, 25 Misc. 592; 56 N. Y. Supp. 157. But the act of 1897, ch. 203, was repealed by L. 1900, ch. 345, the effect of which was to restore the law as it existed prior to the enactment of the act of 1897.

The question of the settlement of any poor person or pauper is to be considered, in determining the question of liability for his support only as between two towns of the same county which are liable for the support of their own poor, or as between such a town and the county to which it belongs. Every poor person who has not a settlement in some town of the county in which he becomes poor must be supported or relieved at the expense of that county. Bellows v. Courter, 6 N. Y. Supp. 73, 74.

Settlement lost by removal to another state or county, remains where it was acquired. Matter of Chapman, 15 Misc. 296, 37 N. Y. Supp. 763. Where an alleged poor person had resided in the city of Amsterdam for some five years prior to her removal to the city of Syracuse, and within four months of her arrival at Syracuse became a public charge, without in any way attaining a residence in the latter place, the city of Amsterdam is liable to the county of Onondaga, from which county the relief was forthcoming, for her support, where due and timely service is made upon the overseer of the poor of Amsterdam. Onondaga County v. City of Amsterdam, 64 Misc. 181, 117 N. Y. Supp. 1121.

The words " resident and inhabitant," as used in this section, mean the locality of existence, permanently and firmly fixed, as is legally conveyed by the word " domicile." Matter of Town of Hector, 24 N. Y. Supp. 475. In the case of City of Syracuse v. County of Onondaga, 25 Misc. 370; 55 N. Y. Supp. 634, it was held that a person who comes to a city in January, and then rents a house to which, in March following, he takes his wife, his family and household goods and resides there with them until February in the year following, when he leaves the city and disappears, has gained a settlement in the city within the meaning of the above section. Italian laborers temporarily employed in constructing a railroad, do not by their presence in a town gain a settlement therein. Matter of Town of Hector, 24 N. Y. Supp. 475.

1. If a male, by being married and residing one year separately from the family of his father or mother.

Settlement remains until another is gained. A person cannot gain a settlement in any town until he shall have resided there for at least one year; when a settlement is thus legally gained in a town it must necessarily remain there until one is subsequently established in some other town or county. Sitterly v. Murray, 63 How. Pr. 367. In the case of Matter of Town of Hector, 24 N. Y. Supp. 475, it was said: "It has long been settled law that every person has a domicile somewhere. If he has not acquired one elsewhere he retains his domicile of origin, and to effect a change of domicile the fact and intent must concur; that is, there must be not only a change of residence, but an intention to abandon the former domicile, and acquire another as the sole domicile."

The continuous absence of a poor person from a city, without proof of his actual residence or intention, is not such a continuous residence elsewhere for one year as deprives him of his settlement in the city, and such city is, therefore, liable to support the wife of such poor person. City of Syracuse v. County of Onondaga, 25 Misc. 371; 55 N. Y. Supp. 634.

Persons who are natives of a town and reside there without material interruption have a legal settlement in the town and county under this section, which continues until they gain a like settlement in some other town or city by a residence of a year. County of Broome v. County of Cortland (1912), 154 App. Div. 349.

C, a laborer of full age but of nomadic habits, came into this state in which he never had a place called home, and after working on April 2, 1914, in Ontario county, where there is no distinction between town and county poor, became ill and was taken by the superintendent of the poor of that county to the county hospital, and upon his recovery several weeks later went to work and continued to be employed in said county for several months, being self-supporting all of that time. Thereafter he went to Groton, Tompkins county, where the distinction between town and county poor is still maintained and while at a hotel before securing employment he was taken with pneumonia and given temporary relief and furnished with medical care by the superintendent of the poor of Tompkins county, and being unable to work was assisted by said superintendent for four or five weeks. He had not lived in any one place in the county of Ontario for a year prior to 1914. In an action by the county of Tompkins to charge the county of Ontario with the support of C, held that when he left Ontario county with money and still had money when he went to Groton in Tompkins county he was not a "poor person" straying from one county to another, and that he became so only when he was again overtaken by misfortune and became ill and then that the same duty devolved upon plaintiff to care for him in the emergency as had devolved upon defendant county on the occasion of his previous sickness, and that he was entitled under this section to be supported by plaintiff, he not having a settlement in any city or town. County of Tompkins v. County of Ontario (1915), 92 Misc. 272, 156 N. Y. Supp. 335.

Change of domicile. To effect a change of domicile there must be both residence in the alleged adopted domicile and intention to adopt such place of residence as the sole domicile. Residence alone has no effect per se, though it may be most important, as a ground from which to infer intention. Length of residence will not alone effect the change. Intention alone will not do it, but the two taken together constitute a change of domicile. Dupuy v. Wurtz, 53 N. Y. 556, 561.

Settlement of children. A place of birth of an infant pauper is prima facie his place of settlement, but it may be removed to the last legal settlement of the parents when discovered. Overseers of Vernon v. Overseers of Smithville, 17

2. If a femaie, by being married and having lived with her husband; in which case the husband's settlement shall be deemed that of the wife.[2]

3. By being bound as an apprentice and serving one year by virtue of such indentures.[3]

4. By being hired and actually serving one year for wages, to be paid such minor. [Poor Law, § 40; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4246.]

§ 2. SETTLEMENT OF MARRIED WOMEN; WHEN DETERMINED BY THAT OF PARENTS.

A woman of full age, by marrying, shall acquire the settlement of her husband. Until a poor person shall have gained a settlement in his or her own right, his or her settlement shall be deemed that of the father, if living, if not, then of the mother; but no child born in any alms-house

Minors, who reside with their father for more than a year in the same town, in a county in which the several towns support their own poor, gain a settlement in that town, and where, after removing to a new town in the same county and before gaining a settlement there, they require and receive relief as poor persons, the expense of their relief is chargeable to the town from which they removed. Matter of Chamberlain, 73 Misc. 256.

The settlement of a child follows that of the father, if he have any; if not, the settlement of the mother. Overseers of Miskayuna v. Overseers of Albany, 2 Cow. 537. No act of the father of a minor son can divest the son of his derivative settlement. Adams v. Foster, 20 Johns. 452. Until a poor person acquires a settlement in his own right, his settlement is that of his father or mother; and when his mother becomes a resident of a city and he follows her to that place, a residence and settlement are initiated. Stillwell v. Kennedy, 51 Hun, 114, 5 N. Y. Supp. 407. Although the child does not reside with his father and is not under his immediate charge or control, such child nevertheless has a derivative settlement in the same town as his father. Adams v. Oaks, 20 Johns. 282.

Settlement of married woman is that of her husband. Overseers of Sherburne v. Overseers of Norwich, 16 Johns. 186. Under the former law it was held that if the husband has no settlement, his wife retains the settlement had by her before marriage. Overseers of Otsego v. Overseers of Smithfield, 6 Cow. 760.

A married woman cannot gain a settlement separate from that of her husband. City of Syracuse v. County of Onondaga, 25 Misc. 371, 55 N. Y. Supp. 634; Supt. Poor of Cattaraugus v. Supt. of Poor of Erie, 50 N. Y. St. Rep. 347, 21 N. Y. Supp. 729.

Where a poor person after abandonment by her husband had received aid from the overseer of the poor of the city where she resided, and on her husband's return went with him to a city in another county where after a subsequent abandonment she received aid from the overseers of the poor, but did not reside in the latter county long enough to gain a settlement under the statute, she must still be deemed a poor person in the city where she originally resided and can gain no settlement in another city as a poor person. Onondaga County v. City of Amsterdam, 139 App. Div. 877, 124 N. Y. Supp 558.

3. Settlement of apprentices. If with the privity and consent of his master, an apprentice serves another person two years, he thereby gains a settlement. Overseers of Guilderland v. Overseers of Knox, 5 Cow. 363. The fact that the indenture by which an apprentice was bound out is void is not material; if an apprentice has served one year by virtue of such indenture, he has gained a separate settlement. Overseers of Hudson v. Overseers of Taghkanac, 13 Johns. 245; Overseers of Owasco v. Overseers of Oswegatchie, 5 Cow. 527; Overseers of Hamilton v. Overseers of Eaton, 6 Cow. 658.

shall gain any settlement merely by reason of the place of such birth; neither shall any child born while the mother is such poor person, gain any settlement by reason of the place of its birth. No residence of any such poor person in any alms-house, while such person, or any member of his or her family, is supported or relieved at the expense of any other town, city, county or state, shall operate to give such poor person a settlement in the town where such actual residence may be.[4] [Poor Law, § 41; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4248.]

No person shall be removed as a poor person from any city or town to any other city or town of the same or any other county, nor from any county to any other county except as hereinafter provided; but every poor person, except the state poor, shall be supported in the town or county where he may be,[5] as follows:

4. Construction of section. The disjunctive "or" is to be understood after the word "alms-house" in the last sentence of the above section. Thus read, the revision of the Poor Law in 1896 did not so change the conditions of settlement that a poor person residing in a town or city for more that one year, while relieved at the expense of the county, ceases to be a county charge, and becomes thereafter chargeable to the town or city. People ex rel. French v. Lyke, 159 N. Y. 149; 53 N. E. 802.

Settlement. A poor person does not gain or lose a settlement once established, by agreement, or after contest by the superintendent of the poor until he again maintains himself and ceases to be a public charge. Matter of McCutcheon, 25 Misc. 650, 56 N. Y. Supp. 370. Since the enactment of the above section, a person supported by the county, if not an inmate of an alms-house, may gain a settlement in a town by a residence therein for one year. Matter of Connellan, 25 Misc. 592; 56 N. Y. Supp. 157.

Settlement cannot be gained in the town where the actual residence may be so long as the poor person or any member of his family is supported or relieved at the expense of any other municipality. People ex rel. v. Maynard, 160 N. Y. 453, 460.

5. The place of support of a poor person is in the town or county where he may be. Overseers of Norwich v. Overseers of Pharsalia, 15 N. Y. 341; Matter of McCutcheon, 25 Misc. 592; 56 N. Y. Supp. 370. And when a settlement is once legally gained in any town it must necessarily remain there until one is subsequently established in some other town or county. Sitterly v. Murray, 63 How. Pr. 367.

Lapse of one year between the time when county aid was given, and the date when aid is applied for, to the town, is sufficient to make a poor person a resident of the town. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1897) 84.

Poor Law, § 42.

1. If he has gained a settlement in any town or city in such county, he shall be maintained by such town or city.

2. If he has not gained a settlement in any town or city in the county in which he shall become poor, sick or infirm, he shall be supported and relieved by the superintendents of the poor at the expense of the county.[6]

3. If such person be in a county where the distinction between town and county poor is abolished, he shall, in like manner, be supported at the expense of the county, and in both cases, proceedings for his relief shall be had as herein provided.

4. If such poor person be in a county where the respective towns are liable to support their poor, and has gained a settlement in some town of the same county other than that in which he may then be, he shall be supported at the expense of the town or city where he may be, and the overseers shall, within ten days after the application for relief, give notice in writing to an overseer of the town to which he shall belong, requiring him to provide for the support and relief of such poor person.[7] [Poor Law, § 42; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4248.]

6. Effect of settlement. If a poor person has gained a settlement in a town or city, he is to be maintained at the expense of such town or city, except in a county where the distinction between the town and county poor has been abolished. If he has not gained a settlement in the town where he may be, he is to be supported and relieved by the county superintendents of the poor at the expense of the county. See, also, Matter of Town of Hector, 24 N. Y. Supp. 475; Matter of Connellan, 25 Misc. 592.

Where a person who had gained a settlement in a county where the distinction between town and county poor exists, moved from that town to a city in the same county and he there became poor, and was relieved by the overseer of the poor of the city, where he continued to reside, the bill for his maintenance being paid by the town from which he came, until a year from the taking effect of the act of 1897, which has since been repealed, he then became a county charge by force of subdivision 2 of the above section. People ex rel. May v. Maynard, 160 N. Y. 453; 55 N. E. 9.

Notice. Subd. 4 of the above section in regard to time within which notices, to be given by towns contesting the settlement of a poor person, must be served is mandatory and a failure to comply with the statute must result in defeat. Matter of Merville, 23 Misc. 398, 52 N. Y. Supp. 254.

Settlement of poor person in another town. A man moved his wife and infant children from a town where he had resided for six years, to another town where he remained for over a year without being supported or relieved at the expense of the latter town. It was held that he had obtained a settlement therein within the meaning of the Poor Law. This settlement was not affected by a notice mailed by the overseer of the poor of the latter town to the overseer of

§ 4. PROCEEDINGS TO DETERMINE SETTLEMENT; NOTICE TO APPEAR BEFORE COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS.

If, within ten days after the service of such notice, the overseer to whom the same was directed, shall not proceed to contest the allegation of the settlement of such poor person, by giving the notice hereinafter directed, he or his successors, and the town which he or they represent, shall be precluded from contesting or denying such settlement. He may, within the time mentioned, give written notice to the overseer of the town where such person may be, and from whom he has received the notice specified in the last section, that he will appear before the county superintendents, at a place and on a day therein to be specified, which day shall be at least ten days and not more than thirty days from the time of the service of such notice of hearing, to contest the alleged settlement. If the county superintendents fail to appear at the time and place so appointed, they shall, at the request of the overseers of either town, appoint some place, and some other day, for the hearing of such allegations, and cause at least five days' notice thereof to be given to such overseers; and no poor person shall be deemed to have gained a settlement, when the proper notices to contest the settlement have been served, until there has been a hearing before the superintendent thereof, and an order by them made and filed in the office of the county clerk, fixing the settlement of such poor person.[8] [Poor Law, § 43; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4249.]

§ 5. HEARING BEFORE SUPERINTENDENTS; DECISION.

The county superintendent shall convene whenever required by any the poor for the town from which the poor person had removed, soon after the removal, stating that relief had been afforded, when in fact it had not been afforded at the time. Matter of Kelly, 46 Misc. 548, 95 N. Y. Supp. 53.

Where residents of a town not poor persons within the statute remove to another town in the same county and receive aid there within a year from the time of their removal, the expense is charged to the town from which they came. Matter of Porter, 68 Misc. 124, 124 N. Y. Supp. 102.

8. Object of proceedings. In speaking of the sections of the old revised statutes from which this and the succeeding section were derived, Judge Westbrook said in the case of Sitterly v. Murray, 63 How. Pr. 370: "The object and scheme of the statute seems to be to provide for the settlement of all persons under the poor laws, no matter what their previous financial condition may have been, and whether they were ever paupers before or not, and to fix the liability of the proper town for their support and maintenance, whenever by misfortune or otherwise, they should become a charge upon the public. This is the reasonable and natural conclusion to be drawn from the various provisions of the statute and from the language of these particular sections."

The provisions of this section in regard to the time within which such notice must be served are mandatory, and a failure to comply with the statute will result in the defeat of the town so failing. Matter of Merville, 23 Misc. 398; 52 N. Y. Supp. 254.

For form of notice of overseers of the poor to appear before the county overseer pursuant to such notice, and shall hear and determine the controversy, and may award costs, not exceeding fifteen dollars, to the prevailing party, which may be recovered in an action in a court of competent jurisdiction.[9] Witnesses may be allowed fees as in courts of record.[10] The decision of the superintendent shall be final and conclusive, unless an appeal therefrom shall be taken as provided by this chapter.[11] [Poor Law, § 44; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4250.]

§ 6. EFFECT OF FAILURE OF OVERSEER TO PROVIDE FOR POOR PERSON, WHEN NOTIFIED BY OVERSEER OF OTHER TOWN; BOARD OF SUPERVISORS TO CHARGE SUPPORT OF POOR PERSON TO PROPER TOWN.

The overseers of the poor of the town in which it may be alleged any poor person has gained a settlement, may, at any time after receiving such notice requiring them to provide for such person, take and receive such poor person to their town, and there support him;[12] if they omit to do so, or shall fail to obtain the decision of the county superintendents, so as to exonerate them from the maintenance of such poor person, the charge of giving such notice, and the expense of maintaining such person, after being allowed by the county superintendents, shall be laid before the board of supervisors at their annual meetings from year to year, as long as such expenses shall be incurred, and the supervisors shall annually add the amount of such charges to the tax to be laid upon the town to which such poor person belongs, together with such sum in addition thereto,

9. Duty of county superintendent. The county superintendent represents not only the county at large but also every town in the county. He is required to see that each has its rights, and to settle, upon evidence, by judicial determination, various conflicts of interest between the different towns as well as between the county and any town. People ex rel. Russell v. Supervisors of Herkimer, 20 Abb. N. C. 123, 130.

12. Personal liability of overseer. Where overseers of the poor relieved and supported paupers belonging to another town, at the request of the overseers of the poor of the town in which the paupers belonged, and the latter overseer, after such support had been furnished, on the presentation of the bill therefor, agreed to pay the same, it was held that he was not personally liable on the contract. Holmes v. Brown, 13 Barb. 599; Overseers of Norwich v. Overseers of Pharsalia, 15 N. Y. 341.

as will pay the town incurring such expense, the interest thereon, from the time of expenditure to the time of repayment, which sum shall be assessed, levied and collected in the same manner as other charges of such town. Such moneys when collected shall be paid to the county treasurer and be by him credited to the account of the town which incurred the expenses. [Poor Law, § 45; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4250.]

§ 7. SUPERINTENDENT TO DETERMINE WHO ARE COUNTY POOR; PROCEEDINGS FOR SUCH DETERMINATION.

The support of any poor person shall not be charged to the county, without the approval of the superintendents. If a poor person be sent to the county alms-house as a county poor person, the superintendents, in counties where there are town poor, shall immediately inquire into the facts, and if they are of opinion that such person has a legal settlement in any town of the county, they shall, within thirty days after such poor person shall have been received, give notice to the overseers of the poor of the town to which such poor person belongs that the expenses of such support will be charged to such town unless the overseers within such time as the superintendents shall appoint, not less than twenty days thereafter, show that such town ought not to be so charged.[13] On the application of the overseers, the superintendents shall re-examine the matter and take testimony in relation thereto, and decide the question; which decision shall be conclusive, unless an appeal therefrom shall be taken in the manner provided in this chapter.[14] [Poor Law, § 46; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4251.]

§ 8. SUPPORT OF COUNTY POOR IN COUNTIES HAVING NO ALMS-HOUSE; PROCEEDINGS TO DETERMINE WHO ARE COUNTY POOR.

In counties having no alms-house, no person shall be supported as a county poor person, without the direction of at least one superintendent. In such cases the overseers of the poor, where such person may be, shall, within ten days after granting him relief, give notice thereof and that such person is not chargeable to their town, to one of the superintendents who shall inquire into the circumstances, and if satisfied that such poor person has not gained a legal settlement in any town of the county, and is not a state poor person, he shall give a certificate to that effect, and that such poor person is chargeable to the county. He shall report every such case to the board of superintendents at their next meeting, who shall affirm such certificate, or, on giving at least eight days' notice to the overseers of the poor of the town interested, may annul the same. After hearing the allegations and proofs in the premises, if the superintendent to whom the overseers have given such notice shall neglect or refuse to give such certificate, the overseers may apply to the board of superintendents, who shall summarily hear and determine the matter, and whose decision shall be conclusive, unless an appeal therefrom shall be taken in the manner provided in this chapter. Such appeal may also be taken from the refusal of one superintendent to grant such certificate when there is but one superintendent in the county. [Poor Law, § 47; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4251.]

§ 9. ALL DECISIONS OF SUPERINTENDENTS OF THE POOR TO BE ENTERED IN BOOKS; COPY TO BE FILED WITH COUNTY CLERK.

The decisions of county superintendents in relation to the settlement of poor persons, or to their being a charge upon the county, shall be entered in books to be provided for that purpose, and certified by the signature of such of the superintendents as make the same; and a duplicate thereof, certified in the same manner, shall be filed in the office of the county clerk within thirty days after making such decision. [Poor Law, § 48; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4252.]

§ 10. APPEALS TO COUNTY COURT FROM DECISIONS OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS OF THE POOR; DECISION ON APPEAL.

Any or either of the parties interested in a decision of the superintendent of the poor, or in any dispute that shall arise concerning the settlement of any poor person, may appeal from such decision to the County Court of the county in which such decision shall be made, by serving upon the other parties interested therein, within thirty days after service upon the appellant of a notice of the same, a notice of appeal, which shall be signed by the appellant or his attorney, and which shall specify the grounds of the appeal.[15] The hearing of such appeal may be brought on by either party in or out of term, upon notice of fourteen days. Upon such appeal a new trial of the matters in dispute shall be had in the County Court without a jury, and a decision of the County Court therein shall be final and conclusive, and the same costs shall be awarded as are allowed on appeals to said court.

For the purposes of this chapter the County Court shall be deemed open at all times. [Poor Law, § 49; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4252.]

§ 11. UNLAWFULLY REMOVING OR ENTICING A POOR PERSON FROM ONE TOWN TO ANOTHER A MISDEMEANOR.

Any person who shall send, remove or entice to remove, or bring, or cause to be sent, removed or brought, any poor or indigent person, from any city, town or county, to any other city, town or county, without legal authority, and there leave such person for the purpose of avoiding the charge of such poor or indigent person upon the city, town or county from which he is so sent, removed or brought, or enticed to remove, shall forfeit fifty dollars, to be recovered by and in the name of the town, city or county to which such poor person shall be sent, brought or removed, or enticed to remove, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.[16] [Poor Law, § 50; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4252.]

A poor person so removed, brought or enticed, or who shall of his own accord come or stray from one city, town or county, into any other city,

16. Unlawful removal of poor person. The criminal liability is also provided for by the following section of the Penal Law:

"§ 1650. Any person who shall send, remove, or entice to remove, or bring, or cause to be sent, removed or brought, any poor or indigent person, from any city, town or county, to any other city, town or county without legal authority, and there leave such person for the purpose of avoiding the charge of such poor or indigent person upon the city, town or county, from which he is so sent, removed or brought or enticed to remove, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be imprisoned not exceeding six months, or fined not exceeding one hundred dollars or both."

When action will lie. The action will not lie against a person removing a poor person from one county to another, unless it appear that such removal was with the intent of subjecting such county to the charge of supporting such poor person. Coe v. Smith, 24 Wend. 341. It cannot be doubted but that the intent with which the removal was effected is the gravamen of the criminal offense. Foster v. Cronkhite, 35 N. Y. 139. The penalty is incurred when any person town or county, not legally chargeable with his support, shall be maintained by the county superintendents of the county where he may be.[17] They may give notice to either of the overseers of the poor of the town, or city from which he was brought or enticed, or came as aforesaid, if such town or city be liable for his support, and if there be no town or city in the county from which he was brought or enticed or came liable for his support, then to either of the county superintendents of the poor of such county, within ten days after acquiring knowledge of such improper removal, informing them of such improper removal, and requiring them forthwith to take removes, or entices the pauper to remove, without legal authority, with intent to make the county to which the removal shall be made, chargeable with the pauper's support. Cortland Co. v. Herkimer Co., 44 N. Y. 42.

In the latter case it was held that the superintendent might testify directly as to the intent with which he did an act when the intent is a fact material to the issue.

17. Effect of revision. The above section of the Poor Law was derived from R. S., pt. 1, ch. 20, tit. 1, sec. 59, as amended by L. 1885, ch. 546; L. 1888, ch. 486. The commissioners in the revision disregarded the amendment of 1888 and retained the law as amended by the act of 1885. As the law now stands proceedings to compel the support of a poor person who has, of his own accord, moved to a county not legally chargeable with his support, may be instituted against the county properly chargeable with his support.

This change vitiates the doctrine laid down in the case of Coe v. Smith, 24 Wend. 341, and followed in Foster v. Cronkhite, 35 N. Y. 141, and Cortland Co. v. Herkimer Co., 44 id. 22, that: "An action will not lie by the superintendents of the poor of one county against the superintendents of another county for the maintenance of a pauper removed from the county of the latter without legal authority, into the county of the former, when the removal is made at the request of the pauper, so that he may be under the care of his family and friends, and without any intent on the part of the person removing him to make the county into which he is removed chargeable with his support." But the provisions of L. 1885, ch. 546, from which this section is taken, did not authorize an action by the superintendent of the poor for the support of a pauper against a county from which he voluntarily removed at a time when he was not a pauper. Bellows v. Counter, 6 N. Y. Supp. 73.

The term "poor person" as used in this section does not mean an able-bodied man who has always maintained himself and family by his own exertions, and who has come into another county and there, without fault upon his part, by means of an accident become unable to support himself. Such a man is many degrees removed from the condition of a pauper. It is only where a poor person, who at the time of his coming into another county was a poor person that the liability of the town or county from whence he came exists. Wood v. Simmons, 51 Hun, 325; 4 N. Y. Supp. 368. It may be questioned as to whether this case would now apply under the definition of a poor person given in section 2 of the Poor Law.

Poor person to be supported. A superintendent of the poor who finds a charge of such poor person.[18] If there be no overseers or superintendents of the poor in such town, city or county, such notice shall be given to the person, by whatever name known, who has charge and care of the poor in such locality. [Poor Law, § 51; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4253.]

§ 13. UPON RECEIPT OF NOTICE SUPERINTENDENT OR OVERSEER TO TAKE POOR PERSON OR SERVE DENIAL OF REMOVAL.

The county superintendents, or overseers, or other persons to whom such notice may be directed may, after the service of such notice, take and remove such poor person to their county, town or city, and there support him, and pay the expense of such notice, and of the support of such person;[19] or they shall, within thirty days after receiving such notice, by a written instrument under their hands, notify the county superinten-pauper in his county has no right to remove him to another county where he believes he belongs; he must provide for his support and then pursue his remedy against the other county. Smith v. Brundage, 17 Wk. Dig. 266.

It is the duty of the superintendent of the poor of a county to which a poor person has removed to furnish her with necessary relief and he cannot refrain from doing so because she had a settlement in another city, nor can he against her will remove her to her original residence. Onondaga County v. City of Amsterdam, 139 App. Div. 877; 124 N. Y. Supp. 558.

If a poor person, not having a settlement in this state, is illegally moved by the overseers of one town into another town, and is there supported, the overseers of the town into which he was moved may maintain an action against the overseers of the town procuring his illegal removal, for the amount expended in the support of such poor person, upon the principle that the burden of supporting such poor person was unjustly thrown upon such town, and such town should be exonerated by the town benefiting from such illegal removal. Pittstown v. Plattsburgh, 15 Johns. 436.

Removal from county. Where a person removes from the town and county in which he has gained a settlement, into another town and county, and while in the town and county to which he has removed, and before he has gained a settlement therein, he becomes a "poor person," the latter county is not entitled to reimbursement from the town or county from which he came. County of Delaware v. Town of Delaware, 105 App. Div. 129, 93 N. Y. 954.

Liability of town to which poor persons temporarily remove. Where natives of a town, being poor persons within the meaning of the statute, leave their native town and county but return within one year, said county cannot, under this section, charge the county to which they temporarily removed with support furnished. This because they did not come into a town or county not chargeable with their support, but on the contrary, came back to the county legally chargeable therewith. County of Broome v. County of Cortland (1912), 154 App. Div. 349.

18. Sufficiency of notice. Notice by a superintendent of the poor to an overseer of another county that a person, who has gained a settlement in the latter county, is supported as a pauper in the county of the superintendent giving such notice, but does not aver that the person was a pauper while in the county from which he moved or that his change of habitation was improper, is insufficient to sustain an action for the amount of his support. McKay v. Welsh, 6 N. Y. Supp. 358.

A notice served by mail, and a reply thereto served in the same manner, is a sufficient compliance with this statute. Stilwell v. Coons, 122 N. Y. 242.

For form of notice of improper removal of a poor person from a town, city or county, see Form No. 92, post.

19. Expense of support. When a poor person removes or is removed from a town in one county to a town in another county, not chargeable with his support, and is there necessarily relieved by the overseer of the poor of that dents from whom such notice was received, or either of them, that they deny the allegation of such improper enticing or removal, or that their town, city or county is liable for the support of such poor person.[20] Upon the application of such county superintendent, overseer or other person so notified, and upon proper proof, the county judge of the county wherein such superintendent, overseer or other person to whom such notice shall have been directed, resides, shall issue a warrant directed to the sheriff of the county, or to some other proper person or persons, directing him or them to take and remove such poor person from the place where he may be, to the county, city or town legally chargeable for his support. [Poor Law, § 52, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 175; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4254.]

If there shall be a neglect to take and remove such poor person and to serve notice of such denial within the time above prescribed, the county superintendents and overseers, respectively, whose duty it was so to do, their successors, and their respective counties, cities or towns, shall be deemed to have acquiesced in the allegations contained in such first notice, and shall be forever precluded from contesting the same, and their counties, cities and towns, respectively, shall be liable for the expenses of the support of such poor person, which may be recovered from time to time, by county superintendents incurring such expenses, in the name of their county in actions against the county, city or town so liable.[21] [Poor Law, § 53; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4254.]

town, the expense incurred and the burden of thereafter maintaining such poor person is, as between that town and its county, a charge on the county, provided the overseer gives the superintendent of the poor of his county notice of the circumstances of the case, as provided by law. Stillwell v. Coons, 122 N. Y. 242; 25 N. E. 316.

20. Denial of removal. For form of notice of denial of removal of poor persons, see Form No. 93, post.

The denial of liability need not follow the language of the section, but it is sufficient if it contains an unequivocal denial of the liability asserted in the notice of improper removal. Stillwell v. Coons, 122 N. Y. 242; 25 N. E. 316. If such denial be served by mail, and is received and retained by the party upon whom it is served without objection, the service is sufficient. Stillwell v. Kennedy, 51 Hun 114; 5 N. Y. Supp. 407.

21. Acquiescence implied if poor person is not removed. Foster v. Cronkhite, 35 N. Y. 139.

Liability for support absolute unless allegations of notice are denied. McKay v. Welch, 24 N. Y. St. Rep. 838, 6 N. Y. Supp. 358.

§ 15. ACTIONS TO RECOVER, TO BE BROUGHT WITHIN THREE MONTHS FROM SERVICE OF DENIAL.

Upon service of any such notice of denial the county superintendents upon whom the same may be served, shall, within three months commence an action in the name of their county, against the town, city or county so liable for the expense incurred in the support of such poor person, and prosecute the same to effect; if they neglect to do so, their town, city or county, shall be precluded from all claim against the town, city or county to whose officers such first notice was directed. Such action shall be tried in the county in which the cause of action arose, subject to the power of the court to change the place of trial in the cases provided by law.[22] [Poor Law, § 54, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 203; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4255.]

§ 16. PENALTY FOR BRINGING FOREIGN POOR INTO STATE; ACTION TO RECOVER PENALTY; PERSON FOUND GUILTY, TO TRANSPORT POOR PERSON OUT OF STATE.

Any person who shall knowingly bring or remove, or cause to be brought or removed, any poor person from any place without this state, into any county, city or town within it, and there leave or attempt to leave such poor person, with intent to make any such county, city or town, or the state wrongfully chargeable with his support, shall forfeit fifty dollars, to be recovered by an action in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county, and in the name of the county, city or town into which such poor person shall be brought, and shall be obliged to convey such person out of the state, or support him at his own expense, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and the court or magistrate before whom any person shall be convicted for a violation of this section shall require of such person satisfactory security that he will within a reasonable time, to be named by the court or magistrate, transport such person out of the state, or indemnify the town, city or county for all charges and expenses which may be incurred in his support; and if such person shall refuse to give such security when so required, the court or magistrate shall commit him to the common jail of the county for a term not exceeding three months.[23] [Poor Law, § 55; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4255.]

Action must be commenced within three months after service of notice. Stilwell v. Coons, 122 N. Y. 242; Cortland Co. v. Herkimer Co., 44 N. Y. 22; Foster v. Cronkhite, 35 N. Y. 139.

23. Penalty. Action for penalty will not lie unless person removing poor person into the state act in bad faith. Thomas v. Ross & Shaw, 8 Wend. 672.

Action will not lie against person bringing pauper within the state for cost of maintenance of pauper, but must be for penalty. Crouse v. Mabbett, 11 Johns. 167.

It is no defense in such action, that the poor person formerly had a settlement in the place to which he was brought, and had not subsequently gained one elsewhere. Winfield v. Mapes, 4 Den. 571.

CHAPTER L.

SUPPORT OF BASTARDS.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Support of Bastards.

Both the mother and a bastard child are in the eyes of the law poor persons, from the fact that they are liable to become chargeable to the town or county. It is made the duty of superintendents and overseers of the poor to take necessary proceedings, as prescribed in the Code of Criminal Procedure, to compel a putative father of a bastard to support the mother during her confinement, and the child after its birth.

Duties of Poor Officers.

The mother of a bastard, during her confinement, and the bastard, after its birth, are to be supported and cared for in the same manner as other poor persons. The superintendents of the poor of the county and the overseers of the poor of the several towns have the same duties to perform in respect to such mother and her bastard child, as in respect to other poor persons. If such mother has a settlement in the town where she may be, that town is chargeable with her support, in case poor persons are supported therein at the expense of the town. If the mother have a settlement in any other town or city in the same county, such support is chargeable to such town or city. In any other case the support is chargeable to the county. The same proceedings are taken to determine the settlement of the mother and the proper town, city or county chargeable with her support, as in the case of other poor persons.

An overseer of the poor of the town where a mother may be must provide for her support and comfort during her confinement and recovery therefrom, whether she has a settlement in the town or not.

She cannot be removed from one town or city, or from one county to another without her consent.

Moneys Received from Father.

The overseer of the poor of a town may apply moneys received from the putative father of a bastard in the support and sustenance of the mother and child, without paying the same into the county treasury. The overseer must account to the town board for the moneys so received and expended.

§ 1. PENALTY FOR REMOVAL OF MOTHER OF BASTARD; SUPPORT OF MOTHER.

If the mother of any bastard, or of any child likely to be born a bastard, shall be removed, brought or enticed into any county, city or town from any other county, city or town of this state, for the purpose of avoiding the charge of such bastard or child upon the county, city or town from which she shall have been brought or enticed to remove, the same penalties shall be imposed on every such person so bringing, removing or enticing such mother to remove, as are provided in the case of the fraudulent removal of a poor person.[1] Such mother, if unable to support herself, shall be supported during her confinement and recovery therefrom, and her child shall be supported, by the county superintendents of the poor of the county where she shall be, if no provision be made by the father of such child.[2] [Poor Law, § 60; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4257.]

§ 2. DEFINITION OF BASTARD.

A bastard is a child who is begotten and born,

1. Out of lawful matrimony;

2. While the husband of its mother was separate from her, for a whole year previous to its birth; or,

3. During the separation of its mother from her husband, pursuant to a judgment of a competent court. [Code Crim. Pro., § 838.]

§ 3. WHO LIABLE FOR SUPPORT OF BASTARD.

The father and mother of a bastard are liable for its support. In case of their neglect or inability, it must be supported by the county, city or town chargeable therewith under the provisions of the Poor Law.[3] [Code Crim. Pro., § 839.]

§ 4. MOTHER AND CHILD POOR PERSONS; PROCEEDINGS IN CASE OF REMOVAL OF MOTHER FROM ONE TOWN OR COUNTY TO ANOTHER.

Such mother and her child shall, in all respects, be deemed poor persons; and the same proceedings may be had by the county superintendents to charge the town, city or county from which she was removed or enticed, or shall have of her own accord come or strayed, for the expense of supporting her and her child, as are provided in the case of poor

2. The mother and child, in all cases relating to bastardy, are deemed poor persons from the fact that they are likely to become chargeable to the county as poor persons. Neary v. Robinson, 27 Hun 145.

3. Proceedings to compel support of bastard by father. Title 5 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (secs. 838-886), prescribe a method of compelling a putative father of a bastard to support the mother during her confinement and the bastard after birth. It is made the duty of the superintendent of the poor or the overseer in case a woman is delivered of a bastard or is pregnant with a child likely to become a bastard, and which is chargeable to the county or town, to apply to a justice of the peace or police justice to inquire into the facts. Code Crim. Proc., § 840.

Putative father is not required to pay for medical services rendered to the child in the absence of an agreement or of an order of filiation. Bissell v. Myton, 160 App. Div. 280, 145 N. Y. Supp. 591.

persons; and an action may be maintained in the same manner for said expenses and for all expenses properly incurred in apprehending the father of such child, or in seeking to compel its support by such father or its mother. [Poor Law, § 61, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 205; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4258.]

§ 5. MOTHER AND BASTARD TO BE SUPPORTED AS OTHER POOR PERSONS.

The mother of every bastard, who shall be unable to support herself, during her confinement and recovery therefrom, and every bastard, after it is born, shall be supported as other poor persons are required to be supported by the provisions of this chapter, at the expense of the city or town where such bastard shall be born, if the mother have a legal settlement in such city or town, and if it be required to support its own poor; if the mother have a settlement in any other city or town of the same county, which is required to support its own poor, then at the expense of such other city or town; in all other cases, they shall be supported at the expense of the county where such bastard shall be born.[4] [Poor Law, § 62; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4258.]

§ 6. MOTHER AND CHILD NOT TO BE REMOVED WITHOUT HER CONSENT.

The mother and her child shall not be removed from any city or town to any other city or town in the same county, nor from one county to any other county, in any case whatever, unless voluntarily taken to the county, city or town liable for their support, by the county superintendents of such county or the overseers of the poor of such city or town. [Poor Law, § 63; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4259.]

4. Proceedings to compel support of mother or child by proper county or town, see Poor Law, secs. 51-54, ante.

The settlement of a bastard child is the last legal settlement of the mother, however such settlement may have been acquired. There is in this respect no distinction between an acquired settlement, and one that is merely derivative. Overseers of Canajoharie v. Overseers of Johnstown, 17 Johns. 41. If the mother has no settlement within the state, her bastard child must be adjudged settled where it was born. Wynkoop v. Overseers of New York, 3 Johns. 15.

A bastard child is settled in the town where it was born, until it acquires a settlement for itself, and the justices of the peace of such a town may make an order of filiation and maintenance, though the legal settlement of the mother be elsewhere. Delavergue v. Noxon, 14 Johns. 333.

§ 7. OVERSEERS TO NOTIFY SUPERINTENDENTS OF CASES OF BASTARDY, WHEN COUNTY IS CHARGEABLE.

The overseers of the poor of any city or town where a woman shall be pregnant with a child, likely to born a bastard, or where a bastard shall be born, which child or bastard shall be chargeable, or likely to become chargeable to the county, shall, immediately on receiving information of such fact, give notice thereof to the county superintendents, or one of them. [Poor Law, § 64; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4259.]

§ 8. SUPERINTENDENTS TO PROVIDE FOR MOTHER AND CHILD.

The county superintendents shall provide for the support of such bastard and its mother, in the same manner as for the poor of such county.[5] [Poor Law, § 65; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4259.]

§ 9. UNTIL TAKEN CHARGE OF BY SUPERINTENDENTS, TO BE SUPPORTED BY OVERSEERS.

Until the county superintendents take charge of and provide for the support of such bastard and its mother so chargeable to the county, the overseers of the poor of the city or town shall maintain and provide for them; and for that purpose, the same proceedings shall be had as for the support of a poor person chargeable to the county, who cannot be conveniently removed to the county alms-house. [Poor Law, § 66; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4259.]

§ 10. OVERSEERS OF TOWN TO SUPPORT BASTARD AND MOTHER, WHETHER CHARGEABLE OR NOT.

Where a woman shall be pregnant of a child likely to be born a bastard, or to become chargeable to a city or town, or where a bastard shall be born chargeable, or likely to become chargeable, to a city or town, the overseers of the poor of the city or town where such bastard shall be born,

5. Neglect of duty by poor officers. The neglect of the superintendent to provide for the support of a bastard and its mother is a misdemeanor. The following section of the Penal Law provides the punishment:

§ 1843. Neglect of duty by superintendent or overseer of the poor. The county superintendent of the poor, or any overseer of the poor, whose duty it shall be to provide for the support of any bastard and the sustenance of its mother, who shall neglect to perform such duty, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction, be liable to a fine of two hundred and fifty dollars, or to imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both such fine and imprisonment.

or likely to be born, whether the mother have a legal settlement therein or not, shall provide for the support of such child and the sustenance of its mother during her confinement and recovery therefrom, in the same manner as they are authorized by this chapter to provide for and support the poor of their city or town.[6] [Poor Law, § 67; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4259.]

§ 11. MONEYS RECEIVED BY OVERSEERS FROM PARENTS OF BASTARD, HOW APPLIED AND ACCOUNTED FOR.

Where any money shall be paid to any overseer, pursuant to the order of any two justices, by any putative father, or by the mother of any bastard, the overseers may expend the same directly, in the support of such child, and the sustenance of its mother as aforesaid, without paying the same into the county treasury.[7] They shall annually account, on oath,

6. The neglect of an overseer of the poor to provide for the support of the bastard and its mother is a misdemeanor. See Penal Law, § 1843, in preceding note.

7. Order of filiation. If a person has been adjudged to be the father of a bastard by the magistrates before proceedings have been instituted, the order of filiation must specify the sum to be paid weekly by the father for the support of the bastard; and if the mother be indigent the sum to be paid for her support during her confinement and recovery. See Code Crim. Procedure, sec. 850. Such father must thereupon give an undertaking to the effect that he will pay the amounts for the support of the bastard and mother, as specified in the order. Code Crim. Procedure, sec. 851.

If the mother is possessed of property in her own right she may be compelled to pay for the support of the child. Code of Crim. Procedure, sec. 857.

Prosecution of undertaking. The following sections of the Code of Criminal Procedure authorize superintendents of the poor and overseers of the poor to compel the support of a bastard and of its mother:

"Sec. 881.—If an undertaking for the appearance at the County Court of a person charged as the father or mother of a bastard, be forfeited, the court may order it to be prosecuted; and the sum mentioned therein may be recovered, and when collected, must, except in the city of New York, be paid to the county treasurer, and by him credited to the town in the same county, liable to the support of the bastard, or if there be none, to the county. In the city of New York, the court must order the undertaking to be prosecuted by the commissioners of charities and corrections, and when collected, it must be paid into the city treasury. In every other county, it must be prosecuted by the district attorney.

"Sec. 882.—When an undertaking to obey an order, in relation to the support of a bastard, or of a child likely to be born a bastard, or of its mother, is forfeited, it may be prosecuted in the name of the county superintendents of the county, or the overseers of the poor of the town, which was liable for the support of the bastard, or which may have incurred any expense in the support of the

to the board of town auditors, or to the proper auditing board of a city, at the same time that other town or city officers are required to account for expenditures of all moneys so received by them, and shall pay over the balance in their hands, and under like penalties, as are provided by this chapter, in respect to the poor moneys in their hands.[8] [Poor Law, § 68; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4260.]

§ 12. WHEN MONEYS RECEIVED ON ACCOUNT OF BASTARD CHARGEABLE TO COUNTY; HOW TO BE DISPOSED OF.

All moneys which shall be ordered to be paid by the putative father, bastard, or of its mother, during her confinement or recovery; or in the city of New York, in the name of the corporation of that city."

Action on undertaking. A bond to indemnify a town concerning a bastard child is broken, and an action may be maintained upon it as soon as the town becomes liable or bound to maintain the child; and an action may be maintained upon it without actual disbursement, advance or payment by the town. Rockefeller v. Donnelly, 8 Cow. 623.

Evidence that the mother is of sufficient ability to support the bastard child is not admissible in discharge of the defendants, but proof of her having in fact maintained the child would be proper. People v. Corbett & Easton, 8 Wend. 520.

An order of filiation is conclusive, unless it has been appealed from, and an undertaking given as provided in subdivision 2 of section 851 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The order of filiation is equivalent to a judgment that the defendant should pay the weekly sum mentioned therein. It rests with the defendant to show himself exonerated from the payment in order to avoid the recovery against him. Wallsworth v. Mead, 9 Johns. 367.

This case was followed in Rockefeller v. Donnelly, 8 Cow. 623. This case is an important and leading one and disposes of the whole question of the liability of a father to support his bastard child.

The extent of the liability of the defendants is definitely settled by the order and recognizance; no assessment of damages is necessary, and the defendants have no right to inquire what amount has been expended. The People v. Corbett & Easton, 8 Wend. 520.

Action on order. Section 886 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provides that:

" An action may be maintained by the parties authorized by section 882, upon an order made by two magistrates, or a County Court, for the payment of a sum weekly or otherwise, for the support of the bastard or its mother, notwithstanding an undertaking may have been given to comply with the order; and in case of the death of the person against whom the order was made, an action may be maintained thereon against his executors or administrators. But when an undertaking is given to appear at the next term of the County Court, no action can be brought on the order until it is affirmed by the court."

8. Accounts of overseers of the poor are to be rendered in the manner pro-or by the mother of a bastard chargeable to any county, shall be collected for the benefit of such county; and all overseers of the poor, superintendents, sheriffs, and other officers, shall within fifteen days after the receipt of any such moneys, pay the same into the county treasury. Any officer neglecting to make such payment shall be liable to an action by and in the name of the county, for all moneys so received and withheld, with interest from the time of receipt, at the rate of ten per centum; and shall forfeit a sum equal to that so withheld, to be sued for and recovered by and in the name of the county. [Poor Law, § 69; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4260.]

§ 13. DISPUTES CONCERNING SETTLEMENT OF BASTARD, HOW DETERMINED.

When a dispute shall arise concerning the legal settlement of the mother of a bastard, or of a child born or likely to be born a bastard, in any city or town, the same shall be determined by the county superintendents of the poor, upon a hearing of the parties interested, in the same manner and with the same effect as they are authorized to determine the settlement of a poor person under this chapter.[9] [Poor Law, § 70; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4260.]

§ 14. PROCEEDINGS WHEN BASTARD IS CHARGEABLE TO ANOTHER TOWN.

When a bastard shall be born, or be likely to be born in a town or city, when the legal settlement of the mother is in another town or city of the same county, which is required by law to support its own poor, the overseers of the poor of the town or city where such bastard shall be born, or be likely to be born, shall give the like notice to the overseers of the town or city where the mother's settlement may be, as is required in the case of a person becoming a poor person, under the like circumstances, and the same proceedings shall be had, in all respects, to determine the liability of such town or city as in the case of poor persons.[10]

The overseers of the town or city to which the mother of such bastard belongs may, before the confinement of such mother, or at any time after the expiration of two months after her delivery, if her situation will permit it, take and support such mother and her child.

If they omit to do so, and fail to obtain the determination of the county superintendents in their favor on the question of settlement, the town or city to which the mother belongs shall be liable to pay all the expenses of the support of such bastard, and of its mother during her confinement and recovery therefrom; which expenses, after being allowed by the county superintendents, shall be assessed, together with the lawful interest on the moneys expended, on the town or city to which such mother belongs, and shall be collected in the same manner as provided for poor persons supported under the same circumstances, and the moneys so collected shall be paid to the county treasurer, for the benefit of, and to be credited to, the town which incurred such expenses. [Poor Law, § 71; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4261.]

§ 15. MODE OF ASCERTAINING SUM TO BE ALLOWED FOR SUPPORT OF BASTARD.

When any town is required to support a bastard, and its mother, whether the mother have a settlement in such town or not, and no moneys shall be received from the putative father or from the mother, to defray the expenses of such support, the overseers of the poor shall apply to the supervisor of the town, and obtain an order [11] for the support of such bastard, and the sustenance of its mother during her confinement and recovery therefrom, and the sum to be allowed therefor, in the same manner as is required in the case of poor persons, and the moneys paid or contracted to be paid by the overseer, pursuant to such order, shall be paid by the county treasurer in the same manner as for poor persons, and be charged to the town to whose officers such payment shall be made. [Poor Law, § 72; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4261.]

§ 16. WHEN MOTHER AND CHILD TO BE REMOVED TO COUNTY ALMS-HOUSE.

If there be a county alms-house in any county where the towns are required to support their own poor, the overseers of the poor of a town where a bastard shall be born, or shall be likely to be born, may, with the approval of the county superintendents or any two of them, and when the situation of the mother will allow it, remove the mother of such bastard, with her child, to such alms-house, in the same manner as poor persons may be removed; the expenses of which removal shall be defrayed in like manner, and such mother and her child shall be considered as poor of the town so liable for their support, and the expense shall in like manner be estimated and paid.[12] [Poor Law, § 73; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4261.]

§ 17. SUPERINTENDENTS AND OVERSEERS MAY COMPROMISE WITH FATHER OF BASTARD; WHEN MOTHER MAY RECEIVE MONEY.

Superintendents and overseers of the poor may make such compromise and arrangements with the putative father of any bastard child within their jurisdiction, relative to the support of such child, as they shall deem equitable and just, and thereupon discharge such putative father from all further liability for the support of such bastard.[13]

Whenever a compromise is made with the putative father of a bastard child, the mother of such child, on giving security for the support of the child, and to indemnify the city and county or the town and county, from the maintenance of the child, to the satisfaction of the officers making the compromise, shall be entitled to receive the moneys paid by such putative father as the consideration of such compromise.[14] If the mother of such

13. For form of agreement upon compromise with putative father, see Form No. 95, post.

An action will not lie by the county superintendents of the poor against the putative father of a bastard child on a promise to indemnify the county, made by him to the supervisor of the town in which the child was born, where it is not shown that the supervisor, in obtaining the promises, acted in the premises at the request or with the privity of the county superintendents. Birdsall v. Edgerton et al., 25 Wend. 619.

Money paid upon a compromise to a superintendent of the poor by a person charged with being the father of an unborn bastard may be recovered, upon its appearing that the supposed mother was not pregnant. The statute authorizes a compromise and arrangement with the putative father relative to the support of the child. The compromise is merely a mode of getting indemnity on the part of the county for the support of the bastard. Whether the superintendent takes a bond or a sum of money, he but indemnifies the county against an actual or impending expense; and when there has been no expense to the county, and there is to be none, against which the money was paid as an indemnity, then the money belongs to the person paying it. child shall be unable to give the security, but shall be able and willing to nurse and take care of the child, she shall be paid the same weekly allowance for nursing and taking care of the child, out of the moneys paid by the father on such compromise, as he shall have been liable to pay by the order of filiation; such weekly sum to be paid the mother, may be prescribed, regulated or reduced, as in the case of an order of filiation. [Poor Law, § 74; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4262.]

CHAPTER LI.

SUPPORT OF POOR PERSONS BY RELATIVES; ABSCONDING PARENTS OR HUSBAND.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Liability for Support of Poor Relatives.

A father or mother must support his or her children, and children must support their parents, assuming that they are able to do so. A person cannot be made a charge upon the town or county if he have a father or mother, or a son or daughter able to support him. The liability thus imposed by statute may be enforced by the overseer by proceedings instituted as provided in this chapter.

Abandonment of Wife or Children.

The Code of Criminal Procedure provides that a person who actually abandons his wife or children, without adequate support, so that they are in danger of becoming a burden upon the public, is a disorderly person. Upon such a person being arrested he is required to give a bond for the support of his wife and children. If the husband fails to support his wife and children, such bond may be prosecuted by the superintendent of poor of the county or the overseer of the poor of the town, and the sum collected is to be paid into the county treasury. The procedure is prescribed by the sections of the Code of Criminal Procedure included in this chapter.

§ 1. WHO MAY BE COMPELLED TO SUPPORT POOR RELATIVES.

The father, mother and children, if of sufficient ability, of a poor person who is insane, blind, old, lame, impotent or decrepit, so as to be unable by work to maintain himself, must, at their own charge, relieve and maintain him in a manner to be approved by the overseers of the poor of the town where he is, or in the city of New York, by the commissioners of public charities.[1] If such poor person be insane, he shall be maintained in the manner prescribed by the insanity law. The father, mother, husband, wife or children of a poor insane person legally committed to and confined in an institution supported in whole or in part by the state, shall be liable, if of sufficient ability, for the support and maintenance of such insane person from the time of his reception in such institution.[2] [Code Crim. Pro., § 914.]

1. Liability of relatives. The duties of children to their parents arise from a principle of natural justice and retribution. For to those who gave us existence we naturally owe subjection and obedience during our minority and honor and reverence ever after; they who protected the weakness of our infancy are entitled to our protection in the infirmity of their age; they who by sustenance and education have enabled their offspring to prosper ought in return to be supported by that offspring in case they stand in need of assistance. 1 Blackstone's Com. 453.

At common law no legal duty rests upon a child to support his indigent parent, and until proceedings to charge him with such support are taken as

§ 2. OVERSEERS TO APPLY TO COURT FOR ORDER COMPELLING SUPPORT OF POOR PERSON BY RELATIVES.

If a relative of a poor person fail to relieve and maintain him, as provided in the last section, the overseers of the poor of the town where he is, or in the city of New York, the commissioners of public charities may apply to the court of general sessions of the county of New York, or to the supreme court of the state of New York, or to the county court of any other county where the poor person dwells, for an order to compel such relief, upon at least five days' written notice, served personally, or by leaving it at the last place of residence of the person to whom it is directed, in case of his absence, with a person of suitable age and discretion. If such poor person be insane and legally committed to and confined in an institution supported in whole or in part by the state, and his relatives refuse or neglect to pay for his support and maintenance therein, application may be made by the treasurer of such institution in the manner provided in this section for an order directing the relatives liable therefor to make such payment. [Code Crim. Pro., § 915, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 143.]

§ 3. COURT TO HEAR CAUSE AND MAKE ORDER OF SUPPORT.

At the time appointed in the notice, the court or a judge thereof must proceed summarily to hear the allegations and proofs of the parties, and provided by statute, he is not liable therefor. Frazer v. DeWitt, 49 Hun, 53; 1 N. Y. Supp. 467; see, also, Edwards v. Davis, 16 Johns. 281, where it was held that the liability of a child to support his parents who are infirm, destitute or aged, is wholly created by statute, and therefore the law does not imply a promise from the child to pay for necessaries furnished, without his request to an indigent parent.

Liability of husband for support of wife. The common law affords no means of compelling a husband to support his wife otherwise than by making him liable to third persons who have supplied her with necessaries after he has improperly refused so to do, and the statute providing for the compulsory support of indigent relatives does not apply to husband and wife. People ex rel. Kehlbeck v. Walsh, 11 Hun, 292. The wife of a man who is abundantly able to provide for her cannot be deemed a poor person. Superintendents of the poor cannot, therefore, maintain an action in their official capacities against a husband for boarding, clothing and medical aid furnished to his wife as a pauper. Norton v. Rhodes, 18 Barb. 100.

2. Insane poor. If a person is insane, he is to be committed to a state hospital for the insane, to be there supported at the expense of the state. If there is any one legally liable for his support under the above section, action may be taken by the poor officers, the commission in lunacy, or the hospital authorities against such person to compel him to support or contribute toward the support of the insane person so maintained. See Insanity Law, secs. 54, 86–89, ante, p.

must order such of the relatives of the poor person mentioned in section nine hundred and fourteen, as were served with the notice and are of sufficient ability, to relieve and maintain him, specifying in the order the sum to be paid weekly for his support, and requiring it to be paid by the father, or if there be none, or if he be not of sufficient ability, then by the children, or if there be none, or if they be not of sufficient ability, then by the mother. If the application be made to secure an order compelling relatives to pay for the maintenance of insane poor persons committed to and confined in an institution supported in whole or in part by the state such order shall specify the sum to be paid for his maintenance by his relatives liable therefor, from the time of his reception in such institution to the time of making such order, and also the sum to be paid weekly for his future maintenance in such institution. The relatives served with such notice shall be deemed to be of sufficient ability, unless the contrary shall affirmatively appear to the satisfaction of the court or a judge thereof. [Code Crim. Pro., § 916.]

§ 4. SUPPORT; WHEN TO BE APPORTIONED AMONG DIFFERENT RELATIVES.

If it appear that any such relative is unable to wholly maintain the poor person or to pay for his maintenance if confined in a state institution for the insane but is able to contribute toward his support, the court or a judge thereof may direct two or more relatives of different degrees, to maintain him or to pay for his maintenance in such an institution if insane, prescribing the proportion which each must contribute for that purpose; and if it appear that the relatives are not of sufficient ability wholly to maintain him, or to pay for his maintenance in such an institution, if insane, but are able to contribute something, the court or a judge thereof must direct the sum, in proportion to their ability, which they shall pay weekly for that purpose. If it appears that the relatives who are liable for the maintenance of an insane poor person confined in a state institution for the insane are not able to pay the whole amount due for such maintenance from the time of such poor person's admission to such institution, the court or a judge thereof must direct the sum to be paid for such maintenance in proportion to the ability of the relatives liable therefor.[3] [Code Crim. Pro., § 917.]

3. Contribution, effect of. This section authorizes the court to require persons equally liable for the support of an indigent parent to contribute toward such support according to their ability, and where one of two persons is unable to contribute his entire proportion of such support, the court is authorized to

§ 5. ORDER TO PRESCRIBE TIME DURING WHICH SUPPORT IS TO CONTINUE, OR MAY BE INDEFINITE; WHEN AND HOW ORDER MAY BE VARIED.

The order may specify the time during which the relatives must maintain the poor person, or during which any of the sums directed by the court or a judge thereof are to be paid or it may be indefinite or until the further order of the court or a judge thereof.[4] If the order be for payment of a weekly sum for the maintenance of an insane poor person in a state institution, the order shall specify that such sum shall be paid as long as such insane poor person is maintained in such institution. The court or a judge thereof may from time to time vary the order, as circumstances may require, on the application either of any relative affected by it, or of any officer on whose application the order was made, upon ten days' written notice. [Code Crim. Pro., § 918.]

§ 6. COSTS, BY WHOM PAID, AND HOW ENFORCED.

The costs and expenses of the application must be ascertained by the court, and paid by the relatives against whom the order is made; and the payment thereof, and obedience to the order of maintenance, and to any order for the payment of money, may be enforced by attachment. [Code Crim. Pro., § 919.]

require him to contribute according to his ability, and to require the other to pay the residue. Stone v. Burgess, 47 N. Y. 521; 2 Lans. 439. And an order reciting that the two are of sufficient ability, and directing the proportion each one is to pay, if the proportion is unequal, is, in effect, a determination that the one required to pay the less sum is unable to pay his full proportion, but is able to pay the sum fixed, and such order is valid. Id.

4. Order, in effect a judgment. So long as an order, made by a court of sessions, directing the relative of a poor person to pay a specified sum periodically to the superintendent of the poor for the support of such poor person, remains unchanged, such relative is liable to pay the sum therein prescribed. If he or she desires to be relieved therefrom application should be made under the above section of the code for an amendment of the order. Aldridge v. Walker, 73 Hun, 281; 57 St. Rep. 273; 26 N. Y. Supp. 296.

Such an order is not void because it gives no option to such person either to support her daughter or to pay the amount provided, and if it is irregular the remedy is by appeal, and the question of its irregularity cannot be properly raised in an action brought to collect the amount directed to be paid by such person. While the determination provided for by this title is denominated an order, it is a final determination of the matter, and in effect a judgment. Id.

Notice. The notice required by this section should be served upon the officer making application for the order compelling the relative to support the poor person.

Code Crim. Proc., §§ 920, 899, subs. 1, 2.

§ 7. ACTION ON THE ORDER ON FAILURE TO COMPLY THEREWITH.

If a relative, required by an order of the court or a judge thereof to relieve and maintain a poor person, neglect to do so in the manner approved by the officers mentioned in section nine hundred and fourteen, and neglect to pay to them weekly the sum prescribed by the court or a judge thereof, the officers may maintain an action against the relative, and recover therein the sum prescribed by the court or a judge thereof for every week the order has been disobeyed, to the time of the recovery, with costs, for the use of the poor.[5] If the order directs a relative to pay for the maintenance of an insane poor person in a state institution, and such relative refuses or neglects to pay the amount specified therein, an action may be brought by the treasurer of such institution in its corporate name to recover the amount due to such institution by virtue of such order. [Code Crim. Pro., § 920.]

§ 8. HUSBANDS ABANDONING WIVES OR CHILDREN ARE DISORDERLY PERSONS.

Persons who actually abandon their wives or children, without adequate support, or leave them in danger of becoming a burden upon the public, or who neglect to provide for them according to their means; and persons who threaten to run away and leave their wives or children a burden upon the public are disorderly persons.[6] [Code Crim. Pro., § 899, subs. 1, 2.]

5. When action will lie. Defendant is not in default of an order of the court requiring him to support his mother at his own house when he has to support her for about a year, and she leaves without any just cause and does not return, he being willing to receive and support her in his family. Converse v. McArthur, 17 Barb. 410.

When an order is made requiring the relative of a person to support him, and fixing a sum to be paid weekly, the relative may provide for the support of the pauper, at such place and in such manner as he shall deem proper, provided the place and manner are approved by the overseer, and it is not until he has neglected or refused to do this that he is liable for the sum directed to be paid. Duel v. Lamb, 1 T. & C. 66.

6. Object of statute. The statute is designed to protect the public against the burden of supporting a wife and children when the husband, without just cause, neglects or refuses to perform his legal obligation in that regard. It does not impose any new duty upon a husband toward his wife, but simply declares that unreasonable neglect or refusal to perform certain existing obligations, in a case where such conduct will result in imposing a burden upon the public, shall be punishable as a crime. A husband is not to be restricted by the statute in his right to determine the place and manner of supporting his wife. If he neglects or refuses to properly provide for her, or so maltreats

On complaint to a magistrate that a husband is a disorderly person, a warrant will issue for his arrest. If the magistrate be satisfied that he is a disorderly person he may require him to give an undertaking to the following effect:

1. If he be a person described in the first or second subdivision of section eight hundred and ninety-nine, that he will pay to the county superintendent of the poor or to the overseer of the poor of the town, city or village, or to a society for the prevention of cruelty to children, weekly for the space of one year thereafter a reasonable sum of money to be specified by the magistrate for the support of his wife or children.

Or that the sureties will pay the sum mentioned in the undertaking, and which must be fixed by the magistrate. [Code Crim. Pro., §§ 900; 901, as amended by L. 1917, ch. 517.]

§ 9. ABSCONDING PARENTS OR HUSBAND, SEIZURE OF PROPERTY OF, FOR SUPPORT OF CHILDREN OR WIFE; APPLICATION FOR WARRANT.

When the father, or the mother being a widow or living separate from her husband, absconds from the children, or a husband from his wife, leaving any of them chargeable or likely to become chargeable upon the her that she would be justified in refusing her submission to his requirements, he may be deemed a disorderly person under the above statute. People ex rel. Douglas v. Naehr, 30 Hun, 461.

But a husband cannot be made a vagrant and a disorderly person by not complying with any condition in respect to support which the wife may see fit to impose. The husband has a right to select his own residence and the support that the statute was intended to secure is the necessaries of life, or such as the party had been accustomed to and the husband is able to provide. People v. Petit, 74 N. Y. 320; see, also, Lute v. Shelley, 40 Hun, 197.

If the husband gives the undertaking, he must be discharged, but if not, the magistrate must convict him as a disorderly person and take a certificate in the form prescribed by the statute. (Code Crim. Pro., § 902.) Such certificate constitutes a record of conviction and the magistrate must by a warrant commit the husband to a county jail or a penitentiary for not exceeding six months at hard labor, or until he gives the security prescribed by statute. (Code Crim. Pro., § 902; § 903, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 243.) If the husband fails to support his wife and children and the undertaking has been given, such undertaking may be prosecuted by the county superintendents of the poor or the overseers of the poor of the town, and the sum collected must be paid into the county treasury for the benefit of the poor. (Code Crim. Pro., § 905.)

public, the officers mentioned in section nine hundred and fourteen may apply to any two justices of the peace or police justices in the county in which any real or personal property of the father, mother or husband is situated, for a warrant to seize the same.[7] Upon due proof of the facts, the magistrate must issue his warrant, authorizing the officers so applying to take and seize the property of the person so absconding. Whenever any child shall be committed to an institution pursuant to any provision of law, any criminal court or magistrate may issue a warrant for the arrest of the father of the child, and examine into his ability to maintain such child in whole or in part; and if satisfied that such father is able to contribute toward the support of the child, then such court or magistrate shall, by order, require the weekly payment by such father of such sum and in such manner as shall be in said order directed, towards the maintenance of such child in such institution, which amount when paid shall be credited by the institution to the city, town or county against any sums due to it therefrom on account of the maintenance of the child. [Code Crim. Pro., § 921.]

§ 10. OVERSEER MAY SEIZE PROPERTY; SALE OR TRANSFER VOID; INVENTORY OF PROPERTY SEIZED.

The officers so applying may seize and take the property, wherever it may be found in the same county; and are vested with all the right and title thereto, which the person absconding then had. The sale or transfer of any personal property, left in the county from which he absconded, made after the issuing of the warrant, whether in payment of an antecedent debt or for a new consideration, is absolutely void. The

7. Who may maintain proceedings. One of two overseers of the poor is authorized to institute and carry on proceedings for the seizure of property of one who has absconded, leaving his wife or child chargeable to the town. When only one overseer acts, the consent of the other will be presumed. Downing v. Rugar, 21 Wend. 178.

Evidence. It is the duty of the court, before confirming the warrant and seizure and directing the sale of property, to require the overseers to produce some evidence to establish the case charged in the warrant, against the party whose property is seized, and the case may be contested by such party. Read v. Triangle, 23 Barb. 236.

Sums paid to institution to be credited to town, etc. In cases of commitment of a child to an institution, the above section authorizes a magistrate to order the father to pay a sum for the child's support which is to be credited by the institution to the city, town or county against any sum due for maintenance. People v. Dickson, 57 Hun, 315.

officers must immediately make an inventory of the property seized by them, and return it, together with their proceedings, to the next County Court of the county where they reside, there to be filed. [Code Crim. Pro., § 922.]

§ 11. WARRANT AND SEIZURE, WHEN CONFIRMED OR DISCHARGED BY COURT.

The court, upon inquiring into the circumstances of the case, may confirm or discharge, the warrant and seizure; and if it be confirmed, must, from time to time, direct what part of the personal property must be sold, and how much of the proceeds of the sale, and of the rents and profits of the real property, if any, are to be applied toward the maintenance of the children or wife of the person abscondnig. [Code Crim. Pro., § 923.]

§ 12. WARRANT TO BE DISCHARGED UPON RETURN OF PARENT OR HUSBAND, OR UPON SECURITY.

If the party against whom the warrant issued, return and support the wife or children so abandoned, or give security satisfactory to any two justices of the peace or police justices in the city, village or town, to the overseers of the poor of the town, or in the city of New York, to the commissioners of charities and corrections, that the wife or children so abandoned shall not be chargeable to the town or county, then the warrant must be discharged by an order of the magistrates, and the property taken by virtue thereof restored to the party. [Code Crim. Pro., § 924.]

§ 13. SALE OF PROPERTY SEIZED, AND APPLICATION OF ITS PROCEEDS.

The officers must sell at public auction the property ordered to be sold, and receive the rents and profits of the real property of the person absconding, and in those cities, villages or towns which are required to support their own poor, the officers charged therewith must apply the same to the support of the wife or children so abandoned; and for that purpose must draw on the county treasurer, or in the city of New York, upon the comptroller, for the proceeds as directed by special statutes. They must also account to the County Court of the county, for all money so received by them, and for the application thereof, from time to time, and may be compelled by that court to render that account at any time. [Code Crim. Pro., § 925.]

Code Crim. Proc., § 926; Poor Law, § 130.

§ 14. WHEN SUPERINTENDENT OF POOR HAS POWER OF OVERSEER.

When the poor person for whom relief is sought is a charge upon a county, the superintendents of the poor are vested with the same powers, as are given by this title to the overseers of the poor of a town, in respect to compelling relatives to maintain poor persons, and in respect to the seizure of the property of a parent absconding and abandoning his family; and are entitled to the same remedies in their names, and must perform the duties required by this title, of overseers and are subject to the same obligations and control.[8] [Code Crim. Pro., § 926, as amended by L. 1918, ch. 154.]

§ 15. SALE OF PROPERTY OF ABSCONDING PARENTS; APPLICATION TO COURT; APPLICATION OF PROCEEDS FOR BENEFIT OF MINORS; ACCOUNTING OF GUARDIANS.

When property of absconding persons to be applied to support of families; how application made.—Whenever the father, or the mother being a widow or living separate from her husband, has absconded or shall abscond from his or her children, or a husband from his wife, leaving any of such children or such wife chargeable, or likely to become chargeable upon the public for their support, and any real or personal estate of such father, or mother, or husband, has been or shall be seized by a superintendent of the poor or an overseer of the poor, or by a board of charities, or by other officers authorized to make such seizure, by warrant of the justices of the peace of the county where such real or personal property may be situated; and the court of sessions or county court of the county wherein such superintendent or overseer of the poor, or board of charities, or other officers authorized to make such seizure resides, has confirmed, or shall confirm said warrant and seizure, and has heretofore directed or shall hereafter direct what part if any of said personal property shall be sold, and how much if any of the proceeds of such sale and of the rents and profits of the real estate, if any, be applied toward the maintenance of the children or wife of the person so absconding; then the said superintendent or overseer of the poor, board of charities or other officers so authorized and directed, shall apply the said proceeds of sale of said personal property, or rents and profits of the real estate as the case may be, first, to the payment of such taxes and assessments as may be outstanding and existing liens upon the said real estate, and repairs necessary to be made upon said real estate, and premiums for insurance on the buildings on said real estate; and the balance, if any, directly to the maintaining, bringing up and providing for the wife, child or children so left and abandoned, as the same may be required from time to time; and for all such expenditures they shall take proper vouchers, and from the rents and profits thereafter received from any real estate so seized they shall first pay all legal taxes and assessments, as they shall be assessed against said real estate, and such premiums for insurances and expenses for such repairs thereon as they may deem necessary for the protection and preservation of said real estate, and the balance of said rents and profits shall be applied by said overseers, superintendents, boards of charities, or other persons authorized to make such seizures, to the maintaining, bringing up, and providing for the wife, child, or children so left and abandoned, and proper vouchers shall be taken thereof. [Poor Law, § 130; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4278.]

Maintenance of actions by poor officers. An action cannot be maintained by superintendents of the poor for boarding, clothing and medical aid furnished to his wife as a pauper; notwithstanding he has maltreated her and expelled her from his house without just cause, and refused to provide for her, though of sufficient ability to do so. Norton v. Rhodes, 18 Barb. 190.

It was held proper for the overseers of the town of Cazenovia to begin proceedings against a father to compel him to support his poor and infirm son. Tillotson v. Smith, 12 N. Y. St. Rep. 331.

Guardians for minors; proceeds not to be mingled with other funds; officer to give security and to account.—Whenever any child or children, entitled to the benefits provided by this article, shall be a minor or minors whose mother is dead and whose father has absconded from his children, or whose mother, being a widow or living apart from her husband, has absconded from her children, and such minor or minors shall have no guardian, the court of sessions or county court having jurisdiction of this matter shall appoint some suitable person guardian ad litem or next friend of such minor or minors, whose duty it shall be to see that the provisions of this article are carried into effect. The proceeds of the sale of said personal property and the rents and profits of said real estate shall not be mingled or placed with any other funds held or owned by the officer or officers receiving the same, but shall be kept separate and distinct. Such superintendent, overseer of the poor, board of charities or other authorized officer shall give security for the faithful performance of the duties hereby imposed in such form and in such sum as the aforesaid court may direct, and shall account to the court of sessions for all moneys so received by them and for the application thereof from time to time and may be compelled by the said court to render such account at any time. [Poor Law, § 131; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4278.]

Notice of accounting.—Notice of such accounting shall be given to the wife or children, so left and abandoned, as the case may be, and to the guardian of such children, if any of them be minors. And in the event that no guardian or next friend has been appointed, as hereinbefore provided, the said court shall, prior to such accounting being had, appoint some suitable person to attend upon such accounting in behalf of said minors, and notice of such appointment and of such accounting shall be given to the person so appointed. [Poor Law, § 132; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4279.]

Penalties; how applied.—All penalties received from the prosecution of any recognizance given by any person who shall have abandoned or neglected his wife or children, or who shall have threatened to run away and leave his wife or children a burden on the public, shall be retained by the officer at whose instance such recognizance was prosecuted, and applied for the same purpose and in the same manner as in section one hundred and thirty of this chapter provided for the disposition of the proceeds of the sale of personal property and the rents and profits of real estate seized under the provisions of this article. [Poor Law, § 133; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4279.]

§ 16. SUPERINTENDENT OR OVERSEER MAY REDEEM REAL PROPERTY OF ABSCONDING FATHER OR HUSBAND, SOLD AT SHERIFF'S SALE.

County superintendents and overseers of the poor may redeem real property, which may have been seized by them pursuant to sections 921 to 926 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the same as judgment creditors under section 1430 to 1478 of the Code of Civil Procedure. No such redemption shall be made, unless at the time of such redemption, the seizure of the property sought to be redeemed, shall have been confirmed by the County Court of the county where the premises may be situated, nor unless such property shall, at the time of making such redemption, be held by the superintendents or overseers, under and by virtue of such seizure. [Poor Law, § 134; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4279.]

§ 17. HOW SUPERINTENDENT OR OVERSEER MAY ACQUIRE TITLE.

To entitle such superintendents or overseers to acquire the title of the original purchaser, or to be substituted as purchaser, from any other creditor, they shall present to and leave with such purchaser or creditor, or the officer who made the sale, the following evidence of their right:

1. A copy of the order of the County Court, confirming the warrant and seizure of such property, duly verified by the clerk of the court.

2. An affidavit of one of the superintendents or overseers that such property is held by them under such warrant and seizure, and that the same have not been discharged, but are then in full force. [Poor Law, § 135; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4279.]

§ 18. MONEY USED FOR REDEMPTION; HOW REPAID.

The superintendents or overseers of the poor may, for the purpose of making such redemption, use any moneys in their hands belonging to the poor funds of their respective towns or counties, which moneys shall be replaced, together with the interest thereon, out of the first moneys which may be received by them from the rent or sale of the premises so redeemed. [Poor Law, § 136; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4280.]

§ 19. WHEN WARRANT OF SEIZURE MAY BE DISCHARGED.

If such redemption shall be made, and the person against whom the warrant was issued and seizure made shall apply to have the warrant discharged, he shall, before such warrant and seizure are discharged, in addition to the security required to be given by section nine hundred and twenty-four of the Code of Criminal Procedure, pay to such superintendents or overseers the sum paid by them to redeem such property, together with interest thereon, from the time of such redemption. [Poor Law, § 137; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4280.]

CHAPTER LII.

RELIEF OF VETERAN SOLDIERS, SAILORS AND MARINES.

SECTION 1. Relief to veteran soldiers, sailors and marines; not to be sent to alms-houses; duty of Grand Army of Republic.
2. Grand Army post commander to file notice and undertaking.
3. Poor or indigent soldiers, etc., without families to be sent to soldiers' home.
4. Board of supervisors to designate persons to conduct burial of soldiers, sailors or marines; where burial made.
5. Headstones to be provided for soldiers' graves at expense of county; board of supervisors to audit cost thereof.

§ 1. RELIEF TO VETERAN SOLDIERS, SAILORS AND MARINES; NOT TO BE SENT TO ALMS-HOUSES; DUTY OF GRAND ARMY OF REPUBLIC.

No poor or indigent soldier, sailor or marine who has served in the military or naval service of the United States and who has been honorably discharged from such service nor his family nor the families of any who may be deceased, shall be sent to any almshouse, but shall be relieved and provided for at their homes in the city or town where they may reside, so far as practicable, provided such soldier, sailor or marine or the families of those deceased, are, and have been, residents of the state for one year; and the proper auditing board of such city or town or in those counties where the poor are a county charge, the superintendent, if but one, or superintendents of the poor, as such auditing board in those counties, shall provide such sum or sums of money as may be necessary to be drawn upon by the commander and quartermaster of any post of the Grand Army of the Republic, or of any camp of the United Spanish War Veterans of the city or town, made upon the written recommendation of the relief committee of such post or camp; or if there be no post or camp in a town or city in which it is necessary that such relief should be granted, upon the like request of the commander and quartermaster and recommendation of the relief committee of a Grand Army post, or a camp of the United Spanish War Veterans, located in the nearest town or city, to the town or city requested to so furnish relief, and such written request and recommendation shall be a sufficient authority of the expenditures so made;[1] and such auditing board of such city or town or in those counties where the poor are a county charge, the superintendent, if but one, or superintendents of the poor, as such auditing board in those counties may also pay to the chairman of the relief committee of such Grand Army post or camp of the United Spanish War Veterans, a reasonable sum for his services in connection therewith. The Grand Army post may apply to the auditing board of the municipality for such sum of money as it deems necessary, and that board may exercise its judgment and discretion as to the amount to be appropriated; and where it has so done, its determination is final and not subject to review by any court. Such alms-houses, while used for the purposes of this article, shall be appropriately designated by such board and known as state alms-houses. Such board may, from time to time, direct the transfer of any such poor person from one alms-house to another, and may give notice from time to time to counties, to which alms-houses they shall send poor persons. [Poor Law, § 90; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4267.]

§ 2. NOTICE TO BE GIVEN TO COUNTY CLERKS OF LOCATION OF STATE ALMS-HOUSES.

All testimony taken in any such proceeding shall be forwarded, within five days thereafter, to the superintendent of state and alien poor, and a verified statement of the expenses incurred by the person in making such removal, shall be sent to such superintendent. Such board shall examine and audit the same, and allow the whole, or such parts thereof, as have been actually and necessarily incurred; provided that no allowance shall be made to any person for his time or service in making such removal. All such accounts for expense, when so audited and allowed, shall be paid by the state treasurer, on the warrant of the comptroller, to the person incurring the same. [Poor Law, § 92; B. C. & G. The expenses for the support, treatment and care of all poor persons who shall be sent as state poor to such alms-houses, shall be paid quarterly, on the first day of January, April, July and October in each year, to the treasurer of the county, or proper city officers incurring the same, by the treasurer of the state, on the warrant of the comptroller; but no such expenses shall be paid to any county or city, until an account of the number of persons thus supported, and the time that each shall have been respectively maintained, shall have been rendered in due form and approved by the state board of charities. [Poor Law, § 94; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4269.]

§ 6. DUTY OF KEEPERS; SUPERINTENDENT OF STATE AND ALIEN POOR TO KEEP RECORD OF NAMES.

The keeper or principal officer in charge of such alms-house shall enter the names of all persons received by him pursuant to this article, with such particulars in reference to each as the board from time to time may prescribe, together with the name of the superintendent by whom the commitment was made, in a book to be kept for that purpose. And he shall also visit and inspect all alms-houses in which are Indians who are poor persons at least once a year. For the purposes of all such inspections, the superintendent shall possess all the powers of a member of the board and the further powers hereinafter mentioned. The officer in charge of each and every alms-house shall give to such superintendent free access to all parts of the ground, buildings, hospitals and other arrangements connected therewith, and to every inmate thereof, and extend to him the same facilities for the inspection of such alms-house and its inmates, as is required by law to be extended to such board of commissioners; and, in default thereof such officer shall be subject to the same penalty as if access were denied to any member of the board. Such board shall also cause each of such alms-houses to be visited periodically by some of its members, who shall examine into their condition and management, respectively, and make such report thereof to the board as may be deemed proper. [Poor Law, § 96; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4270.]

§ 8. INSANE STATE POOR.

If any inmate of such alms-house becomes insane, such superintendent of state and alien poor shall cause his removal to the appropriate state hospital for the insane, and he shall be received by the officer in charge of such hospital, and be maintained therein until duly discharged. Such superintendent, in his discretion, may bind out a state poor orphan or indigent child which may be committed to any such state alms-house, or placed in any orphan asylum, if a male child under twenty-one years, if a female under the age of eighteen, to be clerks, apprentices or servants until such child, if a male, be twenty-one years old, or if a female, shall be eighteen years old, which binding shall be as effectual as if such child had bound himself with the consent of his parents or other legal guardian. [Poor Law, § 98; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4271.]

§ 10. TRANSFER TO OTHER STATES OR COUNTRIES.

When any person becomes an inmate of any such alms-house, and expresses a preference to be sent to any state or country where he may have a legal settlement, or friends willing to support him or to aid in supporting him, the superintendent of the state and alien poor may cause his removal to such state or country, provided, in the judgment of the superintendent, the interests of the state and the welfare of such poor person will be thereby promoted. [Poor Law, § 99; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4271.]

conveyed to the alms-house of the county where such Indian resides, where he shall be maintained at state expense. Immediately upon the removal of such Indian who is a poor person to such alms-house, all testimony taken and all facts relating thereto, together with a verified statement of the expenses incurred in making such removal, shall be transmitted to the state board of charities. Such board shall examine all matters relating thereto, and if satisfied that such removal was proper, and that the expenses thereof were actually and necessarily incurred, shall audit and allow the amount of such expenses, which when so audited and allowed shall be paid by the state treasurer, on the warrant of the comptroller, to the person incurring the same.

If, however, it shall appear to the satisfaction of such superintendent that the Indian poor person making application for relief is in such physical condition as to make it improper to remove him to the alms-house, the superintendent may, subject to such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the state board of charities, provide for the care and support of such Indian poor person, without removing him to the alms-house, and the expenses incurred in such care and support shall be paid by the state treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller, upon the order and allowance thereof by the state board of charities as in cases of support of Indian poor persons in alms-houses. Such board may establish rules and regulations for the discipline, treatment and care of such Indians and provide for their discharge. Every such contract shall be in writing and filed in the office of such board. [Poor Law, § 102; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4272.]

of Indians thus supported and the time that each shall have been respectively maintained shall have been rendered in due form and approved by the state board of charities. [Poor Law, § 103; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4272.]

§ 15. DUTY OF KEEPERS; SUPERINTENDENT OF STATE AND ALIEN POOR TO KEEP RECORD.

Such report shall state when such person was received into the institution, and, when known, the name, age, sex, nationality, residence, length of time of commitment or appointment, the name of the officer making the same, and the sum chargeable per week, month or year for such person. If any person so appointed or committed to any such institution shall die, be removed or discharged, such officers shall immediately report to the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county, or of the county in which such town is situated, or to the city clerk of the city from which such person was committed or appointed, the date of such death, removal or discharge. PART VIII.

HIGHWAYS AND BRIDGES.

CHAPTER LV.

DEFINITIONS AND CLASSIFICATION.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Changes Made by Present Highway Law; Historical Statement.

The Highway Law of 1909 (L. 1909, ch. 30), as contained in this part of the manual is identical with the new Highway Law of 1908 (L. 1908, ch. 330); the sections thereof are identical with the sections of the law of 1908.

The first general law on the subject of highways and bridges was passed in 1797 (ch. 43) which regulated highways in all the counties of the state except those of New York, Suffolk, Queens and Kings. The laws upon this subject were again revised and re-enacted by L. 1801, ch 186, and were subsequently included in the Revised Laws of 1813, ch. 33, and in the Revised Statutes of 1828, tit. 1, ch. 16, pt. 1.

Prior to 1873 all work upon the highways of the state outside of cities and villages was performed by the owners of property lying in the respective districts or wards, the number of days' labor to be performed by each being assessed against him in proportion to the value of his property. This system became known as the labor system. In 1873, by ch. 395, the several towns were given the option of changing to a money system, by which an annual tax was levied instead of an assessment for labor, and the money so raised was to be expended in procuring work to be done by contract or days' labor. The provisions of this act were carried over into the Highway Law of 1890. (Rept. of Board of Statutory Consolidation, p. 2570.)

Explanatory note.

Highway Law of 1908.

The Highway Law of 1908 was submitted to the legislature in that year by the Joint Legislative Committee on Highways. This revision was much more than a consolidation or codification of existing general laws relating to highways and bridges. As stated in the preface to the Highway Code of the State of New York "But it does more than revise and codify existing laws; it originates new methods of state and county administration of highway affairs; it logically and effectively unites centralization with local control and responsibility, on the one hand, by creating a state commission with full power to aid, supervise and direct the local officer in administering highway affairs in his locality, and on the other, by preserving to the local officer all his power and responsibility in respect to local conditions and the expenditure of town and county funds; it outlines a comprehensive system of trunk highways and provides for their construction at the sole expense of the state; it abolishes the time-worn and ineffective labor system of taxation for the maintenance of town highways and substitutes therefor a money tax to be levied by the board of supervisors upon estimates duly submitted by the town superintendent of highways and revised by the town board, subject to reasonable limitations as to amounts which may be raised without a vote of a town meeting; it provides for the proper audit of town expenditures for highways and bridges and the systematic and uniform accounting for receipts and expenditures by highway officers, under the supervision of and in the form prescribed by the state commission of highways; it has more fully protected the interests of county and town in the construction of county highways and has provided more effectual safeguards in the award of contracts for the construction of state and county highways." As above indicated the Highway Law of 1908 was re-enacted as ch. 45 of the Consolidated Laws without change in arrangement or substance except that the Motor Vehicle Law is made a part thereof and is now found in art. 11.

1. The term "department," when used in this chapter, shall mean the department of highways as constituted herein.

2. The terms "commission," "highway commission," and "state highway commission," when so used, shall each mean the state commission of highways. The term "state superintendent of highways," when so used, shall mean the commissioner of highways, and reference to powers and duties of the state superintendent of highways to be exercised subject to the commission shall mean the exercise of such powers and duties by the commissioner of highways without the concurrence of any other commission or officer.

3. The term "district superintendent" or "county superintendent," when so used, shall mean the district superintendent of highways or county superintendent of highways respectively.

4. The term "town superintendent," when so used, shall mean the town superintendent of highways.

5. A highway within the provisions of this chapter shall be deemed to include necessary culverts, sluices, drains, ditches, waterways, embankments, retaining walls and all bridges having a span of five feet or less.[2] [Highway Law, § 2, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, L. 1912, ch. 83, L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2168.]

2. Use of definitions. The purpose of defining the terms enumerated in this section is to state the meaning of such terms when used in the Highway Law. Wherever any of these terms are so used reference should be made to this section to determine their meaning. It will be noticed that county engineers and county superintendents are hereafter to be known as district superintendents or county superintendents, and that the commissioners of highways under the former law are hereafter to be known as town superintendents.

Definition of highway. The term highway is defined herein for the purpose of determining what such term includes when used in this chapter. It is not intended as exclusive of the original common law definition of a highway. The main object was to authorize the construction and repair of "culverts, sluices, drains, bridges, waterways, embankments, retaining walls and all bridges having a span of five feet or less" as a part of the highway.

At common law a highway is defined as a way over which the public at large have a right of passage whether it be a carriageway, a horseway or footway, or a navigable river. 3 Kent's Commentaries, 432. Any way which is common to all people without distinction is a highway. People v. Kingman, 24 N. Y. 559.

Streets as highways. The term "highway" as generally used includes the streets of a city or village.. Adams v. S. & W. R. R. Co., 11 Barb. 414, 449, Benedict v. Goit, 3 Barb. 459; Brace v. N. Y. Central R. R. Co., 27 N. Y. 271. But term "highway" in its ordinary and popular sense, refers to the country roads under the management and control of the local authorities of the several towns or counties of the state. In re Woolsey, 95 N. Y. 135; In re Burns, 155 N. Y. 23.

§ 3. CLASSIFICATION OF HIGHWAYS.

Highways are hereby divided into four classes:[3]

1. State highways are those constructed or improved under this chapter at the sole expense of the state, including those highways specified and described in section one hundred and twenty of the highway law and acts amendatory thereof.

2. County highways are those heretofore or hereafter constructed or improved at the joint expense of state, county and town, or state and town, as provided by law, except those highways specified and described in section one hundred and twenty of this chapter.

3. County roads are those designated as such under a general or special law and constructed, improved, maintained and repaired by the Sidewalks. A sidewalk is as much a part of the highway as the traveled wagon road is. People v. Meyer, 26 Misc. 117, 56 N. Y. Supp. 1097, 1099.

Bridges. A highway includes all bridges necessary for the proper use of such highway by the traveling public. Bridges are ordinarily treated as portions of the highways which cross them, and are to be maintained by the same authorities to whom the duty of repairing the highway is committed. Washer v. Bullitt County, 110 U. S. 558, 568, 4 Sup. Ct. 249, 28 L. Ed. 249; Dodge County Commr's v. Chandler, 96 U. S. 205, 208, 24 L. Ed. 625.

A bridge having a span of more than five feet is not a part of a highway so as to authorize the state highway commission to construct it as a part of a state highway. Paddleford v. State (1918), 103 Misc. 398.

Cul-de-sac. A way which is open at one end only is a cul-de-sac. Although every public thoroughfare is a highway, it is not essential that every highway should be a thoroughfare, as it is now well settled that a cul-de-sac may be a highway. Elliot on Roads & Streets, § 2. In the case of Holdane v. Cold Spring Trustees, 23 Barb. 103, two of the three judges held that a cul-de-sac could not be a highway. They based their decisions upon what they supposed to be the common law. In the case of People v. Kingman, 24 N. Y. 559, the court of appeals disapproved the decision in Holdane v. Cold Spring Trustees, 23 Barb. 103, and held that upon principle as well as authority it is no objection to the highway that it is a cul-de-sac; that public ways with outlet at one end may, and even do, exist. See also People v. Van Alstyne, 3 Keyes, 35, 37; Saunders v. Townsend, 26 Hun, 308, 309.

Private roads. A way opened opened by the owners of private lands for the accommodation of the lands through and to which it leads, although laid out as a public road, must be deemed a private way, even if the public are permitted to travel over it, unless it be shown to have been dedicated to, and accepted and adopted by the public as a public highway. Palmer v. Palmer, 150 N. Y. 139, 44 N. E. 966.

A private approach from a highway, which approach has a span of less than five feet is to be deemed a part of the highway. Ferguson v. Town of Lewisboro (1914), 213 N. Y. 141, 107 N. E. 53.

3. The present Highway Law, by providing for the construction of State highways at the sole expense of the State, creates a class of highways not contained in the former law. The county highways are the same as those formerly constructed under the so-called Higbie-Armstrong Act (1898, ch. 115, and the acts amendatory thereof) at the joint expense of State, county and town. After the determination of the highways to be constructed as State and county highways, all other highways outside of incorporated villages constituting separate road districts are to be known as town highways, subject to the control of towns, as provided in the Highway Law.

county as such in counties in which the county road system has been or may be adopted.

4. Town highways are those constructed, improved or maintained by the town with the aid of the state, under the provisions of this chapter, including all highways in towns, outside of incorporated villages constituting separate road districts, which do not belong to either of the three preceding classes. [Highway Law, § 3, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 567, L. 1912, ch. 83, and L. 1916, ch. 578.]

Explanatory note.

CHAPTER LVI.

DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

State Department of Highways.

The Highway Law of 1908 transferred to the State Commission of Highways, the powers and duties formerly possessed and exercised by the State Engineer. These powers and duties were extended by providing for more effective supervision of highways built and maintained by the towns and counties with the aid of state money, and the exclusive control of highways built entirely by the state. The State Commission, as constituted by ch. 80 of L. 1913, now consists of a single commissioner, known as the Commissioner of Highways. He possesses all the powers and performs the duties of the State Commission of Highways. This chapter treats of the membership and officers and employees of this commission, and their general powers and duties.

Powers in Respect to Town and County Highways.

The commission has the general supervision of all highways and bridges constructed or maintained in whole or in part by the aid of state moneys. Since all towns receive state moneys to aid in caring for their highways, it follows that the commission may control the several town officers in the performance of their duties in respect to such highways. The commission prescribes rules and regulations governing the performance of official duties by such officers, and provides for the enforcement thereof. The commission and its officers must aid town and county superintendents in the performance of their duties, and advise with them as to the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges. All of these powers tend to make the commission a controlling factor in the administration of highway laws. All town and county officers having duties to perform with respect to the highways and bridges must be guided by the judgment of the commission. The effect of this summary power vested in the commission is to harmonize highway administration, and establish a uniform state system of highways.

§ 2. STATE COMMISSION OF HIGHWAYS; COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS.

The state commission of highways is continued. Such commission shall consist of a single commissioner, to be known as the commissioner of highways, who shall be the head of the department of highways. Such commissioner shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate for a term of five years. He shall devote all of his time to the duties of his office. The governor may remove such commissioner for inefficiency, neglect of duty or misconduct in office. A copy of the charges against him shall be served upon such superintendent and he shall have an opportunity of being publicly heard in person or by counsel in his own defense upon not less than a ten days' notice. If such commissioner shall be removed, the governor shall file in the office of the secretary of state a complete statement of all charges made against such commissioner and his findings thereon, together with a complete record of the proceedings. The commissioner of highways shall receive an annual salary to be fixed by the governor of not exceeding ten thousand dollars. Wherever by the terms of this chapter or other statute, action by the commission is required to be taken by resolution or in any manner by the concurrence of the members of* a majority, such action shall, when the commission consists of a single commissioner, be taken by a formal order of such commissioner entered in the records of the department of highways. [Highway Law, § 11, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, and L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2171.]

The commissioner of highways shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office and execute an undertaking in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, to be approved by and filed with the comptroller and renewed as often as the governor may require. Such undertaking shall be to the effect that he will faithfully discharge the duties of his office and promptly account for and pay over all moneys or property received by him as such commissioner of highways in accordance with law, or in default thereof that the parties executing such undertaking will pay all damages, costs and expenses resulting from such default. In the discharge of their official duties the commissioner of highways, deputies, secretary, engineers, and the clerks, officers and other employees of the department shall have reimbursed to them their necessary traveling expenses and disbursements. Such salaries and expenses shall be paid by the state treasurer upon the warrant of the comptroller, out of moneys appropriated therefor in the same manner as the salaries and expenses of other officers, clerks and employees are paid. [Highway Law, § 18, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, and renumbered and amended by L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2173.]

§ 5a. DEPUTY COMMISSIONERS, SECRETARY AND CHIEF AUDITOR OF THE DEPARTMENT.

The commissioner of highways shall appoint a secretary and chief auditor of the department and three deputy commissioners. Each of the deputy commissioners shall have had practical experience in actual building, construction and maintenance of highways and be familiar with the operation and effect of state statutes relating to highways and bridges. One of such deputies shall be a practical civil engineer, to be known as the first deputy, and his duties shall relate to the plans, specifications and execution of all contracts pertaining to state and county highways; one of such deputies shall be known as the second deputy, and his duties shall relate to the maintenance of state and county highways; one of such deputies shall be known as the third deputy and his duties shall relate to the repair, improvement and maintenance of town highways and bridges, and county roads and roads and bridges on the Indian reservations. The first deputy shall receive an annual salary of six thousand dollars. The second and third deputies and the secretary shall each receive an annual salary of five thousand dollars. The chief auditor shall receive an annual salary of five thousand dollars. Each deputy, the secretary and the chief auditor shall before entering upon the duties of his office each take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office. Each deputy, the secretary and the chief auditor shall each execute an undertaking in the sum of five thousand dollars, to be approved by and filed with the comptroller and renewed as often as the commissioner of highways may require. The commissioner of highways, by order filed in the office of the department, may at any time designate a deputy to sign on behalf of the commission such papers and documents as are specified in such order. The chief auditor shall determine the authorization for and the accuracy of every expenditure of state funds for highway purposes and his report thereon, after approval by the commissioner of highways, shall be transmitted to the comptroller for final audit. Each deputy, the secretary and the chief auditor shall have such other and further duties as the commissioner of highways may determine, and shall each be subject to his direction and control and may be removed by him. [Highway Law, § 14, as added by L. 1913, ch. 80.]

§ 6. GENERAL POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS.

The commissioner of highways shall [1]

1. Have general supervision of all highways and bridges which are constructed improved or maintained in whole or in part by the aid of state moneys.

2. Prescribe rules and regulations [2] not inconsistent with law, fixing the duties of division engineers, resident engineers, district, county and town superintendents in respect to all highways and bridges and determining the method of the construction, improvement or maintenance of such highways and bridges. Such rules and regulations shall, before taking effect, be printed and transmitted to the highway officers affected thereby.

3. Compel compliance with laws, rules and regulations relating to such highways and bridges by highway officers and see that the same are carried into full force and effect.

1. Many of the powers and duties prescribed in this section were formerly possessed by the State Engineer. Former Highway Law, sec. 55c, as amended by L. 1897, ch. 743, required town officers to comply with the directions and rules of the State Engineer in respect to highway improvements, under L. 1897, ch. 115, and the acts amendatory thereof. L. 1907, ch. 717, required the State Engineer to collect information and compile statistics, determine as to methods of construction and consult with and aid local officers and hold meetings in each county. All of these duties are retained in this section to be exercised by the commissioner of highways.

The supervisory power of the state commissioner of highways involves wide discretion as to the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the state, and the exercise of this discretion necessarily affects the manner in which the funds to be raised by the state, counties and towns relating to such construction and maintenance shall be collected and disbursed. People ex rel. Carlise v. Supervisors of Onondaga (1916), 217 N. Y. 424, 111 N. E. 1057.

2. Highway Law, section 24, post, p. 800a, authorizes the commissioner of highways to make rules and regulations for the use of State and county highways by the arveling public. The rules and regulations to be adopted under the above subdivision pertain entirely to the duties of highway officers.

bridges, when requested so to do by a district, county or town superintendent.

6. Investigate and determine upon the various methods of road construction adapted to different sections of the state, and as to the best methods of construction and maintenance of highways and bridges.

7. Make an annual report to the legislature on or before February fifteenth, stating the condition of the highways and bridges, the progress of the improvement and maintenance of state, county and town highways, the amount of moneys received and expended during the year, upon highways and bridges and in the administration of his office, and also containing such matters as in his judgment should be brought to the attention of the legislature, together with recommendations as to such measures in relation to highways as in his judgment the public interests require.

8. Compile statistics relating to the public highways throughout the state, and collect such information in regard thereto as he shall deem expedient.

9. Cause public meetings to be held at least once each year, in each district or county, for the purpose of furnishing such general information and instructions as may be necessary, regarding the construction, improvement or maintenance of the highways and bridges and the application of the highway law, and the rules and regulations of the department, and also for the purpose of hearing complaints. He shall notify the district or county superintendent of his intention to hold such meeting or meetings, specifying the date and the place thereof.[3]

10. Aid at all times in promoting highway improvement throughout the state, and perform such other duties and have such other powers in respect to highways and bridges as may be imposed or conferred on him by law.

11. Approve and determine the final plans, specifications and estimates for state and county highways upon the receipt of the report and recommendations of the county or district superintendent, as provided herein, and transmit the same in the case of a county highway to the board of supervisors. After the approval of such plans, specifications and estimate by the board of supervisors and the return thereof to the com-

3. By Highway Law, sec. 33, subd. 7, post, p. 806, the county or district superintendent is directed to notify each town superintendent and supervisor of the time and place where such meetings are to be held. missioner of highways, in the case of a county highway and after his final determination in respect thereto in the case of a highway, the Commissioner of highways shall cause a contract to be let for the construction or improvement of such state or county highway after due advertisement.

12. Prepare tables showing the total number of miles of highways in the state, and county, and file a copy of the same in the office of the comptroller.[4]

13. Divide the state into not more than nine divisions and assign a division engineer to the charge of each, subject to his direction, supervision and control. In making such division no county shall be divided.

14. Make and file with the comptroller a schedule of salaries of all officers, clerks, employees, engineers and superintendents, appointed by him, whose salaries are not fixed by law.

15. Inquire into the official conduct of all subordinates of the department.

16. Direct and cause to be made such repairs of state and county highways as he deems necessary, within the estimates and appropriations made therefor. [Highway Law, § 15, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2173.]

§ 7. DIVISION OF STATE; DIVISION ENGINEERS.

The commissioner of highways shall appoint a division engineer for each of the divisions of the state. Each person so appointed as a division engineer shall be a practical civil engineer having had actual experience in the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges. The salary of such engineers shall be four thousand dollars per annum. An office may be maintained by such division engineers at a convenient place within each division as authorized by the commissioner of highways. The salary and expenses of such engineers shall be paid out of moneys appropriated therefor upon the requisition of the commissioner of highways. Each division engineer shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office

4. The tables of highway mileage are very important. The amount of State aid to the towns is calculated therefrom, since such amount depends upon the assessed valuation and mileage of the towns. See Highway Law, sec. 101, post, p. 867. The proportionate amount to be paid by county and town for the construction of county highways is ascertained by dividing the total amount of assessed valuation of taxable property in county and town by the total mileage of highways therein. See Highway Law, sec. 141, post, p. 889.

and execute an official undertaking in the sum of ten thousand dollars to be approved by and filed with the comptroller and renewed as often as the commissioner of highways may require. The commissioner of highways, subject to the provisions of the civil service law, may remove such division engineers. [Highway Law, § 16, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, and L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2175.]

§ 8. DUTIES OF DIVISION ENGINEERS.

Each division engineer shall devote his entire time to the performance of his duties. He shall, under the direction and control of the commissioner of highways,

1. Make or cause to be made all surveys, maps, plans, specifications and estimates necessary or required for the improvement, construction and maintenance of state and county highways within the division for which he is appointed.

2. Examine, revise and approve all plans, specifications and estimates and proposals for the improvement, construction and maintenance of highways and bridges within his division, which may be submitted by the commissioner of highways, pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, or the rules and regulations of such commissioner.

3. Examine and inspect, or cause to be examined and inspected, the work performed on any highways, and report to the commissioner of highways as to whether the work has been done in accordance with the plans and specifications and contracts made therefor.

4. Approve and certify to the monthly estimates or allowances for work being performed under any contract let for the construction, improvement or maintenance of state and county highways.

5. Inspect, or cause to be inspected, all state and county highways, and report from time to time in respect thereto, when required by the commissioner of highways.

6. Consult with district, county and town superintendents and other highway officers in respect to the proper methods of constructing, improving and maintaining highways and bridges.

7. Perform such other duties as may be prescribed by the commissioner of highways.

8. Have charge of the construction, reconstruction, maintenance and repair of state and county highways in his division, under the supervision of the deputy having jurisdiction thereof.

9. When the corners of the boundaries of counties, cities, villages and subdivision lots of towns shall have been located, as provided in subdivision nine of section thirty-three of this chapter, it shall be the duty of the division engineer to accurately set a monument at such corner, except in cases where the improvement of such highway or road has been completed prior to the location of such corner as provided in such subdivision. Such monument shall be of some durable material and shall be so set that the top thereof shall be on a level with the surface of such improved highway or road. The cost and expense of such monuments and the setting of the same shall be a state charge. [Subd. added by L. 1916, ch. 217.] [Highway Law, § 17, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, L. 1913, ch. 80, and L. 1916, ch. 217; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2175.]

§ 8-a. APPOINTMENT OF OFFICERS, CLERKS AND EMPLOYEES.

The commissioner of highways shall appoint such resident engineers, district superintendents, clerks, officers and employees as may be required to carry out the provisions of this chapter, subject to the civil service laws and the provisions of this chapter, within the amount appropriated therefor, unless the appointment of such clerks, officers or employees is otherwise provided for herein. District superintendents, appointed as provided in this chapter, shall be appointed from lists prepared from examinations which shall test their qualifications for the actual construction and maintenance of highways and their executive capacity, rather than their scientific attainments. Clerks, other than those employed in the principal office of the commissioner of highways, inspectors and other employees in the department whose duties pertain to the maintenance of highways, shall likewise be selected from lists prepared from examinations testing their general knowledge of the highway law and of the practical construction of highways. Inspectors of construction, other than engineers and levelers, shall be selected from lists similarly prepared, except that they shall be residents of the county within which the highway constructed or improved is located. To the end that the employees of the department of highways engaged in the work of constructing, improving or maintaining highways under the provisions of this chapter may be practical highway builders, the commissioner of highways is authorized to indicate to the civil service commission the relative value which should be given to experience and scientific attainments. The commissioner of highways, subject to the provisions of the civil service law, may remove the resident engineers, district superintendents, clerks, officers and employees of the departments. [Highway Law, § 19, as added by L. 1913, ch. 80.]

§ 9. BLANK FORMS AND TOWN ACCOUNTS.

The commissioner of highways shall prescribe and furnish blank forms of orders, reports and accounts and blank books, whenever in his judgment they are required for the convenience of his office and of highway officers. [Highway Law, § 20, as renumbered and amended by L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2176.]

§ 10. EXAMINATION OF ACCOUNTS AND RECORDS.

The commissioner of highways may, at such times as may be deemed expedient, cause an examination of all accounts and records kept as required by this chapter, and it shall be the duty of all county and town officers to produce all such records and accounts for examination and inspection, at any time on demand of a representative of the commissioner of highways.[5] [Highway Law, § 21, as renumbered and amended by L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2176.]

§ 11. CONDEMNATION OF BRIDGES.

The commissioner of highways shall cause an inspection to be made of any bridge which is reported to be unsafe for public use and travel by the district or county superintendent, the town superintendent, or five residents of the town. If such bridge is found to be unsafe for public use and travel the commissioner of highways shall condemn such bridge, and notify the district or county superintendent, the town superintendent and the supervisor of the town, of that fact. The district or county superintendent shall either prepare or approve plans, specifications and estimates for the construction or repair of such bridge without delay. The town shall provide for the construction or reconstruction of such bridge, as provided for by section ninety-three of this chapter.[6] [Highway Law, § 22, as renumbered and amended by L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2176.]

5. Town accounts of money received and expended for highways, bridges, machinery, tools and implements, the removal of obstructions caused by snow, and for miscellaneous purposes, are to be kept in the manner prescribed by the commission. See sec. 108, post. All of these accounts under the above sections are to be open to examination and inspection by the commission or any of its representatives at all reasonable times.

6. The commission, under this section, may condemn a bridge which has become unsafe. When notified by the commission it becomes the duty of the town superintendent to cause the bridge to be repaired or reconstructed in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared or approved by the district or county superintendent. If more than $1,500 is required for the purpose, a proposition must be submitted at a town meeting to authorize the raising of a tax. Highway Law, sec. 94, subd. 4, post, p. 861; sec. 95, post, p. 862. If the proposition be adopted the town board may authorize the supervisor to borrow money in anticipation of the taxes to be levied in pursuance of the proposition adopted at such town meeting. A proposition may also be submitted authorizing the town to bond for the amount required to rebuild or repair the bridge condemned by the commission. Highway Law, sec. 97, post, p. 863.

§ 12. ESTIMATE OF COST OF MAINTENANCE OF STATE AND COUNTY HIGHWAYS.

The commissioner of highways shall annually cause to be inspected all improved state and county highways, either by the division engineer, or the district or county superintendent of the district or county in which such highways are situated and shall require a complete report of such inspection which shall show in detail the condition of the highway inspected, the necessary work to be performed in the repair and maintenance of such highways, and the estimated cost thereof. The commissioner of highways shall revise said estimates and annually report to the legislature his estimated cost of such repair and maintenance for the ensuing year, as so revised, in detail by counties.[7] [Highway Law, § 23, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 83, and renumbered and amended by L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2177.]

§ 13. RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR STATE AND COUNTY HIGHWAYS.

The commissioner of highways is hereby empowered to make rules and regulations from time to time for the protection of any state or county highway or section thereof.[8] He may prescribe the width of tires to be used on such highways and he may prohibit the use of chains or armored tires by motor vehicles upon such highways, and any disobedience thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not less than ten dollars and not exceeding one hundred dollars, to be prosecuted for by the town, county, or district superintendent and paid to the county treasurer to the credit of the fund for the maintenance of such highways in the town where such fine is collected. [Highway Law, § 24, as renumbered and amended by L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. p. 2177.]

§ 14. PATENTED MATERIAL OR ARTICLES.

In the construction, maintenance or repair of state or county highways,

7. Appropriations for maintenance. By Highway Law, sec. 171, post p. 901, it is provided that there shall be annually appropriated for the maintenance and repair of State and county highways an amount sufficient to provide therefor, based upon the estimates prepared and submitted by the commission to the Legislature, as provided in this section. The object of this section is to provide a basis for the annual appropriation for the maintenance of State and county highways.

8. The commission may adopt rules and regulations prescribing the duties of highway officers. Highway Law, sec. 15, sub. 2, ante, p. 795.

no patented material or article or any other material or article shall be specified, contracted for or purchased, except under such circumstances that there can be fair and reasonable opportunity for competition, the conditions to secure which shall be prescribed by the commissioner of highways.[9] [Highway Law, § 25, as added by L. 1913, ch. 80.]

9. Liquid asphalt. A producer of liquid asphalt, which answers all the tests prescribed in specifications for the construction of highways, except that they call for a solid asphalt, which is produced only by a single company and its subsidiaries, has a sufficient special interest to authorize a suit upon its part to enjoin the Highway Commissioner from letting contracts under such specifications. Warner-Quinlan Asphalt Co. v. Carlisle, 158 App. Div. 638.

Explanatory note.

CHAPTER LVII.

DISTRICT OR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

County Superintendents.

County superintendents of highways take the place of county engineers under the former law. The board of supervisors of each county may appoint a county superintendent of highways, and fix his salary. If such officer is not appointed, the county is included in a district with other counties, and a district superintendent of highways is appointed by the State commission of highways.

District Superintendents.

This office is new under the Highway Law of 1909. The law authorizes the commission to establish districts to be made up of counties which have not appointed county superintendents. District superintendents are appointed by the commission and are removable at its pleasure. The salaries are fixed by the commission, and the amount thereof is apportioned among the counties in the district according to the number of highways in each district. The part apportioned to each county must be levied and collected as other county charges.

Powers and Duties.

The powers and duties of county and district superintendents are prescribed by the Highway Law, § 33, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 567, and L. 1911, ch. 646, supplemented by rules and directions made by the commission. The rules and directions in respect to the duties of such officers are included in the notes to this chapter.

[Highway Law, art. III.]

SECTION 1. Appointment of county superintendents.
2. District superintendents; appointment and salaries.
3. Removal of county superintendents.
4. General powers and duties of district or county superintendents.

Highway Law, §§ 30-32.

§ 1. APPOINTMENT OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

The board of supervisors of any county may appoint a county superintendent, determine the amount of the bond which he shall give, fix his salary, and provide for the payment of all the necessary expenses incurred while in the performance of his duties, which salary and expenses shall be a county charge, and may remove such county superintendent for malfeasance or misfeasance in office, upon written charges, after an opportunity to be heard, not less than five days after the service upon such superintendent of a copy of such charges.[1] The term of office of each superintendent shall be four years unless sooner removed by the board of supervisors as above provided, or by the commission as hereinafter provided. [Highway Law, § 30, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 567, in effect June 21, 1910.]

§ 2. DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENTS; APPOINTMENT AND SALARIES.

If the board of supervisors of any county shall fail to appoint a county superintendent, the commission shall appoint a county superintendent from the eligible list of the county, and fix his salary, which, together with his expenses, shall be a county charge, payable monthly, or, in its discretion, place such county in a district with such other counties as they deem best and appoint a district superintendent therefor. A county may be divided, but no district shall contain more than five thousand miles of public highways. Such district superintendents may be removed by the commission at its pleasure. The commission shall fix the salaries of such superintendents. Such salaries, together with expenses, shall be paid monthly in the first instance by the state treasurer upon the warrant of the comptroller and the amount thereof shall be annually apportioned by the commission among the counties contained in the district, in proportion to the number of miles of public highways of such county and in such district. The comptroller shall certify the amount so apportioned to the board of supervisors of each of such counties, and such board shall annually levy and cause to be collected as a county charge the proportionate part of such salary, and the treasurer of each such county shall pay the sum so raised into the state treasury.[1a] [Highway Law, § 31, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 224, in effect May 5, 1910.]

§ 3. REMOVAL OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

The commission may remove a county superintendent for inefficiency, neglect of duty or misconduct in office, upon written charges after an opportunity of being publicly heard in his defense. A copy of such charges

1. A bill for services of counsel employed by the county superintendent in a proceeding to remove a town superintendent is not a proper charge against the state. But, if no county attorney has been appointed, it may be a proper charge against the county. Rept. of Atty. Genl., May 3, 1911.

Review of proceedings; reinstatement. Certiorari may be brought to review the proceedings of a board of supervisors in removing a county superintendent of highways, pursuant to this section, for malfeasance in office by reason of the receipt by him of moneys from a town for the preparation of plans and specifications for the improvement of a highway. Evidence examined, and held, that, although the county superintendent may have misconceived his rights, he should be reinstated. People ex rel. Seaman v. Cocks (1912), 149 App. Div. 883, 134 N. Y. Supp. 808.

Salary of superintendent. The board of supervisors has the absolute and exclusive right to appoint the county superintendent and to fix his salary and provide for the payment of his necessary expense, although such salary at the time of the appointment exceeds the salary stated in the notice published by the civil service commission for the competitive examination of candidates. MacDonald v. Ordway (1916), 219 N. Y. 328, 114 N. E. 386.

1a. Salary and expenses of county superintendent. Under this section of the Highway Law, as amended in 1910, the board of supervisors, being authorized to fix the salary of the county superintendent of highways and to provide for the payment of his expenses, has implied power to increase the salary of such superintendent and to provide for additional expenses where there is an unsual increase in the dtuies to be performed by him. Porter v. Fletcher, 153 App. Div. 470.

shall be personally served upon such superintendent and he shall be given not less than five days' notice of the time and place of the hearing. If upon such hearing it appears that the charges are sustained, the commission shall remove such superintendent and forthwith serve notice thereof by mail upon the superintendent and upon the chairman and clerk of the board of supervisors of the county for which he was appointed. Such notice shall state specifically the grounds for such removal. The record of the proceedings upon such hearing shall be filed in the office of the commission. The commission shall appoint a district superintendent for such county or cause it to be added to some other district, and it shall thereupon be made subject to the jurisdiction of the district superintendent thereof until the board of supervisors shall appoint a new county superintendent to fill the vacancy caused by such removal. [Highway Law, § 32; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2178.]

§ 4. GENERAL POWERS AND DUTIES OF DISTRICT OR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS.

The district or county superintendent appointed as provided in this article shall, subject to the rules and regulations of the commission [1a] and subject to the supervision of the state superintendent of highways:

1a. Rules and regulations adopted by the commission may control the district or county superintendent in the performance of his duties. Highway Law, sec. 15, subd. 2, ante, p. 596.

The following Rules are in force October 1, 1910:

First.—A district or county superintendent must observe the prescribed rules and regulations of the commission.

Second.—A district or county superintendent is directed to consult with the division engineer whenever, in his judgment, he may need advice and assistance in preparing or approving plans and specifications for the construction of highways and bridges.

Third.—District or county superintendents are to have no control over state or county highways unless specifically directed by the commission.

Fourth.—District or county superintendents are directed to investigate as to when public meetings for a county or district should be held and to notify the commission, in writing, when and where, in their judgment, such meeting or meetings should be held.

Fifth.—A district or county superintendent is directed to notify the commission, in writing, whenever a town superintendent shall have failed to perform his duty in compliance with the directions for the guidance of town superintendents, and also to notify the commission regarding any malfeasance or misfeasance in office.

Sixth.—The district or county superintendent should inspect the highways and bridges of each town in his district or county at least once each year, and advise and direct the town superintendent how best to repair, maintain and improve such highways and bridges.

Highway Law, § 33.

1. Have general charge of all highways and bridges within his district or county and see that the same are improved, repaired and maintained, as provided by law, and have the general supervision of the work of constructing, improving and repairing bridges and town highways in his district or county.

Seventh.—The district or county superintendent is directed to notify the supervisors, town superintendents, and town clerks that all reports made by them must be first forwarded to him for his personal approval before transmitting the same to the commission.

Eighth.—The district or county superintendent is directed to instruct the town superintendent when to make a preliminary inspection of the roads which are to be improved as State or county highways for the purpose of securing preliminary information to be used in preparing plans and specifications for such highways, and also how to mark, or in some substantial manner designate the portions of such highways as may need especial care and attention.

Ninth.—The district or county superintendent is directed to assist the town superintendent in the erection of monuments showing the boundaries of the highways and in the establishment of such new monuments as may be required.

Tenth.—The district or county superintendent is directed to furnish or cause to be furnished to the town board, plans and specifications for the construction of new highways or the permanent improvement or reconstruction of existing highways, when the cost shall exceed five hundred dollars, provided that such money is to be expended by contract.

Eleventh.—All contracts for the purchase of stone crushers, steam rollers or traction engines must be approved by the district or county superintendent and he must indorse his approval thereon.

Twelfth.—The district or county superintendent must observe the following ruling or construction of the commission relating to the lease or hire of machinery as provided by section 50 of the Highway Law, viz.:

Whenever the town board has made a contract with a machinery firm or corporation calling for a fixed sum to be paid each year for the lease or hire of a stone crusher, steam roller or traction engine, there must be a certification upon the order given by the town superintendent to the supervisor for such lease or hire showing the specific days which he has used the same during the period. The rate must not be more than ten dollars per day for a crusher or steam roller or eight dollars per day for a traction engine, and if the number of days which he has worked the same is not sufficient to pay the amount as agreed upon with the firm or corporation leasing or hiring the same, then the balance cannot be paid from the highway fund, but must be paid from the general fund of the town. If the number of days exceeds the minimum number of days necessary to furnish at the above rates an amount needed to pay the machinery company, then the total amount agreed upon as rental shall be divided by the number of days and the charge per day for a stone crusher, steam roller and traction engine shall be at that figure and not at the maximum figure under the provisions of section 50 of the Highway Law.

Thirteenth.—A district or county superintendent is directed to first obtain

2. Visit and inspect the highways and bridges in each town of his district or county, at least once in each year and whenever directed by the commission, and advise and direct the town superintendent how best to repair, maintain and improve such highways and bridges.

the consent of the commission before he grants permission for an overhead or underground crossing, or to lay and maintain drainage, sewer and water pipes in grounds within any portions of a state and county highway.

Fourteenth.—The district or county superintendent is directed to assist the town superintendent by directing him how, or by furnishing him with proper information so that he may properly measure all the highways of his town in accordance with the directions which have been furnished him by the commission.

Fifteenth.—The district or county superintendent is directed to carefully consider the fact that the traveling public must not be inconvenienced on account of the lack of care or inattention on the part of a contractor constructing or improving a State or county highway, or a town superintendent in performing the same class of work in not providing a temporary highway.

Sixteenth.—The district or county superintendent is directed to either prepare, or cause to be prepared, plans and specifications for the erection of bridges, except that if a bridge to be repaired or rebuilt is one which has been condemned by the commission the same shall be repaired or rebuilt in accordance with plans and specifications prepared and approved by the commission.

Seventeenth.—The district or county superintendent is directed to carefully examine the preliminary maps, or a copy thereof, of the plans and specifications for either a State or county highway which shall be presented to him by the commission.

Eighteenth.—In the construction and improvement of county highways, in cases of a supplement contract, the district or county superintendent is directed to either approve or disapprove of the same.

CHAPTER LVIII.

TOWN SUPERINTENDENT; GENERAL POWERS AND DUTIES.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Office of Town Superintendent of Highways.

The town superintendent of highways was substituted by the new Highway Law for the former commissioner of highways. Under the former law there could be one or three commissioners of highways. Under the present law there may be but one superintendent of highways, to be elected or appointed as provided by section 40 and 41 of the Highway Law.

The provisions of the Town Law, relative to oaths of office, undertaking, eligibility, etc., so far as they are not inconsistent with the Highway Law, are applicable to the office of town superintendent of highways.

Term of Office; Compensation; Removal.

Town superintendents of highways are elected for terms of two years. Vacancies are filled for the unexpired terms. Their compensation is fixed by the town board at not less than two dollars nor more than five dollars per day. They are also entitled to their expenses. They may be removed by the town board upon charges preferred by the State commission, or by the district or county superintendent. A hearing must be had on the charges, and a decision rendered. An appeal may be taken to the county court, by either the town superintendent in case of removal, or the commission or superintendent in case of a refusal to remove.

General Powers and Duties.

The law prescribes in detail the general powers and duties of the town superintendent. See Highway Law, § 47, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 567, L. 1914, ch. 84, and L. 1915, ch. 322. It will be noticed that the superintendent is controlled in the performance of such duties by the rules and regulations of the commission. He succeeds to the common law and statutory powers and duties of the former commissioners of highways, except as superseded or modified by the present law. He remains in all respects a town officer, and is charged generally with the care and superintendence of the highways of the town, subject to the control of the commission in the exercise of powers conferred upon it. His duties in respect to the construction and repair of bridges remain the same as those of the commissioners of highways under the former laws.

Effect of State Supervision.

The new law does not materially limit the powers and duties of town officers in respect to town highways. But as to county and state highways the commission is supreme and may arbitrarily control the actions of town superintendents act under the direct supervision of the commission and its officers.

The office of town superintendent is continued with the powers and duties in respect to town highways and bridges, formerly belonging to the office of highway commissioner, modified only so far as is necessary to carry out the new method of administering highway moneys. The state organization, consisting of commissioners, engineers and county and district superintendents, is available in aid of the town superintendents, but none of these officers may intervene to lessen the responsibility of the town officers for the proper maintenance of the town highway system. The state commission and district or county superintendents may insist that the town superintendents perform their statutory duties, and a failure may be a ground for removal. Reports respecting highway conditions are required, and the commission may direct the use of uniform methods of expending and accounting for highway moneys. All of these statutory requirements are for the purpose of securing the adoption and application throughout the state of appropriate and efficient methods of highway construction and maintenance. But they are not for the purpose of transferring any of the powers and duties of the local officers in respect to those highways which constitute the town system.

§ 6. COMPENSATION OF TOWN SUPERINTENDENT AND DEPUTY.

Such compensation may be paid by the supervisor monthly, in advance of audit, from moneys levied and collected for such purpose, on accounts duly verified in the same manner as town accounts are required by law to be verified. Such accounts for compensation, together with accounts for expenses incurred by such town superintendent and his deputy, if any, verified as above provided, shall be subject to audit by the town board at its meeting held annually for the audit of accounts of town officers, and the balance due, as finally audited by the town board, shall be paid by the supervisor to such town superintendent, or deputy, if any, from funds available therefor. [Highway Law, § 45; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2183.]

Compensation of town superintendents in certain counties adjoining cities of the first class.—The town board of any town in a county having a population of two hundred thousand or less, according to the last federal or state census or enumeration, adjoining a city of the first class having a population of one million or upwards, may by resolution provide that the town superintendent of highways shall receive an annual salary of not to exceed twenty-five hundred dollars in lieu of all other compensation. In a town in which such superintendent shall receive a salary as herein provided, the compensation provided for in section one hundred and seventy-five of this chapter for the services of such superintendent shall be paid to the supervisor of the town for the benefit of the town. [Highway Law, § 45a, as added by L. 1917, ch. 662.]

§ 7. REMOVAL OF TOWN SUPERINTENDENT.

A town superintendent may be removed by the town board upon written charges preferred by the commission, or by the district or county superintendent, for malfeasance or misfeasance in office.[7] Such charges shall be presented in duplicate to the town clerk, one of which shall be filed in his office, and the other shall be served by him personally upon the town superintendent, together with a notice directing him to appear before the town board at a time and place stated therein. made at least five days prior to the time specified in such notice. The town board shall convene for the purpose of considering such charges within ten days after the filing thereof with the town clerk. The town board shall hear evidence in support and in defense of such charges and after such hearing shall enter an order in the office of the town clerk either sustaining or dismissing such charges. The entry of an order sustaining the charges shall operate as a removal and the town board shall appoint another person to fill the vacancy caused thereby. The person so appointed shall hold office for the unexpired term or until the entry of a final order of a court of competent jurisdiction determining that the original town superintendent was wrongfully and illegally removed and directing his reinstatement. If the charges are dismissed, the town board shall notify the commission and the district or county superintendent of such fact. The town board shall also notify the commission and the district or county superintendent of the name of the person appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of such town superintendent. An appeal may be taken by the commission or district or county superintendent, or by the town superintendent, from the order of the town board, to the county court by the filing of a notice of such appeal in the office of the town clerk within thirty days after the entry of such order.[7a] A copy of such notice of appeal shall be served personally or by mail upon the adverse party. Upon such appeal the county court shall consider the charges presented to the town board, and may hear evidence in support and in defense thereof. After such hearing the court shall make an order either affirming or reversing the order of the town board. A copy of such order shall be entered in the office of the town clerk. If the order reverse an order dismissing the charges, it shall direct the town board to remove the town superintendent and appoint a person to fill the vacancy caused thereby, within the time specified therein; if it reverse an order sustaining such charges, it shall direct the reinstatement of the town superintendent removed, to take effect upon the filing of the copy in said town clerk's office. [Highway Law, § 46; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2184.]

§ 8. GENERAL POWERS AND DUTIES OF TOWN SUPERINTENDENT.

The town superintendent shall, subject to the rules and regulations of the commission,[8] made and adopted as provided in this chapter:

7a. An appeal may be taken by the commission from a decision of the town board within 30 days after service of notice upon him of the entry of an order dismissing charges against a town superintendent. Rept. of Atty. Genl., May 3, 1911.

Removal of town superintendent by commissioner for failure to file list of names of persons employed by him, and for the repair and improvement of highways other than those specified in the agreement made between him and the town board under § 105 of the Highway Law, is justified. Such conduct constitutes malfeasance in office under this section. Carlisle v. Burke, 82 Misc. 282.

8. Rules and regulations adopted by the commission as provided in Highway Law, sec. 15, subd. 2, ante, may prescribe the duties of town superintendents respecting State and county highways.

Highway Law, § 47.

1. Have the care and superintendence[9] of highways and bridges and board walks or renewals thereof on highways less than two rods in width, in the town, except as otherwise specially provided in relation to incorporated villages,[10] cities and other localities. [Subd. amended by L. 1915, ch. 322.]

2. Cause such highways and bridges and the board walks or renewals thereof on highways less than two rods in width to be kept in repair,[11]

9. Superintendence. Town superintendents, like the former highway commissioners, are to superintend the repair and maintenance of town highways and bridges. The State commission and the district or county superintendents may have supervisory power, and may enforce a compliance with the statutes and lawful rules and regulations, on the part of the town superintendents; but they cannot intervene to lessen the responsibility of the town officers for the proper maintenance of the town highway system. District or county superintendents are required to have "general supervision of the work of constructing, improving and repairing bridges and town highways." Highway Law, sec. 33, subd. 1, ante. They may aid town superintendents in the maintenance and construction of town bridges and highways (Idem, sec. 33, subd. 2, ante), and are required to approve plans, specifications and estimates for the construction and maintenance of town highways where the work is to be done by contract. Idem, sec. 33, subd. 5, ante.

Powers and duties generally. The town superintendent is vested with general control over the public highways and he has a duty to perform toward the public in connection with their proper maintenance. Matter of the Application of R. E. F. Co., 123 N. Y. 351, 33 N. Y. St. Rep. 695. In the administration of the highway system, he is an independent public officer, exercising power and charged with public duties, specially prescribed by law, and as such acts individually of any direction on the part of the town; on the other hand he is without power to represent or affect the rights of the town in any other manner than as prescribed by statute. Flynn v. Hurd, 118 N. Y. 19; People ex rel. Everett v. Supervisors, 93 N. Y. 397; Mather v. Crawford, 36 Barb. 564. He is not an agent of the town in its corporate capacity, and the town is not chargeable for his nonfeasance or misfeasance, nor for his official acts or delinquincies, except where made so by special provision of law. A town superintendent has implied authority to purchase supplies necessary for the purposes covered by an agreement pursuant to section 105 of the Highway Law. Rept. of Atty. Genl., March 31, 1911. But he has no legal right to purchase supplies for roads and bridges without the consent of the town board. Rept. of Atty Genl., March 11, 1911.

The town superintendent is powerless to burden the town he represents for the repair of highways and bridges beyond statutory limitations. Flynn v. Hurd, 118 N. Y. 19; People ex rel. Everett v. Board of Supervisors, 93 N. Y. 397. No other officers are by enactment charged with such duty. Berlin Iron Bridge Co. v. Wagner, 57 Hun, 346, 10 N. Y. Supp. 840. Neither the Town Law nor the Highway Law has changed the old rule that he cannot create any liability upon the part of his town to pay for materials ordered by him for the ordinary repair of town highways. People ex rel. Slater v. Smith, 83 Hun, 432, 31 N. Y. Supp. 749. As to duty to repair and the origin thereof, see Bartlett v. Crozier, 17 Johnson, 439; Morey v. Town of Newfane, 8 Barb. 645; Dorn v. Town of Oyster Bay, 84 Hun, 510, 32 N. Y. Supp. 341.

Defense to action for negligence; want of funds.—It is no defense to an action for negligence in not replacing a barrier upon a bridge that the town superintendent had no funds applicable to the purpose, as by section 93 of the Highway Law he is authorized to make the necessary expenditure for extraordinary repairs, to be afterward audited by the town board. Rising v. Town of Moreau, 68 Misc. 284, 125 N. Y. Supp. 249.

A town superintendent is not responsible for the repair of highways and bridges situated within an Indian reservation. Bishop v. Barton, 2 Hun, 436.

Inspection of highways; negligence.—A town is chargeable with the negligence of the town superintendent in failing to call the attention of the town board to an unsafe driveway of which he had knowledge, leading from a highway to abutting premises as this section imposes upon the superintendent a duty of inspection. But, it seems, no charge of negligence can arise against the superintendent if the town board fails to act after having been informed of the defect. Ferguson v. Town of Lewisboro, 149 App. Div. 232, 133 N. Y. Supp. 699.

Power to contract. A town superintendent is not an agent of the town with authority to contract for it in real or supposed emergencies, and cannot make a contract binding upon the town unless specifically authorized by statute. People ex rel. Morey v. Town Board, 175 N. Y. 394, reversing 80 App. Div. 280, 80 N. Y. Supp. 309. As to legality of orders made by town superintendents, see Van Bergen v. Bradley, 36 N. Y. 316; Engleman v. Longhorst, 120 N. Y. 332, 31 N. Y. St. Rep. 29.

Highway superintendents have no power or authority to bind the town by their contracts and are individually responsible alone to those with whom they contract if any responsibility is thereby created; they can only impose liability upon towns for the construction of roads when they have direct statutory authority therefor. Matter of Niland v. Bowron, 193 N. Y. 180, affg. 113 App. Div. 661, 99 N. Y. Supp. 914. Section 10 of the Town Law (former sec. 182) has not changed the old rule that a commissioner [now town superintendent] of highways cannot create any liability upon the part of his town to pay for materials ordered by him for the ordinary repair of town highways. Highway commissioners are charged with the duty of keeping town highways in repair as independent officers and not as agents of the town, and when they contract for such ordinary repairs no liability is created against the town, and the commissioners themselves as such officers, and not the town, should be sued for the debt. Lyth & Sons v. Town of Evans, 33 Misc. 221, 68 N. Y. Supp. 356.

Common-law duty to repair bridges. The repair of bridges at common law, that is, those without cities or incorporated towns, belonged to the county; and the remedy was not by suit against the surveyors, whose duty it was to repair bridges, or against the justices, but by indictment against the county. But the common-law rule has never been adopted in this state. Bartlett v. Crozier, 17 Johns. 439; Hill v. Supervisors of Livingston, 12 N. Y. 52.

Extent of repairs. A highway cannot be said to be open and worked unless it is passable for its entire length. It need not be worked in every part, but it must be worked sufficiently to enable the public to pass and repass with teams and vehicles such as are ordinarily used. The requirement to open and work a highway implies that it must be made passable as a highway for public travel. It need not be a first-class road; it need not be finished, but it must be sufficient and kept in a suitable condition to enable the public to pass over it. Beckwith v. Whalen, 70 N. Y. 430. See, also, People ex rel. Slater v. Smith, 83 Hun, 432, 31 N. Y. Supp. 749; Peck v. Batavia, 32 Barb. 641.

Where town superintendents have not sufficient funds in their hands to rections therefor,[12] and inspect the highways and bridges within the town, during the months of April and October of each year, or at such other time as the district or county superintendent may prescribe; and may cause to be constructed and repaired any public roads, walks, places and avenues on any sand beach separated by more than two miles of water from the main body of his town, although such roads, walks, places and avenues are narrower than the width of highways required by statute. Within the meaning of this section, or of any provision of this chapter referring to a renewal of a board walk on a highway less than two rods in width, the term "renewal" shall include a walk built of other material to replace such board walk. [Sub. amended by L. 1914, ch. 84, and L. 1915, ch. 322.]

3. Divide the town into as many sections as may be necessary for the proper maintenance and repair of the highways therein, and the opening of highways obstructed by snow.

4. Employ such persons with teams and implements, as may be necessary for the proper maintenance and repair of highways and bridges, and the removal of obstructions caused by snow, subject to the approval of the town board, as hereinafter provided, and provide for the organization and supervision of the persons so employed. He shall file a list of the names of the persons so employed, with the compensation paid to each, and the capacity in which they were employed in the office of the town clerk.[13] provide the needed repairs it is within their discretion to apply the fund on hand in making such repairs as are most urgently needed. They are not nor is the town liable for an error in judgment in so doing, if they act reasonably and in good faith. Monk v. Town of New Utrecht, 104 N. Y. 552; Patchen v. Town of Walton, 17 App. Div. 158, 45 N. Y. Supp. 145.

5. Construct and keep in repair sluices and culverts and cause the waterways, bridges and culverts to be kept open.[14]

Use of material taken from highway. In making necessary repairs to highways the town superintendent may take soil from any portion of the highway including the unused roadside, regardless of any grading or other improvements made by abutting owners, in the absence of proof that the town superintendent has not acted wantonly or maliciously. Anderson v. Van Tassell, 53 N. Y. 631. Where it is necessary to cut down the bed of the highway, the fee of which is not in the public, in order to bring it to a desired grade, the town superintendent may use the earth and stone thus taken out to repair any part of a highway upon which they may see fit to put them; but unless it is necessary to remove the earth and stone for that purpose, they may not use them for the purpose of repairing any part of the highway, except that part which is opposite the lands of the owner who owns the fee of the highway at the point where the materials were removed. Robert v. Sadler, 104 N. Y. 229; Ladd v. French, 6 N. Y. Supp. 56, 24 N. Y. St. Rep. 952.

Stones and other material taken from the highway and not required for the use of the highway belong to the abutting owner if his title covers the highway. Deverell v. Bauer, 41 App. Div. 53, 58, N. Y. Supp. 413.

12. Estimates to contain amount for removel of obstructions caused by snow. Highway Law, sec. 90, post. If amount is insufficient town board may cause additional amount to be raised for such purpose. Idem, sec. 92, post.

13. The town superintendent should not employ his own teams and implements for work on the highways; it is against the established principles of public policy to allow a public officer to be both the employer and the employed. Rept. of Atty.-Gen. (1903), 309.

14. Ditches and culverts in State and county highways must be kept

6. Cause loose stones lying in the beaten track of every highway within his town to be removed at least three times each year between the first day of April and the first day of December. Stones so removed shall be conveyed to some place from which they shall not work back, or be brought back into the track by road machines or other implements used in repairing such highways.[15]

7. Cause noxious weeds growing within the bounds of the highways to be cut and removed, at least twice in each year, once between the first and thirtieth day of July, and once between the first and thirtieth day of September. He shall also cause all briers and brush within the bounds of the highway to be cut and removed once between the first and thirtieth day of September in each year, as provided by section fifty-four of this chapter, unless otherwise directed by the commission.[16] [Amended by L. 1910, ch. 567.

8. Cause such highways as shall have been laid out, but not sufficiently described, and such as shall have been used for twenty years,[17] but not recorded, to be ascertained, described and entered on record in the town clerk's office.[18]

open and free from obstructions by town superintendent. Highway Law, sec. 53, post.

15. Injurious substances in highways, see Penal Law, secs. 1434, 191 post. Any person throwing loose stones, rubbish, ashes, etc., in the highway is liable to a penalty of ten dollars. Highway Law, sec. 328, post.

16. Removal of weeds and brush by land owners. It is made the duty of the owner or occupant of lands situated along the highway to cut and remove the weeds and brush within the bounds of the highway and, in case of failure, the town superintendent is required to do the same and charge the expense thereof upon such owners or occupants. See Highway Law, sec. 54, post.

A town superintendent has no authority to create a liability upon the part of his town to a person hired to cut brush along a town highway, and even if such liability were created, it would not become actionable until the claim had been acted upon by the town auditors. Wright v. Town of Wilmurt, 44 Misc. 456, 90 N. Y. Supp. 90 (1904).

17. Highways by use, see Highway Law, sec. 209, post.

18. Surveys upon the laying out of a highway by the town superintendent, see Highway Law, sec. 190, post. The board of supervisors is authorized to direct the town superintendent to cause a survey of highways to be made at the expense of the town, County Law, sec. 71, post.

When survey authorized. Where a highway has been dedicated to the public for the prescribed period of twenty years the town superintendent may cause a survey to be made thereof and remove fences and other encroachments within the limits of such highway. James v. Sammis, 132 N. Y. 239.

A writing signed by the commissioners, although not containing a formal order laying out the highway, which purports to be a survey of the road,

9. Inspect all highways which are to be constructed or improved as state or county highways, when directed by the district or county superintendent, for the purpose of securing preliminary information to be used in preparing the plans and specifications for such highways, and mark or in some substantial manner designate the portions of such highways which may need special care and attention. He shall report to the district or county superintendent the condition of such highways and submit therewith such recommendations in respect thereto as may seem expedient. The district or county superintendent may require additional reports in respect to such highways whenever it seems to him to be necessary.

10. Attend public meetings called by the commission, held within the county, after receiving notice thereof from the district or county superintendent, and his expenses necessarily incurred thereby shall be a town charge.[19]

11. Cause the monuments erected, or to be erected, as the boundaries of highways, to be kept up and renewed so that the extent of such highway boundaries may be publicly known, and erect and establish such new monuments as may be required by the district or county superintendent.[20]

12. Collect all penalties prescribed by this chapter.[21]

describes the center line, and states where the road is to commence and terminate and which was filed with the town clerk, is a substantial compliance with the statute; no particular form is necessary and the acts of such officers should receive liberal construction. Tucker v. Rankin, 15 Barb. 471.

Effect of survey. The order cannot have the effect to increase or change the width or location of the highway from what it was before; it could be effectual only as a description of the width as manifested by the permitted use for twenty years. Ivory v. Town of Deerpark, 116 N. Y. 476; People v. Judges of Cortland Co., 24 Wend. 491; Cole v. Van Keuren, 4 Hun 262, 6 T. & C. 483, affirmed, 64 N. Y. 646. An order of the superintendent is not conclusive upon a person claiming that the highway is a private road; the statute does not authorize the superintendent to create or enlarge, but only to perpetuate, the evidence of a public right. Cole v. Van Keuren, 4 Hun 262, 6 T. & C. 483, affirmed, 64 N. Y. 646.

A certificate or order of the town superintendent merely ascertaining and describing a road as a highway is insufficient as a defense in an action against him for trespass, where it does not purport to be based upon a record nor upon an adjudication that there had been a user of twenty years without record. Kelsey v. Burgess, 35 N. Y. St. Rep. 368, 12 N. Y. Supp. 169.

13. Report annually on such date as may be prescribed by the commission, prior to November fifteenth, to the district or county superintendent, in relation to the highways and bridges in his town, containing the matter and in the form to be prescribed by the commission.

14. Perform such other duties and have such other powers as may be imposed or conferred by law, or the rules and regulations of the commission, including the powers and duties heretofore exercised or performed by highway commissioners. [Highway Law, § 47; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2184.]

§ 9. CONTRACTS FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF TOWN HIGHWAYS AND BRIDGES.

The town board of any town may provide that the construction of new highways and bridges, or the permanent improvement or reconstruction of existing highways and bridges, or the permanent improvement or reconstruction of existing highways and bridges or repairing, rebuilding or replacing walks on highways less than two rods in width pursuant to the provisions of sections forty-seven, sixty-two and ninety-seven of this chapter, the cost of which will exceed five hundred dollars, shall be done under contracts.[22] All such contracts shall be awarded by the town superintendent, in accordance with estimates, plans and specifications to be furnished by the district or county superintendent, or by the commission, as provided in this chapter, to the lowest responsible bidders, after advertisement once a week, for three consecutive weeks, in a newspaper published in the town where the work is to be performed, or if no newspaper is published therein, in a newspaper published at some other place in the county, having the largest circulation in said town. All bids for such work shall be opened in public and shall be filed in the office of the town clerk. No such contract shall be awarded, bridge to repair the same, section 72, post, damages in actions for injuries to highways shall be brought by the town superintendent, section 73, post.

Penalty for driving or riding faster than a walk on a bridge, sections 252 and 253, post. Failure of person operating ferry to post schedule, section 274, post. Forfeiture for the employment of intemperate drivers, section 282, post. Forfeiture for failure of owner of carriage for conveyance of passenger to discharge driver upon receiving notice of his having been intoxicated, section 283, post. Forfeiture for leaving horses without being tied, section 284, post. Penalty for the deposit of stones, ashes and refuse in highways, section 288, post. Penalty for neglecting to comply with law of the road, section 292, post. Penalty for falling trees in the highway, section 295, post. Forfeiture for failure to remove fallen trees from the highway, section 296, post.

Actions, how brought. Any action for the benefit of a town to recover penalty or forfeiture given to a town officer, or the town represented by him, must be brought in the name of the town. Town Law, § 10. As to actions generally by or against town superintendents of highways, see Code Civil Procedure, §§ 1925-1928. Commissioners of Cortlandville v. Peck, 5 Hill, 215.

22. Contracts by town superintendents under this section must be in the name of the town. Town Law, sec. 10, ante.

unless it be approved by the district or county superintendent, as to its form and efficiency.[23] The person to whom such contract is awarded shall execute a bond to the town, in a sum equal to one-half of the amount of the contract, with two or more sureties to be approved by the town board, conditioned for the faithful compliance with the terms of the contract, and the plans and specifications and for payment of all damages which may accrue to the town, because of a violation thereof. When such work is completed pursuant to the terms of such contract, and the plans and specifications therefor, and accepted by the district or county superintendent and town board, as being in accordance therewith, the cost of the work under the contract shall be paid out of moneys available therefor, in the same manner as other highway expenses. Payments made under such contract shall be upon certificates issued to the contractor by the district or county superintendent, to the effect that the work has been done under and in accordance with the terms of such contract, and the plans and specifications. All work done under any such contract shall be under the supervision of the district or county superintendent, or some person designated by him. The town superintendent shall file all contracts, awarded under this section or as provided in this chapter, for the construction, improvement or repair of town highways and bridges, or for repairing, rebuilding or replacing a walk, with the town clerk of the town within ten days after their execution. [Highway Law, § 48, as added by L. 1914, ch. 413, which repealed and superseded former § 48, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 578; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2190.]

§ 10. MACHINERY, TOOLS AND IMPLEMENTS.

The town superintendent may, with the approval of the town board, purchase for the use of the town, stone crushers, steam rollers, motor trucks, scarifiers, concrete mixers, traction engines, road machines for grading and scraping, tools and other implements, subject to the limitations prescribed in section ninety-four, which shall be paid for from moneys levied and collected or from the proceeds of bonds issued and sold for such purposes as provided in this chapter.[24] No contract for the purchase of stone crushers,

23. Approval of plans, specifications and estimates by county or district superintendents required by Highway Law, sec. 33, subd. 5, ante. When requested by a town superintendent the commission may cause plans, specifications and estimates to be prepared for the repair or improvement of a town highway, Highway Law, sec. 15, subd. 5, ante.

24. Moneys available for the purchase of road machinery, tools and implements must be estimated for separately by the town superintendent, under Highway Law, sec. 90, subd. 3, post, p. 853, and when collected must be paid to the supervisor to be paid out by him upon the order of the town superintendent according to such estimate. If the amount estimated for is insufficient an addisteam rollers, motor trucks, scarifiers, concrete mixers, or traction engines shall be valid, unless the district or county superintendent shall have approved thereof and endorsed his approval upon such contract. All road machines, stone crushers, steam rollers, motor trucks, scarifiers, concrete mixers, or traction engines, tools and other implements owned either by the town or the highway districts therein, shall be used by the town superintendent in such manner and at such places in such town as he shall deem best. They shall be under the control of the superintendent and be cared for by him at the expense of the town. The town superintendent shall annually make a written inventory[25] of all such machinery, tools and implements, indicating each article and stating the value thereof, and the estimated cost of all necessary repairs thereto, and deliver the same to the supervisor of the town on or before October thirty-first in each year. He shall at the same time file with the town clerk his written recommendations as to what machinery, tools and implements should be purchased for the use of the town, and the probable cost thereof. The town superintendent shall provide a suitable place for housing and storing all machinery, tools and tional amount may be raised by a vote at a town meeting, as provided in Highway Law, sec 92, post. No part of the money received from the State is available for the purchase of road machines. See Highway Law, sec. 101, post. The money available for such purposes can only be paid out by the supervisor upon the written order of the superintendent after audit by the town board. See Highway Law, sec. 106, post.

Contract for steam roller; fraud.—Payment by the manufacturers of a steam roller of the per diem fees of the members of the town board for attending a meeting to authorize a contract for hiring or purchasing a steam roller and also the expenses of town officials in going to examine the roller and verify the agent's representations in respect to it is not a fraud upon the town which will vitiate the subsequent contract for the hiring or purchase of the roller. Gardner v. Town of Cameron, 74 Misc. 286. But a contract for leasing such machine, the rental to constitute a part of the purchase price, the sale to be completed within a prescribed period is not valid, unless authorized by a town meeting.

25. The inventory of machinery, tools and implements required by this section must be delivered to the supervisor and included in his report to the town board. See Highway Law, sec. 107, post. For form of inventory, see Form No. 97, post.

implements owned by the town and cause the same to be stored therein, when not in use. He may also with the approval of the town board sell any such machinery, tools and implements, which are no longer needed by the town, or which are worn out or obsolete, or may exchange the same for new machinery, tools and implements. If sold, the proceeds shall, under the direction of the town board, be applicable to the purchase of the machinery, tools and implements mentioned in subdivision three of section ninety-four of this chapter. Where there is an incorporated village constituting a separate road district, wholly or partly in a town which has purchased a stone crusher, steam roller, motor truck, scarifier, concrete mixer, or traction engine, the town board of such town may permit the use thereof by such village upon such terms as may be agreed upon. [Highway Law, § 49, as amended by L. 1917, ch. 349, and L. 1918, ch. 329; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2191.]

§ 11. TOWN SUPERINTENDENT MAY HIRE MACHINERY.

The town superintendent may, with the approval of the district or county superintendent, lease or hire stone crushers, steam rollers, motor trucks, scarifiers, concrete mixers and traction engines at a rate to be approved by the town board, which shall not exceed twenty dollars for a stone crusher and steam roller or motor truck, and eight dollars for a traction engine, scarifier or concrete mixer, for each day such stone crusher, steam roller, motor truck, scarifier, concrete mixer, or traction engine is actually used upon the highways. The expense thereof shall be paid by the supervisor, upon the written order of the town superintendent, out of moneys received by him as provided in this chapter, for the repair and improvement of highways.[25a] [Highway Law, § 50, as amended by L. 1918, ch. 329; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2192.]

25a. Contract for conditional sale with provision for rental.—The authorities of a town on its behalf entered into a written agreement purporting to lease a steam roller ot the rate of ten dollars a day and agreed to use the same not less than sixty-four days in the year. It was further provided that the continuance of the lease each year was optional with the town superintendent, but that if the lease was not to be so continued the lessee must notify the lessor in writing by a certain date, and that upon a failure to do so the lease should continue for another year upon the same terms. It was further provided that in default of notice to the contrary the lessee agreed to rent and use the roller for the aforesaid number of days at the aforesaid rates, payments to be made until the

Highway Law, § 51.

§ 12. PURCHASE OF GRAVEL AND STONE.

The town superintendent[25b] may, with the approval of the town board, purchase of the owner of any gravel bed or pit, or stone quarry within the town, gravel or stone for the purpose of grading, repairing or otherwise improving the highways of the town, at a price per cubic yard to be approved by the town board. If such town superintendent cannot agree with any such owner for the purchase of such gravel or stone, he may, with the approval of the town board acquire by condemnation the right to take and use such gravel or stone, and to remove the same from such bed, pit or quarry, for the purpose of grading, repairing or otherwise improving such highways, together with the right of way to and roller was fully paid for, the lessor agreeing that upon full payment, and for a consideration of one dollar, the roller should belong to the lessee free of all incumbrances, the machine, however, to remain the property of the lessor until paid for, with a right in it to retake the machine. It was held, that said instrument though called a lease was not such in fact, but on the contrary was a contract of conditional sale, unauthorized by this section. A lease can only be made at a rental fixed by the town board. Where the contract is not approved the lessor cannot recover for use of roller. Gardner v. Town of Cameron (1913), 155 App. Div. 750.

A town superintendent cannot enter into a contract for the leasing of a road machine, binding upon his town, unless the town board approve of the rate to be paid therefor, notwithstanding the fact that the county superintendent has approved of the contract. Rept. of Atty. Genl., Apr. 25, 1911.

Power of town authorities to lease steam roller; liability of town for benefits received. The Highway Law does not authorize a town board to purchase a steam roller for use upon highways by a contract of conditional sale, and such contract is void and unenforcible. Although the contract aforesaid is void a taxpayer, in order to compel a restoration of town funds paid thereon to the seller by the town officials, must allege not only that the town funds have been wasted but prove upon trial that they have in fact been wasted; that is to say, that the payment resulted in no benefit to the town. Hence, as the town authorities were authorized by statute to lease a steam roller, there can be no recovery as for waste where the amount paid to the company furnishing the roller was reasonable in amount and the town received the benefit of the roller, which was used in the necessary performance of its function in caring for its highways. Under the circumstances the town is liable as upon a quantum meruit. Shoemaker v. Buffalo Steam Roller Co., 165 App. Div. 836, 151 N. Y. Supp. 207.

25b. The words "town superintendents of highways" and "town superintendents" are used interchangeably to designate the same official. Mapson v. Gale, 142 App. Div. 335, 126 N. Y. Supp. 907.

from such bed, pit or quarry, for the purpose of such removal.[25c] No such gravel or stone shall be so taken by condemnation within five hundred feet of any house or barn, or from any lawn, orchard or vineyard. The purchase price of such stone or gravel and the damages awarded in such condemnation proceedings, together with the costs and expenses thereof, shall be a town charge and paid from moneys levied and collected therefor, as provided by law. If the town shall abandon for the period of three years any right acquired under this section to take and use the gravel or stone from any such bed, pit or quarry, or if the superintendent shall cease to use the same for the purposes for which it was acquired, the right thereto shall cease, and the ownership thereof shall revert to and become vested in the owner of such bed, pit or quarry, or his heirs or assigns. [Highway Law, § 51; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2192.]

§ 13. OBSTRUCTIONS AND THEIR REMOVAL.

Obstructions, within the meaning of this section, shall include trees which have been cut or have fallen[26] either on adjacent lands or within the bounds of the highway, in such a manner as to interfere with public travel therein; limbs of trees which have fallen within the highway, or branches of trees overhanging the highway so as to interfere with public travel therein; lumber, wood or logs piled within the bounds of the public highway; machines, vehicles and implements abandoned or habitually placed within the bounds of the highway; fences, buildings or other structures erected within the bounds of the highway; earth, stone or other

25c. The petition to condemn gravel and stone for the improvement of a highway should not describe the entire plot of land from which the material is to be taken, but on the contrary should locate the quarry itself by metes and bounds, as well as the right of way over which the material is to be removed, and also those lands contiguous to a quarry in which an easement will be necessary in order to carry on operations. An amendment of the petition may be allowed. Maxson v. Gale, 142 App. Div. 335, 126 N. Y. Supp. 967.

26. It is the duty of the owners or occupants of lands from which a tree shall fall into the highway to remove the same. Highway Law, sec. 336, post.

material placed in any ditch or waterway along the highway; telegraph, telephone, trolley and other poles, and the wires connected therewith, erected within the bounds of the highway in such a manner as to interfere with the use of the highway for public travel.[27]

It shall be the duty of each owner or occupant of lands situate along the highway, to remove all obstructions within the bounds of the highway, which have been placed there, either by themselves or by their consent.[28]

27. What constitutes obstructions. Anything which unreasonably obstructs a highway so as to prevent the use thereof for the purposes for which it is maintained is an illegal obstruction and must be removed as provided in this section, or may be abated as a nuisance. Slight inconveniences and occasional interruptions of the use of a highway, which are temporary and reasonable, are not illegal merely because the public may not, for the time, have full use thereof. People v. Horton, 64 N. Y. 610. An obstruction which renders a street or highway dangerous and unfit for the use of the traveling public is prima facie an unlawful obstruction and constitutes a nuisance in itself. Cuilo v. N. Y. Edison Co., 85 Misc. 6, 147 N. Y. Supp. 14.

Trees, lawfully planted in a highway, do not become obstructions or encroachments upon a change in the statute, and the court is powerless to have them removed; if public convenience require their removal, condemnation proceedings must be instituted and compensation awarded their owner. Town of Wheatfield v. Shasley, 23 Misc. 100, 51 N. Y. Supp. 835; Edsall v. Howell, 86 Hun 424, 33 N. Y. Supp. 892.

When obstructions authorized. The legislature, by virtue of its general control over public streets and highways, has the power to authorize structures in the streets and highways, which, under the common law, would be obstructions or encroachments, and may delegate the power to the governing body of a municipality. Hoey v. Gilroy, 129 N. Y. 132. For instance, town, village or city authorities may, if empowered by statute, authorize and regulate the use of awnings, stands for business purposes, and the like, in the public streets. But apart from these exceptions "public highways belong, from side to side, and end to end" to the public. Any permanent or unnecessary obstacle to travel in a street or highway is a nuisance, although space may be left for the passage of the public. Authorities may properly grant a right to a railroad to maintain gates at a highway crossing, and if properly constructed and opened and closed, and necessary to the public safety, cannot be restrained. Friedlander v. D. & H. C. Co., 34 N. Y. St. Rep. 650, 13 N. Y. Supp. 323.

Penal liability. By the Penal Law an obstruction is made a public nuisance and the person maintaining it is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $500, or by not more than one year's imprisonment or by both. Penal Law, §§ 1530, 1532.

28. Encroachment by abutting owner. The owner of land abutting upon a public street is permitted to encroach on the primary right of the public to a limited extent and for a temporary purpose, owing to the necessity of the case. Two facts, however, must exist to render the encroachment lawful; the obstruc-

Highway Law, § 52.

It shall be the duty of all telephone, telegraph, electric railway and other electrical companies, to remove and reset telephone, telegraph, trolley and other poles and the wires connected therewith, when the same constitute obstructions to the use of the highway by the traveling public. If temporary obstructions such as trees, lumber, wood, logs, machinery, vehicles and similar obstructions are not removed within five days after the service of a notice, personally or by mail, upon such owner or occupant, requesting the same to be done, the town superintendent shall remove such obstruction. And if permanent obstructions, including, among others, telegraph, telephone, trolley and other poles and wires connected therewith, are not moved and reset within thirty days, the town superintendent shall move and reset such poles and wires.[29] The expense thereby incurred shall be paid in the first instance out of moneys tion must be reasonably necessary for the transaction of business; it must not unreasonably interfere with the rights of the public. Welsh v. Wilson, 101 N. Y. 254; Callanan v. Gilman, 107 N. Y. 360; Flynn v. Taylor, 127 N. Y. 596. In these cases a temporary obstruction or occupation of a part of a street or highway, by persons engaged in building, or in receiving or delivering goods from stores or warehouses were allowed. But one who has occasion to leave a load in a highway must remove it with promptness. If he let it remain there an unreasonable time it may be removed as a nuisance. It is not sufficient, however, that the obstructions are necessary with reference to the business of the person who erects or maintains them; they must be reasonable with respect to the rights of the public. Callanan v. Gilman, 107 N. Y. 360.

Erection of poles in highway. The right which telephone and telegraph companies derive by virtue of section 102 of the Transportation Corporations Law to construct and maintain poles and wires in rural highways is not absolute or unqualified but subject to the rule that the lines must be so located as not unnecessarily to obstruct the public travel. Where the plans for the improvement of any such highway require the re-location of poles and wires, it is incumbent upon the companies at their own expense to re-locate the same. It seems, however, that it is incumbent upon the state or county, as the case may be, to afford the company a new right of way within the limits of the improved highway. Opinion of Atty. Genl., Mch. 21, 1913.

29. Removal of obstructions by town superintendents. The highways of the state are made for and devoted to public travel, and the whole public have the right to their use in their entirety, and when obstructions to public travel are found within their bounds, the town superintendents of highways are clothed with power to remove them without waiting for the slow process of law, even though travel be not absolutely and entirely prevented. Cook v. Harris, 61 N. Y. 448; Hathaway v. Jenks, 67 Hun, 289; 22 N. Y. Supp. 421; Van Wyck v. Lent, 33 Hun, 301.

Where the town superintendent sees fit to remove the encroachment summarily the party would be remediless, except by an action for trespass; such a remedy would be inadequate to afford relief, so injunction will interpose and the plaintiff will not be compelled to wait and seek his remedy after the injury has been actually inflicted. Flood v. Van Wormer, 70 Hun, 415, 24 N. Y. Supp. 460, affirmed 147 N. Y. 284; Corning v. Lawerre, 6 Johns. Ch. 439. If, in the discharge of his official duty, the superintendent removes without unnecessary damage an encroachment, after notice, though informal, to the owner, he should not be deemed a trespasser, and no action for trespass will lie against him therefor. Hathaway v. Jenks, 67 Hun, 289, 22 N. Y. Supp. 421.

For form of notice to remove obstruction, see Form No. 98 post.

Notice to remove. Under the common law an actual notice must be shown, and it will not be presumed; the burden of proving that it has been given is upon the commissioner. Case v. Thompson, 6 Wend. 634.

A notice of order requiring the removal of such encroachment must contain a precise and certain description of the particulars of the encroachment to such an extent, at least, as will enable the party upon whom it is served to go upon the ground and fix the place and extent thereof with certainty and without embarrassment. § 13-a. REMOVAL OF SNOW AND ICE FROM CULVERTS AND WATERWAYS.

The town superintendent shall cause the removal of obstructions caused by snow on state and county highways within the town. He shall also, during such time as patrolmen are not employed thereon, cause snow and ice to be removed from the culverts and waterways of such highways when necessary, and the cost thereof shall be paid from the miscellaneous or other town funds. [Highway Law, § 53, as added by L. 1914, ch. 197.]

§ 14. TEMPORARY OBSTRUCTIONS.

The necessary obstruction of a highway by the removal of buildings or other temporary obstruction shall only be allowed if a highway other than a state or county highway under a permit granted by the county superintendent upon the written request of the town superintendent and if a state or county highway under a permit granted by the commissioner of highways. [Highway Law, § 53a, as added by L. 1910, ch. 567, and amended by L. 1913, ch. 80, in effect June 21, 1910.]

§ 15. REMOVAL OF NOXIOUS WEEDS AND BRUSH WITHIN THE HIGHWAYS, AND OF OBSTRUCTIONS CAUSED BY SNOW.

It shall be the duty of the owner or occupant of lands situated along the highway to cut and remove the noxious weeds growing within the bounds of the highway, fronting such lands, at least twice in each year, once in the month of June, and once in the month of August.[30a] It shall be the duty of such owner or occupant to cut and remove all briers and brush, growing within the bounds of the highway, fronting such lands, once in the month of August in each year. It shall also be the duty of such owner or occupant to remove brush, shrubbery and other obstructions within the bounds of the highway, causing the drifting of snow upon said highway, before the first day of November in each year. If such owner or occupant fails to cut or remove such weeds or brush, or to remove such brush, shrubbery or other obstructions, causing the drifting of snow, as provided herein, the town superintendent of the town in which said lands are situated shall cause the same to be done, and the expense thereby incurred shall be paid in the first instance out of moneys

30. Assessment of cost of removing obstructions and moving and resetting poles against owners and occupants must be made by the town superintendent in the manner prescribed by Highway Law, sec. 55, post p. 828.

30a. Duty of abutting owners to cut weeds and brush and remove obstructions from highways is laid upon the occupants of lands as well as the owners and the question of ownership of the fee of any part of the highway does not necessarily enter into consideration. levied and collected and available therefor, and the amount thereof shall be charged against such owner or occupant, and levied and collected, as provided in section fifty-five.[31] The town board of any town may, by resolution, determine that the work required by this section to be done by the owner or occupant of lands situated along the highway shall be done by the town superintendent. If such resolution be adopted such work shall be done by the town superintendent at the times prescribed by this section, the cost thereof shall not be charged or assessed against the owner or occupant but shall be a town charge, and there shall be annually raised in such town in addition to other moneys raised for highway purposes, a sum sufficient to pay such expense. [Highway Law, § 54, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 151; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2198.]

§ 16. ASSESSMENT OF COST AGAINST OWNERS AND OCCUPANTS.

The town superintendent shall assess the cost of,

1. Removing obstructions and moving and resetting poles and wires, pursuant to section fifty-two.

2. Cutting and removing noxious weeds, briers and brush and removing brush, shrubbery and other obstructions within the highways, causing the drifting of snow, pursuant to section fifty four, against the owner, occupant or company neglecting to perform the duty imposed by the sections above referred to. Such town superintendent shall serve personally or by mail upon such owner, occupant or company, a written notice, stating that at a time and place specified therein, he will assess such cost against the owner, occupant or company neglecting to perform such duty.[32] Such notice shall be served at least eight days previous to the time specified therein. If directed against a company, it may be served upon it at its principal place of business, or upon an agent of the company within the town. At the time and place so specified, he shall hear the parties interested, and shall thereupon complete the assessment, stating therein, the name of each owner, occupant or company, and the amount assessed against him or it, and shall return such assessment to the town clerk who shall present the same to the town board of his town, at its meeting held on the Thursday preceding the annual meeting of the board of supervisors.[33] Such town board shall certify such assessment to the board of supervisors who shall cause the amount stated therein to be levied against such owner, occupant or company and any uncollected tax shall be a lien upon the land affected. The amount so levied shall be collected in the same manner as other taxes levied by such board, and shall be paid to the supervisor of the town, to be applied in reimbursing the fund from which such cost was defrayed. [Highway Law, § 55; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2198.]

§ 17. WIRE FENCES TO PREVENT SNOW BLOCKADES.

The town superintendent, with the consent of the town board, may purchase wire for fences to be erected for the prevention of snow blockades, and the said town superintendent is hereby authorized to contract with the owners of the lands lying along the highways of their respective towns, at such points as are liable to snow blockade, for the removal of the fences now standing along the boundaries of such highways and the replacing of such fences with wire fences. He may contract to deliver to such land owners fence wire to be used in the construction of such fences, without charge to said land owners, at the place of purchase, but he shall not agree to pay any part of the cost of removal or construction called for by said contracts, or to make any payment to said land owners, as a compensation for the construction of fences or for posts. The amount to be expended for the purchase of such wire shall not exceed the sum of three hundred dollars in any one year, and such amount shall be included in the estimate for expenditures for removal of obstructions caused by snow, and other miscellaneous purposes, and paid from the money levied and collected therefor. The fences to be built, under the provisions of this section, shall be of not less than four strands of wire, nor more than nine strands, in the discretion of the town superintendent, approved by the town board, and the construction of said fences and their distance apart, shall be such as said town superintendent shall prescribe. Whenever such fence or fences shall become so out of repair as to be dangerous to animals passing along the highway, it shall be the duty of the owner or owners of said fence or fences to immediately repair or replace the same. Whenever the town superintendent shall contract for the removal of any fence, under the provisions of this section, he shall file in the office of the town clerk a description of that portion of the highway to which said contract shall apply, and thereafter it shall not be lawful for any person to replace the fence so contracted to be removed, with any fence liable to cause the drifting of snow. In no case shall the town superintendent approve of or permit the use of barb wire for such fences. [Highway Law, § 56; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2199.]

§ 18. ENTRY UPON LANDS BY TOWN SUPERINTENDENT.

The town superintendent may, when directed by the district or county superintendent, and when authorized by the town board, enter

1. Upon any lands adjacent to any of the highways in the town, for the purpose of opening an existing ditch or drain, or for digging a new ditch or drain for the free passage of water for the drainage of such highways.

2. Upon the lands of any person adjoining rivers, streams or creeks, to drive spiles, throw up embankments and perform such other labor as may be necessary to keep such rivers, streams or creeks within their proper channels, and to prevent their encroachment upon highways or abutments of bridges.

3. Upon the lands adjoining a highway which, during the spring freshets or at a time of highwater are subject to overflow from such rivers, streams or creeks, to remove or change the position of a fence or other obstruction preventing the free flow of water under or through a highway, bridge or culvert, whenever the same may be necessary for the protection of such highway or bridge.

4. Upon any lands adjacent to highways to remove any fence or other obstruction which causes snow to drift in and upon such highways, and erect snow fences or other devices upon such lands to prevent the drifting of snow in or upon such highways.[34] [Highway Law, § 57; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2200.]

§ 19. DAMAGES TO OWNERS OF LANDS.

Where lands are entered upon under the provisions of the preceding section, the town superintendent shall agree with the owner of such lands, subject to the approval of the town board, as to the amount of damages, if any, sustained by such owner in consequence of such entry in performance of the work authorized by such section, and the amount of such damages shall be a town charge. If the town superintendent is unable to agree with such owner upon the amount of damages thus sustained the amount thereof shall be ascertained, determined and paid in the manner that damages are so ascertained, determined and paid, where new highways are laid out and opened and the town superintendent and land owners are unable to agree upon the amount thereof. [Highway Law, § 58; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2200.]

§ 20. DAMAGES FOR CHANGE OF GRADE.

In any town in which a town highway shall be repaired, graded and macadamized from curb to curb by the authorities of the town the owner or owners of the land adjacent to the said highway shall be entitled to recover from the town the damages resulting from any change of grade.[35] A person claiming damages from such change of grade must present to the town board of such town a verified claim therefor within sixty days after such change of grade is effected. The board may agree with such owner upon the amount of damages to be allowed him. If no agreement be made within thirty days after the presentation of the claim, the person presenting it may apply to the supreme court for the appointment of three commissioners to determine the compensation to which he is entitled. Notice of the application must be served upon the supervisor of the town at least ten days before the hearing thereof. All proceedings subsequent to the appointment of commissioners shall be taken in accordance with the provisions of the condemnation law so far as applicable. Such town board, or such commissioners, shall, in determining the compensation, consider the fair value of the work done, or necessary to be done, in order to place the claimant's lands, or buildings, or both, in the same relation to the Establishment of grade. Use, acquiescence and recognition for forty years is sufficient to establish the grade of a highway. Hunt v. Otego, 160 App. Div. 158, 145 N. Y. Supp. 495.

Application of section. This section applies to all parts of the state, provided some statute authorizes an award of damages therefor. It extends to all damages whenever sustained, whether in the future or in the past. People ex rel C. T. Co. v. Prendergast, 202 N. Y. 188; Matter of Murphy v. Prendergast (1917), 99 Misc. 326; Matter of 149th Street Realty Co. v. Prendergast (1917), 179 App. Div. 786. But it has no application to highways constructed by the state under the so-called Good Road Law (L. 1898, ch. 115) the expense of which is borne jointly by the town, county and state. Matter of Baynes, 140 App. Div. 735, 126 N. Y. Supp. 132.

There is no restriction in the present law upon the right to damages in any case where a town highway shall be repaired, graded and macadamized from curb to curb by the authorities of the town. Under the former law it was held that it must be established that such improvement was done "in accordance with the provisions of section 69 of chapter 686 of the Laws of 1892," the County Law. Matter of Borup, 89 App. Div. 183, 85 N. Y. Supp. 828 (1903). The present law makes no reference to such section, and under the case cited the petitioner need only establish that the highway was a town highway and that it has been "repaired, graded and macadamized from curb to curb by the authorities of the town."

Although this section authorizes a recovery of damages by an adjoining owner where a highway is "graded and macadamized from curb to curb by the authorities of the town," a recovery may be had, even though the road graded and macadamized was not in fact curbed. Court should determine sufficiency of petition even if no objection is made by town. Matter of Ives, 155 App. Div. 670.

35. Constitutionality. The constitutionality of the original act was established in the case of Matter of Borup, 182 N. Y. 222, affg. 92 App. Div. 262, 92 N. Y. Supp. 624 It was there held that an award of damages was not permissible except by virtue of the act and was in no sense a gift or gratuity of the money of the town; that the legislature had power to provide for the payment of damages in the original act; that the act authorized no new or improper rule of damages; that the recovery is limited to the actual amount of damages, measured by the principles prevailing in condemnation proceedings. See, also, People ex rel. C. T. Co. v. Prendergast, 202 N. Y. 188.

Claim for damages. At common law an abutter had no claim for damages against a municipality for a change in the grade of a highway; and this rule was applicable even though access to his property might be cut off. In towns the only remedy given is that contained in this section. Smith v. Boston & Albany R. R. Co., 90 App. Div. 94, 91 N. Y Supp. 412; Matter of Baynes, 140 App. Div. 735, 126 N. Y. Supp. 132. The right to compensation is created by statute; the statutory remedy is exclusive, and the measure of damage is determined by the terms thereof and cannot be assessed on the theory of a trespass. Matter of Hoy v. Village of Salamanca, 57 Misc. 31, 107 N. Y. Supp. 1208.

changed grade as they stood to the former grade, and make awards accordingly, except that said board or said commissioners may make an allowance for benefits derived by the claimant from such improvement. The amount agreed upon for such damages, or the award therefor together with the costs, if any, allowed to the claimant, shall be a charge against such town and the supervisor shall pay the same, if there be sufficient funds in his hands available, and if not, the town board shall borrow money for the payment thereof, as provided in section ninety-seven, or issue certificates of indebtedness therefor, as provided in section ninety-six. Bonds of the town to raise the money necessary to make such payment, and such bonds or such certificates of indebtedness shall bear a rate of interest not exceeding five per centum per annum payable semi-annually. Such bonds shall be in the same form, and shall be issued and sold in the same manner as other town bonds. [Highway Law, § 59; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p 2201.]

Interest on damages for change of grade.—Whenever awards shall be lawfully made, pursuant to any statute of this state, for damages sustained by real estate or any improvements thereon by reason of any change of grade of any street, avenue or road in front thereof, the award for the principal amount of damages sustained shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the time of the change of grade to the time of the payment of the award.[35a] [Highway Law, § 59a, as added by L. 1910, ch. 701, in effect June 25, 1910.]

§ 21. DRAINAGE, SEWER AND WATER PIPES, CATTLE PASSES OR OTHER CROSSINGS IN HIGHWAYS.

The town superintendent may, with the consent of the town board, upon the written application of any resident or taxpayer of his town or a corporation, grant permission for an overhead or underground crossing or to lay and maintain drainage, sewer and water pipes under ground within the portion therein described of a town highway.[36] If the high-

Consequential damages upon change of grade of state highway. The report of commissioners to ascertain compensation to be made for the taking of real estate for state highway purposes, so far as an award therein for consequential damages depending upon a change of the grade of a state highway, should be set aside, because the change of grade is not of a town highway. People v. Dawson (1914), 87 Misc. 588, 150 N. Y. Supp. 679.

The interest on the damages allowed is a part of the damages. Matter of Murphy v. Prendergast (1917), 99 Misc. 326. The statute was enacted to remedy the defect of failure to provide for the payment of interest as a part of the damages and has been held to be retroactive. Matter of 14th St. Realty Co. v. Prendergast (1917), 179 App. Div. 786. The computation is to be made from the date of the completion of the change of grade although at that time the statute did not allow interest. Id.

36. Waterworks companies may lay and maintain pipes and hydrants in highways for the purpose of supplying the inhabitants of the town with water. See Transportation Corporations Law, secs. 80, 82. And gas and electric corporations may secure the privilege of laying pipes and wires in highways under Transportations Corporations Law, sec. 61.

Permission shall not be granted for the laying and maintaining of such pipes under the travelled part of the highway, except across the same, for the purpose of sewerage, and draining swamps or other lands, and supplying premises with water. Such permission shall be granted upon the condition that such pipes and hydrants or crossings shall be so laid, set or constructed as not to interrupt or interfere with public travel upon the highway, and upon the further condition that the applicant will replace the earth removed and leave the highway in all respects in as good condition as before the laying of said pipes, or construction of such crossings, and that such applicant will keep such pipes and hydrants or crossing in repair and save the town harmless from all damages which may accrue by reason of their location in the highway, and that upon notice by the town superintendent the applicant will make the repairs required for the protection or preservation of the highway. The permit of the town superintendent, with the consent of the town board or county or district superintendent, and the acceptance of the applicant, shall be executed in duplicate, one of which shall be filed in the office of the town clerk and the other in the office of the district or county superintendent. In case the applicant shall fail to make any of the repairs required to be made under the permit, they may be made by the town superintendent at the expense of the applicant, and such expenses shall be a lien, prior to any other lien, upon the land benefited by the use of the highway for such pipes, hydrants or structures. The town superintendent may revoke such permit upon the applicant's failure to comply with any of the conditions contained therein. [Highway Law, § 60, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 462; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2202.]

Supervision of town superintendent. Under the former law a contract between a waterworks company and a town provided for the furnishing of water to the town and its inhabitants and contained a provision that the company's pipes should be laid under the supervision of the commissioner of highways, their services to be paid for by the company. It was held that the contract was not invalid because of the clause requiring payment of compensation of the commissioners bf the company, although subject to close scrutiny. Nicoll v. Sands, 131 N. Y. 19.

37. Rights of abutting owners. An owner of land, abutting upon a country road, has substantial rights both in the surface and in the soil on the sides of such road. He has a right of light, air and access, and to cultivate the road, and by statutory authority to plant trees along the road in front of his property; and a pole upon the roadside, supporting electric wires, interfering with growing trees, and preventing the planting of new ones, is an unsightly structure and may be dangerous, and is an infringement upon the rights of the abutting owner. It is of no consequence to what uses the pole and wire are to be put after they are erected. Palmer v. Larchmont Electric Co., 6 App. Div. 12; 39 N. Y. Supp. 522, revd. on other grounds, 158 N. Y. 231.

Shade trees. As to allowance for setting out shade trees, see section 63, post. As to custody of shade trees, see section 64, post. Shade trees belong to the owners of the abutting lands, section 333, post. As to penalty for injury to fruit or shade trees, see section 334, post. As to penalty for falling trees into the highway, see section 335, post.

The statute authorizes abutting owners to set out shade trees without regard to the ownership of the fee. Edsall v. Howell, 86 Hun, 424; 33 N. Y. Supp. 892. But the setting out of shade trees, or the building of a sidewalk is not such an occupation as can be made the foundation of claim to the title of the fee by adverse possession as against the true owner. Bliss v. Johnson, 94 N. Y. 235.

Willful injury to shade trees. A person who willfully cuts down, girdles or otherwise injures a fruit, shade or ornamental tree standing on the lands of another, or of the people of the state, is guilty of a misdemeanor. Penal Law, sec. 1425, subd. 2.

Trees planted in a highway, the fee of which belongs to adjacent owners, are the property of such owners, who may remove them at pleasure; and the legislature cannot impose a penalty upon him for removing them unless the public have acquired title by making him compensation for them. Village of Lancaster v. Richardson, 4 Lans. 136. Trees lawfully set and maintained in the highway are neither encroachments nor obstructions, and the court has no power to compel their removal. Town of Wheatfield v. Shasley, 23 Misc. 100, 51 N. Y. Supp. 835.

Treble damages for trespass in cutting shade trees in highway in front of owner's lands may be awarded, based upon the easement which the abutting owner retains in such trees. Such damages may not be recovered unless it appears that the injury to the trees was not necessary for the improvement of the highway. Pfohl v. Rupp, 166 App. Div. 630, 152 N. Y. Supp. 47.

Rights of electric corporations in respect to shade trees. In stringing its wires a corporation has no right to cut branches of trees belonging to abutting owners, unless such course is demanded by an existing necessity which cannot be avoided by insulating the wires or by employing other practical means which may be more expensive and less convenient. Van Siclen v. Jamaica Electric Light Co., 45 App. Div. 1, 61 N. Y. Supp. 210. The right to the protection of shade trees vested in the owners of adjoining lands is subservient to the proper and legitimate use of the highway by the public. The question as to whether or not the use of public highways in the country by electric lighting companies is within the proper public use of such highways is, in all cases, to be determined by the necessity of the light for the proper use of such highways. Farmer v. Larchment Electric Co. 158 N. Y. 231.

§ 23. EXPENDITURES FOR SIDEWALKS.

The town superintendent of any town may, with the consent of the town board, maintain and repair existing sidewalks in such town, and the expense thereof shall be a town charge. Where such sidewalk shall consist of a board walk not more than ten feet in width located on a highway less than two rods in width the town superintendent of such town may maintain and repair such board walk or renewal thereof and with the consent of the town board may replace such board walk with a walk of concrete or other suitable construction and the expense thereof shall be a town charge. The town board of any such town may on the petition of not less than twenty-five taxpayers of the town, by resolution, direct the town superintendent to construct a sidewalk along a described portion of any highway of the town, in the manner and not exceeding an expense to be specified in the resolution, and the expense of constructing such sidewalk shall be a town charge, and shall be paid in the same manner as other town charges. 38. Sidewalks as part of highway. Sidewalks are a part of the highway, and the owners of the adjoining lands have no greater duty in regard to keeping them in repair than they have in regard to any other part of the highway. Village of Fulton v. Tucker, 3 Hun, 529. A town which constructs a highway with a sidewalk in an incorporated village is under the same obligation to keep it in order as exists in the case of the center of the street. Birngruber v. Town of Eastchester, 54 App. Div. 80; 66 N. Y. Supp. 278; and see Clapper v. Town of Waterford, 131 N. Y. 382; 30 N. E. 240.

The controlling principle in the case of injuries caused by defective sidewalks is stated in the case of Saulsbury v. Village of Ithaca, 94 N. Y. 27, where it is said: "It is true that whether a municipal corporation shall build, or permit to be built, a sidewalk on any of its streets, is a matter of discretion not to be regulated by the courts; yet when a sidewalk is built with or without its permission it becomes responsible for its condition, and is bound, so long as it exists, to keep it in order."

Establishment of sidewalk districts, and the maintenance of sidewalks therein, by the town board, see Town Law, §§ 250-254, ante.

Driving animals on sidewalks. Section 1907 of the Penal Law provides that: "A person who wilfully and without authority or necessity drives any team, vehicle, cattle, sheep, horse, swine or other animal along upon a sidewalk is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days, or both."

of the town board, to each such owner or occupant, who shall set out or transplant by the side of the highway adjoining his premises, any forest shade trees, fruit trees, or nut bearing trees suitable for shade trees, in conformity with the preceding section, the sum of one dollar for each three living trees so set out or transplanted, to be paid by the supervisors to such owner or occupant, upon the order of the town superintendent out of moneys levied and collected for miscellaneous purposes. Such allowance shall only be made for trees so set out or transplanted during the preceding year, and living and well protected from animals at the time of the allowance. Such trees shall be set out or transplanted not more than eight feet from the outside line of any highway three rods wide, and not more than one additional foot distant therefrom, for each additional rod in width of highway, and not less than seventy feet apart, on the same side of the highway, if elms, or fifty feet, if other trees. Trees transplanted by the side of the highway, in place of trees which have died, shall be allowed for in the same manner. [Highway Law, § 63; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2205.]

§ 25. CUSTODY OF SHADE TREES.

The town superintendent shall have the full control of all shade trees in the public highways of the town, but not within the limits of an incorporated village, and shall prosecute complaints for malicious injury to, or unlawful acts concerning, public shade trees.[38a] Upon the recommendation of the town superintendent, the town board may, by resolution, appropriate a sum, not exceeding two hundred dollars, to be known as the "Shade Tree Fund." Such fund shall be placed in the hands of the supervisor as custodian, and shall be expended by him upon the written order of the town superintendent, for the setting out and preservation of shade trees along the highways in such town. [Highway Law, § 64; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2205.]

§ 26. COMPENSATION FOR WATERING TROUGHS.

The town superintendent may, with the consent of the town board, authorize the owner or occupant of lands to construct and maintain a watering trough beside the public highway, to be supplied with fresh water, the surface of which shall be three or more feet above the level of the ground and easily accessible for horses with vehicles, but when possible, all such watering troughs shall be constructed on the lower side of the highway.[39] Such watering trough shall be maintained by such owner or

38a. Permission to trim and cut shade trees without assent of town superintendent.—An owner of adjacent land, who has planted trees along the highway to which he owns the fee subject to the use by the public, may permit a telephone and telegraph company to trim or cut such trees without assent of the town superintendent. Rept. of Atty. Genl., May 4, 1911.

occupant and kept supplied with fresh water. The town superintendent shall annually give a written order upon the supervisor for three dollars to be paid to such owner or occupant by the supervisor, for maintaining such watering trough, and keeping the same supplied with fresh water, out of moneys levied and collected for miscellaneous purposes. [Highway Law, § 65; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2205.]

§ 27. CREDIT ON PRIVATE ROAD.

Any person living upon a private road may be credited on account of his highway taxes in any year an amount equal to the value of the work which the town superintendent may deem necessary to be done in such year upon such road. The town superintendent shall issue to him a statement containing the name of the person, the location of the road, the amount of work so deemed necessary to be done, and the value thereof. Such statement shall be presented to the town board at its annual meeting for the audit of town accounts, and if approved by such board, and such work shall have been done, an order shall be issued directing the supervisor to pay the sum specified in such statement to the person therein named, or his assignee, out of moneys in the hands of the supervisor available for highway purposes. The amount so paid in any year shall not exceed the amount payable by the person named in such statement on account of moneys levied in such town for the repair and improvement of highways as provided in this chapter. This section shall not apply to private roads or rights of way over lands of the owner thereof used by him for his own convenience.[40] [Highway Law, § 66; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2206.]

§ 28. NEGLECT OR REFUSAL TO PROSECUTE.

If the town superintendent shall neglect or refuse to prosecute for any penalty, knowing the same to have been incurred, he shall be liable to a penalty of ten dollars for every such neglect or refusal, which shall be constructed and maintained by an owner of premises along a turnpike or plankroad, the company owning such plankroad or turnpike must abate the toll of such owner in the annual sum of three dollars. The town superintendent of the town in which the watering trough is constructed must designate the watering troughs along such plankroad or turnpike necessary for public convenience. See Transportation Corporations Law, § 130.

For form of certificate of authority, see Form No. 105, post.

recovered by action in the name of the town, by the supervisor, or by any taxpayer of the town who shall indemnify the town for the costs and expense of the action, in such manner as the supervisor may approve.[41] [Highway Law, § 67; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2206.]

§ 29. ERECTION OF GUIDE BOARDS.

The town superintendent may, with the consent of the town board, cause guide posts with proper inscriptions and devices to be erected at the intersections of such highways therein, as may be necessary, which shall be kept in repair by him at the expense of the town. Upon written application to him, of five resident taxpayers of any town or twenty resident taxpayers of the county in which such town is located, requesting the erection of one or more guide boards at the intersection of highways in such town, it shall be his duty to cause to be erected at the intersections mentioned in such application, such guide boards indicating the direction, distances and names of the towns, villages or cities to or through which such intersecting highways run. Such application shall designate the highway intersections at which such guide boards are requested to be erected, and may contain suggestions as to the inscriptions and devices to be placed upon such boards. The cost of the erection and maintenance of such boards shall be a town charge. If the town superintendent refuses or neglects for a period of sixty days after receiving such application to comply with the request contained therein, he shall, for such neglect or refusal, forfeit to the town, the sum of twenty-five dollars, to be recovered by the supervisor in the name of the town, and the amount so recovered shall be set apart for the erection of such guide boards.[42] [Highway Law, § 68; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2206.]

41. Collection of penalties. This section evidently has reference to the duty of the town superintendent to collect all penalties prescribed by this chapter, as required by Highway Law, sec. 47, subd. 12, ante.

For actions to recover penalties under the former law, see Bentley v. Phelps, 27 Barb. 524 (1858); McFadden v. Kingsbury, 11 Wend. 667 (1834); Bartlett v. Crozier, 17 Johns. 439 (1820); Haywood v. Wheeler, 11 Johns. 432 (1814).

42. Other provisions relative to milestones and guideposts. A willful or malicous injury to mileboards, milestones or guideposts is a misdemeanor. Penal Law, § 1423, sub. 11, as added by L. 1911, ch. 316.

Whoever shall injure, deface or destroy a milestone or guidepost erected on any highway shall, for every such offense, forfeit treble damages. See Highway Law, sec. 330, post. It is thus provided that a person who injures a milestone or guidepost may be proceeded against either criminally under the Penal Law, or civilly under the Highway Law. As to erection of milestones

Highway Law, §§ 69–71.

§ 30. MEASUREMENT OF HIGHWAYS AND REPORT.

Within six months after the taking effect of his chapter, and as often as the commission shall direct, the town superintendent shall measure all highways of his town. Such measurements shall be made either by the use of a cyclometer or otherwise as the commission shall direct. He shall ascertain, and indicate in his report, the town highways which have been surfaced with gravel, those which have been surfaced with crushed stone and those which have been shaped and crowned. He shall report in triplicate on forms to be prescribed and furnished by the commission, the total mileage of all highways within his town, specifying as above provided as to town highways, one of which shall be filed with the town clerk, one with the district or county superintendent, and one with the commission. [Highway Law, § 69; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2207.]

§ 31. APPLICATION FOR SERVICE OF PRISONERS.

After satisfying himself that proper quarters can be secured, the town superintendent may, with the consent of the town board, request the supervisor of the town, under the provisions of section ninety-three of the county law, to procure the services of prisoners serving sentence in the county jail, for general work upon the public highways of the town. [Highway Law, § 70; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2207.]

§ 32. CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR OF APPROACHES TO PRIVATE LANDS.

The owners or occupants of lands shall construct and keep in repair all approaches or driveways from the highway, under the direction of the district or county superintendent, and it shall be unlawful for such owner or occupant of lands to fill up any ditch or place any material of any kind or character in any ditch so as to in any manner obstruct or interfere with the purposes for which it was made. The town superintendent may, when

The expense of erecting and maintaining guideboards is made by this section a town charge and is payable by the supervisor upon the order of the town superintendent after audit by the town board, as provided in Highway Law, sec. 106, post.

directed by the town board, construct and keep in repair such approaches and the expense thereof shall be a town charge.[42a] [Highway Law, § 71; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2208.]

§ 33. UNSAFE TOLL BRIDGE.

Whenever complaint in writing, on oath, shall be made to the town superintendent, of any town in which shall be in whole or in part any toll bridge belonging to any person or corporation, representing that such toll bridge has from any cause become and is unsafe for the public use, such town superintendent shall forthwith make a careful and thorough examination of such toll bridge, and if upon the examination thereof he shall be of the opinion that the same has from any cause become dangerous or unsafe for public use, he shall thereupon give immediate notice to the owners of such toll bridge, or to any agent of such owners, acting as such agent in respect to such bridge, that he has, on complaint made, carefully and thoroughly examined the bridge and found it to be unsafe for public use. Such owners shall thereupon immediately commence repairing the same, and cause such repairs to be made within one week from the day of such notice given, or such reasonable time thereafter as may be necessary to thoroughly repair the bridge, so as to make it in all respects safe and convenient for public use. For neglect to take prompt and effective measures so to repair the bridge, its owners shall forfeit twenty-five dollars, and shall not demand or receive any toll for using the bridge until the same shall be fully repaired. The town superintendent shall cause such repairs to be made and the owners of the bridge shall be liable for the expense thereof, and for the services of the superintendent, and upon the neglect or refusal to pay the same upon presentation of an account therefor, the town superintendent may recover the same by action, in the name of the town. [Highway Law, § 72; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2208.]

§ 34. ACTIONS FOR INJURIES TO HIGHWAYS.

The town superintendent shall bring an action in the name of the town, against any person or corporation, to sustain the rights of the public, in and to any town highway in the town, and to enforce the performance of any duty enjoined upon any person or corporation in relation thereto, and to recover any damages sustained or suffered, or expenses incurred by such town, in consequence of any act or omission of any such person or corporation, in violation of any law or contract in relation to such highway.[44] [Highway Law, § 73; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2208.]

44. Penalties for injuries to highways are prescribed by section 330 of the Highway Law, post. It is also provided in sec. 47, subd. 12, and sec. 337 of the Highway Law, ante, that all penalties incurred pursuant to the Highway Law shall be recovered by the town superintendent in the name of the town.

Abatement of nuisance. A town superintendent may abate a nuisance caused by an unsafe bridge over a mill-race by repairing the same at the expense of the owner, and an action will lie against such owner for the amount expended. Town of Clay v. Hart, 25 Misc. 110; 55 N. Y. Supp. 43.

Surrendering turnpike. Where a turnpike has been abandoned the owners may be compelled, by an action brought under this section, to surrender possession of all parts of the turnpike road to the control of the town superintendent. Town of Palatine v. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. Co., 22 App. Div. 181; 47 N. Y. Supp. 1024.

Drainage commissioners appointed for the drainage of marsh lands, who, without the consent of the town authorities, cut a channel for the drainage of water across a town highway, and have omitted to construct a suitable bridge across such channel, may be compelled to construct such bridge by an action maintainable under this section in the name of the town, in spite of the fact that the statute under which the drainage commissioners acted did not in express terms confer upon them the power to construct such bridge. Town of Conewango v. Shaw, 31 App. Div. 354; 52 N. Y. Supp. 327.

Railroads using highways. A railroad corporation may construct its railroad upon or along a highway upon the order of the Supreme Court of the district in which such highway is situated upon at least ten days' notice to the town superintendent of highways. Where such railroad is so constructed, it is made the duty of the corporation to restore the highway to its former state, "or to such state as not to have unnecessarily impaired its usefulness." See Railroad Law, sec. 22.

The intention of the statute is to impose upon a railroad company, whose track is upon an original highway, the duty of maintaining the restored as well as of restoring the original highway, at least so far as affected by its own operations; and so long as changes are made in the highway by the railroad, or occur in consequence of its operation, which affect the safety of the highway, the statutory duty to preserve the usefulness of the highway attaches and remains until fully complied with. Allen v. Buffalo, Rockland & Pittsburg R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434; 45 N. E. 845; see, also, Schild v. Central Park, etc., R. R. Co., 133 N. Y. 447; 31 N. E. 327; Wiley v. Smith, 25 App. Div. 351; 49 N. Y. Supp. 934; Town of Windsor v. D. & H. C. Co., 92 Hun, 127; 36 N. Y. Supp. 863.

The town superintendent of highways of a town has no power to control the location of a railway within the line of the highway of the town, and while for any failure of the railroad company in the performance of the duty of § 35. LIABILITY OF TOWNS FOR DEFECTIVE HIGHWAYS.

Every town shall be liable for all damages to persons or property sustained by reason of any defect in its highways or bridges, existing because of the neglect of any town superintendent of such town. No action shall be maintained against any town to recover such damages, unless a verified statement of the cause of action, including the time and place at which such injury is alleged to have been received, shall have been filed with the town clerk and supervisor of the town within ninety days after the cause of action accrued. And no such action shall be commenced until fifteen days after the service of such statement.[45] [Highway Law, § 74, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 389, and L. 1918, ch. 161; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2211.]

restoration, he is authorized by the above section to maintain an action for its performance in the name of the town, or for damages sustained by the town, it is for the company in the first instance to determine the method of restoration. Post v. West Shore R. R. Co., 123 N. Y. 580; 26 N. E. 7. If the railroad has proceeded to restore a highway in a manner which has proven ineffectual, the town superintendent may by mandamus compel a proper performance of the duty of the railroad company, and the court in the writ should point out how the corporation has failed in its duty, and direct particularly what should be done so that it may not fail again. People ex rel. Green v. Duchess and Columbia R. R. Co., 58 N. Y. 152. See, also, McMahon v. S. A. R. R. Co., 75 N. Y. 231; Masterson v. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. Co., 84 N. Y. 247.

A street railroad company is required by § 11 of the Railroad Law to restore the highways to the condition in which they were before the railroad was constructed; and it is made the duty of the town superintendent, by this section, to compel such company to make such restoration and in case of a failure he may bring an action in the name of the town against the company. Report of Atty. Genl. (1902) 230.

Application to villages. Since § 141 of the Village Law constituted a village a "separate highway district," the trustees of a village may maintain an action under this section to prevent an encroachment upon a village street. Village of Oxford v. Willoughby, 181 N. Y. 155. A village being a separate highway district, the authority of the town superintendent is transferred to and vested in the village authorities and the latter may resort to a court of equity for the preservation of the village streets and highways. Village of Haverstraw v. Eckerson, 192 N. Y. 54, affg. 124 App. Div. 18, 108 N. Y. Supp. 506.

45. Under the statute a town is liable only for the negligence of the town superintendent. Hence, where the plaintiff's horse ran away and injured her owing to the fact that it became frightened by the smell left by powder which had been used by the overseer of the road district in blasting rock for the roadbed, the town is not liable unless it appear that the work was done under the direction of the town superintendent, or that he knew that it was going on, or that by the exercise of reasonable diligence he could have known of the condition. Booth v. Town of Orleans, 147 App. Div. 240.

Defective highways. A consideration of the law relating to the liability of towns for injuries caused to users of the highway by defects therein is beyond the scope of this work. The cases which have arisen under the above section are very numerous. They involve a determination of what constitutes a defect and what is negligence upon the part of the town or the highway officers. Nearly, if not all, of such cases are cited in B. C. & G. Cons. L., pp. 2210-2216, to which reference is here made.

Railroad company not liable for defects in highway caused by erection of fence along railroad right of way to prevent snow drifting on tracks. It was the duty of the town superintendent to keep the highway in a passable condition. The railroad company had a legal right to erect the fence on its own land and if there was any liability for the injuries caused by the snow in the highway, it was that of the town. Cooney v. Northern Central Ry. Co. (1917), 180 App. Div. 675.

Sufficiency of statement. Where the statement has served the object intended by the statute, viz., to give the town notice of the claim, such statement did not operate to limit proof of the actual extent of the plaintiff's injuries nor the amount of damages she could recover. Eggleston v. Town of Chautauqua, 90

Highway Law, § 75.

§ 36. ACTION BY TOWN AGAINST SUPERINTENDENT.

If a judgment shall be recovered against a town for damages to person or property, sustained by reason of any defect in its highway or bridges, existing because of the neglect of any town superintendent, such town superintendent shall be liable to the town for the amount of the judgment, and interest thereon, but

---

App. Div. 314, 86 N. Y. Supp. 276. The object of the statute plainly is that the town shall have fair and timely notice of the cause of action and of the claim made against it, and time is given after the notice and before the suit is commenced for the town to examine into the claim and decide what to do with reference to it. This notice is not required to have all the formalities of a complaint or of a bill of particulars; its purpose is served by bringing the general nature of the claim to the attention of the town. Quinn v. Town of Sempronius, 33 App. Div. 70, 53 N. Y. Supp. 325; Eggleston v. Town of Chautauqua, 90 App. Div. 314, 86 N. Y. Supp. 279.

The legislature having made the presentment of the statement of the cause of action to the supervisor a prerequisite to the bringing of an action the court cannot permit any substitute for it; the statute must be strictly complied with; so, where plaintiff's attorney wrote a letter to the supervisor, which was not returned as not being the statement required, and the town officers acted thereon and negotiated for a settlement with plaintiff, the claimant is not relieved from a literal compliance with the statute, nor have the town officers the power to waive the statutory requirement. Bourst v. Town of Sharon, 24 App. Div. 599, 48 N. Y. Supp. 996.

A verified statement in the following language:

"Town of Sardinia.

"To Ella D. Spencer, administratrix of the estate of Frank Spencer, late of the town of Sardinia, Erie County, N. Y., debtor.

"To damages resulting from the death of Frank Spencer, caused by the breaking of an unsafe and defective bridge in the highway in said town near the residence of Mr. Henshaw, $20,000.

"Dated, Sardinia, N. Y., November 5, 1897.

"ELLA D. SPENCER,

"Administratrix."

Subjoined to this statement was an affidavit of the administratrix. It was held that this statement was sufficiently definite and specific to give the authorities of the town opportunity to investigate and determine whether they would allow the claim. Spencer v. Town of Sardinia, 42 App. Div. 472; 59 N. Y. Supp. 412.

The statement should state facts showing the occurrence of the accident, the defects in the highway or bridge which caused it, that the town superintendent was negligent and the plaintiff was free from negligence, and that the plaintiff was injured and was entitled to damages therefor. It might well state the nature and extent of the injuries sustained, and the amount of damages claimed therefor, but the amount of damages would be merely an estimate and the plaintiff would not be restricted to the amount stated. Eggleston v. Town of Chautauqua, 90 App. Div. 314, 86 N. Y. Supp. 279. The notice should state the time and place of the injury. Lutes v. Town of Warwick, 149 App. Div. 809, 134 N. Y. Supp. 298.

An action against a town for damages to persons or property sustained by reason of any defect in its highway or bridges existing because of the neglect of the town superintendent of highways can be maintained only by virtue of this section; but where the complaint, otherwise good, contains no allegation that a verified statement of the cause of action was filed with the town clerk within six months after the cause of action accrued, as required by said section, the complaint must be dismissed, with leave to serve an amended complaint on payment of a full bill of costs. Dye v. Town of Cherry Creek (1914), 87 Misc. 207, 149 N. Y. Supp. 497.

The purpose of the notice required by section 74 of the Highway Law before bringing an action against a town for damages is to fairly apprise the officers of the such judgment shall not be evidence of the negligence of the superintendent in the action against him.[46] [Highway Law, § 75; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2217.]

§ 37. AUDIT OF DAMAGES WITHOUT ACTION.

The town board of any town may audit as a town charge, in the same manner as other town charges are audited, any one claim not exceeding five hundred dollars, for damages to person or property, heretofore or hereafter sustained by reason of defective highways or bridges in the town, if in their judgment it be for the interest of the town so to do; but no claim shall be so audited unless it shall have been presented to the supervisor and town clerk of the town within ninety days after it accrued, nor if any action thereon shall be barred by the statute of limitations.[47] The town board may also audit any unpaid judgment heretofore or hereafter recovered against a town superintendent for any such damages, if such town board shall be satisfied that he acted in good faith, and the defect causing such damages did not exist because of the negligence or misconduct of the superintendent against whom such judgment shall have been recovered. [Highway Law, § 76, as amended by L. 1918, ch. 161; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2217.]

§ 38. CLOSING HIGHWAYS FOR REPAIR OR CONSTRUCTION.

If it shall appear necessary to close any highway in order to permit a proper completion of any work of improvement thereon conducted by the state, county or town, the district or county superintendent shall, upon request of the division engineer, or direction of the state commissioner of highways, execute a certificate and file the same in the office of the town

town of the nature and circumstances of the accident, so that they may investigate the same fully and intelligently, and with certainty as to the place and conditions of the accident. Such a notice, to the effect that on a certain date while the plaintiff was driving his horse to a certain place, and when he was about twenty-five rods below the foot of a certain hill in the town stated, the horse stepped through a hole in a sluice and broke her leg, making it necessary to shoot her, damaging the plaintiff to a certain sum, no part of which has ever been paid, is a substantial compliance with the statute. It seems, that the notice need not be framed with the same particularity as a complaint, and need not contain facts showing that the commissioner of highways was negligent, and that the plaintiff was free from negligence. Griffin v. Town of Ellenburgh (1916), 171 App. Div. 713, 157 N. Y. Supp. 813.

46. Liability of town superintendents. Town superintendents since the act of 1881, ch. 700, are no longer liable for their negligence to persons injured; the primary liability to such persons is that of the town. Williams v. Village of Port Chester, 97 App. Div. 84, 89 N. Y. Supp. 671. The section, as it existed in the former Highway Law, was passed in view of the law as it had been announced by the courts without contemplating any change. People ex rel. Cole v. Cross, 87 App. Div. 56, 83 N. Y. Supp. 1083.

Where the commissioner of highways of a town negligently permits the highways to become out of repair, a person sustaining injuries thereby may bring an action against the commissioner individually, notwithstanding the provisions of this section, permitting an action to be brought against the town because of the neglect of its highway commissioner. Campbell v. Powers (1913), 155 App. Div. 862.

Proof of negligence. The negligence of the town superintendent, although established in the action against the town, must be again proved in the action by the town against the superintendent. Lane v. Town of Hancock, 142 N. Y. 510. See also Waller v. Town of Hebron, 5 App. Div. 577, 39 N. Y. Supp. 381.

Liability of town superintendent to town is the test of the town's liability. Mack v. Town of Shawangunk, 98 App. Div. 577, 90 N. Y. Supp. 760.

47. Audit of town accounts. Town accounts are to be audited as provided in sec. 133 of the Town Law, post. See, also, Highway Law, sec. 106, post.

Judgments against a town are town charges. See Town Law, sec. 170, post.

clerk of the town in which such highway is situated. Such certificate shall state the necessity for the closing of such highway and describe the portion thereof to be closed; not more than two miles of any highway shall be closed at any one time. At the time of filing such certificate such district or county superintendent shall notify the town superintendent to close the highway, who shall thereupon close the same to public travel by erecting suitable obstruction and posting conspicuous notices to the effect that the highway is closed. The town superintendent shall, if practicable, provide a new location for, and construct a temporary highway to be used by the traveling public in lieu of the closed highway and may erect temporary bridges when necessary, or cause other existing highways to be used, when so directed by the district or county superintendent. For the purpose of locating, constructing and erecting such temporary highway or bridge the town superintendent may enter upon the lands adjoining or near to the closed highway and may, with the approval of the town board, agree with the owners of such land as to the damages, if any, caused thereby. If the town superintendent is unable to agree with such owner upon the amount of damages thus sustained the amount thereof shall be ascertained, determined and paid as provided in section fifty-eight. When such highway shall have been closed to the public as provided herein any person who disregards the obstruction and notice, and drives, rides or walks over the portion of the highway so closed shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The district or county superintendent in his discretion may temporarily close a town highway or a county road for a period of not to exceed ten days. In closing such highway or road the district or county superintendent shall proceed in the manner provided in this section, and he shall immediately transmit to the division engineer a written notice of such closing. The provisions of this section with regard to the closing of highways generally shall apply in like manner to such temporary closing. [Highway Law, § 77, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, and L. 1918, ch. 148; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2219.]

§ 39. ADOPTION OF LABOR SYSTEM FOR REMOVING SNOW.

The town board of any town at its annual meeting on the first Thursday after general election, may, by resolution, determine that no money shall be raised in such town for the ensuing year for the removal of obstructions in the highways caused by snow, and that such obstructions shall be removed by the labor of persons and corporations liable to be assessed in such towns for highway taxes. [Highway Law, § 78; added by L. 1909, ch. 488, and amended by L 1910, ch. 136, in effect Apr. 21, 1910; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2219.]

§ 40. ASSESSMENT OF LABOR FOR THE REMOVAL OF SNOW.

The town superintendent of a town in which the obstructions in the highways caused by snow shall be removed by the labor of persons and corporations liable to assessment in each town for highway taxes, pursuant to the last preceding section shall annually on or before November fifteenth divide the town into a convenient number of highway districts and file a description thereof in the office of the town clerk, and before such date shall make an estimate giving the probable number of days' labor needed during the following year for the removal of obstructions caused by snow in the highways and for the prevention of such obstructions and shall assess one day's labor upon each male inhabitant of the town above the age of twenty-one years, excepting honorably discharged soldiers and sailors who lost an arm or a leg in the military or naval service of the United States, or who are unable to perform manual labor, by reason of injuries received or disabilities incurred in such service, members of any fire company formed or created pursuant to any statute, and situated within such town, persons seventy years of age or over, clergymen and priests of every denomination, paupers, idiots and lunatics. The balance of such estimated number of days shall be apportioned and assessed upon the estate, real and personal, of every inhabitant of the town, including corporations liable to taxation therein, as the same shall appear by the last assessment roll of the town, and upon each parcel or tract of land owned by the nonresidents, excepting such as are occupied by an inhabitant of the town, which shall be assessed to the occupant. The assessment of labor for personal property must be in the district in which the owner resides, and real property in the district where it is situated, except that the assessment of labor upon the property of corporations may be in any district or districts of the town, and such labor may be worked out or commuted for as if the corporation were an inhabitant of the district; but the real property within an incorporated city or village exempted from the jurisdiction of the town superintendent, and personal property of an inhabitant thereof, shall not be assessed for such labor by the town superintendent. Whenever the assessors of any town shall have omitted to assess any inhabitant, corporation or property therein, the town superintendent shall assess the same, and apportion the labor as above provided. [Highway Law, § 79, as added by L. 1909, ch. 488, and amended by L. 1910, ch. 136, in effect Apr. 21, 1910.]

§ 41. LISTS OF PERSONS ASSESSED FOR REMOVAL OF SNOW.

A copy of the lists of persons and corporations assessed shall be prepared by the town superintendent and filed in the office of the town clerk. The town superintendent may at any time file in the office of the town clerk a supplemental list containing the names of persons or corporations omitted from the original list, and the names of new inhabitants, and shall assess them in proportion to their real and personal estate as others assessed by him on such list. [Highway Law, § 80, as added by L. 1909, ch. 488; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2219.]

Highway Law, §§ 81, 82.

§ 42. DISTRICT FOREMAN; RETURN AND LEVY OF UNWORKED TAX.

The town superintendent shall also, immediately after the town has been divided into districts as provided in section seventy-nine of this chapter, appoint a foreman in each district, who shall be a taxable resident thereof, who shall serve for one year and until his successor is appointed and shall receive such per diem compensation, not exceeding two dollars per day, for time actually spent in performing his duties, as the town board may prescribe, payable as the compensation of others town officers is paid. The superintendent shall prepare, from the lists prescribed in section eighty, a separate list for each district of persons and corporations assessed therein for the then current year for labor in removing obstructions caused by snow, showing the number of days' labor for which each person or corporation is assessed, and shall deliver each such list to the foreman of the proper district. It shall be the duty of each foreman to notify the several persons and corporations thus assessed, or such of them as the occasion demands, from time to time as needed, that they are required to appear and perform labor in the removal of obstructions caused by snow at a time and place stated by the foreman. On or before the first day of May each district list, showing the portions worked or commuted for, the portions in which parties were notified but failed to perform work after being so notified, and the portions upon which no notice to perform work was served, shall be returned by the district foreman to the town superintendent. All assessments upon which parties have been notified and failed to appear or commute shall then be certified by the town superintendent to the town board, who shall return the same to the board of supervisors of the county and which shall be included by them in the next tax-roll of the town and levied against the persons and corporations assessed at the rate of one dollar and fifty cents per day as other taxes are levied. [Highway Law, § 81, inserted by L. 1910, ch. 136, in effect Apr. 21, 1910.]

§ 43. APPEALS BY NONRESIDENT; CERTAIN ASSESSMENTS TO BE SEPARATE; TENANT MAY DEDUCT ASSESSMENT.

Whenever any nonresident owner of unoccupied land shall conceive himself aggrieved by any such assessment of any town superintendent, such owner or his agent, may, within thirty days after such list has been filed in the office of the town clerk, appeal to the county judge of the county in which such land is situated, who shall within twenty days thereafter hear and decide such appeal, the owner or agent giving notice to the town superintendent of the time of the hearing before the judge, and his decision thereupon shall be final and conclusive. Whenever the town superintendent shall assess the occupant for any land not owned by such occupant, he shall distinguish in his assessment list the amount charged upon such list, from the personal tax, if any, of the occupant thereof; but when any such land shall be assessed in the name of the occupant, the owner thereof shall not be assessed during the same year on account of the same land. Whenever any tenant of any land, for a less term than twenty-five years, shall be assessed to work on the highways for such land, and shall actually perform such work or commute therefor, he shall be entitled to a deduction from the rent due or to become due from him for such land, equal to the full amount of such assessment, estimating the same at the rate of one dollar per day, unless otherwise provided for by agreement between the tenant and his landlord. Whenever the highways in any district are obstructed by snow, the town superintendent shall immediately call upon the persons and corporations in such district assessed for labor in pursuance of the preceding sections to assist in removing such obstruction, and shall credit such persons or corporations with the days' labor so performed. If any persons, corporations or occupants of land owned by nonresidents so called out neglect or refuse to appear at the place designated by the town superintendent or to commute at a dollar a day within twenty-four hours after due notice, the town superintendent shall cause the obstruction to be immediately removed and on or before September first of each year, or at such other time as the board of supervisors may by resolution prescribe, make out a list of all persons, corporations or occupants of lands owned by nonresidents who shall fail to work out such labor or commute therefor, with the number of days not worked out or commuted for by each, charging for each day in such list at the rate of one dollar and fifty cents per day, verified to the effect that such persons, corporations or occupants of lands owned by nonresidents have been notified to appear and perform such labor or commute therefor, and that the same has not been performed or commuted. Such list shall be certified by the town superintendent of such town to the town board and by such town board to the board of supervisors and the highway commission, and the amount of such arrearages shall be levied by such board of supervisors against and collected from the real or personal estate of such persons and corporations and from the real estate owned by nonresidents specified in such list, to be collected by the collectors of the several towns in the same manner that other town taxes are collected, and shall order the same when collected to be paid over to the supervisor to be by him added to the highway fund of the town. No persons or corporations shall be allowed any sum for highway labor performed in removing obstructions caused by snow, unless authorized or directed by the town superintendent to perform such labor. It shall be the duty of the town superintendent on or before the thirty-first day of October in each year to file with the highway commission a statement showing the number of days' labor assessed. It shall also be the duty of the town superintendent to file with the highway commission on or before the first day of June in each year a statement showing the number of days' labor performed or commuted for, the number of days' labor on which parties were notified but failed to labor, also the number of days' labor upon which no notice to appear was given. [Highway Law, § 82, as added by L. 1909, ch. 488, as § 81, renumbered and amended by L. 1910, ch. 136, in effect Apr. 21, 1910.]

CHAPTER LIX.

HIGHWAY MONEYS; STATE AID.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Highway Taxation.

This chapter pertains to the raising of money by town tax for the construction and maintenance of town highways and bridges; the apportionment among the towns of moneys appropriated by the state for town highways; the expenditure of such moneys and the duties of town officers in respect to all of such matters.

One of the most important changes made by the present Highway Law is the abolishing of the old labor system of taxation, and substituting therefor the so called money system of raising highway taxes. The present law requires that the expense of maintaining highways and bridges shall be paid by tax; the town superintendent is to have charge of such maintenance and all expenditures legally made by him are charges upon the town to the same extent as other town expenditures. The law does not fix the maximum tax to be raised, but it specifies the minimum amount to be levied.

Annual Estimates of Expenditures.

The town superintendent must consider the needs of the town in respect to its highways and bridges, and prepare a statement of the amount which, in his opinion, the town should raise by tax for the various purposes specified therein. The purposes for which a tax may be raised are specified in § 90, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 84, and L. 1915, ch. 322; the state commission of highways has prepared and furnishes blanks to be used by town superintendents in making such statements. Such statements are known as estimates of highway and bridge expenditures. Each estimate is to be submitted to the town board for its approval. It becomes effectual and binding upon the town when so approved. The supervisor must submit the approved estimate to the board of supervisors, who thereupon must cause the amounts specified in the estimate to be levied and collected in the same manner as other charges against the town are levied and collected. The estimate must be submitted to the town board on or before October 31, so that the board may act upon it at its meeting held on the Thursday preceding the annual meeting of the board of supervisors.

Additional Tax; Extraordinary Repairs.

If the town superintendent finds that the amounts included in his estimate are insufficient for the purposes named he shall report the fact to the town board, and such board may cause a vote to be taken at a biennial or special town meeting on a proposition to appropriate an additional sum. If so voted the amount must be added to the regular highway tax.

If a bridge or highway is unsafe the town superintendent with the approval of the town board may cause the same to be rebuilt or repaired. If the expense exceeds $500 it must be done by contract, approved by the town board. The amount required is to be added to the amount of other highway taxes in the town.

Limitation of Amounts to be Raised by Tax.

The law imposes a limit upon the amount to be raised by tax without a vote of the town, for all purposes except the repair and improvement of highways. The limit for bridges is placed at $1500, for road machinery the limit is $500; for extraordinary repairs of bridges and highways which have become unsafe, the limit is $1500.

Borrowing Money; Bonds.

Money may be borrowed by the supervisor, in anticipation of taxes, when authorized by the town board. Certificates of indebtedness are required to be issued for the money so borrowed.

When authorized by a vote of a town meeting the town may borrow money, and issue bonds therefor, to build, rebuild or repair highways and bridges and to purchase stone crushers, rollers and traction engines. The law provides for the issue and sale of such bonds.

Explanatory note.

State Aid.

Section 101 of the Highway Law prescribes the amount of money to be paid to the towns to aid them in the repair and improvement of highways. The amounts are graded in accordance with the assessed valuation of taxable property in the town for each mile of highways. No part of this money may be used for the building and repairing of bridges. The state money is paid to the county treasurer and by him distributed among the towns.

Supervisor as Custodian of Moneys.

The supervisor is the custodian of all highway moneys. The collector is directed in his warrant to pay to the supervisor all moneys collected for highway and bridge purposes, and all state moneys are paid to him by the county treasurer. He must give a separate undertaking for the safe-keeping of such funds, to be approved by the town board.

Agreement as to Expenditures ; Audit and Payment.

The town superintendent and town board must enter into a written agreement as to the parts of the town and the manner in which the highway moneys are to be expended. Such agreement must be executed in duplicate; one copy is to be filed with the town clerk, and the other with the district or county superintendent.

All moneys are required to be paid out by the supervisor, in accordance with such agreement upon the order of the town superintendent, after audit by the town board. Such audits are to be made at any meeting of the board called for the purpose by the supervisor or town clerk, on the request of the town superintendent.

The supervisor must present to the town board an itemized report of money received and paid out. The form of such report is prescribed by the commission and blanks are furnished or demanded.

§ 1. ESTIMATE OF EXPENDITURES FOR HIGHWAYS AND BRIDGES.[1]

The town superintendent shall annually, on or before the thirty-first day of October, make a written statement in respect to the amount of money which should be raised by tax in the town for the ensuing year, beginning on the first day of November, for the purposes therein set forth, which shall be filed with the town clerk.[2] Such statement shall specify:

1. Legalization of taxes levied in 1911. The taxes levied for the repair of highways upon the assessment-rolls of the several towns for the year 1911 were legalized by L. 1912, ch. 64 (in effect March 23, 1912), which reads as follows:

Section 1. The taxes levied in the year nineteen hundred and eleven for the repair of highways, upon the real and personal property in the several towns, are hereby legalized and confirmed so as to be of the same force and effect as though the boards of supervisors had, in said year, levied the minimum amount required to be levied and collected under the provisions of subdivision one, section ninety, chapter thirty of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act, etc."

2. Highway tax. The present Highway Law abolishes the labor system of taxation in all towns and substitutes in place thereof what was formerly known as the money system of taxation. On and after the taking effect of this section all towns will be required to provide for the raising of highway money by tax. The town superintendent is required under this section to estimate the money which will be required for all highway and bridge purposes in the town during the ensuing year. This estimate is revised by the

1. The amount of money necessary to be levied and collected for the repair and improvement of highways, including sluices, culverts and bridges having a span of less than five feet, and board walks or renewals thereof on highways less than two rods in width, and also the amount necessary to construct or repair any public roads, walks, places or avenues on any sand beach separated by more than two miles from the main body of the town. Such amount shall not be less than an amount which when added to the amount of money to be received from the state, under the provisions of section one hundred and one, will equal thirty dollars for each mile of highways within the town, outside the limits of incorporated villages, except that no town having an assessed valuation of three thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars or less per mile outside of incorporated villages shall be required to levy and collect a tax under this subdivision in excess of four dollars on each thousand dollars of assessed valuation.[3] [Sub. amended by L. 1914, ch. 84, and L. 1915, ch. 322.]

town board under sec. 91 of the Highway Law, and when so revised the amount provided for is to be raised by tax levied by the board of supervisors upon the taxable property of the town. The levy is made by the board of supervisors at its annual meeting and when the tax warrant reaches the hands of the collector it provides for the collection of money sufficient to take care of highway improvement during the next year. Such moneys will be paid over to the supervisor, for the most part, in the months of January, February or March, prior to the time when active operations upon the highways are required to be begun. It will be noticed that under this section the town superintendent is to determine the amount required for highways and bridges in the towns in the first instance.

Form of estimate of highway and bridge expenditures, and town board's approval thereof, see Form No. 109, post.

Statement under former law. The former statute made it the commissioner's imperative duty to make a statement of the necessary improvements to be made on bridges and highways in each highway district, and an estimate of the probable expense thereof, to the town board at its second meeting, that is the meeting held on the Thursday prior to the annual meeting of the board of supervisors. A duplicate of such statement and estimate was required to be delivered to the supervisor of the town. The board of supervisors at its next meeting was then required to cause the amount to be assessed upon and collected in the town. Lament v. Haight, 44 How. Pr. 1. The object of providing for such statement and estimate is to enable the town to raise money for highway purposes by annual taxation rather than by incurring indebtedness or borrowing money. Wells v. Town of Salina, 119 N. Y. 280, 290.

3. Minimum amount for repair and improvement. It will be noticed under subd. 1 that the minimum amount which is to be raised by tax in each town for the repair and improvement of highways will vary according to the amount which the towns receive from the State under sec. 101 of the Highway Law. If the assessable valuation per mile is less than the limit prescribed in this subdivision, the amount available for repair and improvement of highways may be less than thirty dollars, but in every other case the amount raised by the town and the amount received from the State must at least equal the sum of thirty dollars for each mile. It was intended by this subdivision to protect the smaller and poorer towns by limiting the amount which they

2. The amount of money necessary to be levied and collected for the repair and construction of bridges, having a span of five feet or more.

3. The amount of money necessary to be levied and collected for the purchase, repair and custody of stone crushers, steam rollers, traction engines, road machines for grading and scraping, tools and implements.[4]

4. The amount of money necessary to be levied and collected for the removal of obstructions caused by snow and for other miscellaneous purposes.[5]

The amounts specified in such statement shall not exceed the limitations prescribed in section ninety-four. If the town superintendent is of the opinion that an amount in excess of the limitations therein prescribed be raised by tax, he shall include in his statement his reasons therefor in detail. [Highway Law, § 90; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2221.]

§ 2. DUTIES OF TOWN BOARD IN RESPECT TO ESTIMATES; LEVY OF TAXES.

The town board, at its meeting held on the Thursday succeeding general election day in each year, shall consider the estimates contained in such statement. It may, by a majority vote of the members thereof, approve such statement, or increase or reduce the amount of any of the estimates contained therein, subject to the limitations prescribed in section ninety-four.[6] The statement, as thus approved, increased or reduced shall be signed in duplicate by a majority of the members of the town board, one should be required to raise by tax at four dollars for each thousand dollars of assessed valuation. There is nothing in the law which prevents any town from imposing a tax greater than such sum.

4. Road machinery may be purchased by the town superintendent with the approval of the town board under Highway Law, sec. 49, ante. The expenses connected with the purchase, repair and custody of such machinery pursuant to the provisions of such section 49 of the Highway Law is chargeable against the fund raised under subd. 3 of the above section.

5. Removal of snow.—It is made the duty of the town superintendent to cause highways to be kept free from obstructions caused by snow. See Highway Law, sec. 47, subd. 2, ante. It is provided by sections 78-81 of the Highway Law (preceding chapter) that the board of supervisors of a county may adopt the labor system of taxation for removing snow.

Building a new highway is a " miscellaneous purpose " within the meaning of subdivision 4. There is no limitation of the amount which may be raised for " miscellaneous purposes " except as it is controlled by the public necessities of a town. Rept. of Atty. Genl., Oct. 18, 1910.

Moneys raised as provided by sections 90-101 cannot be used either for construction or maintenance of town highways constructed under sections 320 or 320-a of the Highway Law. Opinion of Attorney General (1916), State Dept. Reports, Adv. Sheet 41, p. 98.

Estimates may be made by the town superintendent under subd. 4 of money necessary for building a new highway, said estimate is then laid before the town board and if it approves, the several amounts are laid before the board of supervisors and raised in the same manner as other highway taxes in the town. Rept. of Atty. Genl., Oct. 18, 1910.

6. The town board has the power, under this section, to control the amount which shall be raised for the purposes specified in the statement of the town superintendent. The approval of the town board, when the estimate is not changed, should be endorsed on the statement of the town superintendent and signed by the members of the town board. If the amounts contained in the statement are reduced or increased it may be better to make a new statement containing the revised estimates, signed in duplicate by the members of the of which shall be filed in the office of the town clerk, and the other shall be delivered to the supervisor. The town clerk shall make and transmit a copy of such statement to the commission. The supervisor shall present such statement to the board of supervisors and such board shall cause the amounts contained therein, subject to the limitation requiring a vote of the electors as hereafter provided, to be assessed, levied and collected in such town in the same manner as other town charges, and such amounts shall be expended for the purposes specified in such statement.[7] The warrant for the collection of taxes in such town shall direct the payment of the money so collected to the supervisor of the town, to be held by him and paid out for the purposes specified in such statement, as provided in this chapter.[8] [Highway Law, § 91; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2223.]

§ 3. ADDITIONAL TAX.

Whenever the town superintendent and the town board shall determine that the sum of one thousand five hundred dollars will be insufficient to pay the expenses actually necessary for the removal of obstructions caused by snow and the prevention of such obstructions, and whenever they shall determine that the amounts levied and collected for any of the purposes board. It is the statement, as finally acted upon by the town board, which becomes the basis for the levy of the taxes by the board of supervisors.

Insufficient appropriations. In the absence of authority conferred upon him as provided in this and the following section the town superintendent has no power to proceed with the improvements, and apply in payment therefor the appropriation for the succeeding year, and expenditures so made create no legal claim against the town. People ex rel. Peterson v. Clark, 45 App. Div. 65, 60 N. Y. Supp. 1045.

7. The board of supervisors in assessing and levying taxes for highway purposes are governed by the provisions of this section. The provisions of subds. 3 and 4 of sec. 12 of the County Law, ante, authorizing the board of supervisors to direct the raising of such sums in each town as shall be necessary to pay its town charges are, so far as they pertain to taxes for highway purposes, superseded by this section. The board of supervisors cannot exceed the amount estimated for in the statement submitted to it by the several towns of the county, except in the cases specified in secs. 92 and 93 of the Highway Law.

8. Collection of taxes and expenditures. The board of supervisors provides for the preparation of the tax-roll of each town to which is attached a warrant under the seal of the county, signed by the chairman and the clerk of the board of supervisors, to collect from the persons named in the roll the sums mentioned therein. Tax Law, secs. 58 and 59, ante. Under sec. 59 of the Tax Law, ante, it is provided that the collector's warrant shall direct him to pay "to the commissioners of highways of the town such sum as shall have been raised for the support of highways and bridges therein." This provision is superseded by the above section, which provides that the warrant shall direct mentioned in the statement presented to the board of supervisors, as provided in the preceding section, are insufficient to pay the expenses necessarily incurred for any of the purposes therein specified they may cause[9] a vote to be taken by ballot at a biennial town meeting or at a special town meeting duly called therefor, authorizing such additional sum to be raised as they may deem necessary for such purpose, not exceeding one-third of one per centum upon the taxable property of the town as shown by the last assessment-roll thereof.[10] [Highway Law, § 92, as amended by L. 1918, ch. 147; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2224.]

§ 4. EXTRAORDINARY REPAIRS OF HIGHWAYS AND BRIDGES.

If any highway or bridge or the board walk on any highway less than two rods in width, or a walk built to replace the same under section sixty-two, shall at any time be damaged or destroyed by the elements or otherwise, or become unsafe for public use and travel, or if any bridge or the board walk on any highway less than two rods the payment of the money so collected to the supervisor of the town. Expenditures for the repair and improvement of town highways are to be made as provided in sec. 105 of the Highway Law, post, and expenditures for bridges and other highway purposes are to be made as provided in sec. 106 thereof, post.

9. Form of application for special meeting to vote upon such a proposition, see Form No. 110, post.

A proposition may be submitted at a town meeting as provided in the Town Law, see ante, pp. ——, ——.

10. Former Highway Law, sec. 9, authorized the submission of a proposition to a town meeting to raise a sum in addition to one thousand dollars for highway repairs and maintenance, removal of obstructions caused by snow and the purchase of road machines. The present law provides for a submission of a proposition whenever any of the amounts levied and collecetd for the purposes mentioned in the highway estimate are insufficient to pay the expenses necessarily incurred.

Object and effect of section. The purpose of this section is to provide for an amount in addition to that contained in the annual statement submitted to the board of supervisors when it is found that such amounts are insufficient to properly care for the highways and bridges of the town. The limitation of one-third of one per centum of the taxable property of the town cannot be exceeded. The additional amount so voted by the people must be raised by tax upon the town. Such sum is not to be raised by the issue of bonds, but money may be borrowed in anticipation of additional taxes so to be levied, as provided in Highway Law, sec. 96, post.

Effect of failure to secure additional sum. It is the duty of a town superintendent and town board to take action under this section to secure such sum, in addition to that estimated for in his annual statement, as may be necessary to keep the highways and bridges of the town in a safe condition. It has been held that as a defense to an action for injuries sustained by reason of a defective highway, it is not sufficient to show that the superintendent had no funds, but it must also be shown that he had sought through the proper in width, or any such walk built to replace the same, be condemned by the commission, as provided in this chapter, the town superintendent shall cause the same to be immediately repaired or rebuilt, with the approval of the town board.[11] Such highway or bridge or walk shall.

channels to procure them. Whitlock v. Town of Brighton, 2 App. Div. 21, 37 N. Y. Supp. 333, affirmed, 154 N. Y. 781; Warren v. Clement, 24 Hun 472; McMahon v. Town of Salem, 25 App. Div. 1, 49 N. Y. Supp. 310.

11. Former Highway Law, sec. 10, as amended by L. 1906, ch. 417, provided for the repair or rebuilding of a highway or bridge which at any time had been damaged or destroyed by the elements or otherwise, or had become unsafe. The work was required to be done under written contract, if the amount to be expended exceeded five hundred dollars. If the expense of the construction exceeded fifteen hundred dollars, the work could only be done after the submission and adoption of a proposition at a town meeting.

Limitation of expenditure. Not more than fifteen hundred dollars can be levied in any one year for the repair or construction of a highway or bridge under this section, unless duly authorized by a vote of a town meeting. See Highway Law, sec. 94, subd. 4, post.

Power of town superintendents to bind town. Town superintendents of highways have no general authority to bind the town by their contracts save in exceptional cases prescribed by statute. People ex rel. Everett v. Supervisors, 93 N. Y. 397; Berlin Bridge Co. v. Wagner, 57 Hun, 346; 10 N. Y. Supp. 840. In the case of People ex rel. Bowles v. Burrell, 14 Misc. 217; 35 N. Y. Supp. 608, Justice Rumsey held that highway commissioners have no power to pledge the credit of the town for materials for the repair of highways, and the person furnishing such material has no claim therefor upon the town, notwithstanding the existence of a local custom to buy such material upon credit. And in the case of Lyth v. Town of Evans, 33 Misc. 221, 227, 68 N. Y. Supp. 356, it was said: "If extraordinary repairs become necessary, and the funds supplied are insufficient for the purpose, the law provides the method of procedure to be taken by the commissioners with the consent of the town board whereby a legal obligation to pay for the necessary expenditure may be created directly against the town itself. In no other way may the commissioners create an obligation or liability against the town."

A town superintendent of highways is not an agent of the town authorized to contract a debt in real or supposed emergencies, and cannot make a contract binding upon the town unless authorized by statute. So where a town superintendent contracts individually with a person to supervise the construction of a bridge authorized by a town board, such contract is not binding upon the town, unless the town board consented to such contract. People ex rel. Morey v. Town Board, 175 N. Y. 394. The consent mentioned in the statute is a judicial act contemplating a decision of the board upon evidence as to whether or not the highways are in such a condition as to require immediate repair. Town superintendents of highways are charged with the duty of keeping town highways in repair as independent officers and not as agents of the town, and when they contract for ordinary repairs, it is as such officers and the liability therefor, if they exceed the statutory limitation, is assumed by them personally and not as agents of the town. Opinion of State Comptroller (1916), 9 State Dept. Rep. 482.

In the case of People ex rel. Peterson v. Clark, 45 App. Div. 65; 60 N. Y. Supp. 1045, it was held that where the appropriation for the improvement of highways, made under sec. 19 of the Former Highway Law, is insufficient, the proper course of the commissioner was to apply, under secs. 10 and 11 of that be so repaired or rebuilt in accordance with the directions or the plans and specifications prepared or approved by the district or county super-law, to the town board for consent to make the necessary improvements. In the absence of such consent the highway commissioner had no power to proceed with the improvements, and apply in payment thereof the appropriation for the succeeding year; and expenditures so made create no legal claim against the town. The court said: "We are unable to find in the Highway Law, or other statutes of the state, any provision authorizing a highway commissioner to create a debt against a town, except in the manner provided in sec. 10 of the Highway Law." See, also, in respect to the powers of town superintendents to bind a town for highway improvements, Mather v. Crawford, 36 Barb. 565; Barker v. Loomis, 6 Hill, 464; Van Alstyne v. Freday, 41 N. Y. 174.

A town superintendent has no authority to create a liability upon the part of his town to a person hired to cut brush along a town highway, and even if such liability were created, it would not become actionable until the claim had been acted upon by the town auditors. Wright v. Town of Wilmurt, 44 Misc. 456, 90 N. Y. Supp. 90.

An unsafe condition which is the result of ordinary wear and tear is not such an emergency as will warrant action under this section. Such a condition may be remedied in the ordinary manner, by including the amount required in the annual statement as provided in secs. 90 and 91. The repairs provided for in sec. 93 are those arising only from emergencies which could not have been foreseen. This section does not authorize the town superintendent, upon determining that a highway bridge has become unsafe from natural wear and decay, to make a contract for the rebuilding of such bridge, with the approval of the town board, at a cost exceeding the moneys appropriated for highway purposes. The phrase, "or become unsafe," means an unsafe condition arising from extraordinary cause. Livingston v. Stafford, 99 App. Div. 108, 91 N. Y. Supp. 172.

The commissioners of highways [town superintendent] and town board of a town cannot contract for the building of new bridges in the place of old bridges not damaged except by natural wear, unless the electors of a town duly authorize the raising of money for such purpose. A contractor is charged with the knowledge of the want of such authority. People ex rel. United Construction Co. v. Voorhies, 114 App. Div. 351, 99 N. Y. Supp. 918, affd. 187 N. Y. 539.

Consent of town board. Where a bridge has been destroyed by the elements it is contemplated that the town superintendent shall proceed to rebuild if authorized by the town board. When the consent of the town board is given, the town superintendent may contract for its rebuilding, and the contract is to be deemed the contract of the town and should be made in the name of the town. Town of Saranac v. Groton Bridge Co., 55 App. Div. 134; 67 N. Y. Supp. 118. When once the consent has been given the duties of the town board, so far as the construction of the bridge is concerned, are at an end. The board cannot direct the town superintendent as to what kind of a bridge shall be erected or how and by whom it shall be built. People ex rel. Groton Bridge Co. v. Town Board, 92 Hun, 585; 36 intendent; except if the bridge or walk to be repaired or rebuilt is one which has been condemned by the commission,[12] as provided in this chapter, the same shall be repaired or rebuilt in accordance with plans and specifications to be prepared or approved by the commission. The town

N. Y. Supp. 1062. But where a resolution was passed by a town board providing for the rebuilding of the bridge containing certain conditions, it was held that in case such conditions were not complied with the resolution conferred no authority, and that a bridge constructed without regard to such conditions by the commissioner was unauthorized. Town of Saranac v. Groton Bridge Co., 55 App. Div. 134; 67 N. Y. Supp. 118.

Where a resolution authorized a commissioner "to repair the bridges that may have gone down since the annual town meeting to the best of his judgment," it was held that if in his judgment it was deemed best or necessary to remodel or reconstruct the bridge, the consent would authorize such an action on his part. People ex rel. Slater v. Smith, 83 Hun, 432; 31 N. Y. Supp. 749; see Huggans v. Riley, 125 N. Y. 88; 25 N. E. 993; Hall v. Town of Oyster Bay, 61 App. Div. 508, 511; 70 N. Y. Supp. 710.

No particular form of consent by the town board is required; and where it formally resolves that an unsafe bridge be replaced by a new one, the superintendent has sufficient authority to contract for the bridge, although the board subsequently attempts to delay action that it may obtain legal advice in the matter. Basselin v. Pate, 30 Misc. 368, 69 N. Y. Supp. 653. Where it does not appear whether the consent was in writing or not, it will be presumed, if that be a requisite, that a record of the consent was properly made. Boots v. Washburn, 79 N. Y. 207.

Mandanus to compel approval. Where the commissioner of highways [superintendent] of a town, without the previous consent of the town board, has expended moneys in excess of the amount in his hands, for the purpose of repairing highways which were in a dangerous and unsafe condition, a writ of mandamus will not issue commanding the officers of the town to convene as a town board, and give their consent to the payment of the highway commissioner's claim for reimbursement. The fact that if an application had been made to the town board prior to the expenditure of the money, they would undoubtedly have consented to the making of the repairs, does not justify the issuance of a mandamus. The consent mentioned in the statute is a judicial act contemplating a decision of the board upon evidence as to whether or not the highways are in such condition as to require immediate repair. People ex rel. Graham v. Studwell, 91 App. Div. 469, 86 N. Y. Supp. 967 (1904), affirmed 179 N. Y. 520. The town board may make the judgment of the superintendent the measure of its consent as to reconstruction of a bridge; and it is not in the province of a writ of mandamus to review the exercise of a judicial or discretionary power of such board, or to direct what the result of its exercise shall be. People ex rel Slater v. Smith, 83 Hun 432, 31 N. Y. Supp. 749.

clerk shall prepare a statement showing the probable cost of improving, repairing or rebuilding such highway or bridge or walk, which statement shall be signed in duplicate by a majority of the members of the town board, one of which duplicates shall be filed with the town clerk and one be delivered to the supervisor. The town clerk shall make a copy of such statement and transmit the same to the commission. The supervisor shall present such statement to the board of supervisors, who shall cause the amount contained in such statement to be assessed, levied and collected in the same manner as amounts levied and collected for other highway and bridge purposes, as provided by law. The amount so raised shall be paid to the supervisor to be expended for the purposes specified in such statement. [Highway Law, § 93, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 621, L. 1915, ch. 322, and L. 1917, ch. 261; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2225.]

§ 5. LIMITATIONS OF AMOUNTS TO BE RAISED.

The amounts to be raised by tax upon the vote of a town board, as provided in this article, shall be subject to the following limitations:[13]

1. The amount to be levied and collected in each year for the repair and improvement of highways, including sluices, culverts and bridges having a span of less than five feet and board walks or renewals thereof, on highways less than two rods in width, shall not be less than the amount prescribed under subdivision one of section ninety. [Subd. amended by L. 1915, ch. 322.]

2. Not more than fifteen hundred dollars shall be levied and collected in any one year in any town for the repair and construction of a bridge unless by unanimous consent of all members of the town board, but in no case shall more than three thousand dollars be levied and collected unless duly authorized by the vote of a town meeting.[14]

3. Not more than five hundred dollars shall be levied and collected in any one year in any town for the purchase or repair of stone crushers, steam rollers, motor trucks, scarifiers, concrete mixers, traction engines or road machines for grading and scraping, tools and implements, unless duly au-

13. Debts in excess of limitation. A town superintendent has no general authority to bind the town by his contracts. He must find his authority in the statute, and those who deal with him, and with the other officers of the town are presumed to know this limitation of power. See People ex rel. Everett v. Supervisors, 93 N. Y. 397; Berlin Bridge Co. v. Wagner, 57 Hun 346, 10 N. Y. Supp. 840.

14. Limit of amount to be raised for bridges. If more than fifteen hundred dollars is required to be raised in any one year for the repair or construction of a single bridge, it must be after a vote at a town meeting. Under the former Highway Law, sec. 10, as amended by L. 1905, ch. 417, a bridge which had become unsafe or had been destroyed by the elements, could not be repaired or constructed if the amount required would exceed fifteen hundred dollars unless the expense had been duly authorized by a vote at a town meeting.

thorized by the vote of a town meeting.[15] [Subd. 3, as amended by L. 1918, chs. 320, 329.]

4. Not more than fifteen hundred dollars shall be levied and collected in any one year in any town for the repair or construction of any highway or bridge which has been damaged or destroyed as provided in section ninety-three or which has been condemned by the commission as provided in this chapter, unless by unanimous consent of all members of the town board, but in no case shall more than three thousand dollars be levied and collected unless duly authorized by the vote of a town meeting. [Highway Law, § 94, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 578; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2228.]

§ 6. SUBMISSION OF PROPOSITIONS AT TOWN MEETINGS.

A proposition to authorize the levy and collection of an amount greater than that specified in the preceding section for any of the purposes therein mentioned may be submitted upon the written application of twenty-five taxpayers upon the last town assessment-roll or by a majority of the members of the town board, at a biennial town[16] meeting or a special town meeting duly called as provided by law. The provisions of the town law relating to the submission of town propositions at a biennial or special town meeting shall apply to the submission of such propositions.[17] If such proposition be adopted the town board shall include in the estimates contained in the next statement submitted by it to the board of supervisors, as provided in section ninety-one, the amounts authorized to be raised by such proposition for the purposes therein stated, and thereupon such amounts shall be levied and collected, and paid to the supervisor, to be expended by him as directed by such proposition. [Highway Law, § 95; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2229.]

§ 7. BORROWING MONEY IN ANTICIPATION OF TAXES.

The supervisor may, when authorized by the town board, borrow money

15. Road machinery. The town superintendent may, with the approval of the town board, purchase stone crushers, steam or other power rollers, traction engines, road machines, etc., under Highway Law, sec. 49, ante. It is here provided that not more than five hundred dollars shall be levied and collected in any one year for any of these purposes unless a vote be had at a town meeting. Under former Highway Law, sec. 7, stone crushers and power rollers could only be purchased after a submission of a proposition at a town meeting.

Road machinery may not be purchased under a contract of conditional sale. Such machinery can only be purchased when there are funds available therefor. A conditional contract which provides for the sale of such machinery upon payment of the purchase price at some time in the future is not authorized. Payments can only be made from funds raised by tax and not more than $500 of the funds of the town are available for such purposes, unless a proposition has been adopted at a town meeting, authorizing the issue and sale of bonds. Gardner v. Town of Cameron, 155 App. Div. 750, 140 N. Y. Supp. 634. See, also, Shoemaker v. Buffalo Steam Roller Co., 83 Misc. 162, 144 N. Y. Supp. 721.

in anticipation of taxes to be levied and collected, on the credit of the town, and issue certificates of indebtedness therefor in the following cases:

1. When an additional sum is directed to be levied and collected by a vote of a town meeting as provided in section ninety-two.

2. When an amount necessary for the payment of expenses incurred in the improvement, repair and rebuilding of a highway or bridge has been directed to be levied and collected as provided in section ninety-three.

3. When a proposition has been adopted at a town meeting as provided in section ninety-five authorizing the levy and collection of an amount greater than that specified in section ninety-four for any of the purposes therein mentioned.

4. When the board of supervisors has authorized a town board to borrow its share of the cost of improving a town highway as provided by section three hundred and twenty-a.

Such certificates of indebtedness shall be signed by the supervisor and the town clerk and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum for a period not exceeding one year.[18] The amount so borrowed shall be paid out by the supervisor for the purposes for which the taxes, in anticipation of which such certificates were issued, are to be levied and collected. The principal and interest of such certificates shall be paid by the supervisor immediately upon the collection of the taxes levied for such purposes. [Highway Law, § 96, as amended by L. 1918, ch. 321; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2229.]

§ 8. TOWNS MAY BORROW MONEY FOR BRIDGE AND HIGHWAY PURPOSES.

A proposition may be submitted at a regular or special town meeting in the manner provided by the town law,[19] authorizing the town to borrow money upon its bonds, or other obligations, to be expended for the following purposes:[20]

A proposition to raise money for building a new highway may be submitted to the voters of a town pursuant to this section. Rept. of Atty. Genl., Oct. 18, 1910.

20. Limitation of indebtedness of town is prescribed by County Law, sec. 13, post.

Purpose of section. The statute exists for the purpose of permitting a town to raise more money than is authorized by general statute for the construction of highways and bridges. People ex rel. Morrill v. Supervisors of Queens, 112 N. Y. 585.

Power to borrow, generally. The power to raise money for municipal purposes never means a power to borrow; it is intended that it be raised by taxation unless there be express provision of statute to the contrary. Wells v. Town of Salina, 119 N. Y. 280. The established theory is that money for all highway and bridge purposes be raised by annual tax, and without some express

2. Repairing or rebuilding any highway or bridge or board walk, or renewal thereof, on any highway less than two rods in width, which shall at any time be damaged or destroyed by the elements or otherwise, or become unsafe for public use and travel. [Subd. amended by L. 1915, ch. 322.]

3. Repairing or rebuilding any bridge which has been condemned by the commission, as provided in this chapter.

4. The purchase of stone crushers, steam rollers and traction engines.

The vote upon any such proposition shall be by ballot. If any such proposition shall be adopted, the board of supervisors, upon the application of the town board, shall by resolution[21] authorize the town to issue bonds not exceeding the amount specified in said proposition, which shall be sufficient to refund and pay any temporary loan or certificate of indebtedness, and to provide for the completion of any work authorized. There shall accompany such application a statement signed by a majori-

21. Resolutions authorizing issue of bonds must provide for raising annually, by tax, a sum sufficient to pay the interest and principal of the bonds. See General Municipal Law, sec. 5, post. Such resolutions must also specify the form, place of payment, etc., of the bonds, and require the supervisor to give adequate security for the lawful application of the funds raised. See County Law, sec. 14, post.

Conditions imposed by boards of supervisors. In legislating for a town under the provisions of this section, the board of supervisors may impose conditions as to details for the interest of the taxpayers, not specified in the statute, such as safe guards in the letting of contract, and provisions that the work shall be prosecuted under competent supervision and the money deposited with the county treasurer to be paid out only upon the certificate of the engineer; and such conditions when so imposed are binding upon the officers affected. People ex rel. Wakeley v. McIntyre, 154 N. Y. 628 (1898). Board may authorize issue of long term bonds; and may direct payment of interest out of proceeds until a tax therefor can be collected. ty of the members of the town board, and certified by the town clerk, containing a copy of the proposition submitted, as above provided, the vote for and against the same, and specifying the amount which it is estimated will be required to be expended, pursuant to such proposition. If the highway or bridge, proposed to be constructed, built, repaired or discontinued, is situated in two or more towns in the same county, the board of supervisors shall, if application be made by any one of such towns, apportion the expense thereof among such towns, in such proportion as shall be just.[22] If the town adopting any such proposition shall contain any portion of the land of the forest preserve, the board of supervisors shall not authorize such town to borrow moneys without the written approval of the forest, fish and game commissioner, except in payment of a debt lawfully incurred by the town. [Highway Law, § 97, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 202; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2230.]

Power of certain towns in the Adirondack park to borrow money for highway purposes.— No money shall be borrowed, as provided in sections ninety-six and ninety-seven of this act, by a town containing lands of the Adirondack park, where the assessed value of the real property of the state equals or exceeds twenty-five per centum of the assessed value of the taxable property of the town, until the consent, in writing, of the state comptroller that such loan or loans be made, be procured and filed in the office of the town clerk of the town intending to negotiate the loan or loans. Any loan made in violation of this section for an indebtedness thereby intended to be created, shall be null and void and no moneys of the town shall be paid thereon. [Highway Law, § 97a, as added by L. 1917, ch. 565.]

§ 9. ISSUE AND SALE OF TOWN BONDS.

The board of supervisors shall, from time to time, impose upon the taxable property of the town a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such obligations as they shall become due. The supervisors and

It has been held that to entitle a party to recover in an action upon bonds issued by a municipality there must be affirmative and extrinsic proof that all the preliminary conditions required to authorize the issue of such bonds have been complied with. Form of bonds. The fact that the names of the officers authorized to issue the bonds were lithographed on the coupons of such bonds was held not to make them invalid, where it appeared that such officers adopted and delivered as their own the signatures in that form. Beattys v. Town of Solon, 64 Hun 120, 19 N. Y. Supp. 37.

Payment of bonds. It is the duty of the town to provide for the payment of its bonds lawfully issued. In case of a failure to perform such duty, the holder of the bonds may maintain an action against the town thereon, although by the act under which they were issued it is made the duty of the board of supervisors of the county to impose and levy a tax to pay the bonds. Such settled and admitted obligations of the town need not be audited and allowed by the board of town auditors. Marsh v. Town of Little Valley, 64 N. Y. 112; Horn v. Town of New Lots, 83 N. Y. 101.

town clerk shall keep a record, showing the date and amount of the obligations issued, the time and place of their payment, and the rate of interest thereon. The obligations shall be delivered to the supervisor of the town, who shall dispose of the same for not less than par and apply the proceeds thereof for the purposes for which they were issued. [Highway Law, § 98, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 578; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2231.]

§ 10. ASSESSMENT OF VILLAGE PROPERTY.

In any town in which there may be an incorporated village, which forms a separate road district, and wherein the roads and streets are maintained at the expense of such village, all property within such village shall be exempt from the levy and collection of taxes levied in the town, as provided by section ninety-one of this article, for the repair and improvement of highways, including sluices, culverts and bridges having a span of less than five feet.[23] The assessors of such town shall indicate in a separate column the value of the real and personal property included in such incorporated village.[24] [Highway Law, § 99; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2232.]

§ 11. STATEMENT BY CLERK OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The clerk of the board of supervisors of each county shall, on or before the first day of January of each year, transmit to the state comptroller and the commission a statement, signed and verified by the chairman of the board, and certified by the clerk, which shall state the name of each town, the assessed valuation of real property, and the assessed valuation of

23. Exemption of villages. By the above section villages are exempt from any taxes for the maintenance and repair of highways lying outside thereof. But this does not relieve them from assessments made for damages and charges for laying out or altering any road or erecting and repairing a bridge in the town. The section is general, and applies to every case where an incorporated village within a town may be a separate road district. Thus from a certain class of public charges or expenses connected with the highways the villages are exempt, while to another class they are subject. Bonds issued by a town for the construction and repair of highways and bridges therein would be a charge upon the whole town including the villages within it. Matter of Shafter v. Carrol, 18 App. Div. 390, 392; 46 N. Y. Supp. 202.

24. Section 21 of the former Tax Law was amended by L. 1908, ch. 437, to provide for the insertion of an additional column in the assessment-roll to contain valuations of village property.

personal property, each separately, in the towns outside incorporated villages, and the amount of tax levied therein for the repair and improvement of highways, including sluices, culverts and bridges having a span of less than five feet. The towns' valuation of real property to be used in such statement shall be the valuation thereof, as equalized by the boards of supervisors, or other competent authority, during the year prior to the levy of taxes upon which is based the determination of the amounts to be paid to the several towns, as provided in this article.[25] [Highway Law, § 100; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2233.]

§ 12. AMOUNT OF STATE AID.[25a]

There shall be paid by the state to the several towns, in the manner hereinafter provided, an amount based upon the amount of taxes levied therein for the repair and improvement of highways, sluices, culverts and bridges having a span of less than five feet, and to be determined as follows:

1. In towns where the assessed valuation of real and personal property, exclusive of such property in incorporated villages, shall be less than five thousand dollars for each mile of highways in such towns, outside of incorporated villages, an amount equal to the amount of such taxes.

2. In towns where such assessed valuation shall be five thousand dollars or over and less than seven thousand dollars for each mile of such highways, an amount equal to ninety per centum of the amount of such taxes.

3. In towns where such assessed valuation shall be seven thousand dollars or over and less than nine thousand dollars for each mile of such highways, an amount equal to eighty per centum of the amount of such taxes.

4. In towns where such assessed valuation shall be nine thousand dollars or over and less than eleven thousand dollars for each mile of such highways, an amount equal to seventy per centum of the amount of such taxes.

5. In towns where such assessed valuation shall be eleven thousand dollars or over and less than thirteen thousand dollars for each mile of such highways, an amount equal to sixty per centum of the amount of such taxes.

6. In towns where such assessed valuation shall be thirteen thousand dollars or over for each mile of such highways, an amount equal to fifty per centum of such taxes. Provided that no town shall receive from the state in any year, under this section, an amount exceeding an average of twenty-five dollars per mile, for the total mileage of its highways outside of incorporated villages, except that in towns where the assessed valuation of real and personal property therein, exclusive of such property in incorporated villages, averages more than twenty-five thousand dollars for each mile of highways therein outside of such villages, the amount paid hereunder shall not exceed one-tenth of one per centum of such assessed valuation.

7. Where a town, having within its limits an incorporated village or city of the third class, shall levy a tax upon the whole town including such incorporated village or city, the same to be spent wholly without the limits of such village or city, for the repair and improvement of highways, sluices, culverts and bridges having a span of less than five feet, the amount of such tax shall be included in the statement to be transmitted by the clerk of the board of supervisors to the comptroller as required by section one hundred of the highway law and such amount shall be used as an additional basis of the amount of state aid under this section, the same as if such tax were levied wholly without the limits of such incorporated village or city of the third class. [Highway Law, § 101, subd. added by L. 1913, ch. 375; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2233.]

§ 13. MILEAGE AND ASSESSED VALUATION.

The mileage of highways in towns to be used in determining the amounts to be paid to such towns under the provisions of this article shall be the tables of mileage heretofore prepared by the state engineer, until the corrected tables of mileage prepared as provided in section fifteen of this chapter are filed. Such tables and all corrections thereof shall be filed with the commission and comptroller. The assessed valuation of real property to be used in determining such amounts shall be the valuation thereof, equalized as provided in section one hundred and forty-one of this chapter, during the year prior to the levy of taxes upon which is based the determination of the amounts to be paid to the several towns, as provided in this article. [Highway Law, § 102; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2234.]

§ 14. PAYMENT AND DISTRIBUTION OF STATE MONEY.

The comptroller shall determine the amount due to the several towns, under the provisions of this article, and shall draw his warrant upon the state treasurer in favor of the county treasurer of each county for the total amount to be paid to the towns in such county, as so determined by him, and shall indicate the amount to be paid to each town. The county treasurer shall pay to the supervisor of each town the amount to which such town is entitled, as determined and indicated by the comptroller. No such payment shall be made until the supervisor has filed in the office of the county treasurer a certified copy of the undertaking given by him, as provided in this article.[26] [Highway Law, § 103; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2234.]

26. The undertaking of the supervisor is to be given to the town as provided in the next section. This undertaking is in addition to the official undertaking required by Town Law, sec. 100, ante. For form of undertaking, see Form No. 117, post.

§ 15. CUSTODY OF HIGHWAY MONEYS; UNDERTAKING OF SUPERVISOR.

All moneys levied and collected, as provided in this article, all moneys collected as penalties under this chapter, or received from any other source and available for highway, bridge and miscellaneous purposes and all moneys received from the state, as provided in section one hundred and one, shall be paid to the supervisor, who shall be the custodian thereof, and accountable therefor.[27] Before receiving any such moneys the supervisor shall give an undertaking to the town in an amount to be specified by the commission and with such sureties, as shall be approved by the town board, conditioned for the faithful disbursement, safekeeping and accounting of the moneys so received by him. Such undertaking shall be filed in the office of the town clerk and a certified copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the county treasurer before any moneys received from the state shall be paid to him, and also in the office of the commission. In case of a failure of the supervisor to faithfully disburse, safely keep or account for moneys received from the state the commission may bring an action on such bond in the name of the town.[28] [Highway Law, § 104; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2234.]

§ 16. EXPENDITURES FOR REPAIR AND IMPROVEMENT OF HIGHWAYS.

The moneys levied and collected for the repair and improvement of highways, including sluices, culverts and bridges having a span of less than five feet and board walks or renewals thereof, on highways less than

27. Custody of highway moneys. The supervisor has always been the custodian of the funds received from the State for the repair and improvement of highways. The present law makes him the custodian of all moneys received from any source and available for highway and bridge purposes.

Supervisor as custodian of town moneys. The statute which relates generally to the powers and duties of the supervisor assumes that he is the legal custodian of the moneys of the town and chargeable with the duty not only of receiving and keeping them, but also of guarding their disbursement. Bridges v. Board of Supervisors, 92 N. Y. 570.

28. Bonds of supervisors of towns for the receipt of State highway moneys must be given for the faithful disbursement, safe-keeping and accounting of all such moneys received by them and may cover the full term of office. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1911), vol. 2, p. 688.

Liability of supervisor for breach of bond. The fact that the supervisor of a town in good faith deposited as a general deposit, moneys received by him in his official capacity, with a reputable firm of individual bankers, believed to be solvent, and that thereafter such firm failed and such moneys were lost is not a defense to an action brought upon the bond of such supervisor. Tillinghast v. Merrill, 77 Hun, 481, 28 N. Y. Supp. 1089. The liability upon the bond given under this section can only extend to moneys received by the supervisor thereunder. See Bissell v. Saxton, 66 N. Y. 55.

two rods in width, and the moneys received from the state, as provided by section one hundred and one, shall be expended for the repair and improvement of such highways, sluices, culverts and bridges and walks, at such places and in such manner as may be agreed upon by the town board and town superintendent. The town board and the town superintendent shall constitute a board for the purpose of determining the places where and the manner in which such moneys shall be expended. Such agreement shall be written and signed in duplicate by a majority of the members of the board so constituted, and shall be approved by the commission, before the same shall take effect.[29] One of such duplicates shall be filed in the office of the town clerk and one in the office of the district or county superintendent. Such moneys shall be paid out by the supervisor on the written order of the town superintendent in accordance with such written agreement.[30] The town board and town superintendent may also appropriate from such moneys such a sum of money as they deem proper for the construction or repair of any public road, walk, place or avenue upon any sand beach separated by more than two miles of water from the main body of the town, although such road, walk, place and avenue is narrower than the width of highways required by statute, but the construction or repair of any such road, walk, place or avenue with such moneys on any such beach shall not be construed as imposing any liability upon the town or upon the superintendent of highways for any injury to person or property happening thereon. [Highway Law, § 105, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 84, and L. 1915, ch. 322; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2235.]

29. Form of agreement as to places and manner of expenditure of highway moneys, see Form No. 118, post.

Mandamus to compel performance of duty. As a meeting of the town board with the elected superintendent of highway for the purpose of dividing the road funds, under this section, is obligatory, the court has power to direct the town board to perform the duty of a peremptory writ of mandamus and to recognize a lawfully elected superintendent of highways. People ex rel. Dare v. Howell (1916), 174 App. Div. 118, 160 N. Y. Supp. 959.

30. Purposes for which expenditures may be made. The money to be expended by a town in the repair and maintenance of its highways, a portion of which is to be contributed by the state must be expended in the improvement and betterment of the highways, and not in the payment of salaries of town officers or the purchase of personal property, the title of which would vest in the town. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1906) 341. The town superintendent of highways has no authority to purchase supplies for purposes not included in the written agreement pursuant to this section or otherwise authorized by the town board. Rept. of Atty. Genl., March 31, 1911.

The opening and laying out of new highways is provided for separately and apart from the care and maintenance of highways and expenditures therefor cannot be made from the fund levied, collected and received as provided in this chapter for the repair and improvement of highways, a part of which is contributed by the state. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1904) 308.

Sidewalks are a part of the highways and moneys raised and collected for the repair and improvement of highways, and moneys received from the state may be expended in the repair thereof. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1901) 213.

Removal of town superintendent of highways for expenditure of town funds on highways otherwise than those specified in the statement, is justified. Carlisle v. Burke, 82 Misc. 282, 144 N. Y. Supp. 163.

31. Certificates of indebtedness issued as provided in Highway Law, sec. 96, ante.

§ 17. EXPENDITURES FOR BRIDGES AND OTHER HIGHWAY PURPOSES.

The moneys levied and collected, or raised by the issue and sale of bonds or certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of taxes, as provided in this article,[31] for purposes other than the repair or improvement of highways, as specified in the preceding section, shall be paid out by the supervisor upon the written order of the town superintendent. An account shall not be so paid unless the expenditure be in accordance with the annual estimate of the town superintendent, as approved or modified by the town board, or be authorized by the town board or by a vote of a town meeting, as provided in this article, or be lawfully a charge upon the town. Except as herein otherwise provided the provisions of the town law relating to the audit of town accounts and claims shall apply to accounts and claims against the town arising under this chapter.[32] [Highway Law, § 106, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 463; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2236.]

§ 18. REPORTS OF SUPERVISOR AS TO HIGHWAY MONEYS.

The supervisor shall present to the town board at its meeting held in each year, for considering the estimates contained in the statement of the town superintendent, as provided in section ninety-one, a verified report showing:

A judgment dismissing the complaint in an action against the town to recover upon such claim should be modified by striking therefrom the words "upon the merits," as it may in the future be urged that there was no merit to the claim. [Highway Law, § 107; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2237.]

§ 19. HIGHWAY ACCOUNTS, FORMS AND BLANKS.

The commission shall prescribe the method of keeping town accounts of moneys received and expended, as provided in this article, for highways, bridges, purchase, leasing, rental or hire and repair of machinery, tools and implements, the removal of obstructions caused by snow, and miscellaneous purposes, which shall be uniform, so far as practicable, throughout the state. Such commission may adopt forms and blanks for keeping such accounts. The commission shall also prescribe the form of order to be made by the town superintendent, upon the supervisor, and the form of the agreement to be entered into by the town board and town superintendent as provided in section one hundred and five. Such proposition shall be submitted in the manner provided by law for the submission of questions or propositions at a town meeting. If such proposition be adopted, the amount specified therein shall be a town charge and shall be levied and collected in the same manner as other town moneys, and when collected shall be paid to the supervisor and expended for the purposes specified in such proposition as provided in this chapter. [Highway Law, § 111; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2239.]

36. Compensation of supervisor and town clerk for duties performed under the Highway Law, should be fixed at a stated sum annually. When so fixed the compensation is in lieu of the compensation prescribed by Town Law, sec. 85, post. The compensation of a supervisor for services under the Highway Law is fixed by the town board and he is not entitled to commissions on bridge and highway moneys paid out by him. Rept. of Atty. Genl., May 22, 1911.

CHAPTER LX.

STATE AND COUNTY HIGHWAYS.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

State Highways.

The routes of the state highways are prescribed by § 120 of the Highway Law. The location of such routes may be ascertained by referring to that section. Lack of room prevents our including them in this chapter. The boards of supervisors and town officers are not directly interested in their construction and maintenance. All matters pertaining to such highways are under the control of the state commission and its officers.

County Highways.

County highways are constructed at the joint expense of the state, county and town. The commission finally determines as to the highways to be improved as county highways. The board of supervisors are first required to adopt a preliminary resolution stating that public interests demand the improvement of a highway described therein. The clerk of the board must transmit a certified copy thereof to the State commission. After examination the commission approves or disapproves the resolution and certifies the same to the board. If the resolution is approved, the commission causes its engineers to make the necessary maps, plans, specifications and estimates. Such maps, plans &c. are then referred to the district or county superintendent, who must examine the highway to be improved and the proposed maps, plans, &c., and report thereon to the commission. If the commission may then adopt the proposed plans and specifications and transmit the same to the board of supervisors, with its certificate of approval attached thereto. The board of supervisors may then approve such plans and specifications, and adopt a resolution that the highway be improved in accordance with such plans and specifications. The board may suggest modifications which become effectual when approved by the commission. The resolution must provide available funds for the payment of the county's and towns' portion of the cost of the improvement.

Explanatory note.

The foregoing is an outline of the procedure required for securing the improvement. The law provides in detail for the method of construction; such law is included in this chapter.

The highways which have been heretofore constructed or improved under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifteen of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, and the acts amendatory thereof, which are included in the routes hereinafter described, together with such other highways as are constructed or improved by the commission in accordance with the routes set forth and described in this section, shall be state highways and shall be constructed or improved at the sole expense of the state as provided in this article. Such routes are hereby set forth and described as follows: (The description of these routes is omitted.) [Highway Law, § 120; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2251.]

§ 2. CONSTRUCTION OR IMPROVEMENT OF STATE HIGHWAYS.

The mileage of state highways to be constructed or improved from the amount available from the sale of bonds issued as provided by chapter four hundred and sixty-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and six, as amended by chapter seven hundred and eighteen of the laws of nineteen hundred and seven, and appropriated for the construction or improvement of state highways, shall be equitably apportioned by the commission among the several counties without discrimination; but not more than one-half of the amount appropriated each year from the proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be expended under this article for the construction and improvement of state highways. In making the apportionment between counties the commission shall take into consideration the mileage which may be constructed from the amount to be expended under this article in each county for the construction or improvement of county highways, together with the mileage of state and county highways theretofore constructed out of moneys derived from the sale of bonds issued as above provided.

If moneys are not available for the improvement of any portion of a state route described in this article, the same may be improved as a county highway, provided the board of supervisors of the county within which such section is located designate it as a county highway as provided in this chapter, and proceed in all respects as provided herein for the improvement of county highways. [Highway Law, § 121, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, and L. 1917, ch. 315; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2251.]

§ 3. CONSTRUCTION OR IMPROVEMENT OF COUNTY HIGHWAYS.

The county highways to be constructed or improved under this article at the joint expense of the state and county shall be those highways in each county determined by the commission to be of sufficient public importance to come within the purposes of this chapter, so as to constitute a part of a properly developed system of improved market roads within the county, taking into account the use, location and value of such highways for the purposes of common traffic and travel. Such county highways shall be equitably apportioned by the commission among the several counties without discrimination. In making such apportionment the commission shall take into consideration the total mileage of state highways which shall be hereafter constructed or improved in each county, and also the highways therein which have been constructed or improved prior to the taking effect of this article from funds made available by the issue and sale of bonds as provided in section twelve of article seven of the constitution, so that there shall be an equitable distribution as between the counties of all highways built in whole or in part from such funds. [Highway Law, § 122, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 83; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2251.]

§ 4. PRELIMINARY RESOLUTION OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The board of supervisors of any county may pass a resolution [1] stating that public interest demands the improvement of a highway or section thereof within the county, and requesting that it be constructed or improved as provided in this article. Such resolution shall contain a description of such highway or section thereof. Such highway or section thereof shall not include a portion of a highway within a city, except that portion of the cities of Rome and Oneida lying outside of the respective corporation tax districts of said cities, nor any portion of a highway within an incorporated village, unless it be necessary to complete the connection of such highway with a highway already improved or to be improved under this article. The clerk of the board of supervisors shall, within ten days after the passage of such a resolution, transmit, a certified copy thereof to the commission. [Highway Law, § 123, as amended by L. 1909, ch. 487; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2252.]

§ 5. EXAMINATION OF COUNTY HIGHWAY; APPROVAL OR DISAPPROVAL BY COMMISSION.

The commission after receipt of such resolution, and at such times as it deems proper, shall examine the highway or section thereof sought to be constructed or improved, and shall determine whether it is of the character specified in section one hundred and twenty-two, and whether

1. The resolution to be adopted under this section should be in the form prescribed by the commission, blank forms of which will be furnished upon application.

the construction or improvement thereof will provide for an equitable apportionment of the highways among the several counties as provided in such section. After such examination the commission shall certify its approval or disapproval of such resolution to the board of supervisors adopting it; if it disapprove thereof it shall certify its reasons therefor. [Highway Law, § 124; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2252.]

§ 6. MAPS, PLANS, SPECIFICATIONS AND ESTIMATES.

Whenever the commission shall have determined upon the construction or improvement of a state highway, or section thereof, or shall have approved a resolution adopted by a board of supervisors in any county requesting the construction or improvement of a county highway, or a section thereof, the commission shall direct the division engineer of the division wherein such highway or section thereof is situated to make surveys, and prepare suitable preliminary maps, plans and specifications. Such division engineer shall, subject to the direction and control of the commission, have the following powers and duties in respect to such highways:

1. He shall cause the highway or section thereof designated by the commission, or described in such resolution, to be mapped both in outline and profile.

2. He may provide for a deviation from the line of a highway already existing, if thereby a shorter or more direct highway, or a lessened gradient may be obtained without decreasing the usefulness of the highway.

3. He may provide for the widening of an existing highway.

4. He shall prepare preliminary plans and specifications for the construction or improvement of such highway or section thereof providing for a telford, macadam or gravel roadway, or other suitable construction, taking into consideration climate, soil and materials to be had in the vicinity thereof, and the extent and nature of the traffic likely to be upon such highway, specifying in his judgment the kind of highway a wise economy demands.

5. He shall provide in such plans and specifications for necessary culverts, drains, ditches, waterways, embankments, guard-rails and retaining walls.

6. He may provide therein for the removal or planting of trees, and seeding or sodding, within the boundaries of the highway, when necessary for the preservation thereof.

6-a. He may provide therein for the removal of, or the trimming of any trees within the boundaries of the highway necessary for the convenience or safety of the public, or the construction or preservation of the highway.

7. He shall provide therein for the erection of suitable guide boards.

8. He may provide for such other work as may be required to complete the construction or improvement in a proper manner.

9. He shall cause an estimate to be made of the cost of the construction of such highways, or section thereof in accordance with such plans and specifications. In making such estimate he shall ascertain with all practical accuracy the quantity of embankment, excavation and masonry, the quantity of all materials to be used and all items of work to be placed under contract and specify the estimated cost thereof. [Highway Law, § 125, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2253.]

§ 7. SUBMISSION OF MAPS, PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS TO DISTRICT OR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

The commission shall cause the preliminary maps, plans and specifications for either a state or county highway, or a copy thereof, to be presented to the district or county superintendent of the district or county in which such highway or section thereof is situated, who shall personally examine the highway or section thereof and the proposed maps, plans and specifications, and shall recommend any modification thereof which in his judgment seems to be necessary and shall report thereon within fifteen days to the commission. He shall also take such other action in respect thereto as may be required by law or by the commission.[2] [Highway Law, § 126, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2253.]

§ 8. ACTION OF COMMISSION IN RESPECT TO MAPS, PLANS, SPECIFICATIONS AND ESTIMATES.

Upon receiving the report of the district or county superintendent, as provided in the preceding section, the commission shall finally adopt the maps, plans, specifications and estimates which are to be used for the construction or improvement of the state or county highway to be constructed or improved. If such highway be a state highway the commission shall thereupon proceed to advertise and award contracts for the construction or improvement thereof as provided in section one hundred and thirty. If such highway be a county highway the commission shall transmit such plans, specifications and estimates as adopted by them to the board of supervisors of the county from which the resolution proceeded, together with their certificate approving the construction or improvement of the highway or section thereof designated in such resolution. [Highway Law, § 127; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2254.]

2. See, also, as to duty of commission in respect to final plans, specifications and estimates for state and county highways, Highway Law, sec. 15, subd. 11, ante. The determination of the details of the route of a state highway is vested in the state commissioner of highways and not in the town or county officers. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1912), vol. 2, p. 225.

§ 9. FINAL RESOLUTION OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The board of supervisors, after the receipt of plans, specifications and estimate of a county highway or section thereof, and after such modification thereof as may be made by a majority vote of such board, with the consent of the commission, may approve such plans, specifications and estimate, and adopt a resolution requesting that such county highway or section thereof be constructed or improved under the provisions of this article, in accordance therewith. In the case of a county highway or a section thereof which divides two or more counties, such resolution must be separately adopted by the board of supervisors of each county within which a portion of such highway lies. The form of such resolution shall be prescribed by the commission and shall contain the matter required by this article to be inserted therein. Immediately upon the adoption of such resolution the clerk of the board of supervisors shall transmit a certified copy thereof to the commission. When a board of supervisors has once adopted a resolution providing for the construction or improvement of a highway or a section thereof in accordance with such plans and specifications, no resolution thereafter adopted by such board shall rescind or annul such prior resolution either directly or indirectly, excepting under the advice and with the consent of the commission. Notwithstanding the adoption of such a resolution, the commission may modify such plans, specifications and estimate, prior to the award of a contract therefor and, upon the approval thereof by the board of supervisors as above provided, such highway or section thereof shall be constructed or improved in accordance with such plans, specifications and estimate.[2a] [Highway Law, § 128, as amended by L. 1909, ch. 240; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2254.]

§ 10. ORDER OF CONSTRUCTION OF COUNTY HIGHWAYS.

Upon the receipt of such resolution the commission shall proceed with the improvement or construction of such county highway as provided in this article. The construction and improvement of such county highways and sections thereof shall be taken up and carried forward within a county in the consecutive order as determined by the date of the receipt by the commission in each case of the certified copy of the final resolution, so far as is practicable in the opinion of the commission. No such highway shall be placed upon the list of highways to be constructed or improved nor receive a consecutive number on such list, unless such resolution shall appropriate and make immediately available for such con-

§ 11. CONTRACTS FOR CONSTRUCTION OR IMPROVEMENT OF WAYS.

State and county highways shall be constructed or improved by contract. Upon the completion and final adoption or approval, as provided by law, of the plans, specifications and estimate for the construction or improvement of a state or county highway, contracts therefor shall be executed as provided herein.

1. Advertising for proposals.—The commission shall advertise for proposals for the construction or improvement of such highways or sections thereof according to the plans, specifications and estimate prepared therefor. The advertisement shall be limited to a brief description of the work proposed to be done, with an announcement stating where the maps, plans, specifications and estimate may be seen, the terms and conditions under which proposals will be received, the time and place where the same will be opened, and such other matters as the commission may deem advisable to include therein. Such advertisement shall be published at least once in each week for two successive weeks in a newspaper published at the county seat of the county in which such highway or section thereof is to be constructed or improved, and in such other newspapers as the commission may designate. If no newspaper is published at such county seat, then the publication of the advertisement shall be in such newspaper or newspapers within the county as the commission may select. If no newspaper is published in the county, the publication of the advertisement shall be in such newspaper or newspapers in an adjoining county as may be selected by the commission.[2b] [Subd. amended by L. 1917, ch. 261.]

2. Proposals.—Each proposal shall specify the gross sum for which the work will be performed and shall also include the amount to be charged for each item specified in the estimate. The commission may prescribe and furnish forms for the submission of such proposals and may prescribe the manner of submitting the same which shall not be inconsistent herewith. The proposals when opened shall be subject at all reasonable times to public inspection, and at the time of opening shall be publicly read, and conspicuously posted in such a manner as to indicate the several items of the proposal.[2c]

2b. Specifications for improvement of state and county highways should be prepared and finally adopted before advertising for proposals. Rept. of Atty. Genl., May 5, 1911.

2c. Proposal changing specifications. Where a proposal for the construction of a section of State or county highway according to specifications is accompanied by a letter modifying or changing the specifications as to kind of material proposed to be used, though of the same kind of construction, such proposal or bid is not entitled to compete with other bids which are strictly according to the specifications. Rept. of Atty. Genl., May 5, 1911.

3. Award of contracts.—The contract for the construction or improvement of such highway or section thereof shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, except that no contract shall be awarded at a greater sum than that required for the work alone as shown in the estimate made for the construction or improvement of such highway or section thereof in accordance with such plans and specifications. The lowest bid shall be deemed to be that which specifically states the lowest gross sum for which the entire work will be performed, including all the items specified in the estimate therefor. [Subd. amended by L. 1917, ch. 261.]

4. Estimates may be amended.—If no proposal otherwise acceptable is made within the estimate accompanying the plans and specifications, the commission may cause the estimate to be amended. If the highway to be constructed or improved is a county highway the commission shall certify the amended estimate to the board of supervisors and the board shall take action thereon as in a case where plans, specifications and estimates are originally submitted to a board of supervisors. Upon the amendment of such estimate, and its approval by the board of supervisors in case of a county highway, the commission may proceed anew to obtain proposals and award the contract as provided in this section.

5. Rejection of proposals.—The commission may reject any or all proposals and may advertise for new proposals as above provided if, in their opinion, the best interests of the state will thereby be promoted.[2d]

6. Form of contract.—The commission shall prescribe the form of contract and may include therein such matters as they may deem advantageous to the state. Such forms shall be uniform so far as may be.

7. Bond of contractor.—Each contractor, before entering into a contract for such construction or improvement, shall execute a bond in the form prescribed by the commission, with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the commission, conditioned that he will perform the work in accordance with the terms of the contract, and with the plans and specifications, and that he will commence and complete the work within the time prescribed in the contract. Such bond shall also provide against any direct or indirect damages that shall be suffered or claimed on account of such construction or improvement during the time thereof, and until the highway is accepted.

Alternate bids should not be invited on different classes of construction for improvement of the same section of highway; the kind of construction should be finally determined before advertising for bids. Rept. of Atty. Genl., May 5, 1911.

2d. The power of the Commissioner to reject bids is discretionary, but should be exercised for the benefit of the state. Rept. of Atty. Genl., March 22, 1911.

He may cancel an uncompleted contract, if the work is not being done in full accord with the terms of the contract and the specifications. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1912), vol. 2, p. 567.

The Commissioner of Highways has authority to reject the lowest bids and award the contract to the next lowest bidder, or may reject all the bids and

8. Payments on contract.—The contract may provide for partial payments to an amount not exceeding ninety per centum of the value of the work done, which shall be paid in the manner provided by this article when certified to by the commission. Ten per centum of the contract price shall be retained until the entire work has been completed and accepted.[2e]

9. Contingencies.—All contingencies arising during the prosecution of the work shall be provided for to the satisfaction of the commission and as may be agreed upon in the original or by a supplemental contract executed by the commission; the amount to be expended shall not exceed the original estimate, unless such estimate shall have been duly amended by the commission and, in the case of a county highway, submitted to the board of supervisors for its approval. If a supplemental contract be executed by the commission for the performance of work or furnishing of material not provided for in the original contract, the amount to be charged thereunder for any such work or material shall not exceed the rate for which similar work or material was agreed to be performed or furnished under the original bid upon which the contract was awarded. Such supplemental contract shall not be binding unless it be approved by the commission in case of a state highway and in case of a county highway, by the chairman of the board of supervisors and the district or county superintendent. [Highway Law, § 130; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2255.]

readvertise the work, and may adopt whichever course is deemed for the best interest of the State, but the course to be pursued in that respect is one of policy, the responsibility therefor resting upon the Highway Department. Atty. Genl. Opin., 6 State Dep. Rep. 413 (1915).

Where a contractor has defaulted in performing several contracts, his bid on another contract, although the lowest, may be rejected. Atty. Genl. Opin., 6 State Dep. Rep. 413 (1915).

2e. The State Commissioner of Highways may pay over the balance of the money due upon a contract to the assignee thereof, unless conflicting claims are made to it, notwithstanding the fact that the contractor refuses to enter into or sign a special agreement covering the changes made in the contract. Atty. Genl. Opin., 6 State Dep. Rep. 491 (1916).

Retention of ten per cent. of contract price. The provision of this subdivision that "ten percentum of the contract price shall be retained until the entire work has been completed and accepted" is mandatory, and a contractor cannot be paid any portion of such amount until his contract has been finally completed and the road accepted. Atty. Genl. Opin., 6 State Dep. Rep. 428 (1915).

§ 12. AWARD OF CONTRACTS TO BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OR TOWN BOARD.

A board of supervisors of a county, or a town board of a town, in which any portion of a state or county highway is situated, may present proposals and be awarded a contract for the construction or improvement of such highway, as provided in this article, for and on behalf of such county or town. If such contract be awarded to a board of supervisors or a town board such board shall, by resolution, designate some suitable person or persons to carry into effect, on behalf of the town, such contract, and transact all business in respect thereto as may be necessary. A member of the board of supervisors or town board at the time such contract was awarded or such designation was made, or a person who is a partner of, or a stockholder in the same corporation as that of such member, shall not be so designated. A member of the board of supervisors or town board at the time such designation was made, or a firm, corporation or association of which he is a member or has an interest, shall not be directly or indirectly interested in any such contract nor shall such member, or such firm, corporation or association furnish materials or perform labor or services, either directly or indirectly, under or in connection with the performance of any of the work required in accordance with such contract, nor shall such member, firm or corporation or association, be paid for materials furnished or services rendered in respect to such contract. The clerk of the board of supervisors or the town clerk shall transmit a certified copy of the resolution designating the person or persons to carry into effect such contract to the commission prior to the awarding of a contract to the board of supervisors or town board. The person or persons so designated shall, before the contract is executed, give an undertaking to the county or town, with sureties to be approved by the commission and the board of supervisors or town board, for an amount equal to at least twenty-five per centum of the face of the contract. Such undertaking shall be conditioned on the faithful performance of their duties in respect to such contract and for the proper accounting, safe-keeping and lawful disbursement of all moneys that may come into their hands thereunder. Such undertaking shall be filed in the office of the county or town clerk and a copy thereof shall be transmitted to the commission. The person or persons so designated shall thereupon be competent to receive all moneys payable under such contract under the provisions of this article, and they shall account therefor to the county or town. The board of supervisors or town board, after such contract is awarded, shall designate, by resolution, a banking corporation or a trust company wherein the moneys received under such contract shall be deposited. Such bank or trust company shall, upon the request of the board of supervisors or town board, make a statement of the money so deposited. The commission shall, by rules and regulations, prescribe the manner in which the moneys received under such contract shall be expended and the forms of accounts be kept by the person or persons designated as above provided; and where convict labor is used, as hereinafter provided, an account shall be kept of the items incurred daily for maintenance of convicts and compensation of other laborers, if any. Reports may be required by the commission from time to time from such person or persons.

When a contract is entered into under the provisions of this section, the board undertaking thereby to construct or improve a highway or section thereof, may, by resolution, direct the person or persons designated for carrying out the contract to apply to the superintendent of state prisons for convict labor, in the construction of such highway or section thereof. The resolution shall specify the maximum number of convicts to be applied for, for such work. Such designated person or persons shall make request, in writing, to the superintendent of state prisons for convict labor, in conformity to the provisions of such resolution, such request to be accompanied with a copy of such resolution. A copy of such resolution and of such request shall also be filed with the commission. The superintendent may detail for labor, pursuant to such resolution and request, such number of convicts as may be available therefor, not exceeding the number applied for. Such convicts shall be in the immediate charge and custody of the officers and guards detailed by the superintendent of state prisons, and at all times subject to the control of such superintendent, except that the work to be done shall be directed by the engineers and foremen of the state highway department. The expense of maintenance of such convicts shall be paid by the county or town entering into such contract from funds due thereon, to such municipality. A county or town may purchase machinery and tools for the construction of a highway or section thereof, under any such contract, out of moneys to be paid thereon, within the estimates for such items contained in the proposals at the time of the letting of the contract, but such machinery and tools shall be the property of the state, and after the completion of the work shall be subject to disposal or to any lawful use by the commission. Moneys realized from selling or renting any such used machinery or tools shall be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the highway fund. Any such used machinery or tools may be loaned by the commission, if requested, for construction of a highway or section thereof, by a county or town, by contract under this section, to be kept in repair and operated at the expense of the county or town with moneys payable under the contract.

If a county or town shall construct a highway or section thereof, by contract as above provided, for a lesser sum than the contract price, as the same shall appear from the accounts and reports herein provided for, the county or town, as the case may be, shall be paid only the amount of the actual cost of such construction, paid or incurred, and the surplus shall remain in the state treasury and continue available for any state or county highway construction for which the same may have been or shall be appropriated. [Highway Law, § 131, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 60, and L. 1918, ch. 328; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2257.]

§ 13. RESPONSIBILITY OF COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS FOR THE PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACTS FOR CONSTRUCTION OR IMPROVEMENT OF STATE AND COUNTY HIGHWAYS; SUSPENSION OF WORK UNDER CONTRACT; COMPLETION BY COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS.

The performance of every contract for the construction or improvement of a state or county highway shall be under the supervision and control of the commissioner of highways, and it shall be his duty to see that every such contract is performed in accordance with the provisions of the contract and with the plans and specifications forming a part thereof. For such purpose, the commissioner of highways, shall have the direction and control of the deputies, secretary, division engineers, officers, clerks and employees of the commission. If the commissioner of highways shall determine that the work upon any contract for the construction or improvement, maintenance, repair or reconstruction, of a state or county highway, is not being performed according to the contract or for the best interests of the state, the execution of the work by the contractor may be temporarily suspended by the commissioner of highways, who may then proceed with the work under his own direction in such manner as will accord with the contract specifications and be for the best interests of the state; or he may cancel the contract and either readvertise and relet as provided in section one hundred and thirty, or complete the work under his own direction in such manner as will accord with the contract specifications and be for the best interests of the state. Any excess in the cost of completing the contract beyond the price for which it was originally awarded shall be charged to and paid by the contractor failing to perform the work. Every contract for the construction or improvement, maintenance, repair or reconstruction of a state or county highway shall reserve to the commission the right to suspend or cancel the contract as above provided, and to complete the work thereunder or readvertise and relet as the commission may determine.

In the case of a contract for the construction or improvement, other than maintenance, repair or reconstruction, of a state or county highway executed under the provisions of this chapter prior to January first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, the state commissioner of highways shall, upon the written request of the contractor and the surety company on the bond accompanying such contract, suspend or defer operations on any portion or portions of such contract on which no work has been performed except the installation of culverts and proper backfill, or the installation of curbs or other structures which do not interfere with such portion of the highway for traffic purposes, and he may also upon like request suspend or defer operations on any portion or portions which have been partially completed, where it is shown to the satisfaction of the commissioner of highways that work cannot proceed on such portion or portions either because there is no market supply of certain necessary materials or because lack of transportation facilities renders it impossible to obtain such materials; provided that the contractor before the suspension of such work shall place such partially completed portion or portions in a suitable condition for traffic and shall agree that the state department of highways may, during the period of suspension, maintain such portion or portions in a proper condition for traffic, the expense thereof to be paid from moneys appropriated for such contract and to be a charge against the contractor and to be deducted from any moneys which may be due or hereafter become due the contractor under such contract.

It is further provided that such contractor and surety company shall, in connection with any such suspension, enter into a written agreement with the commissioner, whereby it shall be stipulated and agreed that the acceptance of, and full payment for, all the work performed within the completion points designated, as hereinafter provided, by the commissioner, shall in no way change or alter the terms of the contract or the obligations of the contractor or of the surety company on the bond accompanying said contract with regard to proceeding to the completion of the remainder of the contract; except that upon the acceptance in the manner herein provided of the completed portion of any contract, the amount of the bond accompanying such contract shall, from the date of such acceptance of such completed portion, be reduced to such an amount as will equal fifty per centum of the value of the work remaining to be performed under such contract, such value to be determined by applying to the quantities of work to be performed the item prices therefor contained in the contract. Such work of completion, however, shall not, except by mutual consent of the parties to the agreement, begin upon a date earlier than March first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, unless the war in which the United States is now engaged shall have terminated prior thereto by the signing of peace terms, and in that event not earlier than the date of such signing. In case the war shall not have terminated by the signing of such terms of peace on or before March first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, then the commissioner may extend the commencemnt of the completion of such contract to March first, nineteen hundred and twenty, but no longer. Should peace terms be signed during the period of suspension as above authorized, such suspension may thereupon be terminated by the commissioner by the service of a written notice upon the contractor and his surety company directing the resumption of work within sixty days after such service.

The commissioner of highways is hereby authorized and empowered to enter into such an agreement and to accept as finally completed, and to order full payment for, all work embraced in such contract within such points as shall be designated by the commissioner for such acceptance, if within such points all work provided by the contract is fully performed, notwithstanding the provision for the retention of ten per centum of the contract price required under section one hundred and thirty, subdivision eight of this chapter.

All of the provisions of this section relating to the suspension of contracts upon the joint request of the contractor and the surety company, shall apply in like manner upon the written request of the surety company only, with regard to a contract which shall hereafter be abrogated or cancelled upon failure of the contractor to perform, except the provision relating to the payment of the retained percentage, which percentage shall be retained until the final completion of the entire contract.

In the case of such a suspension of operations under a contract in which there is provision for the maintenance of the road by the contractor for a period of three years from the final completion and acceptance of the entire contract with a bond executed by a surety company guaranteeing such maintenance, the operation of such guarantee clause shall commence immediately upon the acceptance of the completed portion or portions of the road and shall be in full force and operation over such portion or portions for the specified period of three years from the date of such acceptance. The provisions of article seven of this chapter, relative to maintenance and repair, shall apply to such portion or portions of any contract as may be completed and accepted as hereinbefore provided in this section.

The provisions of sections one hundred and thirty-three and one hundred and thirty-four of this chapter, relative to the final acceptance of fully completed contracts, shall apply with respect to the acceptance of portions of contracts under this section.

The town superintendent of a town within which is located the portion of a highway which is included in such a partially completed contract, but upon which portion no work has been performed by the contractor except the installation of culverts with proper backfill and the completion of which has been suspended, deferred or extended as hereinbefore provided in this section, is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to keep and maintain the same in a good and passable condition in the same manner as other town highways are kept and maintained; such portion of highway being deemed during the period of such suspension a town highway for the purposes of maintenance and upkeep, the jurisdiction and authority of the town superintendent over such highway to cease when work is resumed by the contractor upon such portion, provided, however, that the work to be performed by the town superintendent shall be of a surface nature only. [Highway Law, § 132, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, L. 1913, ch. 517, and L. 1918, ch. 413; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2259.]

§ 14. ACCEPTANCE OF STATE HIGHWAY WHEN COMPLETED.

Upon the completion of a state highway or section thereof constructed or improved under a contract let as provided in this article, the division engineer shall inspect the same and if it be completed as provided in the contract, he shall thereupon so report to the commission, which shall, if it approve, notify the county or district superintendent of the county in which the road is located, in writing, that it will accept the work within twenty days from the date of such notice, unless protest in writing be filed by such county or district superintendent. In case a protest is filed the commission shall hear the same and if it is sustained then it shall delay the acceptance of the highway or section thereof until the same is properly completed. In case no protest is filed the highway or section thereof shall at the expiration of said twenty days be deemed finally completed and accepted and shall thereafter be maintained as provided in this chapter.[2f] [Highway Law, § 133, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, and L. 1915, ch. 548; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2259.]

§ 15. ACCEPTANCE OF COUNTY HIGHWAY.

Upon the completion of a county highway or section thereof, constructed or improved under a contract let as provided in this article, the division engineer shall inspect the same and if it be completed as provided in the contract he shall thereupon so report to the commission,

Where liens are filed against contractors between the time of issuance of requisition upon the state comptroller for final estimate but before the delivery of the state treasurer's check to the contractor, such check should be held until the liens are discharged. which shall, if it approve, notify, in writing, the county or district superintendent and the board of supervisors of the county in which such highway or section thereof is located that it will accept the highway within twenty days from the date of such notice unless protest in writing be filed with the commission by such district or county superintendent or by the board of supervisors.[2g] In case a protest is filed, the commission shall hear the same, and if it is sustained, the commission shall delay the acceptance of the highway or section thereof until it be properly completed. In case no protest is filed, the highway or section thereof shall at the expiration of the said twenty days be deemed finally completed and accepted on behalf of the county and the state, and shall thereafter be maintained as provided in this chapter.[3] [Highway Law, § 134, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, and L. 1916, ch. 460; B. C & G. Cons. L., p. 2259.]

§ 16. ENTRY UPON ADJACENT LANDS FOR DRAINAGE PURPOSES.

Lands adjacent to a state or county highway may be entered upon and occupied for the purpose of opening or constructing a drain or ditch so as to properly drain such highway:

1. By a contractor, or any of his agents or employees, when directed by the commission, during the construction or improvement of such highway.

2. By the commission or its duly authorized officers, agents or employees, at any time, for the purpose of making surveys for such drain or ditch.

2g. Waiver of twenty day period.—A resolution by the board of supervisors waiving the twenty-day period prescribed by this section after receiving notice of the completion of the work on a county highway, is not alone sufficient to warrant the immediate acceptance of the work and payment of the contract price by the State Highway Commission.

3. In order that the board of supervisors may be properly informed as to the progress of the work it is provided by Highway Law, sec. 33, subd. 9, ante, that the district or county superintendent shall inspect the work during the construction and certify to the board as to the progress thereof.

Acceptance of a highway may be revoked by the State Commissioner of highways at any time before the final account is paid, where such acceptance was procured through fraud, mistake, concealment or misrepresentations. Atty. Genl. Opin., 4 State Dep. Rep. 547 (1915). But where the work has been done according to contract and payment made, and no fraud exists, the commissioner cannot revoke or rescind the acceptance of a highway. Atty. Genl. Opin., 5 State Dep. Rep. 451 (1915).

3. By the commission, or its duly authorized officers, agents or employees, or by a county, district or town superintendent, when directed by the commission, after the completion and acceptance of the highway for the purpose of opening, constructing or maintaining ditches or drains upon such lands, necessary for the proper maintenance of such highway. [Highway Law, § 135; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2260.]

§ 17. DAMAGES FOR ENTRY.

The commission may agree with the owner of lands entered upon and occupied as provided in the preceding section for the payment of damages caused by such entry, or if unable to so agree the right to enter and occupy such lands may be acquired and the damages therefor shall be ascertained as provided in the condemnation law. Such damages shall, in the case of a state highway, be paid out of moneys available for the construction or improvement of such highway, and in the case of a county highway shall be a county charge and paid in the same manner as other county charges. [Highway Law, § 136; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2260.]

§ 18. STATE AND COUNTY HIGHWAYS IN VILLAGES.

A state or county highway may be constructed through a village, unless the street through which it runs has, in the opinion of the commission, been so improved or paved as to form a continuous and improved highway of sufficient permanence as not to warrant its reconstruction, in which case such highway shall be constructed or improved to the place where such paved or improved street begins. A state or county highway within a village shall be of the same width and type of construction as the highway outside of the village which connects with the highway within the village, unless a greater width or different type of construction is desired by the municipality, in which case the board of trustees of such village shall by resolution petition the commission to provide the width and type of construction desired. The additional expense caused by the increased width or different type of construction or both shall be borne wholly by the village. The commission shall, in its discretion, upon receipt of such petition, if filed prior to the advertisement for bids, provide for the width and type of construction described in such petition. Whenever the commission shall have approved such a village petition the plans, specifications and estimates of cost, together with an estimate showing the additional cost to be borne by the village, to provide for the greater width or different type of construction or both, shall be submitted to the board of trustees who, if it approve such plans, specifications and estimate of cost, shall by resolution appropriate the funds necessary to provide for the portion of the cost of construction to be borne by the village. Such fund shall, prior to the award of the contract, be deposited by the village with the state comptroller subject to the draft or requisition of the state commission of highways, and a certified copy of the resolution shall be filed with the commission. The moneys so required shall be raised by tax or from the issue and sale of bonds as provided in the village law. Upon the completion of a highway within a village where a portion of the cost is borne by the village the commission shall transmit to the board of trustees a statement showing the actual cost of the additional width or changed construction including a proportionate charge for engineering, and shall notify the village clerk that it will accept the work within twenty days from the date of such notice, unless protest in writing against the acceptance shall be filed by such clerk with the commission. In case a protest is filed the commission shall hear the same and if it is sustained the commission shall delay the acceptance of the highway or section thereof until the same be properly completed. If no protest is filed the highway or section thereof shall at the expiration of the said twenty days be deemed finally completed and accepted on behalf of the village and the state, and shall thereafter be maintained in the manner provided in this chapter for the maintenance and repair of state and county highways. The provisions of the village law, special village charters and other general or special laws relative to the pavement or improvement of streets and the assessment and payment of the cost thereof shall apply, as far as may be, to such additional construction and the assessment and payment of the cost thereof, except that the provisions of any general or local act affecting the pavement or improvement of streets or avenues in any village and requiring the owners, or any of the owners, of the frontage on a street to consent to the improvement or pavement thereof, or requiring a hearing to be given to the persons who, or whose premises, are subject to assessment, upon the question of doing such paving or making such improvement shall not apply to the portion of the improvement or pavement of a state or county highway the expense for which is required to be paid by the village to the state.

The provisions of this act shall not prevent the improvement by state aid under the statute as it existed prior to the passage of this act, of streets in cities of the second and third class, where, prior to the passage of this act, highway numbers had been assigned as provided by article six of this act; nor shall the provisions of this act prevent the improvement in such cities of streets heretofore petitioned for and approved, in cases where the proposed improvement of each street does not exceed one and one-half miles in length; but the total mileage of all such streets not exceeding one and one-half miles in length, shall not in the aggregate exceed four miles.

Wherever plans for such improvement in a city of the second class have been approved and a highway number assigned, and the work is ready for contract as hereinbefore described and the common council of such city has appropriated and made available the city's share of the cost of such improvement, the city treasurer of such city is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow a sufficient amount in anticipation of the collection thereof, and to pledge the faith and credit of the city for the payment of such amount when due, with interest, and is further authorized, empowered and directed to deposit such moneys with the state comptroller in the same manner as is provided by this section with regard to the improvement of village streets.[4] [Highway Law, § 137, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 233, L. 1911, ch. 88, L. 1912, ch. 88, L. 1913, chs. 131, 319, and L. 1916, ch. 571.]

§ 18a. STATE AND COUNTY HIGHWAYS IN CERTAIN CITIES OF THE SECOND AND THIRD CLASS.

A state or county highway may be constructed through a city of the second or third class situated in a county containing over three hundred thousand inhabitants if at least two cities in such county adjoin a city of

Liability of municipality for proportonate share of cost. Where a board of supervisors has charged back to a town included therein fifteen per cent. of the cost of constructing a state road built pursuant to L. 1898, ch. 115, an incorporated village situated within the town, or a city so situated where the city has subsequently become incorporated as such, is liable for its proportionate part of the fifteen per cent., although at the time the road was built the village formed a separate road district and maintained its streets at its own expense without contribution from the town at large. the first class containing over two million inhabitants, unless the street through which it runs has, in the opinion of the commission, been so improved or paved as to form a continuous and improved highway of sufficient permanence as not to warrant its reconstruction, in which case, if the commission approve, such highway shall be constructed or improved to the place where such paved or improved street begins, but not more than fifty per centum of money appropriated by the state, and now or hereafter available for the construction of state or county highways in such county, shall be applied to the construction of a state or county highway through a city of the second or third class in such county. A state or county highway within such a city shall be of the same width and type of construction as the highway outside of such city which connects with the highway within such city, unless a greater width or different type of construction is desired by the municipality, in which case the board of aldermen or common council of such city shall by resolution petition the commission to provide the width and type of construction desired. The additional expense caused by the increased width or different type of construction or both shall be borne wholly by such city. The commission shall in its discretion upon receipt of such petition, if filed prior to the advertisement for bids, provide for the width and type of construction described in such petition. Whenever the commission shall have approved such a city petition the plans, specifications and estimates of cost, together with an estimate showing the additional cost to be borne by such city to provide for the greater width or different type of construction or both shall be submitted to the board of aldermen or common council who, if it approve such plans, specifications and estimate of cost, shall by resolution appropriate the funds necessary to provide for the portion of the cost of construction to be borne by such city. Such fund shall prior to the award of the contract be deposited by such city with the state comptroller subject to the draft or requisition of the state commission of highways, and a certified copy of the resolution shall be filed with the commission. The moneys so required shall be raised by tax or from the issue and sale of bonds as provided by the general or special act governing bond issues and taxation in any such city. Upon the completion of such state or county highway within such city of the second or third class, where a portion of the cost is borne by such city, the commission shall transmit to the board of aldermen or common council a statement showing the actual cost of the additional width or changed construction including a proportionate charge for engineering, and shall notify the city clerk that it will accept the work within twenty days from the date of such notice unless protest in writing against the acceptance shall be filed by such clerk with the commission. In case a protest is filed the commission shall hear the same and if it is sustained the commission shall delay the acceptance of the highway or section thereof until the same be properly completed. If no protest is filed the highway or section thereof shall at the expiration of said twenty days be deemed finally completed and accepted on behalf of such city and the state. The provisions of the general city law, special city charters and other general or special laws relative to the pavement or improvement of streets and the assessment and payment of the cost thereof shall apply as far as may be to such additional construction and the assessment and payment of the cost thereof, except that the provisions of any general or local act affecting the pavement or improvement of streets or avenues in any such city and requiring the owners or any of the owners of the frontage on a street to consent to the improvement or pavement thereof, or requiring a hearing to be given to the persons who or whose premises are subject to assessment upon the question of doing such paving or making such improvement shall not apply to the portion of the improvement or pavement of a state or county highway the expense for which is required to be paid by such city to the state. Such street so improved shall thereafter be maintained at the expense of the municipality within which such street or part thereof is situated. [Highway Law, § 137a, as added by L. 1918, ch. 386.]

§ 19. CONNECTING HIGHWAYS IN VILLAGES.

The board of trustees of a village may, by resolution, petition the commission for the construction or improvement of a highway to connect streets or highways within the village which have been paved or improved with county highways which have been heretofore built under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifteen of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, and the acts amendatory thereof.[2a] If in the judgment of the commission public convenience requires the construction or improvement of such connecting highway, the commission shall cause plans, specifications and estimates to be prepared, and shall cause the same to be transmitted to the board of supervisors of the county wherein such highway is situated. The board of supervisors shall thereupon adopt a resolution providing for such construction or improvement as provided in this article. The payment of the cost of such construction or improvement shall be provided for in such resolution and such payment shall be made in the same manner as provided for other county highways. A certified copy of such resolution shall be filed in the office of the commission. The construction or improvement of such connecting highway shall then be taken up in the order and manner provided in this article for the construction or improvement of county highways. If it is desired to construct or improve any portion of such a connecting highway at a width greater than that provided for in the plans and specifications therefor, or if a modification of such plans and specifications is desired by which the cost thereof will be increased, the board of trustees of the village shall proceed as in the preceding section to secure such a modification of the plans and specifications as will provide for such desired construction. The provisions of the preceding section shall apply in like manner to the connecting highway to be constructed or improved as provided in this section.

The provisions of this act shall not prevent the improvement by state aid under the statute as it existed prior to the passage of this act, of streets in cities of the second and third class, where, prior to the passage of this act, highway numbers had been assigned as provided by article six of this act; nor shall the provisions of this act prevent the improvement in such cities of streets heretofore petitioned for and approved in cases where the proposed improvement of each street does not exceed one and one-half miles in length; but the total mileage of all such streets not exceeding one and one-half miles in length shall not in the aggregate exceed four miles.

Wherever plans for such improvement in a city of the second class have been approved and a highway number assigned, and the work is ready for contract as hereinbefore described and the common council of such city has appropriated and made available the city's share of the cost of such improvement, the city treasurer of such city is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow a sufficient amount in anticipation of the collection thereof, and to pledge the faith and credit of the city for the payment of such amount when due, with interest, and is further authorized, empowered and directed to deposit such moneys with the state comptroller in the same manner as is provided by this section with regard to the improvement of village streets. [Highway Law, § 138, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 88, L. 1912, ch. 88, and L. 1916, ch. 570; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2261.]

§ 19a. STATE AND COUNTY HIGHWAYS OF ADDITIONAL WIDTH AND INCREASED COST AT EXPENSE OF TOWN.

Whenever the commission shall have determined upon the construction or improvement of a state or county highway or section thereof and it is desired by any town in which such proposed highway is situated to construct or improve the same at a greater width or in a manner involving greater cost, or both, than that provided in the plans and specifications as prepared by the commission, the town board may petition the commission for an estimate of the additional cost of constructing or improving the same to a width or in a manner, or both, as desired by such board. The commission shall as soon as practicable make an estimate of such additional cost and transmit the same to the town board, and the town board may thereupon by resolution petition the commission to provide the width and type of construction desired. The additional expense caused by the increased width or different type of construction, or both, shall be borne wholly by the town. The commission shall, in its discretion, upon receipt of such resolution, if filed prior to the advertisement for bids, provide for the width and type of construction described in such resolution. Whenever the commission shall have approved such a resolution the plans, specifications and estimate of cost shall be submitted to the town board, who, if it approve such plans, specifications and estimate of cost shall, by resolution, duly adopted by a vote of a majority of all the members of such board, appropriate the funds necessary to provide for the portion of the cost of construction to be borne by the town. Such funds shall, prior to the award of the contract, be deposited by the town with the state comptroller, subject to the draft or requisition of the state commission of highways, and a certified copy of the resolution shall be filed with the commission.

If the town board adopts a proposition to raise such funds by the issue and sale of town bonds the bonds may be issued and sold in the manner prescribed in section one hundred and forty-two of this chapter. Upon the completion of the highway within a town where a portion of the cost is borne by the town the commission shall transmit to the town board a statement showing the actual cost of the additional width or changed construction including a proportionate charge for engineering and shall notify the town clerk that it will accept the work within twenty days from the date of such notice unless protest in writing against the acceptance shall be filed by such clerk with the commission. In case a protest is filed the commission shall hear the same and if it is sustained the commission shall delay the acceptance of the highway or section thereof until the same be properly completed. If no protest is filed the highway or section thereof shall at the expiration of the said twenty days be deemed finally completed and accepted on behalf of the town and the state and shall thereafter be maintained in the manner provided in this chapter for maintenance and repair of state and county highways. [Highway Law, § 138a, as added by L. 1911, ch. 375, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 461.]

§ 20. RESOLUTION TO PROVIDE FOR RAISING MONEY.

The resolution of the board of supervisors providing for the construction or improvement of a county highway or section thereof shall appropriate and make immediately available to the requisition of the commission an amount sufficient to pay the share of the cost of such construction or improvement which is to be borne by the county within which such highway or section thereof is located. [Highway Law, § 139, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 247, and L. 1911, ch. 83.]

§ 21. MODIFYING METHOD OF PAYMENT.

If a resolution has been heretofore adopted by a board of supervisors requesting the state to pay the entire cost of the construction or improvement of a county highway in the first instance and that the state charge the county and town or towns annually with their share of the interest and sinking fund, as provided in chapter four hundred and sixty-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred six, and the acts amendatory thereof, such board of supervisors may adopt a resolution rescinding such prior resolution and appropriating and making immediately available an amount sufficient to pay the share of the cost of the construction or improvement of such highway. The clerk of the board of supervisors shall transmit certified copies of such resolution to the commission and the state comptroller. If such prior resolution shall not be so rescinded it shall have the same force and effect which it had prior to the amendment of this section. The adoption of a resolution modifying the method of payment of the share of the county and town or towns shall not affect or change the date of the filing of the original resolution providing for the construction or improvement of such highway nor alter in any way the order of construction determined by the date of the filing of the original resolution.

Wherever a board of supervisors has in the past by resolution requested, and the state has paid, the entire cost of the construction or improvement of a county highway, the board of supervisors of a county wherein any such highway is located may, by resolution, provide for the payment of such share of the cost so advanced by the state towards the construction of such county highway, and said board of supervisors is hereby authorized to appropriate and make immediately available an amount sufficient to pay to the state the share due to the state on account of the construction and improvement of such highways. If any board of supervisors shall pass such resolution providing for the payment to the state of the moneys so advanced the said board of supervisors shall have the power and authority to borrow the moneys necessary to make such payment, and in case there is due to the county any sum of money from the town in which said county highway is located, the said town is also authorized to borrow and appropriate its share of the cost of such county highway to the county treasurer of the county in which said highway is located.

All moneys paid to the state pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be deposited by the comptroller with the state treasurer to the credit of the highway improvement fund, from which fund the said moneys so advanced to said counties were originally taken, and may be used by the state commission of highways in the construction of state and county highways in any county or counties designated by the state commission of highways. [Highway Law, § 140, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 247, and L. 1915, ch. 400.]

§ 22. DIVISION OF COST OF COUNTY HIGHWAYS; PAYMENT BY COUNTY TREASURER.

Whenever the construction or improvement of a county highway or section thereof under a contract shall be completed and final payment therefor shall have been made the commission shall prepare a statement of the cost of such construction or improvement, including engineering expenses, inspection and all charges and expenses properly chargeable thereto, showing in detail the date of each payment, and the purpose and amount of such payment. Such payments shall be grouped as far as practicable by dates and the total thus obtained shall be deemed the cost of such construction or improvement, and a certified copy of said statement shall be filed by the commission in the office of the comptroller. If a county highway or section thereof so constructed or improved shall be situate in two or more counties, the commission shall apportion such expense to such counteis according to the cost of such construction or improvement in each of such counties. Such statement when audited and approved by the comptroller shall be filed in his office and shall be final, and a duplicate thereof shall be filed with the county treasurer of each county wherein the highway or section thereof has been improved. If the board of supervisors of any county shall have theretofore provided funds to pay two per centum of the cost of such county highway as thus determined, for each one thousand dollars of assessed valuation of real and personal property liable to taxation in said county for each mile of public highway within such county to be ascertained and determined by dividing the total assessed valuation of taxable property in said county as equalized for state purposes by the total mileage of highways in said county, exclusive of the streets and highways within any incorporated city or village in said county, but not exceeding thirty-five per centum of the cost for the county as shown by such statement, it shall be the duty of the county treasurer to pay the amount thereof upon the requisition of the commission and thereafter the county shall be deemed to be fully discharged of its obligation to the state on account of the construction or improvement of such county highway, except the obligation to pay their proportionate amount of the state tax for the state's share of the cost of construction. At least ten days' notice shall be given by the commission to the county treasurer prior to the making of such a requisition. A copy of each contract providing for the construction or improvement of a county highway, and the plans and specifications therefor, together with copies of certificates showing the progress of the work, upon which requisitions are drawn, shall be filed with the county treasurer. The mileage of highways to be used in determining the amounts to be charged to a county or town under this section shall be the tables of mileage formerly prepared by the state engineer until the tables as provided in this chapter are filed. [Highway Law, § 141, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 83; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2263.]

§ 22a. ALTERNATIVE METHOD OF APPORTIONING THE EXPENSE OF COUNTY HIGHWAYS.

The board of supervisors of any county may in its discretion provide by resolution that fifty per centum of the cost of construction or improvement of any county highway within the county shall be borne by the county. The portion of the cost to be borne by the county shall be appropriated and made immediately available to the requisition or draft of the state commission of highways at the time of the final resolution of the board of supervisors approving the plans and estimate of cost submitted by the state commissioner of highways as provided by section one hundred and twenty-eight of this act. If, in any county, a town shall have heretofore paid or become liable to pay fifteen per centum or less of the cost of construction or improvement of any such county highway pursuant to the former provisions of this section, the amount so paid or to be paid may be repaid by the county to such town, and a tax may be levied by the board of supervisors on the taxable property in the county at large sufficient to provide moneys for such repayment so far as other county moneys are not available therefor.

In the case of a county highway where the plans have heretofore been approved by the board of supervisors of a county, and the distribution of cost for such highway has been made as provided by section one hundred and forty-one of this act, and the county has heretofore appropriated and made available its share of the cost of the construction or improvement of such highway based upon an apportionment other than that provided by this section, but the final payment has not been made by the county, the board of supervisors may in accordance with the provisions of section one hundred and twenty-eight of this act rescind the resolution previously adopted appropriating its share of the cost, and in such sase, shall adopt a resolution appropriating such an amount as will equal fifty per centum of the total estimated cost of such highway as shown in an estimate to be provided by the state commissioner of highways, making such amount so appropriated immediately available to the draft or requisition of the commission for the construction or improvement of such highway.

If there be not sufficient funds in the county treasury to pay the share of the county, the county treasurer is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow, in anticipation of taxes to be collected therefor or of the issuance of bonds as hereby provided, such an amount as may be necessary, and is hereby authorized to pledge the faith and credit of the county for the payment, with interest, of the moneys so borrowed.

The board of supervisors of the county may by resolution authorize the issuance of county highway bonds, in amounts to be determined by such board the proceeds of which shall be applied to the payment of the share of the cost of construction or improvement of such highway to be borne by the county as hereinbefore provided. Such bonds shall be payable not more than thirty years from their date.

The board of supervisors shall provide for the assessment, levy and collection by tax of the moneys required to meet the obligation of the county for its share of the cost of such improved highway; and the moneys so raised shall be paid into the county treasury and shall become available for the draft or requisition of the state commission of highways, or for the payment of moneys borrowed by the county treasurer as hereinbefore provided together with interest thereon, or for the payment of bonds and the interest thereon issued as hereinbefore provided, or any part thereof. [Highway Law, § 141a, as added by L. 1916, ch. 179, and amended by L. 1917, ch. 550.]

§ 23. COUNTY OR TOWN MAY BORROW MONEY.

Whenever the board of supervisors shall have, by resolution, appropriated and made immediately available to the requisition of the commission an amount sufficient to pay its share of the cost of such construction or improvement which is to be borne by the county within which such highway or section thereof is located, such amount so appropriated shall be a county charge and shall be paid by the county treasurer of the county in which such highway or section thereof is located, upon the requisition of the commission. If there is not sufficient funds in the county treasury to pay such share of the county of the cost of construction of such improvement so appropriated and made available, the county treasurer is authorized to borrow a sufficient amount to pay such share in anticipation of taxes to be collected therefor, or the issuance of bonds as hereinafter provided, and to pledge the faith and credit of the county for the payment of the amount when due, with interest. The board of supervisors may, by resolution, authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the county to an amount not exceeding the share of the county as apportioned by the commission, or if such apportionment has not been made, to an amount not exceeding thirty-five per centum of the estimated cost of the construction or improvement of such county highway as shown by the estimate approved by the board of supervisors pursuant to section one hundred and twenty-eight of this chapter, and apply the proceeds of such bonds to the payment of the share of the cost of construction of such highway to be borne by the county, appropriated and made immediately available as aforesaid or to the payment and redemption of any certificates of indebtedness issued as above provided. Said bonds shall be payable not more than thirty years from their date. The board of supervisors shall provide for the assessment, levy and collection by tax of all or any part of the share of the cost of such improvement apportioned to the county which has not been provided for by the issuance of county bonds as a county charge. Upon the petition of the town board of any town, the board of supervisors of the county may, by resolution, authorize the town to borrow a sufficient sum to pay the share of the cost of the construction or improvement of a county highway, which is to be borne by the town as apportioned by the commission and to issue and sell town bonds therefor. Such bonds shall be payable not more than thirty years from their date, to be sold by the supervisor for not less than par, and the proceeds thereof shall be paid into the county treasury to be applied in payment of the share of such cost which is to be borne by such town and the redemption of any bonds or certificates of indebtedness issued by the county to pay such share. The board of supervisors shall, from time to time, impose upon the taxable property of the town a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as the same shall become due. The board of supervisors shall provide for the assessment, levy and collection by tax of all or any part of the share or shares of the town or towns which has not been provided for by the issuance of town bonds as a town charge. [Highway Law, § 142, as amended by L. 1909, ch. 486, L. 1910, ch. 580, L. 1912, ch. 83, and L. 1913, chs. 538, 623.]

§ 23a. APPORTIONMENT AND PAYMENT OF EXPENSE OF CONSTRUCTING COUNTY HIGHWAY THROUGH OR INTO CITIES OF THE SECOND AND THIRD CLASSES.

If a county highway be constructed, under the provisions of this chapter, through or within a city of the second or third class, the board of supervisors of the county in which the city is situated shall, by resolution, apportion the cost thereof between the county and city as follows: Fifteen per centum of the portion of such highway within a city shall be borne by the city and thirty-five per centum thereof by the county. The share to be borne by the county shall be paid or provided for in the manner required by this chapter in the case of an apportionment of such cost between the county and a town. The share to be borne by the city shall be paid by the imposition of a tax therein for the full amount thereof or, in case of a city of the second class, if the common council and the board of estimate and apportionment shall so determine, then by the issuance and sale of city bonds as provided in the second class cities law, and in the case of a city of the third class, if the common council or board of aldermen thereof so determine, then by the issuance and sale of city bonds, to be payable in not more than thirty years from their date, bearing interest at not to exceed the legal rate, and to be sold for not less than par; or, such common council or board of aldermen may cause a portion of the city's share to be raised by tax at the time of the next ensuing annual city tax levy and the balance to be raised by the issuance and sale of bonds as herein above provided. [Highway Law, § 143, as added by L. 1912, ch. 88.]

§ 24. PAYMENT OF COST OF STATE HIGHWAY.

The entire expense of the construction or improvement of a state highway shall be paid by the state treasurer upon the warrant of the comptroller issued upon the requisition of the commission out of any specific appropriation made available for the construction or improvement of state highways. [Highway Law, § 144; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2266.]

§ 25. ABOLITION OF RAILROAD GRADE CROSSINGS.

The commission shall provide for and cause the abolition of railroad grade crossings on a state or county highway whenever practicable, in the manner provided by the railroad law.[5] The portion of the cost of abolishing such grade crossings, which is payable under the railroad law by the state and town or village, shall be paid out of the funds available for the construction or improvement of such state or county highway as provided in this article. [Highway Law, & 145; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2266.]

For proceedings relative to abolition of railroad grade crossings, see Railroad Law (L. 1910, ch. 481), §§ 89-96, post, p. 991.

§ 26. STREET SURFACE OR OTHER RAILROADS AND OTHER WORKS AND STRUCTURES ON HIGHWAYS.

No street surface or other railroad shall be constructed upon any portion of a state or county highway which has been or may be improved under the provisions of this article, nor shall any person, firm or corporation enter upon or construct any works in or upon any such highway, or construct any overhead or underground crossing thereof, or lay or maintain therein drainage, sewer or water pipes underground, except under such conditions and regulations as may be prescribed by the commissioner of highways, notwithstanding any consent or franchise granted by any town, county or district superintendent, or by the municipal authorities of any town. Any person, firm or corporation violating this section shall be liable to a fine of not less than one hundrede* dollars nor more than one thousand dollars for each day of such violation, to be recovered by the commissioner of highways and paid to the state treasurer to the credit of the fund for the maintenance and repair of state and county highways, and may also be removed therefrom as a trespasser by the commissioner of highways upon petition to the county court of the county or the supreme court of the state. [Highway Law, § 146, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, and L. 1913, ch. 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2266.]

Where a street surface railroad shall be laid in any street, highway or public place in any town, village, or in any city of the second or third classes, which it was heretofore or shall hereafter be determined to pave, improve, reconstruct or repair, as provided in this chapter, the proposals and contract for such improvement, reconstruction or repair shall include the improvement, reconstruction or repair of the space between the tracks of such street surface railroad, the rails of such tracks and two feet in width outside of such tracks, and the work of improvement, reconstruction or repair in such space shall be done at the same time and under the same supervision as the work of improvement, reconstruction or repair of the remainder of such street, highway or public place. The commission may prescribe the materials to be used in paving, improving, reconstructing or repairing such street, highway or public place within the railroad space above described, and upon the proper completion of the work, the commission shall certify to the board of trustees of such village, or the common council of cities of the second or third classes, as the case may be, the cost of the pavement, improvement, reconstruction or repair of such street, highway or public place within such railroad space, and the entire expense of the pavement, reconstruction or repair within such railroad space whether heretofore or hereafter made or ordered, shall be assessed and levied upon the property of the company owning or operating such railroad, and shall be collected in the same manner as other expenses for local improvements are assessed, levied and collected in such town, village or city; and an action may also be maintained by the municipality against the company in any court of record for the collection of such expense and assessment. This section shall not apply to such pavement, reconstruction or repairs in villages in counties adjoining cities of the first class. [Highway Law, § 142a, as added by L. 1913, ch. 177, and amended by L. 1916, ch. 578.]

§ 27. WHERE COST IS ASSESSABLE AGAINST ABUTTING OWNERS.

If fifteen per centum of the cost of constructing or improving a highway has been or may be assessed upon abutting owners, as authorized by section ten of chapter one hundred and fifteen of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, as the same existed prior to its repeal by chapter four hundred and sixty-eight of the laws of nineteen hundred and six, such highway shall be constructed or improved at the joint expense of the state, county and town as provided herein, and the portion of the cost so assessable upon such owners shall be paid by the town in which such highway is located, as provided in this article. [Highway Law, § 147; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2266.]

§ 28. ACQUISITION OF LANDS FOR RIGHT OF WAY AND OTHER PURPOSES.

If a state or county highway, proposed to be constructed or improved as provided in this article, or which shall have been heretofore constructed, or which it is proposed to repair or reconstruct as provided in article seven of this chapter, or in which it is proposed to change the course of a dangerous section thereof, shall deviate from the line of a highway already existing, the board of supervisors of the county where such highway is located, shall acquire land for the requisite right of way prior to the advertisement for proposals. The board of supervisors may also acquire lands for the purpose of obtaining gravel, stone or other material, when required for the construction, reconstruction, improvement or maintenance of highways, or for spoil banks together with a right of way to such spoil banks and to any bed, pit, quarry, or other place where such gravel, stone or other material may be located.[6] [Highway Law, § 148, as amended by L. 1917, ch. 261, and L. 1918, ch. 326; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2267.]

§ 29. PURCHASE OF LANDS.

The board of supervisors may, by resolution, authorize its chairman, a member, or a committee to purchase the lands to be acquired for the purposes specified in the preceding section. But the amount to be paid under this section to a single owner shall not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars, unless approved by the county judge and county treasurer, and in no case shall such amount exceed the sum of one thousand dollars. The purchase price of such lands shall be a county charge, and shall be paid in the same manner as awards are paid in cases where the proceedings are taken as herein required. [Highway Law, § 149; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2267.]

6. Eminent domain. The act of 1901, ch. 240, from which this section was in part derived, was intended to confer upon the board of supervisors, as the official representative of the county in its corporate capacity, the power of eminent domain in respect to rights of way, required for the construction and improvement of state and county highways. County of Orange v. Ellsworth, 98 App. Div. 275, 90 N. Y. Supp. 576.

An order appointing commissioners to acquire lands at the base of a mountain so as to furnish a place to place excavated materials from a state road being constructed along such mountain is not appealable, since the taking of land for such purpose is for a permitted public use and is not in excess of the right of eminent domain. County of Orange v. Storm King Stone Co. (1917) 180 App. Div. 208.

Purchase of land in certain counties. The board of supervisors in a county adjoining a city of the first class containing over two million inhabitants may, by resolution, authorize the purchase of lands to be acquired for the purpose specified in section one hundred and forty-eight of this chapter. The purchase price of such lands, however, shall not exceed the sum of five thousand dollars; it shall be a county charge and shall be paid in the same manner as other county charges are paid. [Highway Law, § 149a, as added by L. 1916, ch. 12.]

§ 30. PETITION TO ACQUIRE LANDS.

If the board of supervisors is unable to acquire land by purchase as provided for in the last section, the board may present to the county court of the county or to the supreme court, at a special term thereof, to be held in the judicial department in which said county is located, a petition for the appointment of three commissioners of appraisal to ascertain and determine the compensation to be paid to the owners of the land to be acquired and to all persons interested therein. Such petition shall describe the land to be acquired with a reference to the map upon which the same is shown which shall be annexed to such petition. A copy of such petition and map shall be filed in the office of the county clerk. Such petition shall be signed and verified in the name of the board of supervisors, by the chairman or a member thereof designated for that purpose by resolution. Notice of presentation of such petition to such court shall be given by the petitioner by publishing such notice in two newspapers published in such county, once in each week for two weeks successively preceding the day of such presentation, and also at least eight days preceding the day of such presentation by serving a copy of such notice, personally or by mail, on the occupant or owner of the land to be acquired, and by posting a copy of said notice in not less than three public places in each town in which property to be acquired is located.[7] [Highway Law, § 150, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 503, and L. 1917, ch. 140; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2267.]

7. Pleading of land owner. While this section does not provide that the

§ 31. COMMISSIONERS TO BE APPOINTED.

Upon such presentation, such court shall, after hearing any person owning or claiming an interest in the lands to be acquired who may appear, appoint three disinterested persons as commissioners. And in case a commissioner shall at any time decline to serve, or shall die, or for any cause become disqualified or disabled from serving as such, the said court, at a similar special term, may, upon similar notice, application and hearing, and upon such notice to the land owners as the court may prescribe, appoint another person, similarly qualified, to fill the vacancy caused thereby. [Highway Law, § 151; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2268.]

§ 32. DUTIES OF COMMISSIONERS.

The said comissioners shall take the oath of office prescribed by the constitution, which oath shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county. Upon the filing of such oath the title to the lands described in the petition and map filed in the office of the county clerk shall vest in the county for the purpose of a highway forever. The commissioners shall, with all reasonable diligence, proceed to examine such highways and lands. Said commissioners shall cause a notice to be published in two such newspapers as aforesaid, once each week for two weeks successively next preceding the day of meeting mentioned in such notice, that at a stated time and place within such county they will meet for the purpose of hearing the parties claiming an interest in the damages to be awarded for the lands taken for such highways. Said notice shall also state the fact that a map or maps showing the land acquired has been filed in the county clerk's office. At the time and place of said meeting and at any adjournment thereof which said commissioners shall publicly make, they shall hear the proofs and allegations of all interested parties. They may adjourn the proceedings before them from time to time, issue subpœnas or administer oaths in such proceedings; and shall keep minutes of their proceedings and reduce to writing all oral evidence given before them. They shall thereafter make and sign a report in writing, in which they shall assess, allow and state the amount of damages to be sustained by the owners of the several lots, pieces or parcels of land to be taken for the purposes aforesaid. Such report shall contain the names of the owners of any parcel of land acquired as aforesaid,

In all cases of assessment of damages by commissioners appointed by the court, the costs thereof shall be awarded pursuant to the provisions of section thirty-three hundred and seventy-two of the code of civil procedure and shall be a county charge in the first instance, and be paid by the county treasurer as hereinbefore provided, except when reassessment of damages shall be had on the application of the party for whom damages were assessed, and such damages shall not be increased on such reassessment, the costs shall be paid by the party applying for the reassessment, and when application shall be made by two or more persons for reassessment of damages all persons who may be liable for costs under this section shall be liable in proportion to the amount of damages respectively assessed to them by the first assessment, and may be recovered by action. Each commissioner appointed by the court as provided in this article for each full day necessarily employed as such, shall be entitled to the sum of six dollars and his necessary expenses. The amount of compensation to which such commissioners are entitled shall be determined by the court in which the proceeding is pending, upon verified accounts presented by such commissioners, stating in detail the number of hours necessarily employed in the discharge of their duties; and the nature of the services rendered, upon eight days' notice to the attorney for the petitioner in the proceeding.[6a] [Highway Law, § 154, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 182, and L. 1915, ch. 497; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2270.

§ 35. LAND MAY BE SOLD OR LEASED; DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS.

Any lands acquired by purchase or condemnation, for the purpose of obtaining gravel, stone or other materials, for the construction or maintenance of highways improved or constructed as provided in this article, or required for spoil banks, may be sold or leased by the board of supervisors of any county, when no longer needed for any such purposes. The proceeds thereof shall be paid into the county treasury and shall be retained therein as a separate fund available for the construction or maintenance of highways improved or constructed under this article. The board of supervisors may, where it has acquired land by purchase or condemnation as a right-of-way for a state or county highway, sell, convey, grant or lease to the owner or owners of property adjoining the same, so much thereof as may be unnecessary for such highway purposes, provided the strip of land retained for such highway purposes is not less than sixty feet in width, and provided such sale, conveyance, grant or lease will give said adjoining owner or owners of land a frontage immediately in front of their respective premises upon the new highway and right-of-way when completed. The board of superivisors may make such sale, conveyance, grant or lease to such owner or owners of real property for the purpose of compensating such owner or owners for damages sustained by reason of the change of the location of such highway and in full settlement thereof. 6a. Effect of Amendment of 1915. The amendment of this section by chapter 497 of L. 1915 does not deprive the court of the power to allow costs in a condemnation proceeding, unless such costs may be allowed under § 3372 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Costs are allowable where essential to secure to the owner just compensation for his property. The court may not, however, grant an extra allowance. County of Erie v. Fridenberg (1917), 221 N. Y. 389.

§ 36. APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS OF LABOR LAW.

The provisions of section three of the labor law, as amended by chapter five hundred and six of the laws of nineteen hundred and six, which except from the provisions of that section labor performed in the construction, maintenance and repair of highways outside the limits of cities and villages, shall apply to the construction, improvement and maintenance of state and county highways as provided in this chapter. [Highway Law, § 156; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2270.]

§ 37. HIGHWAYS AND BRIDGES ON INDIAN RESERVATIONS.

When any portion of a county highway designated for improvement or construction in a county, as provided in this article, is located on an Indian reservation, the entire cost of the improvement or construction of such portion shall be paid by the state in the same manner as the state's share of the cost of such county highway, out of any specific appropriation made available for the construction or improvement of county highways. The commission shall have exclusive supervision and control of all bridges constructed or to be constructed by the state on any Indian reservation, and may make and enforce such reasonable rules and regulations concerning their use, as it shall deem necessary. [Highway Law, § 157; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2271.]

§ 38. APPOINTMENT OF RESERVATION SUPERINTENDENT.

The commission may appoint a reservation superintendent for any Indian reservation in the state who shall exercise the powers and perform the duties conferred and imposed upon town superintendents, except that the written statement as provided for by section ninety of the highway law shall be filed with the commission on or before the thirty-first day of October in each year, and excepting that all orders of the Indian reservation superintendent shall be drawn upon and presented for payment as hereinafter provided to the county treasurer of the county in which such Indian reservation or major portion thereof exists.

While any such reservation superintendent shall be acting in that capacity no highway within such reservation shall be laid out, altered, or discontinued, without his consent. Whenever land may be acquired without expense or is dedicated for highway purposes within any Indian reservation, the reservation superintendent in charge thereof may make an order laying out the said highway by filing and recording said order in the town clerk's office of the town in which said highway is located. He shall also file said order with the recording officer of the tribe through whose lands such highway extends. [Highway Law, § 158, as added by L. 1910, ch. 46, and amended by L. 1913, ch. 474.]

§ 39. CUSTODY OF MONEYS, ET CETERA.

There shall be paid by the state treasurer to the county treasurer of each county in the state containing an Indian reservation, reservations or major portion of an Indian reservation, an amount which shall be not less than thirty dollars per mile, based on the entire mileage of the public highways within the Indian reservation in such county. such Indian reservations at such places and in such manner as may be directed by the commission, and such moneys shall be paid out by the county treasurer upon the written order of the Indian reservation superintendent in accordance with such directions. The county treasurer and the Indian reservation superintendent shall keep their accounts according to the methods and use the blanks as prescribed by the commission. All orders and records of accounts shall be filed in the office of the commission on or before the thirty-first day of October in each year and shall be preserved by the commission as Indian reservation records. The reservation superintendent shall receive a per diem or annual allowance as compensation for services and expenses in an amount to be fixed by the commission, which shall be paid by the county treasurer to the reservation superintendent upon orders of the commission. The commission shall annually cause to be inspected all of the bridges within Indian reservations of each county and shall require a complete report of such inspection which shall show in detail the condition of the bridges inspected, the necessary work to be performed in the repair and maintenance of such bridges and the estimated cost thereof. The commission shall revise such estimates and annually report to the legislature its estimated cost for such repairs and construction for the ensuing year in detail by reservation and county. The maintenance, repair and construction of the public highways within the Indian reservations shall be under the direct supervision and control of the commission and the state superintendent of highways and they shall be responsible therefor as herein provided. There shall be annually appropriated for the construction, repair and maintenance of such highways and bridges and for the purchase and repair of machinery, tools and implements, an amount sufficient to provide therefor, based upon the estimates prepared and submitted by the commission to the legislature. The comptroller upon requisition of the commission shall draw his warrant on the state treasurer in favor of the county treasurer who is the custodian of such funds as herein provided for an amount which shall not be in excess of the total amount apportioned by the commission to the Indian reservation of any county. The moneys so paid shall be deposited by said county treasurer to the credit of the fund for the maintenance, repair and construction of highways and bridges and the purchase and repair of machinery, tools and implements in the Indian reservation of said county.[2b] [Highway Law, § 159, as added by L. 1910, ch. 46, and amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, and L. 1913, ch. 474.]

§ 40. MAINTENANCE OF DETOURS DURING CONSTRUCTION.

The maintenance and repair of any highway or right of way designated by the commission for use as a detour, during the construction, reconstruction or repair of a state or county highway, shall be under the supervision of the commission and shall be paid for out of the construction fund, in cases of construction or improvement contracts, or the state's share of the money available for maintenance and repair of improved roads in such county in cases of reconstruction or repair contracts. Such highway or right of way designated as a detour by the commission shall be deemed as an improved highway during construction, reconstruction or repair. IMPROVEMENT OF HIGHWAYS WITH FEDERAL AID.

(This chapter contains Article 6-A of the Highway Law as added by L. 1917, ch. 462, in effect May 14, 1917.)

SECTION 1. Commissioner of highways to designate roads.
2. Cost of perliminary surveys.
3. Approval of plans.
4. Advertisements, proposals, contracts, appropriation, closing roads, detours, termination of contract, entry for drainage, permits, maintenance and repair, contingencies and agreements.
5. Acceptance of work.
6. Acquisition of right of way.
7. State's share of cost.
8. General authorization.

§ 1. COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS TO DESIGNATE ROADS.

The state commissioner of highways is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to designate the public highways or portions thereof, outside of cities, which, in his discretion, he may deem proper to be improved or constructed as co-operative roads with the moneys to be appropriated by the state of New York and the moneys contributed to the state of New York for highway improvement by the federal government under the provisions of an act of congress, entitled "An act to provide that the United States shall aid the states in the construction of rural post roads, and for other purposes," approved July eleventh, nineteen hundred and sixteen; provided that the highways or portions thereof thus designated shall form a portion of the system of state or of county highways as provided by this chapter, or shall form a connection between state, county and federal highways duly authorized by law of this or any other state or nation, for the purpose of aiding in the completion of a system of improved highways in the United States of America. The highways thus designated shall be tentatively indicated on a map to be prepared by, and filed in the office of, the state commissioner of highways; and a duplicate thereof shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state of New York state on or before the fifteenth day of May, nineteen hundred and seventeen; subject, however, to such modification as may hereafter be submitted by the state commissioner of highways and approved by the United States secretary of agriculture in accordance with section one of the act of congress hereinbefore refererd to. The designations indicated on such map are dependent, however, on provision being made by the governing boards of the political subdivisions of the state for the improvement of such other highways as are deemed necessary, in the opinion of the state commissioner of highways, to complete the combined highway system of the state. [Highway Law, § 161, as added by L. 1917, ch. 462.]

§ 2. COST OF PRELIMINARY SURVEYS.

Preliminary surveys, plans, specifications and estimates of cost for the highways or portions thereof so designated shall be made by the state department of highways in the same manner as prescribed in section one hundred and twenty-five of the highway law and the expense thereof shall be paid out of the moneys appropriated by the state for the purposes of this article. [Highway Law, § 162, as added by L. 1917, ch. 462.]

§ 3. APPROVAL OF PLANS.

After the submission to, and approval by the secretary of the United States department of agriculture, of such plans, specifications and estimates of cost, as required by the provisions of said act of congress, the same shall be approved by the commissioner of highways by executive order; which order shall give a consecutive number to the highway or portion thereof covered by said plans. A certified copy of such order shall be filed with the said secretary of agriculture and with the state comptroller. Roads shall be taken up for construction or improvement in the order of final approval unless the commissioner of highways deems otherwise advisable, in which event an executive order shall be filed in the office of the highway department giving the reasons for deviating from such order, and a certified copy thereof filed with said secretary and with the state comptroller. [Highway Law, § 163, as added by L. 1917, ch. 462.]

§ 4. ADVERTISEMENTS, PROPOSALS, CONTRACTS, APPROPRIATION, CLOSING ROADS, DETOURS, TERMINATION OF CONTRACT, ENTRY FOR DRAINAGE, PERMITS, MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR, CONTINGENCIES AND AGREEMENTS.

The form of proposal, contract and bond, the method of advertising for proposals, the rejection of proposals, the award of contracts and the payments to contractors shall be governed by the provisions of section one hundred and thirty of this chapter. To expedite the payment of the share of the federal government as shown by monthly estimates rendered on existing contracts as provided herein it is hereby provided that upon the filing of the report of the commissioner of highways with the legislature, showing the amount of construction under federal aid contemplated for the ensuing year, and in case an appropriation is made by the legislature to provide the state's share of the construction shown in such report, there shall also be appropriated such an additional amount as is necessary to pay in the first instance the share of the federal government of the cost of such work. Itemized statements showing the entire cost of construction of such roads shall be rendered by the commissioner of highways to the state comptroller and the federal government as the work progresses and such statements shall show the subdivision of cost between the state and the federal government and shall be accompanied by drafts on the federal government for the amount of its share of such cost. Upon the payment of such drafts the proceeds shall be deposited by the commissioner of highways with the treasurer of the state for the purpose of reimbursing the appropriation made by the state on account of such advance payments, and upon the final completion of the work a report thereof filed with the state comptroller. The provisions of sections seventy-seven and one hundred and sixty of this chapter, relative to closing highways for repair or construction and the maintenance of detours during construction; also the provisions of section one hundred and thirty-two of this chapter relative to the authority of the commissioner to secure the completion of the work; also the provisions of sections one hundred and thirty-five and one hundred and thirty-six of this chapter, relative to the entry upon adjacent lands for drainage purposes and the payment of damages for such entry; also the provisions of sections one hundred and thirty-seven, one hundred and thirty-eight and one hundred and thirty-eight-a, relative to construction in villages and to additional width and increased cost; also the provisions of section one hundred and forty-six of this act, relative to the issuance of permits for work by persons, firms or corporations; also the provisions of section one hundred and fifty-six relative to the application of the labor law; shall all be applicable for the purposes of highways improved or constructed under the provisions of this article. The provisions of article seven of this chapter relative to the maintenance of state and county highways shall apply to the maintenance and repair of highways improved or constructed under the provisions of this article. All contingences arising during the prosecution of the work shall be provided for to the satisfaction of the commissioner of highways and as may be agreed upon in the original or by a supplemental contract executed by the commissioner. If a supplemental contract be executed for the performance of work or the furnishing of material not provided for in the original contract, the amount to be charged thereunder for any such work or material shall not exceed the rate for which similar work or material was agreed to be performed or furnished under the original bid upon which the contract was awarded. Any work necessarily required for the proper completion of the contract and for which no item price bid was contained in the proposal shall be performed upon prices to be agreed upon by the contractor and the commissioner prior to the performance of such work, and such work and the prices therefor shall be provided in a supplemental contract. The total amount to be expended in the improvement or construction of a highway or section thereof shall not exceed the original estimate, unless such estimate shall have been duly amended by the commissioner with the approval of the secretary of agriculture. [Highway Law, § 164, as added by L. 1917, ch. 462.]

§ 5. ACCEPTANCE OF WORK.

Upon the completion of a highway or section thereof constructed or improved under the provisions of this article, the division engineer shall inspect the same and shall report in writing to the state commissioner of highways his recommendation as to whether or not the contract should be finally accepted, and the decision of the said commissioner, which shall be conclusive, as to the acceptance of said highway or portion thereof thus constructed or improved, shall be entered in the form of an executive order, a certified copy of which shall be filed with the secretary of agriculture. [Highway Law, § 165 as added by L. 1917, ch. 462.]

§ 6. ACQUISITION OF RIGHT OF WAY.

The provisions of article six of this chapter relative to the acquisition of lands for right of way and other purposes shall be applicable for the purposes of highways improved or constructed under the provisions of this article. [Highway Law, § 166, as added by L. 1917 ch. 462.]

§ 7. STATE'S SHARE OF COST.

The proportion of the total cost of the improvement or construction of highways to be borne by the state of New York under the provisions of this article, exclusive of the expenses incurred prior to the beginning of construction work for the purposes of making surveys, plans, specifications and estimates of cost, shall not exceed fifty per centum of such total cost. [Highway Law, § 167, as added by L. 1917, ch. 462.]

§ 8. GENERAL AUTHORIZATION.

The state commissioner of highways is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to perform and do such other and further acts not hereby specifically provided in this article as may be necessary to conduct the improvement or construction of co-operative highways with state and federal aid in compliance with the act of congress hereinbefore referred to and the rules and regulations promulgated by the secretary of agriculture under authority conferred upon him by said act of congress, the provisions of which act are hereby assented to, the good faith of the state of New York being hereby pledged to make such provision from time to time as may be necessary to provide its share of the cost of improvement of such highways. [Highway Law, § 168, as added by L. 1917, ch. 462.]

1. Orange County Act. The special law (L. 1901, ch. 83) providing for the construction and maintenance of highways in the county of Orange is not repealed by the provision of this section relative to the maintenance and repair of state and county highways. Matter of Business Men's Association, 54 Misc. 13, 103 N. Y. Supp. 843 (1907).

Duty of abutting owners to construct and keep in repair approaches or driveways from highways. On examination of the provisions of articles 4, 6 and 7 of the Highway Law as they stood on July 21, 1909, held, that the statute required abutting owners under the direction of the district or county superintendent, to construct and keep in repair approaches or driveways from the highway, but that the duty of maintenance did not rest on the town unless the town board decided to assume it, and only in that event was the town superintendent under any duty of inspection, which is but an incident to the duty of maintenance and repair. scribe. The commissioner of highways shall also have the power to adopt such system as may seem expedient so that each section of such highway shall be under constant observation and be effectively and economically preserved, maintained and repaired. The commissioner of highways shall have the power to purchase materials for such maintenance and repairs, except where such work is done by contract, and contract for the delivery thereof at convenient intervals along such highways. [Highway Law, § 170, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 646, L. 1912, ch. 83, L. 1913, ch. 80, and L. 1916, ch. 578; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2271.]

§ 1a. STATE TO MAINTAIN ROADS IMPROVED BY STATE APPROPRIATIONS UNDER SPECIAL LAWS.

When any highway has been constructed or improved under a special law, with moneys taken from the state treasury and under plans prepared by a state department, the commissioner of highways may at any time inspect such highway and if he determine it to be of sufficient importance and properly constructed, he may make an order directing that such highway become a part of the system of state and county highways in such county, and thereafter such highway shall be maintained as a state or county highway in the manner provided in article seven of the highway law. Such order shall be served upon the chairman of the board of supervisors, and a certified copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the county clerk and one in the office of the state comptroller. [Highway Law, § 170a, as added by L. 1917, ch. 261.]

§ 1b. MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR BY THE STATE OF CERTAIN IMPROVED ROADS.

Whenever a county shall have constructed therein, at its expense, an improved stone road for a distance of not exceeding two miles, extending between two points, each on the dividing line between such county and an adjoining county, and connecting at both points with a county highway in such adjoining county, the commissioner of highways may at any time inspect such road and if he deems it to be of sufficient importance and properly constructed, he may determine that such road shall be thereafter maintained and kept in repair by the state; in which case, such maintenance and repair shall be under the supervision of such commissioner. Such determination shall be in the form of an order and shall be served upon the chairman of the board of supervisors of the county in which the road is located that is to be maintained by the state, and a certified copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the county clerk and one in the office of the state comptroller. [Highway Law, § 170b, as added by L. 1918, ch. 146.]

§ 1c. MAINTENANCE BY STATE OF CANAL BRIDGE APPROACHES.

Where a waterway which is a part of the canal system of the state intersects a state or county highway which is maintained adjacent to such intersection pursuant to this article, the pavement and shoulders of the approaches to the bridge structure carrying such highway across such waterway shall be considered eligible for maintenance under this article, providing such approach has, in the opinion of the state commissioner of highways, been properly graded in connection with the construction of the canal system of the state. The state commissioner of highways may at any time make an order directing that such section of highway become a part of the system of state or county highways in such county, and thereafter the pavement and shoulders of such approach shall be maintained as a state or county highway in the manner provided in article seven of this chapter. Such order shall be served upon the chairman of the board of supervisors and a certified copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the county clerk and one in the office of the state comptroller. The moneys so paid shall be deposited by the county treasurer to the credit of the fund for the maintenance of improved state and county highways in the county. Any moneys so deposited and placed to the credit of the fund for such maintenance shall be available and subject to the order of the state highway commission at any time prior to the total expenditure thereof. Not more than ten per centum of the amount so appropriated each year may be reserved by the commission for the repair or rebuilding of improved state or county highways, which ten per centum shall not be deemed to be available until after the moneys paid the county treasurer of a county as heretofore provided shall have been expended, and which shall be paid by the state treasurer upon the warrant of the comptroller drawn upon the requisition of the commission issued when required for such purposes. [Highway Law, § 171, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 83, and L. 1916, ch. 578; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2272.]

§ 3. COST TO TOWN FOR MAINTENANCE OF STATE AND COUNTY HIGHWAYS.

Each town shall pay for the maintenance and repair of state and county highways each year the sum of fifty dollars for each mile or major fraction of a mile of the total mileage of state and county highways within the town, each incorporated village shall pay for such maintenance and repair at the rate of one and one-half cents for each square yard of surface of such improved highway maintained by the state within its corporate limits; except where a maintenance bond for a period of five years satisfactory in form and sufficiency to the commission shall have been given to the village prior to January first, nineteen hundred and sixteen, such tax herein provided for shall not be levied or paid until the period covered by such maintenance bonds shall have expired, or shall have failed in sufficiency.

On or before the first day of November in each year the commission shall transmit to the clerk of the board of supervisors of each county and to the board of trustees of each village a statement specifying the number of miles of improved state and county highways in each town, the number of square yards of surface of such improved highway as hereinbefore provided in each village in such county and the amount which each of such towns and villages is required to pay into the county treasury on account of the maintenance of state and county highways and a copy of such statements shall be forwarded to the county treasurer. The board of supervisors of the county and the board of trustees of an incorporated village shall cause the amount to be paid by each town and incorporated village of the county, to be assessed, levied and collected therein in the same manner as other town and village charges, in the several towns and villages and such amount when collected shall be paid into the county treasury to the credit of the fund for the maintenance of state and county highways in the several towns and incorporated villages of the county.[2] [Highway Law, § 172,

2. Duty of supervisors to levy tax. Upon receipt of the notices of the state commissioner of highways transmitted pursuant to this section of the Highway Law a mandatory statutory duty, ministerial in character, devolves upon the board of supervisors, and under this duty the board is required to take such action as shall result in the levying of a tax by the towns to raise their respective proportion of the fund appliable to the maintenance of such highways. This duty is not dependent upon the acceptance of the highways by the proper officials. People ex rel. Carlisle v. Board of Supervisors, 217 N. Y. 424, affg. 164 App. Div. 922.

Saving clause; temporary provisions.—Whenever any city has deposited certain moneys with a county treasurer for the maintenance of streets within such city in accordance with the provisions of section one hundred and seventy-two of this chapter as it existed prior to April first, nineteen hundred and sixteen, and there remains an unexpended balance of such moneys in the hands of the county treasurer, such unexpended balance shall, when such section as hereby amended takes effect, revert to such city and the county treasurer is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to return such unexpended balance to the treasurer of such city. The moneys returned by a county treasurer to a city in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be expended by the city in the maintenance and repair of the streets within such city which have been constructed or improved by state aid. The highway commission shall retain jurisdiction and authority over any city street heretofore improved as a state or county highway, until the expiration of the period of time covered by the bond guaranteeing the maintenance and repair of such street, and may take such proceedings as may be necessary to enforce the provisions of such guaranty bond and in case of the failure of the contractor or the surety company on the bond to perform such work as may be lawfully required of them, the highway commission is authorized to perform such work in the first instance, charging the expense incurred thereby to the contractor and the surety company in the manner provided by the contract and bond. Upon the termination of the guaranty period covered by such bond, the highway commission shall notify the city clerk thereof and upon service of such notice the authority and responsibility of the state over such street shall cease and thereafter such street shall be maintained in the manner provided by law for the maintenance and repair of city streets. [Highway Law, § 172a, as added by L. 1916, ch. 578, and amended by L. 1917, ch. 261.]

§ 4. DISBURSEMENT OF MAINTENANCE FUNDS.

The amount apportioned by the commission for the maintenance and repair of state and county highways in each county shall be expended for the repair and maintenance of such highways in such county, but the amount paid by each town or incorporated village as provided by section one hundred and seventy two shall be expended for the repair and maintenance of such highways in such town or incorporated village. The county treasurer shall pay out the moneys received by him as provided in this article upon the written order of the representative of the commission, who, before drawing any such orders shall give a bond in an amount to be specified by the commission, and with such sureties as shall be approved by the commission; such bond shall be filed in the office of the state comptroller and certified copy thereof filed in the office of the state highway commission and in the office of the county treasurer. Such orders shall be issued upon vouchers duly presented to the representative of the commission in the form to be prescribed by it. The commission may adopt rules and regulations providing for the presentation and payment of accounts for maintenance and repair. [Highway Law, § 173, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 83, and L. 1916, ch. 578; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2273.]

§ 5. REPORTS OF COUNTY TREASURERS.

The county treasurer shall report to the commission annually and at such other times as required by the commission, the amount received by him on account of the maintenance and repair of improved state and county highways in the several towns and incorporated villages in his county and the expenditures made by him out of such moneys. The form and contents of such report shall be prescribed by the commission. [Highway Law, § 174, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 83, and L. 1916, ch. 578; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2273.]

§ 6. COMPENSATION OF TOWN SUPERINTENDENTS.

If a town superintendent shall be directed by the commission to perform services in respect to the maintenance and repair of improved state and county highways within his town his compensation therefor shall be paid out of the moneys set apart as provided in this article for such maintenance and repair. Such compensation shall be fixed by the commission but shall in no case exceed the amount fixed by the town board as compensation for his services performed for the town under this chapter,[3] and in rendering his monthly bill to the supervisor, and his annual bill to the town board, no charge shall be made against the town for an expense or per diem charge upon any date for which an audit shall have been allowed by the state commission. And said state commission shall make proper rules and regulations to carry into effect this provision and to furnish to the town board prior to the annual audit day due information as to the dates, compensation and expenses allowed by them to said town superintendent from the state repair fund. [Highway Law, § 175, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 83; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2273.]

§ 7. LIABILITY OF STATE FOR DAMAGES.

The state shall not be liable for damages suffered by any person from defects in state and county highways, except such highways as are maintained by the state by the patrol system, but the liability for such damages shall otherwise remain as now provided by law,[4] notwithstanding the construction or improvement and maintenance of such highways by the state under this chapter; but nothing herein contained shall be constructed to impose on the state any liability for defects in bridges over which the state has no control. Within the limits of incorporated villages the state shall maintain a width of pavement equal to the width of pavement constructed or improved at the expense of the state, if a state highway, or of the state and county, if a county highway, the location of the state's portion of such roadway within said incorporated limits to be determined by the center line of the roadway as shown on the plans on file with the state highway department, and the state shall be liable for damages to persons or property only when such damages shall occur as a result of the defective condition of the portion of improved highway as above described. [Highway Law, § 176, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 570, L. 1912, ch. 83, and L. 1916, ch. 578.]

§ 8. ADDITIONAL WIDTH OR DIFFERENT TYPE OF CONSTRUCTION UNDER REPAIR CONTRACTS.

Whenever in the maintenance and repair of state and county highways the commission shall have determined upon the necessity of resurfacing such highway, the town or village wherein the highway is located may petition the commission to provide an additional width or a different type of pavement, or both, in the plans providing for such resurfacing. The additional expense of such widening or different type of construction shall be borne wholly by such town or village and the provisions of sections one hundred and thirty-seven and one hundred and thirty-eight-a shall apply to such additional width or different type of construction under such repair contract in the same manner as under a construction contract as provided in those sections. [Highway Law, § 177, as added by L. 1916, ch. 578.]

§ 9. SPRINKLING; REMOVAL OF FILTH AND REFUSE.

Upon petition signed by a majority of the taxpayers owning property abutting upon an improved state or county highway and filed with the town clerk, the town board may set aside any section of such highway outside of a village and contract for the sprinkling of the readbed with

4. Under Highway Law, sec. 74, ante, a town is liable for injuries sustained "by reason of any defect in its highways or bridges existing because of the neglect of any town superintendent of such town." There can be no liability imposed upon the town under this section unless it appears that the defect causing the injury was due to the neglect of the town superintendent.

water and also contract for the removal of filth and refuse therefrom. No such contract shall be entered into unless previously approved by the county superintendent. The amount of any such contract so entered into shall be assessed upon the property abutting upon such section in the proportion which the frontage of each parcel thereof bears to the length of the section exclusive of intersecting highways. Such assessment shall be made, levied and collected in the same general manner, and at the same time and by the same officers as the town taxes of said town are assessed, levied and collected. [Highway Law, § 179; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2275.]

§ 10. PAYMENT BY COUNTIES OF A PORTION OF THE COST OF CONSTRUCTION UNDER REPAIR CONTRACTS.

Whenever in the maintenance and repair of state and county highways under the provisions of article seven of this chapter, the commission shall have determined upon the necessity of resurfacing, reconstructing or repairing such highway, the county wherein the highway is located may by resolution provide that not to exceed thirty-five per centum of the estimated cost of such resurfacing, reconstructing or repairing shall be borne by the county. The provisions of sections one hundred and twenty-five, one hundred and twenty-six, one hundred and twenty-seven, one hundred and twenty-eight, one hundred and thirty, one hundred and thirty-two, one hundred and thirty-four, one hundred and thirty-five, one hundred and thirty-six, one hundred and thirty-seven, one hundred and thirty-nine, one hundred and forty-one, one hundred and forty-one-a, one hundred and forty-two, one hundred and forty-two-a, one hundred and forty-eight, one hundred and forty-nine, one hundred and forty-nine-a, one hundred and fifty, one hundred and fifty-one, one hundred and fifty-two, one hundred and fifty-three, one hundred and fifty-four, one hundred and fifty-five and one hundred and fifty-six of this chapter shall apply to such resurfacing, reconstructing and repairing of state and county highways in the same manner as to the original construction thereof in so far as the same may be applicable thereto. [Highway Law, § 180, as added by L. 1917, ch. 91.]

Explanatory note.

CHAPTER XLII.

LAYING OUT, ALTERING AND DISCONTINUING HIGHWAYS; PRIVATE ROADS.

EXPLANANTORY NOTE.

Proceedings to Lay Out, etc, Highways.

A town superintendent of highways must follow the proceedings described in this chapter, in laying out, altering or discontinuing highways. These proceedings are judicial in their character, and, for the most part, involve an application to the court, the appointment of commissioners, the taking of testimony and the assessment of damages. The superintendent and other persons interested will usually require the services of attorneys. There must be a strict compliance with the requirements of the statute, and reference must be made thereto in accomplishing the desired object.

Private roads.

This chapter also contains the provisions of chapter VIII of the Highway Law, relating to laying out private roads. Application for a private road must be made to the town superintendent, whose duty it is to appoint a time and place for a hearing before a jury to determine as to the necessity of such road and to assess the damages. The practice is prescribed by the statute and must be closely observed.

§ 1. SURVEY FOR THE LAYING OUT OF A HIGHWAY.

Whenever the town superintendent shall lay out any highway, either upon application to him or otherwise, he shall notify the district or county superintendent, whose duty it shall be to either make a survey, or cause the same to be made, and the town superintendent shall incorporate the survey in an order to be signed by him, and to be filed and recorded in the office of the town clerk, who shall note the time of recording the same.[1] [Highway Law, § 190; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2276.]

§ 2. HIGHWAYS BY DEDICATION.

Whenever land is dedicated to a town for highway purposes therein, the town superintendent may with the consent of the town board, either with

1. Board of supervisors may require commissioners to make surveys of highways. County Law, sec. 71, post.

Sufficiency of survey. The survey or description of the highway laid out, included in or made part of the order should be definite and certain. It should clearly specify the highway as to line and width. If there is no width expressed in it, and it is wholly uncertain both as to starting point and terminus, it is insufficient. People ex rel. Waters v. Diver, 19 Hun 263. The omission to incorporate a survey in the order, or to make it a part of it, is fatal. Pratt v. People, 13 Hun 664. The survey, to be sufficient, should show distinctly the line of the proposed road so that persons through whose lands the road is to be laid out, and others interested, can determine its route; there must be no uncertainty in the description of the property to be taken; the description should be such that from it alone, without resort to other papers, the road could be laid out. Matter of De Camp, 19 App. Div. 564, 46 N. Y. Supp. 293; Pratt v. People, 13 Hun 664. The objects at each end of the line of the highway, as pointed out in the record, will direct the course of the line, despite the fact that the direction of the compass between them as given in the description, is inaccurate. Johnson v. Loveless, 18 Wk. Dig. 49.

It has been held that it is sufficient to run a single line as the center of the highway, with definite points of starting and ending, since the width being prescribed by statute the boundaries of the highway would be a matter of simple calculation. People ex rel. Hawver v. Commissioners of Highways of Redhook, 13 Wend. 310; People ex rel McFarland v. Commissioners of Highways of Salem, 1 Cow. 23; Tucker v. Rankin, 15 Barb. 471.

Incorporation of survey in order. The objection to the order of the commissioners, laying out the road, that it did not incorporate the survey, is of no force, where the survey was attached to the order. Van Bergen v. Bradley, 36 N. Y. 316. A substantial compliance with the section requiring incorporation of an order in the survey is sufficient. Tucker v. Rankin, 15 Barb. 471. Where the recital of the laying out of the highway and the survey, though dated several months before, are recorded immediately after the order in the book of town records, and the order purports to accord with a survey and both papers describe the same highway, the statute requiring the survey to be incorporated in the order is substantially complied with. McCarthy v. Whalen, 19 Hun 503; affirmed, 87 N. Y. 148.

Recording order. The clerk's act in recording an order of a town superin-

or without a written application therefor, and without expense to the town make an order laying out such highway, upon filing and recording in the town clerk's office with such order a release of the land from the owner thereof.[2] A highway tendent is ministerial. He has no discretion in its performance. He cannot refuse to file and record the order because it is improperly executed. People v. Collins, 7 Johns. 549.

2. For form of order of town superintendent laying out highway on release of land by owners, see Form No. 120, post. For form of dedication and release by owner, see Form No 121, post.

Method of creating highways. Public highways may be created in four ways: (1) By proceedings under the statute; (2) by prescription or used for twenty years; (3) by dedication through offer and implied acceptance; (4) by dedication through offer and actual acceptance. Cohoes v. D. & H. C. Co., 134 N. Y. 397; 31 N. E. 887, and authorities cited; Town of Corning v. Head, 86 Hun, 12; 33 N. Y. Supp. 360.

Dedication and acceptance. Though a highway has never been laid out or recorded as a highway, if it has been dedicated and used as such for more than twenty years and accepted and worked by the authorities it becomes a legal highway. Town of Corning v. Head, 86 Hun, 12; 33 N. Y. Supp. 360; McVee v. City of Watertown, 92 Hun, 306; 36 N. Y. Supp. 870.

Where a town for the purpose of straightening a highway shifted it to one side at the instance and expense of the owner of the abutting land, the owner will be deemed to have dedicated and the town to have accepted the additional land, although there was no conveyance. Huber v. Goig (1918) 181 App. Div. 369.

To constitute a highway there must be not only a dedication but there must also be an acceptance by the public, accompanied either by an official act by the authorities competent to accept the highway, or by common or public user; and such an acceptance is not established by a sale of lots by reference to a map on which streets are laid down; nor by the enjoyment by the purchasers of such lots of the private easements thereby created; nor by mere public travel, without action by the authorities in repairing and maintaining or using the street; nor by the patrolling thereof by police officers. Matter of Starr Street, 73, Misc. 381.

The grade of a street may be established, without a municipal ordinance, by usage, acquiesence and recognition for a period of forty years. Hunt v. Otego, 160 App. Div. 158, 145 N. Y. Supp. 495.

Dedication alone is not sufficient. There must be either an actual or implied acceptance. Streets and highways dedicated by individuals to public use, but not adopted or accepted by the local authorities, or declared to be highways by statute, are not highways within the meaning of the Highway Law, and there so laid out must not be less than two rods in width,[2a] except that where such highway is located on a sand beach separated by more than two miles of water from the main body of the town of which it forms a part and is not an extension or continuation of a public highway already in use and has erected thereon a board walk not less than one-third the width of said highway, such highway so laid out may be less than two rods in width and must not be less than ten feet in width. Section two hundred does not apply to a highway by dedication. Such town superintendent may also, upon written application and with the written consent of the town board, make an order laying out or altering a highway, is no law by which a town or its officers can be compelled to keep them in repair. City of Oswego v. Oswego Canal Co., 6 N. Y. 257; Bissell v. N. Y. Cent. R. Co., 23 N. Y. 61; Clements v. Village of West Troy, 16 Barb. 251.

A public street or highway cannot be created by mere dedication. There must also be something amounting to an acceptance of the street as such either by the public authorities or directly by the public. People ex rel. Washburn v. Common Council, 128 App. Div. 44, 47, 112 N. Y. Supp. 387.

There must be an acceptance of the dedication by one authorized to act for the town. Trustees of Jordan v. Otis, 37 Barb. 50; Morse v. City of Troy, 38 Hun, 301; People v. Underhill, 144 N. Y. 316, 39 N. E. 333.

The use by the public of a private way does not make it a public highway, without proof of dedication and user. Palmer v. Palmer, 150 N. Y. 139, 44 N. E. 966. But where a highway has been laid out by an order of highway commissioners duly entered, made with the full consent of the owners of the land through which it runs, and such highway was included by such commissioners in one of the road districts of the town, it must be deemed a duly dedicated public highway, although its use by the public has been limited, and its boundaries as so used had not been determined by the commissioners. Wakeman v. Wilbur, 147 N. Y. 657, 661; 42 N. E. 341.

An acceptance may be proved by long public use or by the acts of the proper public authorities in recognizing and adopting the highway People v. Lochfelm, 102 N. Y. 1; Cook v. Harris, 61 N. Y. 448; Holdane v. Cold Spring, 21 N. Y. 474; Denning v. Roome, 6 Wend. 651; Hunter v. Trustees, 6 Hill, 407; McMannis v. Butler, 51 Barb. 436. The use must be the main use of substantially the entire highway. McCutcheon v. Terminal Station Commission, 88 Misc. 601, 151 N. Y. Supp. 451, affd. 168 App. Div. 301. Even the laying out of a highway on a map prepared by municipal authority will not suffice to constitute a lane as a highway, where it appears that the public were excluded therefrom during a portion of the time by barriers and fences. Farmers' & M. Sav. Bank v. Lockport, 89 Misc. 157, 151 N. Y. Supp. 865. See, also, as to evidence of acceptance, Matter of Beach Avenue, 70 Hun, 351, 24 N. Y. Supp. 37; Eckerson v. Haverstraw, 6 App. Div. 102, 39 N. Y. Supp. 635.

Consent to close a highway must be by a majority of the town board, and the subsequent signature of one member of the board, procured after adjournment, is ineffective to make a majority. Greene v. Goodwin Sand & Gravel Co., 72 Misc. 192.

Where a map was filed in 1836, laying out a tract of land into blocks of building lots bounded by streets, and subsequent conveyances of portions thereof or discontinuing a highway, which has become useless since it was laid out, upon filing and recording in the town clerk's office, with such appli-were made with reference to such map, such acts amounted to a dedication of the land within the lines of the streets as designated on such map for street purposes, and the subsequent adoption in 1910 by the common council of the city in which the lands lay of a resolution approving a petition of adjoining lot owners to open a portion of one of the streets was an acceptance of it and constituted the same a highway. Stillman v. City of Olean, 72 Misc. 196.

Order closing highway. Where an order, made by the highway commissioners of a town, closing a portion of a highway, is filed in the town clerk's office, but is not recorded by him as required by the above section, the failure to record the order does not invalidate the proceedings of the commissioners. People ex rel. Dinsmore v. Vandewater, 83 App. Div. 60, 82 N. Y. Supp. 626.

Revocation of dedication. A dedication of a highway once made and accepted cannot be revoked. Cook v. Harris, 61 N. Y. 448. But if a dedication is not accepted within a reasonable time, the owner may recall the dedication; and he may at any time recall the dedication if no adverse rights have attached prior thereto. What is reasonable time must depend upon the particular circumstances of the case. Matter of Opening of Beck Street, 19 Misc. 571, 44 N. Y. Supp. 1087; Lee v. Sandy Hill, 40 N. Y. 442; Matter of Fox Street, 54 App. Div. 479, 67 N. Y. Supp. 57; Buffalo v. D., L. & W. R. R. Co., 68 App. Div. 488; 74 N. Y. Supp. 343. Such dedication cannot be revoked after a user of twenty years regardless of acceptance. Eckerson v. Haverstraw, 6 App. Div. 102; 39 N. Y. Supp. 635.

Mere lapse of time does not effect an abandonment or revocation of dedication of a highway. Stillman v. City of Olean, 72 Misc. 196.

Where an owner of land dedicated it to the public for a highway, but died before its acceptance by the public, her death was held to be a revocation of the proposed dedication. People v. Kellogg, 67 Hun, 546; 22 N. Y. Supp. 490.

Release by owner. Where the owner of land applied for and consented to the alteration of a highway which was wholly upon his farm, and himself closed a part of the highway which was abandoned, and opened and worked the new part, the failure to record a formal release did not render the order void so as cation, consent and order, a release from all damages from the owners of

to justify the invasion of the closed highway by persons having no rights except those common to the public. Engleman v. Longhorst, 120 N. Y. 332. Compare People ex rel. Clark v. Commissioner of Highways of Town of Reading, 1 T. & C. 193, where it was held that the fact the damages had neither been released nor assessed constituted a complete answer to an application for a writ of mandamus to open and improve a highway.

Where a release of lands by the owner for highway purposes though left with the clerk for filing is lost and there is no evidence of its contents, mandamus will not issue to compel the commissioners to open the highway. People ex rel. Eastman v. Scott, 75 N. Y. Supp. 410.

The order laying out the highway must either be signed by all the commissioners or must show that they were all notified to participate. Fitch v. Commissioners, 22 Wend. 132; People v. Hynds, 30 N. Y. 470; s. c., 27 Barb. 94; People v. Williams, 36 N. Y. 441; Simmons v. Sines, 4 Abb. Dec. 246; Matter of Summit Street, 3 How. Pr. 26; Matter of Church Street, 49 Barb. 455; Christy v. Newton, 60 Barb. 332; Chapman v. Swan, 65 Barb. 210; Pratt v. People, 13 Hun, 664; Stewart v. Wallis, 30 Barb. 344.

Injunction to restrain change of highway.—Those living upon a highway that affords them access to other places may maintain an action to prevent the demolition of a section of the highway, though that portion threatened with destruction is not the part upon which their lands abut and the abutting owners at the point of demolition consent thereto. Greene v. Goodwin Sand & Gravel Co., 72 Misc. 192.

2a. A strip of land eleven feet wide cannot become a highway by dedication Ricketson v. Village of Saranac Lake, 73 Misc. 52.

Failure to record order laying out highway.—The provision of this section, requiring an order laying out a highway to be filed and recorded in the town clerk's office, is not mandatory and failure to comply therewith does not make the town a trespasser. Tomlinson v. Town of Southampton, 143 App. Div. 487, 127 N. Y. Supp. 965.

lands taken or affected thereby,[2b] when the consideration for such release, as agreed upon between such town superintendent, and owner or owners, shall not in any one case, from any one claimant, exceed one hundred dollars, and from all claimants five hundred dollars.[3] An order of the town superintendent, as herein provided, shall be final. [Highway Law, § 191, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 322; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2277.]

§ 3. APPLICATION.

Any person or corporation assessable for highway taxes may make written application to the town superintendent of the town in which he or it shall reside, or is assessable, to alter or discontinue a highway, or to lay out a new highway.[4] Such application must be approved by the written consent, indorsed thereon and attached thereto, of a majority of the members of the town board. [Highway Law, § 192, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 472; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2282.]

2b. Filing papers. It is not sufficient, under this provision, to record release and file application, consent and order; all such papers must be both filed and recorded. People ex rel. Simmons v. Dowling, 84 Misc. 201, 146 N. Y. Supp. 919.

3. For form of order of town superintendent laying out or altering highway with consent of town board, see Form No. 122, post. For form of release of damages by owners of the land, see Form No. 123, post. For form of consent of town board, see Form No. 124, post.

4. Who may make application. To give a town superintendent jurisdiction of proceedings to lay out a highway, an application must be made in writing by a person liable to be assessed for highway labor. Harrington v. People, 6 Barb. 607.

Any person assessable for highway labor may make the application. People v. Eggleston, 13 How. Pr. 123.

A person liable to be assessed for highway labor in one town may initiate proceedings to lay out a highway located partly in his own town and partly in another town. People ex rel. Knapp v. Keck, 90 Hun, 499; 36 N. Y. Supp. 51.

Residents of a village within a town are not proper applicants for the laying out of a road in the town outside of the village. Commissioners v. Meserole, 10 Wend. 123.

A municipal corporation assessable for highway taxes in a town may make application. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co. v. Village of New Rochelle, 29 Misc. 195, 60 N. Y. Supp. 904.

Town superintendents of highways, as such, may not make application to lay out a highway People ex rel. Bevins v. Supervisors, 82 Hun. 298, 31 N. Y. Supp. 248. But they may lay out a road of their own motion without any application therefor. Marble v. Whitney, 28 N. Y. 297.

Application by a person liable to assessment is not necessary to confer jurisdiction upon the town superintendent of highways to discontinue a road; they have power to discontinue on their own motion, and therefore, a defective application does not invalidate such proceedings. People ex rel. Bristol v. Nichols, 51 N. Y. 470.

The appearance of the attorney for the town superintendent of highways as attorney for the applicants in a proceeding for the improvement of a highway is not necessarily a sufficient ground to invalidate the proceeding. Matter of Laidlaw (1914), 162 App. Div. 755, 148 N. Y. Supp. 56.

§ 4. APPLICATION FOR CONDEMNATION COMMISSIONERS.

Whenever the land is not dedicated to the town for highway purposes, and not released as herein provided, the applicant shall, within thirty days after presenting the application to the town superintendent, and after at least five days' notice to said town superintendent of the time and place of the application to the county court, in this section provided for, by verified petition showing the applicant's right to so present the same, and that such application has been in good faith presented, and if the county judge require on such notice to such parties interested as he shall direct, apply to the county court of the county where such highway shall be, for the appointment of three commissioners to determine upon the necessity of such highway proposed to be laid out or altered, or to the uselessness of the highway proposed to be discontinued and to assess the damages by reason of laying out, opening, altering or discontinuing such highway.[5]

Necessity of application. It is not necessary to the valid laying out of a highway that there should have been a written application therefor; the commissioner may act of his own motion. McCarthy v. Whalen, 19 Hun 503; affd. 87 N. Y. 148; Gould v. Glass, 19 Barb. 179; People v. Supervisors of Richmond, 20 N. Y. 252.

A proceeding under this section to determine whether a highway has become useless and should be abandoned, may be maintained although the highway in question has not yet been opened. Any change of conditions rendering a highway useless is as effective as if its uselessness had arisen from age and use. Matter of McFadden, 96 App. Div. 58, 89 N. Y. Supp. 104.

Sale of property pending application. A proceeding to alter a highway, instituted by the owner of a farm in the town where the highway is located, is not impaired by the applicant's sale of the farm during the pendency of the proceeding and before confirmation of the report of the commissioners, where the owner released all claim for damages and in the conveyance reserved the lands released for highway purposes and for the purposes of the proceeding. Matter of Morse, 69 Misc. 29, 125 N. Y. Supp. 739.

Consent of town board is jurisdictional and cannot be waived by the board; hence where such consent has not been obtained the proceeding should be dismissed. Matter of Fenton (1916), 173 App. Div. 284, 160 N. Y. Supp. 1129.

For forms of applications to lay out, alter or discontinue a highway, see Forms Nos. 125, 126 and 127, post.

For form of application to county court for the appointment of commissioners under the above section, see Form No. 128, post.

5. Proceedings to determine necessity for highway, or for its alteration or discontinuance. Sections 193-203 of the Highway Law provide the procedure for the determination of the necessity of a highway proposed to be laid out or altered or the usefulness of a highway proposed to be discontinued. The statute contemplates that an application shall first be made to the highway commissioner as provided in section 192 of the Highway Law, ante, p. 911, and within thirty days thereafter an application may be made to the County Court for the appointment of commissioners. See People ex rel. Knapp v. Keck, 90 Hun, 497; 36 N. Y. Supp. 51; People ex rel. Smith v. Allen, 37 App. Div. 248; 55 N. Y. Supp. 1057.

Section 193 of the Highway Law and the immediately following sections are designed to point out the initiatory steps in all proceedings to lay out a new highway. Matter of Taylor and Allen, 8 App. Div. 395; 40 N. Y. Supp. 839. There must be a strict compliance with the requirements of the statute in instituting proceedings relating to the laying out, alteration or discontinuance of highways. People ex rel. Scrafford v. Stedman, 57 Hun, 280; 10 N. Y. Supp. 787.

Such application shall be accompanied by the written undertaking of the Waiver by town superintendent. The provision of this section that an application be made to the county court for an order appointing commissioners to determine the necessity for the proposed highway may not be waived by the town superintendent. Matter of Laidlaw, 153 App. Div. 343, 137 N. Y. Supp. 1076.

When proceedings will lie. The statute does not impose upon the town any liability for damages sustained by an abutting owner by reason of a change of grade of a highway. Smith v. Boston & Albany R. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 94, 91 N. Y. Supp. 412.

A land owner from whose town a private road leads into another town and there ends in a cul-de-sac, may properly apply to have this road which has been used for more than twenty years laid out as a public road to the boundary line between the towns. Matter of Burdick, 27 Misc. 298, 58 N. Y. Supp. 759.

Sufficiency of application. The above section does not require that an application to the County Court for the appointment of commissioners in a proceeding to lay out a highway shall contain affirmative allegations that the land proposed to be taken has not been dedicated to the town for highway purposes, or has not been released by the owner for that purpose, or that it has been made within thirty days after its presentation to the commissioners of highways, and the failure of the applicant to allege such facts does not deprive the court of jurisdiction to entertain the proceeding. Matter of Buell, 168 N. Y. 423. The petition must show that the petitioner was assessable in the town and that the land to be taken for the new highway was not dedicated to the town for highway purposes or released by the owners. Matter of Pugh 46 App. Div. 634, 61 N. Y. Supp. 1145, reversing 22 Misc. 43, 49 N. Y. Supp. 398.

Proceedings for discontinuance. A proceeding for the appointment of commissioners to determine whether a highway has become useless and should be abandoned, may be maintained although the highway in question has not yet been opened nor the damages been paid for the same. Matter of McFadden, 96 App. Div. 58, 89 N. Y. Supp. 104.

A petition for the discontinuance of a highway need not set forth any facts except such as are required by this section; it need not allege that the portion of the highway proposed to be discontinued is useless. Matter of Rushmore, 57 Misc. 555, 109 N. Y. Supp. 1099.

Uselessness must be shown. The term "useless," as used in this section, means "practically useless," and not "absolutely useless." Matter of Trask, 45 Misc. 244, 92 N. Y. Supp. 156. The uselessness of a highway proposed to be discontinued, refers to that of a road for a time opened, but by change of circumstances losing its usefulness; not to a uselessness existing at the time it was laid out. People ex rel. Miller v. Griswold, 67 N. Y. 59. Any change of conditions rendering a highway useless is as effective as if its uselessness had arisen from age and use. Matter of McFadden, 96 App. Div. 58, 89 N. Y. Supp. 104. To authorize the discontinuance of a highway, the weight of evidence must show and the commissioners must find that it is useless; a finding that it is not necessary, or that a proposed new road would be better, is insufficient. Matter of Coe, 19 Misc. 549, 44 N. Y. Supp. 910.

Notice. Omission to give the required notice to persons entitled thereto is fatal. People ex rel. Willis v. Smith, 7 Hun 17. Notice served upon the afternoon of June sixth of an application to be made in the morning of June eleventh for the appointment of commissioners pursuant to this section is applicant executed by one or more sureties, approved by the county judge,[6] to the effect that if the commissioners appointed determine that the proposed highway or alteration is not necessary or that the highway proposed to be discontinued is not useless, the sureties will pay to the commissioners their compensation at the rate of four dollars for each day necessarily spent and all costs and expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties, which amount shall not exceed the sum of one hundred dollars. Whenever the town superintendent of highways of any township shall determine that public necessity requires the laying out of a new or additional highway, and the land thereof cannot be obtained by the dedication of the owners thereof, he may apply to the town board of his town for permission to institute a proceeding to acquire so much land as may be necessary to lay out such new or additional highway, and when such consent shall have been given by the town board of such town, the said town superintendent of highways may apply to the county court of the county in which such proposed highway is situated, for the appointment of commissioners in like manner as is provided by this section where such application is made by any person or corporation assessable for highway taxes, except that when such application shall be made by the town superintendent of highways, that at least five days' notice of the time and place of the application shall be given to the owners of the lands sought to be acquired, providing such owners can be ascertained by such town superintendent, or if the owners thereof are not known to the town superintendent, by the serving of a copy of the notice of such application upon the occupants of said premises. When such application is made by the town five days' notice within the meaning of the statute. Matter of Niel, 55 Misc. 317, 106 N. Y. Supp. 479.

Waiver of notice. Although town superintendents are entitled by this section to five days' notice of the application to lay out a new highway, they waive such notice by appearing before the county court without objection. Matter of Wood, 111 App. Div. 781, 97 N. Y. Supp. 871. The town superintendent, who is the only person entitled as a matter of right to notice of the application, has the power to waive such notice and appear without notice. Matter of Wood, 107 App. Div. 514, 95 N. Y. Supp. 260.

Employment of attorneys. Town superintendents upon receiving notice of an application for the appointment of commissioners to lay out a highway may employ attorneys to oppose such application, and the expense thereof may be paid by them and thereafter audited by the town board. McCoy v. McClarty, 53 Misc. 69, 104 N. Y. Supp. 80. But compare People ex rel. Bevins v. Supervisors, 82 Hun 298, 31 N. Y. Supp. 248.

6. The undertaking of the applicant is insufficient unless it is approved by the judge as required in the above section. Matter of Fanning, 26 App. Div. 627; 50 N. Y. Supp. 1126.

An omission to file the undertaking of commissioners under section 193 of the Highway Law may be corrected under section 721 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Matter of Laidlaw, 162 App. Div. 755, 148 N. Y. Supp. 56.

superintendent of highways, no undertaking shall be required of the applicant.[7] [Highway Law, § 193, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 344.]

§ 5. APPOINTMENT OF CONDEMNATION COMMISSIONERS, AND THEIR DUTIES.

Upon the presentation of such petition, the county court must appoint three disinterested freeholders, who shall not be named by any person interested in the proceedings, who shall be residents of the county, but not of the town wherein the highway is located, and who shall not be related by consanguinity or affinity within the sixth degree to the applicant or to any person interested in the proceeding or to the owner of any lands to be taken or affected by the laying out, alteration or discontinuance of a highway, as commissioners to determine the questions mentioned in the last section.[8] They shall take the constitutional oath of office, and

7. Expense of proceedings. The intent of the statute is, if the proposed improvement should be carried into effect, the costs and expenses occasioned by it should be defrayed by the town, but in case of a determination adverse to the proposed improvement the expense should be borne by the applicant. See Highway Law, sec. 202, as to costs in cases of assessment of damages, post, p. 924. In the case of Matter of Miller, 9 App. Div. 260; 41 N. Y. Supp. 581, a proceeding instituted by a private individual for the laying out of a highway failed because the owner of a brick yard, through which the highway was laid out, did not consent, and because the highway commissioners did not certify that the public interests would be promoted by the opening of the highway. It was held that although the commissioners appointed by the court reported in favor of the highway that it was improper for the County Court to impose upon the town the payment of the fees of the commissioners; the town cannot be made responsible for such fees unless there is a valid assessment of damages, and in no case can the town be chargeable where the proposed improvement fails. The limit of the sum chargeable to the applicant is fixed at $50, and where this amount has already been paid as costs of the adverse parties the applicant cannot be compelled to pay the compensation of the commissioners. Patton v. Miller, 28 App. Div. 517; 51 N. Y. Supp. 202.

Qualifications of commissioners. Commissioners appointed to determine as to the uselessness of a highway must be freeholders at the time of their appointment. Matter of Trask, 81 App. Div. 318, 81 N. Y. Supp. 53.

Where a notice and petition in proceedings instituted to lay out a highway state all the facts required by the statute the county court may make an order appointing commissioners, the effect of which is an adjudication that the persons appointed are eligible. The fact that it does not appear in the appoint a time and place at which they shall all meet to hear the town superintendent and supervisor of the town where such highway is situated, and others interested therein.[9] They shall personally examine the highway described in the application, hear any reasons that may be offered for or against the laying out, altering or discontinuing of the highway, and assess all damages by reason thereof.[10] They may adjourn the proceedings order that such commissioners were "disinterested freeholders" residing in the county is not a defect affecting the court's jurisdiction. Matter of Baker, 173 N. Y. 249. Statement that commissioners were freeholders allowed to stand in return to certiorari although not appearing in the record. People ex rel. Lovell v. Melville, 7 Misc. 214, 27 N. Y. Supp. 1101.

Order appointing commissioners. If the petition has been presented in good faith, it is the duty of the county court to appoint the commissioners asked for; the provisions of this section are explicit in this respect. Matter of McFadden, 96 App. Div. 58, 89 N. Y. Supp. 104.

Where a town superintendent, served with notice of an application for the appointment of commissioners under this section, fails to appear upon such application but afterwards appears before the commissioners then appointed and opposes the opening of a highway, he waives all irregularities in the appointment of the commissioners. Matter of Niel, 55 Misc. 317, 106 N. Y. Supp. 479.

An order appointing commissioners in proceedings to lay out, alter and extend a highway may be filed nunc pro tunc after the commissioners have acted. Matter of Laidlaw (1914), 162 App. Div. 755, 148 N. Y. Supp. 56.

9. The constitutional oath of office required of commissioners appointed under this section means the oath prescribed in art. 13, § 1, of the Constitution, requiring among other things, an oath to support the federal and state Constitutions; this requirement is mandatory, and where it is not embodied in the oath taken the proceeding is void and objections may be taken on the motion to confirm their decision. Matter of David, 44 Misc. 192, 89 N. Y. Supp. 812. The taking of such oath is necessary to give the commissioners jurisdiction, and the parties to the proceedings have no right to waive an omission. People v. Connor, 46 Barb. 333. Failure of commissioners to take the constitutional oath of office renders their proceedings ineffectual and void. Matter of Thompson, 70 Misc. 285, 128 N. Y. Supp. 604.

Place of meeting. It is usual in these proceedings for the commissioners to meet as near to where the highways proposed to be laid out or discontinued are located, as possible, but there is nothing in the statutes nor in the decisions of the courts which compel the commissioners to have the hearings at any particular place in the town where the highways are located. Matter of Coe, 19 Misc. 549, 551; 44 N. Y. Supp. 910.

10. Hearing before commissioners. Owners of land affected by the discontinuance of a highway, although not abutting thereon, are entitled to be heard in opposition to the proceedings to discontinue. Such owners cannot be required by the commissioners to deposit a sum of money as a condition of being heard in opposition to the application. Matter of Coe, 19 Misc. 549; 44 N. Y. Supp. 910.

The commissioners appointed by the county court are not bound to follow the route of the petition for the road with precision, and an extension of one of the corners further than described in the petition is not erroneous if thereby a better road is obtained. People ex rel. Cecil v. Carman, 69 Hun, 118, 23 N. Y. Supp. 386.

before them from time to time, issue subpoenas and administer oaths in such proceedings, and they shall keep minutes of their proceedings, and shall reduce to writing all oral evidence given before them upon the subject of the assessment of damages.[11] They shall make duplicate certificates of their decision, and shall file one in the town clerk's office of the town, and the other, with such minutes and evidence, in the county clerk's office of the county in which the highway or proposed highway is located. [Highway Law, § 194; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2285.]

§ 6. NOTICE OF MEETING.

The applicant shall cause, at least eight days previous, written or printed notice to be posted up in not less than three public places in the town specifying, as near as may be, the highway proposed to be laid out, altered or discontinued, the tracts or parcels of land through which it runs, and the time and place of the meeting of the commissioners appointed by the county court to examine the highway as mentioned in the last section.[12] Such notice shall also, in like time, be personally served on the owner and occupant of the land, if they reside in the town, or by leaving the same at their residence with a person of mature age; if they do not reside in the same town, or service cannot be made, a copy of such notice shall be mailed to such owner and occupant, if their post-office address is known to the applicant or ascertainable by him upon reasonable inquiry. If the highway proposed to be laid out shall cross a railroad the applicant shall also cause notice of the time and place of the meeting of the commissioners to be given to the railroad company as required by section ninety of the railroad law. [Highway Law, § 195, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 246; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2287.]

§ 7. DECISION OF CONDEMNATION COMMISSIONERS IN FAVOR OF APPLICATION.

If a majority of the commissioners appointed by the county court shall Evidence. Error in the admission and exclusion of evidence relating to damages which would be sustained by reason of the construction of the proposed road, will authorize the reversal of order based upon the decision of the commissioners. Matter of Pugh, 46 App. Div. 634, 61 N. Y. Supp. 1145, revg. 22 Misc. 43, 49 N. Y. Supp. 398.

Adjournment. A majority of the commissioners have power to adjourn. Matter of Newland Avenue, 15 N. Y. Supp. 63; 38 N. Y. St. Rep. 796.

11. Issue of subpoenas and administering oaths. Such commissioners being authorized to issue subpoenas and take testimony have power to compel the attendance of witnesses and the giving of testimony by such witnesses. See Code Civ. Proc., secs. 854-862.

determine that the highway or alteration applied for is necessary, or that the highway proposed to be discontinued is useless, they shall assess all damages which may be required to be assessed by reason thereof and make duplicate certificates to that effect.[13] If the petition is for the laying out of a highway, the commissioners shall also include in their certificates what the probable cost would be of laying out and completing the proposed highway, in their opinion, based upon the evidence given before

Determination as to necessity. To constitute a public necessity, it is not required that the entire community, or even a considerable portion of it, should directly participate in the benefits to be derived from the property taken. Matter of Town of Whitestown, 24 Misc. 150, 53 N. Y. Supp. 397. The statute contemplates that the question of necessity shall be decided by the commissioners, not by the court. Kelsey v. King, 32 Barb. 410.

Where the main object of a proceeding taken ostensibly to lay out a public highway, is to furnish access to the lot of an individual, there is no public necessity. In such a case the decision of the commissioners in favor of laying out the highway should be set aside, and the individual remitted to her right to apply for a private road. Matter of Lawton, 22 Misc. 426, 50 N. Y. Supp. 408.

Assessment of damages. Where an owner of land has previously offered to release the same for highway purposes it was nevertheless held that he was entitled to reasonable compensation where proceedings were brought for the determination of the necessity of the highway, and that an award giving nominal damages only was erroneous. Matter of the Terrace, 15 N. Y. Supp. 775; 39 N. Y. St. Rep. 270.

The names of the property owners and the amount of damages awarded to each should be contained in the certificate; but if the property owners are described without being named it is sufficient. Granger v. Syracuse, 38 How. Pr. 308. If the claims of title to lands damaged are conflicting, it is proper to award the damages to "owners unknown." Matter of Eleventh Ave., 49 How. Pr. 208. And where an award of damages was made to the husband of the owner it was held that the proceedings were not thereby invalidated. Mitchell v. White Plains, 16 N. Y. Supp. 828; 41 N. Y. St. Rep. 787.

Separate sums should be awarded as damages to lessor and lessee; but if the lessor is awarded the entire sum, the lessee may recover from him his proportionate share. Coutant v. Catlin, 2 Sand. Ch. 485. And where separate sums are awarded to each, the decision is conclusive as between them. Idem.; Turner v. Williams, 10 Wend. 139. No arbitrary rule can be prescribed for determining the damages to a leasehold interest occasioned by the laying out or discontinuance of a highway The value of such interest and the damages thereto must depend upon the location and business facilities of the property and the state of trade in the vicinity where it is located. Matter of Commissioners, 54 Hun, 313.

them on the hearings. [Highway Law, § 196; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2288.]

§ 8. DAMAGES IN CERTAIN CASES; HOW ESTIMATED.

The owner of lands within the bounds of a highway discontinued may enclose the same and have the exclusive use thereof, and the benefits resulting therefrom may be deducted in the assessment of damages caused by the laying out of a highway through his other lands in place of the discontinued highway. [Highway Law, § 197; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2290.]

§ 9. DECISION OF CONDEMNATION COMMISSIONERS DENYING APPLICATION.

If a majority of the commissioners appointed by the county court shall determine that the proposed highway or alteration is not necessary, or that the highway proposed to be discontinued is not useless, they shall make duplicate certificates to that effect.[14] The costs and expenses necessarily incurred by such commissioners in the proceeding shall be indorsed upon such duplicate certificates, and upon a confirmation of such decision and of the amount of such costs and expenses by the county court, such costs and expenses not exceeding one hundred dollars shall be payable by the applicants.[15] [Highway Law, § 198; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2290.

§ 10. MOTION TO CONFIRM, VACATE OR MODIFY.

Within thirty days after the decision of the commissioners shall have been filed in the town clerk's office, any person interested in the proceedings may apply to the court appointing the commissioners for an order confirming, vacating or modifying their decision, and such court may confirm, vacate or modify such decision.[16] If the decision be vacated,

15. Costs and expenses. The liability of an unsuccessful applicant being limited to $50, it was held that where the applicant had paid an amount equal to such sum as the costs of the contesting parties, under an order of the court, the commissioners appointed to determine the necessity of the proposed highway could not recover their fees from him. Patton v. Miller, 28 App. Div. 517; 51 N. Y. Supp. 202; see notes to sec. 193 of the Highway Law, ante, p. 912.

Limitation as to time. The purpose of the above section was to allow interested parties, who apply to the court for an order vacating or modifying the decision of the commissioners appointed in a proceeding to determine upon the necessity of a proposed highway and to assess damages, the period of thirty days within which to institute the application or motion. It was not the purpose of the section to require the application or motion to be actually made or heard within that time. Matter of Glenside Woolen Mills, 92 Hun, 188; 36 N. Y. Supp. 593. A service of the notice of motion within thirty days after the filing of the decision is sufficient, under the above section, although the motion is not returnable until after the expiration of such thirty days. Matter of Thompson, 85 App. Div. 221, 83 N. Y. Supp. 209.

Who may make motion. In the case of Matter of Coe, 19 Misc. 549, 550; 44 N. Y. Supp. 910, it was held that a resident taxpayer liable to assessment in a town for highway labor is a person interested within the meaning of the above section, and may make the motion to vacate the decision of the commissioners. See, also, under the former law, People ex rel. Ridgway v. Cortelyou, 36 Barb. 164; People ex rel. Banner v. Temple, 27 Hun, 128.

It is proper that the petitioner, an owner of land through which the road is to pass, be made a party defendant as a person specially interested; the town superintendent of the town has no more interest than any other taxpayer and is not properly made a party; the town may be made a party, but it must be done by the court before the certiorari is brought to a hearing, and not by the appellate court. People ex rel. D. L. & W. R. R. Co. v. County Court, 92 Hun 13, 37 N. Y. Supp. 869, affirmed 152 N. Y. 214.

17. Right to modify decision. The Constitution, sec. 7, art. 1, as amended in 1913, provides that "when private property shall be taken for any public use, the compensation to be made therefor, when such compensation is not made by the state, shall be ascertained by a jury, or by the supreme court with or without a jury, but not with a referee, or by not less than three commissioners appointed by a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law." The power vested in the County Court to modify the decision of the commissioners as prescribed in the above section must be deemed limited by this constitutional provision. The County Court cannot modify the decision of the commissioners as to the amount of damages to be awarded. People ex rel. Hanford v. Thayer, 88 Hun, 137, 140; 34 N. Y. Supp. 592. Where a County Court modifies the decision of commissioners in a manner not asked for by either party, and affirms the decision as thus modified, the modification of the court should be stricken out. Matter of Sly, 177 N. Y. 465.

The county court may appoint successive commissions until it is satisfied that the statute has been complied with, and thereby no provision of the Constitution is violated if the commissioners are of the right number and upon the service of papers upon adverse parties in the proceeding, according to the usual practice of the court in actions and special proceedings pending therein; and the decision of the county court shall be final, excepting that a new hearing may be ordered as herein provided, and excepting that any such decision may be reviewed on appeal upon questions affecting jurisdiction, and rulings and exceptions made and taken upon the hearing before the commissioners. If the final decision be adverse to the applicant, no other application for laying out, altering or discontinuing the same highway shall be made within two years.[17a] [Highway Law, § 199; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2291.]

§ 11. LIMITATIONS UPON LAYING OUT HIGHWAYS.

No highway shall be laid out less than three rods in width, nor through an orchard of the growth of four years or more, or any garden cultivated as such for four years or more, or grape vineyards of one or more years' growth, and used in good faith for vineyard purposes, or buildings or any fixtures or erections for the purpose of trade or manufactures, or any yard or enclosure necessary to the use and enjoyment thereof, without the consent of the owner or owners thereof, unless so ordered by the county court of the county in which the proposed highway is situated; such order shall appointed by the proper authority. Schneider v. City of Rochester, 90 Hun 171, 35 N. Y. Supp. 786.

Modification of decision as to compensation. The provisions of the Const., art. 1, § 7, require that the compensation for property taken for public use shall be ascertained by a jury, or by three commissioners appointed by a court of record. This precludes the court from modifying the decision of the commissioners as to the amount of damages awarded for land taken. Matter of Village of Middletown, 82 N. Y. 196 (1880).

The County Court cannot arbitrarily set aside an award made by commissioners, unless some error of law is plainly manifest. The commissioners in assessing damages are to be guided by their own judgment, as they view the premises, and can better estimate the amount of damages sustained than can a court sitting in review of their action. For the court to arbitrarily set aside their award would be to usurp the functions which the statute confers upon them rather than a judicial exercise of its own discretionary power. Matter of Carpenter, 11 Misc. 69; 32 N. Y. Supp. 826; Matter of Feeney, 20 Misc. 272; 45 N. Y. Supp. 830.

The act gives the landowner two opportunities to be heard, first before the commissioners, and second (if the decision be adverse), before the county court, on an application to vacate or modify the proceeding. The application to the county court is in the nature of a rehearing upon which new proofs may be presented bearing upon the questions in controversy. Matter of De Camp, 151 N. Y. 557; Rector v. Clark, 78 N. Y. 21.

17a. "Final decision" precluding new application within two years. Failure of a County Court to appoint commissioners within thirty days after the service of the application on the town superintendent of highways is not a "final decision" adverse to the applicant, within the meaning of this section, so as to preclude another application within two years. Matter of Laidlaw (1914), 162 App. Div. 755, 148 N. Y. Supp. 56.

be made on the certificate of the town superintendent of the town or towns in which the proposed highway is situated, showing that the public interest will be greatly promoted by the laying out and opening of such highway, and that commissioners appointed by the court have certified that it is necessary; a copy of the certificate with eight days' notice of the time and place of the hearing before the county court shall be served on the owners of the land, or if they are not residents of the county upon the occupants; the county court upon such certificates, and the proofs and other proceedings therein, may order the highway to be laid out and opened, if it deems it necessary and proper.[18] The town superintendent

Highways through buildings, yards and inclosures. The statute expressly deprives town superintendents of jurisdiction to lay out a road through any building or any fixtures or erections for the purpose of trade or manufacture, or in yards or inclosures necessary for the use and enjoyment thereof, and provides, in such cases, for a proceeding before the county judge to be confirmed by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Beardslee v. Dolge, 143 N. Y. 160, 164; 38 N. E. 205; see, also, Matter of Oakley Ave., 85 Hun, 446; 32 N. Y. Supp. 1146. But a yard cannot be extended to take in a portion of a highway after it has been laid out by a commissioner. People ex rel. Miller v. Cornes, 1 Hun, 530; nor can buildings be erected so as to prevent the opening of a highway after it has been laid out. People ex rel. Hubbard v. Harris, 63 N. Y. 391.

Ground adjoining a saw mill and used for piling logs, but whose limits are not fixed by fences or other visible marks nor definite occupation, is not within the statute. People ex rel. Williams v. Kingman, 24 N. Y. 559.

The provision of the above section prohibiting the laying out of a highway through a garden which has been previously cultivated for four years, does not apply to all land inclosed within a garden. The protection of the statute extends only to land which is part of a cultivated garden and actually used as such. People ex rel. Cook v. Commissioners of Highways, 57 N. Y. 549. See, also, People ex rel. Stanton v. Horton, 8 Hun, 357. It does not follow that a whole field is an orchard because there are fruit trees in some part of it. People v. Judges of Duchess, 23 Wend. 361. Whether land is a garden is a question of fact. People ex rel. Clinch v. Moore, 15 N. Y. Supp. 504; 39 N. Y. St. Rep. 881; affd. 129 N. Y. 639.

There is no invasion of an orchard when none of the trees come within the survey and the owner is not deprived of the beneficial use and enjoyment of any of his trees by the opening of the highway. Snyder v. Plass, 28 N. Y. 465; Snyder v. Trumpbour, 38 N. Y. 355. It does not follow that the whole field is an orchard, because there are fruit trees in some part of it; the trees must be so near as to be harmed by the opening of the road. People ex rel. Seward v. Judges of Duchess, 23 Wend. 360.

It is the duty of the town superintendent to lay out a road as described in the report of commissioners, except that by virtue of this section he cannot lay it out through a building unless especially permitted by the court. Beck v. Gibbard, 140 App. Div. 745, 126 N. Y. Supp. 296.

In case the highway to be laid out shall constitute an extension or continuation of a public highway already in use, and shall not, as to such new portion, exceed half a mile in length, the town superintendent may lay out such extension or continuation of a width of not less than three rods, provided, however, that it be not less than the widest part of the highway of which it is an extension or continuation.[21] In such case the town superintendent shall Taxpayer's action to enjoin town officials from proceeding with the widening of a highway. Where in a taxpayer's action to enjoin town officials from proceeding with the widening of a highway the claim is made that the improvement involved a taking of yards or inclosures in two out of many pieces of property along the highway, and therefore confirmation by the court is required by section 200 of the Highway Law, but only a small diminution of country door yards or lawns is ordered in the course of the widening proceeding on due compensation to the owners, defendants are entitled to judgment for a dismissal of the complaint. Kubak v. Halsey, 86 Misc. 281, 148 N. Y. Supp. 384.

21. Highways less than three rods wide. Under this section as amended, highways less than three rods in width cannot be laid out, without the approval of the County Court and the Appellate Division, except in the case of the extension of a highway already in use, in which case the highway to be laid out must come within the terms of the provisions of the amendment. Matter of Adolph, 102 App. Div. 371, 92 N. Y. Supp. 841.

The failure of the commissioners to comply with § 200 of the statute by designating the width of the highway is a defect which the county court has no power under § 199 to correct. Matter of Feeney, 20 Misc. 272, 45 N. Y. Supp. 830. Where the order of the commissioners appointed by the court omits to state the width of the road, it is too indefinite to be of any force, although when the starting point, courses, distances and terminus have been given as a center line, perhaps the width, to-wit, three rods, may be inferred. § 12. LAYING OUT HIGHWAYS THROUGH BURYING-GROUNDS.

No private road or highway shall be laid out or constructed upon or through any burying-ground, unless the remains therein contained are first carefully removed, and properly reinterred in some other burying-ground, at the expense of the persons desiring such road or highway, and pursuant to an order of the county court of the county in which the same is situated, obtained upon notice to such persons as the court may direct. [Highway Law, § 201; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2298.]

§ 13. COSTS; BY WHOM PAID.

In all cases of assessments of damages by commissioners appointed by the county court, the costs thereof shall be paid by the town thereof, except that when reassessment of damages shall be had on the application of the party for whom the damages were assessed, and such damages shall not be increased on such reassessment, the costs shall be paid by the party applying for the reassessment; and when application shall be made by two or more persons for the reassessment of damages, all persons who may be liable for costs under this section shall be liable in proportion to the amount of damages respectively assessed to the first assessment, and may be recovered by action in favor of any person entitled to the same.[22]

22. The word "costs" as used in this section does not apply to a personal debt incurred by a town superintendent, nor can it be made to so apply by any fair construction of the statute, nor can the word be so construed as to include a bill for legal services rendered by an attorney employed by the highway commissioner. § 14. DAMAGES ASSESSED, AND COSTS TO BE AUDITED.

All damages to be agreed upon, or which may be finally assessed, and costs against the town, as herein provided, shall be laid before the board of town auditors, or in towns not having a board of town auditors, before the town board, to be audited with the charges of the commissioners, justices, surveyors or other persons or officers employed in making the assessment, and for whose services the town shall be liable, and the amount shall be placed upon the town abstract and levied and collected in the town in which the highway is situated, and the money so collected shall be paid to the supervisor of such town, who shall pay to the owner the sum assessed to him, and appropriate the residue to satisfy the charges aforesaid.[23] If the whole amount of damages and costs to be paid by the town be less than five hundred dollars, the town board may borrow the amount thereof, in anticipation of taxes, levied or to be levied therefor, at a rate of interest not exceeding the legal rate. If they cannot agree, they or either of them may certify the fact of their disagreement to the county court of that county, if the proposed highway is all in one county, or if in different counties, or if the county judge is disqualified or unable to act, to the supreme court; such court shall thereupon appoint three commissioners, freeholders of the county, not residents of the same town, village or city, where the highway is located; or if between two counties, then freeholders of another county, who shall take the constitutional oath of office, and upon due notice to all persons interested view the proposed highway, or proposed alteration of a highway, administer all necessary oaths, and take such evidence as they deem proper, and shall decide all questions that shall arise on the hearing, as to the laying out or altering of such highway, its location, width, grade and character of roadbed, or any point that may arise relating thereto; and if they decide to open or alter any highway, they shall ascertain and appraise the damages, if any, to the individual owners and occupants of the land through which such new or altered highway is proposed to pass, and shall report such evidence and decision to such court, with their assessment of damages, if any, with all convenient speed.[25] On the coming in of such report, the court

And all orders and decisions in the matter shall be filed in the county clerk's office of each county where the highway is located, and shall be duly recorded therein. This section shall not be so construed as to compel any town or towns to construct, repair or maintain a bridge upon a boundary between towns, where previous to May seventh, nineteen hundred and three, an application had been made to any court, to compel the construction, repair and maintenance of a bridge upon such a boundary line, and such application had been denied. § 16. DIFFERENCE ABOUT IMPROVEMENTS.

When the town superintendent or the officers of a village or city having the powers of town superintendents therein, shall desire to make a new or altered highway extending beyond the bounds of such town, village, or city, a better highway than is usually made for a common highway, with a special grade or roadbed, drainage or improved plan, and are willing to bear the whole or part of the expense thereof beyond such bounds, but cannot agree in regard to the same, upon written application of either of the superintendents or officers, and notice to all parties interested, such court shall make an equitable adjustment of the matters, and may direct that in consideration of the payment of such portion of the additional expense by the town, village or city that desires the improved and better highway, as shall be equitable, its officers, contractors, servants and agents may go into such town, village or city, and make the grade and roadbed, and do whatever may be necessary and proper for the completion of such better highway, advancing the money to do it; the amount of damages to each owner or occupant shall be ascertained and determined by commissioners, who shall be appointed, and whose proceedings shall be conducted in the manner provided by the last preceding section; and upon the coming in of their report of damages, and of the expenses paid, such court shall, on notice to all parties interested, direct that the amount of damages assessed each owner or occupant, if any, and all such expenses be paid by each, any or all of such towns, villages or cities as shall be

§ 17. HIGHWAY IN TWO OR MORE TOWNS.

When application is made to lay out, alter or discontinue a highway located in two or more towns, all notices or proceedings required to be served upon the town superintendents shall be served upon the town superintendent of each town; and the commissioners appointed by the court shall determine the amount of damages to be paid by each town, and when the towns are in different counties, the application for the appointment of commissioners shall be made to a special term of the supreme court held in the district where the highway or some part of it is located; and the same proceedings shall thereafter be had in the supreme court of such district as are authorized by this chapter to be had in the county court.[26] [Highway Law, § 206; B. 26. Construction of section. This section must be construed in connection with section 204 of the Highway Law, ante. In the case of Matter of Barrett, 7 App. Div. 482, 487; 40 N. Y. Supp. 266, the court said: "The legislature in 1890 made a thorough revision of the highway laws upon the subject of laying out, altering and discontinuing highways, and cast the primary duty upon the commissioners of highways of the towns through which the proposed highway is to pass, in case the highway passes through different towns or counties, of determining important questions preliminary to the application to the court for the appointment of commissioners. Section 94 [204] plainly requires the meeting of these town commissioners and their certificate of disagreement in cases where the proposed highway passes through different towns of the same county, and also in cases where it passes through different counties. In the former case the application, as we have seen, for the appointment of commissioners must be made to the County Court; in the latter case, for obvious reasons to the Supreme Court. This makes the action of the local commissioners and their certificate of disagreement jurisdictional. The County Court in the one instance and the Supreme Court in the other, obtains no right to appoint commissioners unless such meeting occurred and the certificate is presented. Section 96 [206] does not conflict with section 94 [204]. Its provisions are simply for the purpose of carrying out in detail and in substantial manner the requirements of section 94 [204.]."

§ 18. LAYING OUT, DIVIDING AND MAINTAINING HIGHWAY UPON TOWN LINE.

An application to lay out a highway upon the line between two or more towns shall be made to the town superintendents of each town, who shall act together in the matter; and, upon laying out any such highway, the expense of opening, working and keeping the same in repair shall be borne equally by such towns. The town superintendents shall cause a map and survey of the highway to be recorded in the office of the town clerk in each of the respective towns. If such highway be upon a line between one or more towns and a city or incorporated village, such application shall also be made to the officers of such city or village having the powers of the town superintendents and such officers may agree with the town superintendents of such towns as to division of such expense. Whenever such officers shall disagree, the question shall be submitted to the district or county superintendent or superinendents representing the county or counties, district or districts in which such highway is located and their decision shall be final when approved by the state commission. All highways heretofore laid out upon the line between any two towns or between a town and a city or an incorporated village shall be divided and allotted or redivided and reallotted, recorded and kept in repair in the manner above directed; and all bridges upon such highways shall be built and maintained jointly by the towns whether wholly located within one of them or otherwise. The expense of such construction of such new highway or alteration of an existing highway, shall be a charge upon and against the town in which such highway is constructed or any existing highway is altered, and when same is completed the town board of such town may issue certificates of indebtedness for such expense, to draw interest at the rate of not to exceed five per centum per annum until paid, and shall at the next annual meeting for auditing accounts, after such work is done, and after such certificates may have been issued, audit such claims against the town, including interest, if any, and include same in the annual tax budget to be collected from the taxpayers of said town to pay said indebtedness; such money to be paid over to the supervisor of the town and by him paid and applied to the purposes aforesaid. This amendment is made subject to the provisions of section forty-eight, relating to contracts for construction. [Highway Law, § 208, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 318; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2302.]

§ 20. HIGHWAYS BY USE.

All lands which shall have been used by the public as a highway for the period of twenty years or more, shall be a highway, with the same force and effect as if it had been duly laid out and recorded as a highway, and the town superintendent shall open all such highways to the width of at least two rods.[28] [Highway Law, § 209; B. § 22. PRIVATE ROAD.

An application for a private road shall be made in writing to the town superintendent of the town in which it is to be located, specifying its width and location, courses and distances, and the names of the owners and occupants of the land through which it is proposed to be laid out.[30] [Highway Law, § 211; B. A road or way laid out and opened by a milk company from a public highway to its plant, a distance of about thirty rods, for the accommodation of the company and its patrons and used for over twenty years, does not become a public highway by prescription, without any formal dedication thereof, unless it has been accepted and adopted by the town authorities, or its repairs and maintenance assumed by such town. Rept. of Atty. Genl. (1915), p. 136.

Reduction of width; when alley laid out on map cannot be dedicated for highway purposes. Chapter 204 of the Laws of 1897, amending the Highway Law of 1890 by which the width of highways was reduced from three to two rods, superseded and is a substitute for chapter 198 of the Laws of 1826 under which it was lawful to lay out public roads not less than three rods in width, and an alley only eight feet wide as laid out on a map and as it existed prior to 1905 cannot be laid out or dedicated for highway purposes. The public authorities having neither adopted nor kept such strip in repair and its use not having been an uninterrupted one, it did not become a highway by prescription under this section which declares all land a highway which shall have been used by the public as such for twenty years. Farmers and Mechanics' Savings Bank v. City of Lockport (1915), 89 Misc. 157, 151 N. Y. Supp. 865.

This section should be read in connection with section 2 of chapter 186 of the Laws of 1826 and effect given to both, and when so read this section should be construed to mean that land used as a highway by the public for twenty years shall become a highway provided it complies with the law as to width. It is intended that notice to remove fences be given in all cases of highways laid out through inclosed lands, whether laid out directly or indirectly by the town superintendent. Case v. If there is an appeal from the order of the town superintendent, the notice cannot be given until it is determined; and pending the appeal the fence does not become a public nuisance. Drake v. Rogers, 3 Hill 604; Case v. Thompson, 6 Wend. 634.

In an action for obstruction of a highway the defendant, over whose land the way passes, may show failure to notify him to remove his fences, to prove that the alleged highway does not legally exist. Cooper v. Bean, 5 Lans. 318. If the town superintendent has no right to open a road without giving notice to the party to remove his fences, then he is bound to prove that such notice has been given in order to entitle himself to the protection afforded by the section. It is not incumbent on the owner of the land to prove that such notice had not been given. Case v. Thompson, 6 Wend. 634.

30. For form of application to the town superintendent of highways for a private road, see Form No. 140, post.

§ 23. JURY TO DETERMINE NECESSITY AND ASSESS DAMAGES.

The town superintendent to whom the application shall be made shall appoint as early a day as the convenience of the parties interested will allow, when, at a place designated in the town, a jury will be selected for the purpose of determining upon the necessity of such road, and to assess the damages by reason of the opening thereof.[31] [Highway Law, § 212; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2307.]

§ 24. COPY APPLICATION AND NOTICE DELIVERED TO APPLICANT.

Such town superintendent shall deliver to the applicant a copy of the application, to which shall be added a notice of the time and place appointed for the selection of the jury, addressed to the owners and occupants of the land. [Highway Law, § 213; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2307.]

§ 25. COPY AND NOTICE TO BE SERVED.

The applicant on receiving the copy and notice shall, on the same day, or the next day thereafter, excluding Sunday and holidays, cause such copy and notice to be served upon the persons to whom it is addressed, by delivering to each of them who reside in the same town a copy thereof, or in case of his absence, by leaving the same at his residence and upon such as reside elsewhere, by depositing in the post-office a copy thereof to each, properly enclosed in an envelope, addressed to them respectively at their postoffice address, and paying the postage thereon, or, in case of infant owners, by like service upon their parent or guardian. [Highway Law, § 214; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2307.]

§ 26. LIST OF JURORS.

At such time and place, on due proof of the service of the notice, the

In proceedings under the statute to lay out a private road, exact and technical accuracy is not required, but simply a substantial compliance with the statute. A description in an application by reference to a private way used by permission of the owner of the land for a great number of years, so that it has come to be called a road, is sufficiently definite. The courses need not be specified in the application by the compass in degrees and minutes; and where the general course is given as easterly, etc., and the exact course and distance can be determined from other particulars in the application, or by natural monuments referred to therein, the statute is substantially complied with. Satterly v. Winne, 101 N. Y. 218; 4 N. E. 185; see, also, People v. Taylor, 34 Barb. 481.

31. Constitutional provision. Section 7, art. 1, of the Constitution provides that "private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law, but in every case the necessity of the road and the amount of all damages to be sustained by the opening thereof shall be first determined by a jury of free holders, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceeding, shall be paid by the person to be benefited." The provision has been held not to apply to a way by necessity nor to a way used by the owner for his own convenience, and which crosses land afterwards subdivided and sold. Wheeler v. Gilsey, 35 How. Pr. 139. A taking of land for a private way is the taking of private property for private use, and is unlawful without express constitutional authority. Taylor v. Porter, 4 Hill 140.

town superintendent shall present a list of the names of thirty-six resident freeholders of the town, in no wise of kin to the applicant, owner or occupant, or either of them, and not interested in such lands. [Highway Law, § 215; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2308.]

§ 27. NAMES STRUCK OFF.

The owners or occupants of the land may strike from the list not more than twelve names, and the applicant a like number; and of the number which remains, the twelve names standing first on the list shall be the jury.[32] [Highway Law, § 216; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2308.]

§ 28. PLACE OF MEETING.

The town superintendent shall then appoint some convenient time and place for the jury to meet, and shall summon them accordingly.[33] [Highway Law, § 217; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2308.]

§ 29. JURY TO DETERMINE AND ASSESS DAMAGES.

The town superintendent and all the persons named and summoned on such jury, shall meet at the time and place appointed; but if one or more of the twelve jurors shall not appear, the town superintendent shall summon so many qualified to serve as such jurors as will be sufficient to make the number present twelve to forthwith appear and act as such; and when twelve shall have so appeared, they shall constitute the jury and shall be sworn well and truly to determine as to the necessity of the road, and to assess the damages by reason of the opening thereof. [Highway Law, § 218; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2309.]

§ 30. THEIR VERDICT.

The jury shall view the premises, hear the allegations of the parties,

32. Constitutionality. The amendments of 1904 to § 11 of the former Highway Law increased the number of the jury from six to twelve. Prior to this amendment it had been held that a jury of six drawn in the manner prescribed by this section did not comply with the constitutional requirement that the necessity of the road and the damages should be determined by a jury of freeholders. Berridge v. Shults, 32 Misc. 444, 66 N. Y. Supp. 204.

33. Summoning juries. The commissioners have no right to delegate the summoning of the jurors, but such summons will not be held invalid if the owner of the land proposed to be taken is present at the meeting of the jury and does not object to the proceeding. People v. Commissioners of Greenbush, 24 Wend. 367.

and such witnesses as they may produce, and if they shall determine that the proposed road is necessary, they shall assess the damages to the person or persons through whose land it is to pass, and deliver their verdict in writing to the town superintendent. [Highway Law, § 219; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2309.]

§ 31. VALUE OF HIGHWAY DISCONTINUED.

If the necessity of such private road has been occasioned by the alteration or discontinuance of a public highway running through the lands belonging to a person through whose lands the private road is proposed to be opened, the jury shall take into consideration the value of the highway so discontinued, and the benefit resulting to the person by reason of such discontinuance, and shall deduct the same from th damages assessed for the opening and laying out of such private road. [Highway Law, § 220; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2309.]

§ 32. PAPERS TO BE RECORDED IN THE TOWN CLERK'S OFFICE.

The town superintendent shall annex to such verdict the application, and their certificate that the road is laid out, and the same shall be filed and recorded in the town clerk's office. [Highway Law, § 221; B. C. & G. Cons L., p. 2309.]

§ 33. DAMAGES TO BE PAID BEFORE OPENING THE ROAD.

The damages assessed by the jury shall be paid by the party for whose benefit the road is laid out, before the road is opened or used; but if the jury shall certify that the necessity of such private road was occasioned by the alteration or discontinuance of a public highway, such damages shall be paid by the town and refunded to the applicant. [Highway Law, § 222; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2309.]

§ 34. FEES OF OFFICERS.

Every juror, in proceedings for a private road, shall be entitled to receive for his service one dollar and fifty cents; and town superintendents their per diem compensation to be paid by the applicant. [Highway Law, § 223; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2310.]

§ 35. MOTION TO CONFIRM, VACATE OR MODIFY.

Within thirty days after the decision of the jury shall have been filed in the town clerk's office, the owner, occupant or applicant may apply to the county court of the county wherein such private road is situated, for an order confirming, vacating or modifying their decision; and such court may confirm, vacate or modify such decision as it shall deem just and legal. If the decision is vacated, the court may order another hearing of the matter before another jury, and remit the proceedings to the town superintendent of the same town for that purpose. If no such motion is made, the decision of the jury shall be deemed final. The motion shall be brought on, upon the service of papers on the adverse party in the proceeding, according to the usual practice of the court in actions and special proceedings pending therein, and the decision of the county court shall be final, except that a new hearing may be had, as herein provided. If the final decision shall be adverse to the applicant, no other application for the same road shall be made within one year. [Highway Law, § 224, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 192; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2310.]

§ 36. COSTS OF NEW HEARING.

If upon a new hearing, the damages assessed are increased, the applicant shall pay the costs and expenses thereof, otherwise the owner shall pay the same. [Highway Law, § 225; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2311.]

§ 37. FORWHAT PURPOSE PRIVATE ROAD MAY BE USED.

Every such private road, when so laid out, shall be for the use of such applicant, his heirs and assigns; but not to be converted to any other use or purpose than that of a road; nor shall the occupant or owner of the land through which said road shall be laid out be permitted to use the same as a road, unless he shall have signified such intention to the jury who assessed the damages for laying out such road, and before such damages were assessed.[34] [Highway Law, § 226; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2311.]

34. Use of private roads. According to the true construction of the statute, the person on whose application a private road is laid out has the sole and exclusive right to use it, unless the occupant of the land at the time when it is laid out signified his intention to make use of it. Lambert v. Hoke, 14 Johns. 384.

The penalty provided by statute for obstructing the highway is not applicable to a private road (Fowler v. Lansing, 9 Johns. 349), and where an obstruction is placed in such a road by the owner of the land over which it is laid out, it cannot be lawfully removed by a person having no right to use the road. Drake v. Rodgers, 3 Hill, 604.

The original owner of the land should so locate his fences as not to § 38. HIGHWAYS OR ROADS ALONG DIVISION LINES.

Whenever a highway or private road shall be laid along the division line between lands of two or more persons, and wholly upon one side of the line, and the land upon both sides is cultivated or improved, the persons owning or occupying the lands adjoining such highway or road shall be paid for building and maintaining such additional fence as they may be required to build or maintain, by reason of the laying out and opening such highway or road; which damages shall be ascertained and determined in the same manner that other damages are ascertained and determined in the laying out of highways or private roads. [Highway Law, § 227; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2311.]

§ 39. ADJOURNMENTS.

If any accident shall prevent any of the proceedings required by this chapter relating to the laying out, altering or discontinuing of a highway, or the laying out of a private road, to be done on the day assigned, the proceedings may be adjourned to some other day, and the town superintendent shall publicly announce such adjournment. [Highway Law, § 228; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2311.]

§ 40. WIDENING ROADS; PETITION.

When any part of a highway in any town of this state, not in an incorporated village or city, running between two or more villages or cities, has, because of the wearing away by a river or stream or any other natural cause, become narrower than the width required by statute, and is dangerous to the users of such highway, twelve or more resident taxpayers of such town may present a petition to the county court of the county within which such town is situated. The petition shall describe the part of the highway proposed to be widened and state that such highway has become lessened in width by the action of a river or stream or other cause, that it is dangerous to the traveling public, that the widening and improvement of such highway is necessary for the public convenience and welfare, that the highway is an important leading road between two or more cities or villages, that the cost of such widening and improvement would exceed the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars and would be too burdensome on the town or towns otherwise liable therefor. Such encroach upon the width of the road, but the new owner will be deemed to have assented to such encroachment if he allows such fences to be so located without objection. Herrick v. Stover, 5 Wend. 580.

petition shall be verified by at least three of the petitioners. On receipt of the petition the county court shall forthwith appoint three commissioners who shall not be named by any person interested in the proceedings and who shall be taxpayers of such county, but who shall not reside in the town or towns in which the highway, proposed to be widened and improved, is situated. [Highway Law, § 229; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2311.]

§ 41. POWERS AND DUTIES OF COMMISSIONERS.

The commissioners shall take the constitutional oath of office and appoint a time and place for a meeting to hear all persons interested in the proposed widening of the highway. They shall personally examine the part of the highway proposed to be widened, hear any reasons for or against such widening and ascertain the probable cost of the work. They shall have power to issue subpœnas, administer oaths and examine witnesses; they shall keep the minutes of their proceedings and reduce to writing all oral evidence given before them. They shall make duplicate certificates of their decision, filing one in the town clerk's office of the town in which the said highway is located, and the other, with such minutes and evidence, in the county clerk's office of the county where the highway is located. Such commissioners shall have the same power as to the assessment of damages caused by the widening of such highway as commissioners appointed under this article for the discontinuance, alteration or laying out of a highway, and as to such assessment the same proceeding may be had for the confirmation, vacating or modifying of such decision, as provided in and by this article. The commissioners shall receive a compensation of five dollars for each day necessarily spent in the performance of their duties under this section, and the amount so paid to the said commissioners shall be a charge upon the town or towns in which the highway, proposed to be widened as aforesaid, is located. [Highway Law, § 230; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2312.]

§ 42. NOTICE OF DECISION TO SUPERVISORS.

If a majority of the commissioners shall determine that the proposed widening of the highway is necessary and that the cost thereof would be too burdensome for the town, exceeding in probable cost two thousand five hundred dollars, they shall notify the board of supervisors of the county of such decision. The board of supervisors shall thereupon cause one-half of the amount of the estimated cost to be raised by the county and paid to the supervisor of the town or towns in which that part of the highway proposed to be widened as aforesaid is located, and said supervisor shall apply the sum so received by him towards the payment of the cost of such widening. The balance of the expense shall be raised in the manner provided by law, by the town or towns in which that part of the highway proposed to be widened as aforesaid is located. [Highway Law, § 231; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2312.]

§ 43. WIDENING, HOW CONSTRUCTED.

The town superintendent shall construct such widening of the highway according to plans and specifications adopted by the district or county superintendent and approved by the town board of his town. The bills and expenses incurred in such work shall be audited by the town board and paid by the supervisor upon written order of the town superintendent, after the same shall have been approved by the town board, out of moneys raised for such purpose as provided in the preceding section. [Highway Law, § 232; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2313.]

§ 44. ACTIONS TO COMPEL WIDENING; HOW AFFECTED BY PETITION.

In case an action might lie in any court of this state against the town superintendent of any town or towns to compel such superintendent to widen a part of a highway, the width of which has become less than that required by statute, or in case an action has been brought against such superintendent to compel him to widen a part of a highway, the width of which has become less than that required by statute, the presentation of a verified petition to the county court as provided for in section two hundred and twenty-nine shall prevent the commencing of any such action as aforesaid and cause such an action already commenced, to cease, and shall be a bar to a recovery on the part of the plaintiff of a judgment against such superintendent in any such action instituted or prosecuted to judgment after the passage of this chapter. [Highway Law, § 233; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2313.]

§ 45. HIGHWAYS ABANDONED.

Every highway that shall not have been opened and worked within six years from the time it shall have been dedicated to the use of the public, or laid out, shall cease to be a highway; but the period during which any action or proceeding shall have been, or shall be pending in regard to any such highway, shall form no part of such six years; and every highway that shall not have been traveled or used as a highway for six years, shall cease to be a highway, and every public right of way that shall not have been used for said periods shall be deemed abandoned as a right of way.[34a] The town superintendents shall file, and cause to be recorded in the town clerk's office of the town, a written description, signed by them, of each highway and public right of way so abandoned, and the same shall thereupon be discontinued.[35] There may also be qualified abandonment of a highway under the following conditions and for the following purposes, to wit: Where it appears to the town superintendents, at any time, that a highway has not become wholly disused as aforesaid, but that it has not for two years next previous thereto, been usually traveled along the greater part thereof, by more than two vehicles daily, in addition to pedestrians and persons on horseback, they shall file and cause to be recorded in the town clerk's office a certificate containing a description of that portion of the highway partly disused as aforesaid and declaring a qualified abandonment thereof. The effect of such qualified abandonment, with respect to the portion of said highway described in the certificate, shall be as follows: It shall no longer be worked at public expense; it shall not cease to be a highway for purposes of the public easement, by reason of such suspension of work thereon; no person shall impair its use as a highway nor obstruct it, except as hereinafter provided, but no person shall be required to keep any part of it in repair; whenever an owner or lessee of adjoining lands has the right to possession of other lands wholly or partly on the directly opposite side of the highway therefrom, he may construct and maintain across said highway a fence at each end of the area of highway which adjoins both of said opposite pieces of land, provided that each said cross-fence must have a gate in the middle thereof at least ten feet in length, which gate must at times be kept unlocked and supplied with a sufficient hasp and latch for keeping the same closed; all persons owning or using opposite lands, connected by such gates and fences, may use the portion of highway thus inclosed for pasturage; any traveler or other person who intentionally, or by wilful neglect, leaves such

34a. Application of section. This section and the statute from which it is derived, and of which it is a substantial re-enactment, is not applicable where a city obtained the fee of land subject to the easement of a railroad company. New York Cent. & H. R. R. R. Co. v. City of Buffalo, 200 N. Y. 113, 119. Applies to a street of a city where only an easement has been acquired. Robins Dry Dock & Repair Co. v. City of New York, 155 App. Div. 258.

The period of six years mentioned in the statute is a limitation upon the life of an unused easement. When an easement is acquired by purchase or otherwise, by which a street can be opened and worked across a piece of land, such land does not thereby become a street in fact for public use until it is opened, and it is such an easement, consisting of a right to open and work a highway, which is deemed abandoned if not exercised within six years. New York Cent. & H. R. R. R. Co. v. City of Buffalo, 200 N. Y. 113, 119.

Reopening abandoned highways. A town superintendent, in conjunction with the town board may issue an order to reopen a highway which has been qualifiedly abandoned. Rept. of Atty. Genl., January 14, 1913.

Temporary interruption by reason of the weakness or the destruction of a bridge, though covering a considerable space of time, do not operate as an abandonment of it as a public way, since being once a highway, it does not cease to be such until discontinued by proper authority. Matter of Town of Rutland, 70 Misc. 82, 87, 128 N. Y. Supp. 94.

Abandonment by nonuser. Where land acquired for the purpose of doubling the width of a highway has never been regulated as a highway and has not been used by the public, even partially, for over forty years, but has remained in private possession and occupancy, such nonuser of the land acquired establishes an "abandonment" within the meaning of this section. Matter of City of New York (1914), 164 App. Div. 839, 150 N. Y. Supp. 256.

If a highway remains closed for six years with the acquiescence of the public, there is an extinguishment of the public right, but obstructions of a highway across part of its width only, narrowing but not closing the line of travel, are not sufficient, however long continued, to put an end to its existence. To have that effect the obstruction must cover the entire width; it is not, however, necessary to show an abandonment along the entire length. These rules have no application where the fee is vested in the public. Barnes v. Midland R. R. Terminal Co. (1916), 218 N. Y. 91, revg. 161 App. Div. 621.

35. For form of description of highway abandoned, see Form No. 141, post.

A town superintendent of highways cannot file a certificate that a highway has been abandoned unless it has not been worked or used during six years last past. It cannot be declared abandoned merely because bars and gates have been placed gate unlatched, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and the fact of leaving it unlatched shall be prima facie evidence of such intent or wilful neglect. Excepting as herein abrogated, all other general laws relating to highways shall apply to such partially abandoned highway. This section shall not apply to highways less than two rods in width unless it shall appear to the town superintendent at any time that such a highway has not, during the months of June to September inclusive of the two years next previous thereto, been usually traveled along the greater part thereof by more than ten pedestrians daily. [Highway Law, § 234, as amended by L. 1915, ch. 322; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2313.]

§ 46. HIGHWAYS IN LANDS ACQUIRED BY THE UNITED STATES FOR FORTIFICATION PURPOSES DEEMED ABANDONED.

When land sought to be acquired by the United States of America for the purpose of fortifications, includes a highway or portion thereof, the condemnation proceedings may include such highways or portion thereof, and the people of the state of New York, and municipality, county or other party claiming an interest therein may be made a party defendant in such proceeding, and the interest of the state, county, municipality or other claimant be determined, and the award made therefor. Forthwith upon the acquistion by the United States of America of land which includes a highway or portion thereof, there shall be filed in the office of the town clerk of the town, and also in the office of the county clerk of the county, in which such land is located, certified copies of the record or transfer to the United States of such land, together with a map of such land, on which map such highway or portion thereof shall be indicated by metes and bounds, and thereupon such highway or portion thereof shall be deemed discontinued and abandoned for highway purposes, and if proceedings have been taken, pursuant to article six of this chapter for the improvement of such highway by state aid, all such proceedings, together with any appropriation made for the improvement of such highway or portion thereof, as indicated on such map, shall be deemed revoked, vacated and set aside. [Highway Law, § 235; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2316.]

§ 47. DISCONTINUANCE OF HIGHWAY.

Whenever the town superintendent of any town, in which during the past ten years there has been expended the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, or more, for the purpose of macadamizing the high-across it for the accommodation of abutting owners. People ex rel. De Groat v. Marlett, 94 App. Div. 592, 88 N. Y. Supp. 379. The act of a town superintendent in filing and causing to be recorded the description of the highway abandoned pursuant to this section, is not a judicial act involving discretion which can be reviewed only by a writ of certiorari, but may be reviewed upon an application to compel him to open such highway for public use. Idem.

Mandamus to compel working of highway. Where a petition alleges that a filing in the town clerk's office by the superintendent of highways of a certificate of qualified abandonment of a highway pursuant to section 234 of the Highway Law is colorable only and part of a wrongful and fraudulent scheme to permanently abandon the road and deprive petitioner and the public of its benefit, relator will be granted an alternative writ of mandamus requiring the superintendent of highways to cancel such certificate and put the highway in a suitable condition for travel. Matter of Marvin (1915), 91 Misc. 287, 155 N. Y. Supp. 28.

ways of such town, shall determine that any portion of any highway or street, not within the limits of an incorporated village, which is the terminus of such street or highway, is unnecessary for highway purposes, and said town superintendent may, by an order to be duly entered in the town clerk's office, direct such highway to be discontinued and abandoned for public purposes. Provided, however, that no portion of such highway to be discontinued shall be greater than one thousand feet of the terminus thereof and that the owners of the land on both sides of such highway or street, for the distance it is proposed to discontinue the same, shall, by written petition to such town superintendent have requested the discontinuance thereof. [Highway Law, § 236; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2317.]

§ 48. DESCRIPTION TO BE RECORDED.

Immediately upon making and entering the order mentioned in section two hundred and thirty-six of this chapter, the said town superintendent shall cause a written description of that portion of the street or highway ordered to be discontinued to be filed and recorded in the office of the town clerk of the town in which the said street or highway is located, and when the same is duly recorded the said portion of the said street or highway shall thereupon be and become duly abandoned and discontinued for highway purposes. [Highway Law, § 237; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2317.]

§ 49. DAMAGES CAUSED BY DISCONTINUANCE.

Any person or corporation interested as owner or otherwise in any lands and claiming any loss or damage, legal or equitable, by reason of the discontinuance, abandonment or closing of any street or highway, not within the limits of an incorporated village, under or pursuant to the provisions of the last two sections, may, upon ten days' written notice to the town superintendent of the town in which such lands are situated apply to the supreme court or to the county court of the county within which such lands are situated for the appointment of commissioners to estimate and determine such loss and damage, whereupon the court shall appoint three disinterested commissioners of appraisal to estimate and determine such damage, and the amount of compensation to be paid by said town therefor, who shall make their report thereupon to such court, and which report when finally confirmed shall be final and conclusive in respect thereto, and the legality and equity of any and all such claims shall be determined by such commissioners and by the court upon the hearing of their report. Any loss or damage so estimated and determined shall be paid by said town as in case of judgment. [Highway Law, § 238; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2317.]

§ 50. PAPERS, WHERE FILED.

All applications, certificates, appointments and other papers relating to the laying out, altering or discontinuing of any highway shall be filed by the town superintendent as soon as a decision shall have been made thereon in the town clerk's office of the town. [Highway Law, § 239; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2318.]

§ 51. COSTS OF MOTION.

Costs of a motion to confirm, vacate or modify the report of commissioners appointed by the court to lay out, alter or discontinue a highway may be allowed in the discretion of the court not exceeding fifty dollars. On an uncontested motion to confirm the report of the commissioners so appointed, if said report is favorable to the applicant and confirmed by the court, costs may be allowed not exceeding fifty dollars sufficient to compensate the applicant's attorney for his services in the proceedings. Costs of any other motion in a proceeding in a court of record, authorized by this chapter, may be allowed in the discretion of the court not exceeding ten dollars.[36] [Highway Law, § 240; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2318.]

36. Award of costs. The provisions of this section only relate to the costs of motions made in a proceeding in respect to highways, as distinguished from the costs of the proceeding itself. Such a proceeding is a special proceeding and the court may award costs in its discretion pursuant to § 3240 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Matter of Peterson, 94 App. Div. 143, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1014. The costs referred to in sec. 202 of the Highway Law, are costs which may be allowed to one of the parties under the provision of this section. People ex rel. Bevins v. Supervisors, 82 Hun, 298, 31 N. Y. Supp. 248 (1894).

The provisions of section 3240 of the Code of Civil Procedure are applicable and authorize the court in its discretion to award costs to the prevailing party at the rates allowed for similar services in an action. Matter of Terry, 67 Misc. 514, 12 N. Y. Supp. 258.

This section should be construed with sections 193 and 198 and where the commissioners determine that a proposed highway or alteration is not necessary, or a highway proposed to be discontinued is not useless, the costs and expenses allowed the applicant cannot exceed, in all, the sum of one hundred dollars. Matter of Terry, 67 Misc. 514, 12 N. Y. Supp. 258.

CHAPTER LXIII.

BRIDGES.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Bridges Within the Town.

The town is liable for the cost of constructing and maintaining bridges within the boundaries of the town. The town superintendent of highways is required to keep such bridges in repair. The estimate made by him each year to the town board, as provided in § 90 of the Highway Law, ante, must contain a statement as to the amount which should be expended for such repairs, and the amount is raised and paid to the supervisor and expended on the order of the town superintendent in the same manner as money is raised and expended for town highways.

If a bridge becomes unsafe for use, or is condemned by the State commission, the town superintendent must cause the same to be repaired or rebuilt, if approved by the town board, and may, subject to such approval, expend not more than $500 (without a contract. If the expense is to exceed that amount written contracts must be made therefor, with the approval of the town board. No such bridge may be repaired or rebuilt, except as directed by the county or district superintendent, or in accordance with plans and specifications prepared by such county or district superintendent. (See Highway Law, § 93 ante, chapter LIX.)

If the cost of repairing or rebuilding such bridge exceeds $1500, the question must be submitted to a vote of the electors of the town at a special biennial town meeting, before the work is commenced. An amount in excess of such sum cannot be expended without favorable action by such town meeting. (See Highway Law, § 94, ante). A town meeting may also vote to raise the money by the issue and sale of town bonds. (See Highway Law, § 95, ante.)

Explanatory note.

The county may aid a town in paying the cost of constructing and repairing its bridges, in an amount not exceeding $2000 in any one year, when authorized by the board of supervisors. (See County Law, § 63, post.)

Bridges over Boundary Lines.

The cost of erecting and maintaining bridges over streams forming the boundary lines of towns, are to be jointly borne by such towns, whether in the same or adjoining counties. Such expense must be equally borne by such towns, without regard to the portion of the bridge which is in each town, unless the board of supervisors takes action under § 97 of the Highway Law, ante, by apportioning such expense equitably among the towns, as it shall deem just.

If the bridge is over a boundary line between two counties, each county must bear not less than one-sixth the cost of its erection and maintenance, and the board of supervisors of each county must cause the amount required for such purpose to be raised by tax upon the county.

The various sections in this chapter provide for compelling the proper officers of each town, liable to constitute to the expense of erecting and maintaining a joint bridge, to take the necessary steps to rebuild and maintain such bridge.

The towns of this state, except as otherwise herein provided, shall be liable to pay the expenses for the construction and repair of its public free bridges constructed over streams or other waters within their bounds, and their just and equitable share of such expenses when so constructed over streams or other waters upon their boundaries, except between the counties of Westchester and New York; and when such bridges are constructed over streams or other waters forming the boundary line of towns, either in the same or adjoining counties, such towns shall be jointly liable to pay such expenses.[1] When such bridges are constructed over streams

1. Construction of town bridges. County may aid town in construction of bridge destroyed by the elements, where the cost of such bridge would, in the opinion of the board of supervisors, be too burdensome for the town. See County Law, sec. 64, post, p. 982, and sec. 63, post, p. 983. As to bridges intersected by town or county lines, see County Law, sec. 65, post, p. 984; and as to bridges over county lines, see County Law, sec. 68, post, p. 985.

This section makes absolute the liability of the town to construct and maintain bridges over streams within its bounds. Phelps v. Hawley, 52 N. Y. 23. Prior to act of 1890, ch. 568, the burden of supporting bridges was cast upon the towns alone. Town of Wirt v. Supervisors, 90 Hun 205, 35 N. Y. Supp. 887. For common law rules and history of New York state legislation relating to liability for construction and maintenance of bridges, see People ex rel. Root v. Supervisors, 81 Hun 216, 30 N. Y. Supp. 729, affirmed 146 N. Y. 107; Bartlett v. Crozier, 17 Johns. 439, 452.

Powers of superintendents. Town superintendents are charged with the duty of erecting and maintaining town bridges. Berlin Iron Bridge Co. v. Wagner, 57 Hun, 346; 10 N. Y. Supp. 840. And the power given to a commissioner to repair highways includes the power to build a bridge to connect two parts of a highway. Mather v. Crawford, 36 Barb. 564; Huggans v. Riley, 125 N. Y. 88; 25 N. E. 993.

After a town board has given its consent to the erection or repair of a bridge which has been destroyed or damaged by the elements, its duties in respect thereto are at an end, and it cannot direct the town superintendent as to the manner of construction. People ex rel. Groton, etc., Bridge Co. v. Town Board, 92 Hun, 585; 36 N. Y. Supp. 1062.

Streams upon boundaries. Where a boundary line between towns is the bank of a stream, such stream is included within the expression, "streams or other waters upon their boundaries," as contained in this section. Town of or other waters forming the boundary line between a city of the third class and a town, such city and town shall be liable each to pay its just and equitable share of the expenses for the construction, maintenance and repair of such bridges. Except as otherwise provided by law, a city of the third class shall be deemed a town for the purposes of this article. Each of the counties of this state shall also be liable to pay for the constructure, care, maintenance, preservation and repair of public bridges lawfully constructed over streams or other waters forming its boundary line, not less than one-sixth part of the expense of construction, care, maintenance, preservation and repair,[2] and, except in a county containing a portion of the Adirondack park, the whole of such expenses of public bridges lawfully constructed or to be constructed over streams, or waterways, intersecting county roads. [Highway Law, § 250, as amended by L. 1914, chs. 78, 199, and L. 1915, ch. 589; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2319.]

East Fishkill, v. Town of Wappinger. 97 App. Div. 7, 89 N. Y. Supp. 599.

Bridges over town boundaries. The provisions of the above section as to the construction of bridges over town lines only refer to bridges connecting with the town sought to be charged, or ending therein, and are not intended to apply to a bridge neither end of which is in the town sought to be charged with the cost thereof, and which is not accessible therefrom, although one of its piers, and the middle portion of it, are situated upon and over land belonging to such town. Town of Candor v. Town of Tioga, 11 App. Div. 502; 42 N. Y. Supp. 911.

The general rule, however, is that when a bridge is built over a stream forming the boundary line of towns, the expense of its construction and maintenance is to be borne equally by the towns. People ex rel. Root v. Supervisors, 81 Hun, 216; 30 N. Y. Supp. 729, affd. 146 N. Y. 107.

Boards of supervisors may, upon the proper application of one of such towns, enact a law authorizing and compelling the erection of a bridge over a stream forming a boundary line between such towns, and may impose a tax upon such towns to pay the expense thereof, although a majority of the taxpayers of one of such towns and its officers are opposed to it, however such objection may be indicated. Town of Kirkwood v. Newbury, 122 N. Y. 571; 26 N. E. 10.

A bridge may be constructed across a river dividing towns where the highway in each town comes to the river bank, although no such bridge has previously existed. Matter of Mohawk River Bridge, 128 App. Div. 54, 112 N. Y. Supp. 428. In order that towns may be jointly liable for the construction of a bridge over a stream forming their boundary, such bridge must connect a lawful highway in each town; but the fact that a highway has been laid out is not sufficient; there must be an existing thoroughfare suitable for travel. Beckwith v. Whalen, 70 N. Y. 430; People ex rel. Keene v. Supervisors, 151 N. Y. 190. The necessary approaches are part of a free bridge, and both towns are equally and jointly liable for an approach built in either town. Edwards v. Ford, 22 App. Div. 277, 47 N. Y. Supp. 995.

The consent of the town superintendent of both towns is necessary where a railroad seeks to cross a bridge constructed and maintained jointly by such towns. Wheatfield v. Tonawanda St. R. R. Co., 92 Hun, 460; 36 N. Y. Supp. 744.

Apportionment of expense of constructing bridge between counties to replace old structures. When the bridge which formerly extended from the city of Glens Falls, county of Warren, to an island in the Hudson river and the bridge extending from said island to the village of South Glens Falls in the adjoining county of Saratoga, were replaced by a structure extending from said city to said village situated in the said adjoining counties, the city of Glens Falls and the town of Moreau are jointly liable for the expense of constructing the new bridge, and of a bridge temporarily used, while the county of Warren is liable for not less than one-sixth part of the expense of construction, care, maintenance and repair of the new bridge The county of Warren is not exempt from sharing in the cost of the southerly portion of said bridge extending from the island in the Hudson river to said village in the adjoining county. People ex rel. City of Glens Falls v. County of Warren (1915), 170 App. Div. 144, 155 N. Y. Supp. 642.

2. Liability of counties. Effect of the act of 1895 amending this section

§ 2. LEVY OF TAX UPON COUNTY.

Each supervisor shall present to the board of supervisors of his county at its annual session a statement specifying the amount paid during the preceding year ending on the thirty-first of October for the construction, care, maintenance, preservation and repair of public bridges over streams or other waters forming the boundary of such county.[3] The board of supervisors shall levy upon the taxable property of the county a sum sufficient to pay its proportion of such expense, and the same when collected shall be paid to the supervisor of such town to be applied by him on the order of the town superintendent after audit as provided in this chapter, toward the payment of such expense. [Highway Law, § 251; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2322.]

§ 3. PENALTY, AND NOTICE ON BRIDGE.

The town superintendent may fix and prescribe a penalty, not less than one or more than five dollars, for riding or driving faster than a walk on any bridge in his town whose chord is not less than twenty-five feet in length and put up and maintain in a conspicuous place, at each end of the bridge, a notice in large characters, stating each penalty incurred. [Highway Law, § 252; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2322.]

§ 4. OFFENSE.

Whoever shall ride or drive faster than a walk over any bridge, upon one-sixth part of the expense of construction, care, maintenance and repair of the new bridge. The county of Warren is not exempt from sharing in the cost of the southerly portion of said bridge extending from the island in the Hudson river to said village in the adjoining county. People ex rel. City of Glens Falls v. County of Warren (1915), 170 App. Div. 144, 155 N. Y. Supp. 642.

2. Liability of counties. Effect of the act of 1895 amending this section was to repeal the provisions of the former act requiring contribution from the county when the expense of all the free bridges of a town exceeded a certain amount. Town of Wirt v. Supervisors, 90 Hun, 205; 35 N. Y. Supp. 887. The amendment of 1895 abrogated the effect of the decision in the case of People ex rel. Root v. Supervisors of Steuben, 146 N. Y. 107. The act of 1895 was held not to apply to bridges completed prior to its taking effect. Stone v. Supervisors, 166 N. Y. 85. Duties of counties under this section may be enforced by mandamus. People v. Supervisors, 142 N. Y. 271.

County aid to towns for construction and repair of bridges. If the board of supervisors of any county shall deem any town in the county to be unreasonably burdened by its expenses for the construction and repair of its bridges, the board may cause a sum of money, not exceeding two thousand dollars in any one year, to be raised by the county and paid to such town to aid in defraying such expenses. [County Law, § 63; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 754.]

3. For form of statement of the supervisor of the expense incurred in the construction and repair of a town bridge, see Form No. 142, post.

A statement that is verified and contains a description of the bridge and the whole expense in items incurred by the town during the year preceding for constructing and repairing the same is sufficient. People ex rel. Root v. Co., 81 Hun, 216, 30 N. Y. Supp. 790.

which notice shall have been placed, and shall then be, shall forfeit for every offense, the amount fixed by such town superintendent and specified in the notice. [Highway Law, § 253; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2322.]

§ 5. JOINT LIABILITIES OF TOWNS AND THEIR JOINT CONTRACTS.

Whenever any two or more towns shall be liable to make or maintain any bridge or bridges, the same shall be built and maintained at the joint expense of such towns, without reference to town lines, except where the board of supervisors has otherwise apportioned such expense as provided in section ninety-seven. The town superintendents of all the towns, or of one or more of such towns, the others refusing to act, may, when directed by their respective town boards, enter into a joint contract for making and repairing such bridges.[4] [Highway Law, § 254; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2322.]

4. Joint liabilities of towns. This section applies to towns jointly liable to maintain bridges, but does not prescribe under what circumstances the liability exists. No such joint liability exists, unless there is at the time a lawful highway in each town, which would be connected by, and of which the bridge would form a part. Beckwith v. Whalen, 70 N. Y. 430; People ex rel. Keene v. Supervisors, 151 N. Y. 190. The mere fact that a highway has been laid out is not sufficient; there must be an existing thoroughfare, suitable for travel. Idem. Proceedings to compel the repair of a bridge can only be instituted under this section where the bridge crosses a stream dividing the towns. Matter of Freeholders of Cattaraugus Co., 59 N. Y. 316; Tifft v. Alley, 3 T. & C. 784.

The words "at the joint expense of such towns" means the equal expense thereof. The expense is to be equally imposed upon the towns without regard to the portion of the bridge located in each town or the proportion of the total cost expended in each such town. Lapham v. Rice, 55 N. Y. 472; Bryan v. Landon, 3 Hun, 500; Day v. Day, 94 N. Y. 153; Matter of Spier, 3 N. Y. Supp. 438; 20 N. Y. St. Rep. 389; affd., 115 N. Y. 665. The approaches to the bridge are a part thereof and are both to be maintained at the joint expense of the two towns. Edwards v. Ford, 22 App. Div. 277; 47 N. Y. Supp. 995; Hawxhurst v. Mayor, 43 Hun, 588. In the case of Marshall v. Hayward, 74 App. Div. 28, Woodward, J., in writing for the court, said:

"The spirit of the act appears to be that the commissioners of highways for the several towns interested shall act for their towns, and that they shall, on behalf of their respective towns, enter into a joint contract for the construction of such bridges, each town providing for the payment of its equal portion of the cost of such bridges, without any reference to the question of what portion of any such bridge may be within the jurisdiction of any particular town."

§ 6. REFUSAL TO REPAIR.

If the town board of either of such towns, after notice in writing from the town board of any other of such towns, given by the town clerk thereof, shall not within twenty days give their consent in writing to build or repair any such bridge,[5] and shall not within a reasonable time thereafter direct, by resolution, the same to be done, the town board giving such notice may direct the town superintendent to make or repair such bridge, and then maintain an action in the name of the town, against the town which neglects or refuses to join in such making or repairing, and in such action, the plaintiffs shall be entitled to recover so much from the defendant, as the town would be liable to contribute to the same, together with costs and interest.[6] [Highway Law, § 255; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2324.]

Powers of town superintendents. The town must act through the town superintendents, and there is no authority for employing anybody else, except in the construction of the bridge under contract, not even counsel or representatives of the different towns. The town superintendents do not constitute a single body, but each, by mutual agreement, becomes a party to the contract. This section must be construed to authorize the town superintendents to acquire real estate for the approaches. Marshall v. Hayward, 74 App. Div. 27, 77 N. Y. Supp. 57.

6. For form of notice to town boards of adjoining towns to rebuild or repair bridge, see Form No. 143, post. For form of consent to rebuild or repair bridge, see Form No. 144, post.

Necessity of notice. It is apparent from the above section that if a town board directs a superintendent to repair a bridge without giving notice to the town boards of the towns jointly liable, it cannot recover their proportion of the expense because of their failure to comply with the requirements of the statute. Flynn v. Hurd, 118 N. Y. 19, 29 N. E. 1109. The town board of one of the towns liable may waive the notice; and where, upon application of the town board of the other town, it absolutely refuses to help rebuild the bridge when it becomes necessary, the notice is thereby waived, and the latter may rebuild and then maintain an action against the former to recover half the expense. Day v. Day, 94 N. Y. 153; Clapp v. Town of Ellington, 87 Hun, 542; 34 N. Y. Supp. 283.

Notice to repair given by the supervisor, instead of by the town clerk, as required by this section, having been received and answered without objection, is valid. Matter of Town of Rutland, 70 Misc. 82, 128 N. Y. Supp. 94.

Action to recover contribution. An action is not maintainable under this section to recover the amount which the town is liable to contribute toward the construction of a joint bridge unless all the precedent conditions imposed by statute have been complied with. Flynn v. Hurd, 118 N. Y. 19. Such an action may be maintained only where the town sued is liable for a portion of the expense of constructing or maintaining the bridge. Town of Candor v. Town of Tioga, 11 App. Div. 502, 42 N. Y. Supp. 911.

An action will lie under the above section where the town board of one of the towns, having met with the town boards of the other towns and agreed to join in the repair, yet have neglected to pay their share of the expense. Surdam

§ 7. PROCEEDINGS IN COURT.

Whenever any adjoining towns shall be liable to make or maintain any bridge over any streams dividing such towns, whether in the same or different counties, three freeholders in either of such towns may, by petition signed by them, apply to the town board in each of such towns, to build, rebuild or repair such bridge, and if such town boards refuse to build, rebuild or repair such bridge within a reasonable time, either for want of funds or any other cause, such freeholders, upon affidavit and notice of motion, a copy of which shall be served on each supervisor at least eight days before the hearing, may apply to the supreme court at a special term thereof, to be held in the judicial district in which such bridge or any part thereof shall be located, for an order requiring such town boards to direct the town superintendents to build, rebuild or repair such bridge, and the court upon such motion may, in doubtful cases, refer the case to some disinterested person to ascertain the requisite facts in relation thereto, and to report the evidence thereof to the court.[7] Upon the coming in of the

v. Fuller, 31 Hun, 500. It need not be alleged in the complaint that the defendant towns had money with which to pay their share of the joint expense. Oakley v. Town of Mamaroneck, 39 Hun, 448.

If two or three towns have paid the entire expense of the construction or repair of a bridge for which all three towns are jointly liable, the town superintendents of each of the two towns should sue separately to recover the portion paid by each. Corey v. Rice, 4 Lans. 141.

7. For form of petition of freeholders to town boards of adjoining towns to rebuild or repair a bridge, see Form No. 145, post. For form of notice of motion for an order of the Supreme Court compelling town superintendents to rebuild or repair bridge, see Form No. 146, post. For form of affidavit to be used on such motion, see Form No. 147, post.

These proceedings are limited in their operation and effect to bridges over boundary lines between towns; although by other statutes bridges not so situated are maintainable at the joint expense of two or more towns, the proceedings above authorized do not apply thereto. Matter of Petition of Freeholders of Cattaraugus Co., 59 N. Y. 316.

The inability of superintendents of the adjoining towns to agree on the kind of material to be used in the construction of the bridge is equivalent to a refusal and justifies the application by freeholders. Matter of Towns of Mt. Morris and Castile, 41 Hun, 29.

This section has no application to a bridge upon a stream intersecting the town line at right angles, and intermediate between the exterior lines of a road district. Tifft v. Alley, 3 T. & C. 784. Liability to contribute cannot be enforced under this section where the proposed bridge will not connect a lawful highway in each town. Matter of Freeholders of Montezuma, 38 N. Y. St. Rep. 970, 14 N. Y. Supp. 845, 80 Hun 581.

It seems that where a highway in each town comes to the bank of a river dividing the towns, a bridge may be constructed across the river connecting report, in case of such reference, or upon or after the hearing of the motion, in case no reference shall be ordered, the court shall make an order thereon as the justice of the case shall require.[8] If the motion be granted in whole or in part, whereby funds shall be needed to carry the order into effect, such court shall specify the amount of money required for that purpose, and how much thereof shall be raised in each town. [Highway Law, § 256; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2325.]

§ 8. SUPERVISOR TO INSTITUTE PROCEEDINGS.

The supervisor of any such town shall, when directed by the town board, institute and prosecute proceedings under this chapter, in the name of the town, to compel the town board of such adjoining town or towns to cause the town superintendents thereof to join in the building, rebuilding or repair of any such bridge, in like manner as freeholders are thereby authorized. [Highway Law, § 257; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2326.]

§ 9. DUTY OF SUPERINTENDENTS.

The order for building, rebuilding or repairing a bridge being made, and a copy thereof being served on the town superintendent of such adjoining towns respectively the town superintendents of such towns shall forthwith meet and cause such bridge to be built, rebuilt or repaired in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared or approved by the district or county superintendent, out of any funds in the hands of the supervisors of such towns applicable thereto; if an inadequate amount of such funds are on hand, the town boards of such towns shall direct the town superintendents thereof to build, rebuild or repair such bridge, and the same shall be done upon credit, or in part for cash or in part upon credit according to the exigency of the case; and such town boards shall direct the superintendents to enter into a contract, to be approved by such town boards, for building, rebuilding or repairing such bridge pledging the credit of each town for the payment of its appropriate share so far as the same shall be upon credit.[9] [Highway Law, § 258; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2326.]

§ 10. REPORT OF TOWN SUPERINTENDENTS, AND LEVY OF TAX.

The town superintendent of each town shall make a full and verified report of their proceedings in the premises including an accurate account of what has been done in respect to such bridge, and shall attach thereto a copy of the order granted by the supreme court. Such report, account and order shall be certified by the town board and delivered to the supervisor and be presented by him to the board of supervisors of his county. The board of supervisors at their annual meeting shall levy a tax upon each of such towns, when in the same county, and upon the appropriate towns when in different counties, for its share of the costs of building, rebuilding and repairing such bridge, after deducting all payments actually made by the supervisor upon the written order of the town superintendent. Such tax, including all payments, shall in no case exceed the amount specified in the order of the supreme court. [Highway Law, § 259; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2327.]

§ 11. APPEALS.

Either party aggrieved by the granting or refusing to grant such order by the court at special term, may appeal from such decision to the appellate division of the supreme court for the review of the decision. The appellate division may alter, modify or reverse the order, with or without costs. [Highway Law, § 260; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2327.]

§ 12. POWER OF COURT ON APPEAL.

The special term may grant or refuse costs as upon a motion, including also witnesses' fees, referees' fees and disbursements. The appeal provided for in the last preceding section shall conform to the practice of the supreme court, in case of appeal from an order of a special term to the appellate division. [Highway Law, § 261; B. C. & G. Cons L., p. 2327.]

§ 13. REFUSAL TO REPAIR BRIDGES.

Whenever any such bridge shall have been or shall be so out of repair as to render it unsafe for travelers to pass over the same, or whenever any such bridge shall have fallen down, or been swept away by a freshet or otherwise,

Certain Freeholders, 46 Hun 620. But § 250 of the present Highway Law provides for the joint liability of a town and a city of the third class to construct and maintain bridges over boundary lines, and provides that "Except as otherwise provided by law, a city of the third class shall be deemed a town for the purposes of this article."

if the town superintendent of the adjoining town or towns, after reasonable notice of such condition of the bridge, have neglected or refused, or shall neglect or refuse to repair or rebuild it, then whatever funds have been or shall be necessarily or reasonably laid out or expended in repairing such bridge or in rebuilding the same, by any person or corporation, shall be a charge on such adjoining town or towns, each being liable for its just proportion; and the person or corporation who has made such expenditure, or shall make such expenditures, may apply to the supreme court, at a special term, for an order requiring such towns severally to reimburse such expenditures, which application shall be made upon papers to be served upon the town superintendents of such towns at least eight days prior thereto; and the court may grant an order requiring each adjoining town or towns to pay its just proportion of the expenditure, specifying the same; and the town superintendent of each of such towns shall forthwith serve a copy of such order upon the supervisor of each of their towns, who shall present the same to the board of supervisors, at their next annual meeting. The board of supervisors shall raise the amount charged upon each town by the order, and cause the same to be collected and paid to such persons or corporation as incurred the expenditure. The order shall be appealable. [Highway Law, § 262; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2328.]

§ 13a. CONSTRUCTION OR IMPROVEMENT OF BRIDGE BY COUNTY AND TOWN OR TOWNS.

The board of supervisors of a county may provide for the construction or improvement of a bridge in one or more towns of a county and at the joint expense of the county and town or towns as provided in this section. The board may by resolution direct the district or county superintendent to examine such bridge and report thereon, and if the board considers such bridge to be of sufficient importance to be constructed or improved as provided herein, it shall direct such district or county superintendent to prepare or cause to be prepared maps, plans, specifications and estimate thereon, and such district or county superintendent shall, subject to the direction and control of the board of supervisors, have the same powers and duties in respect to such bridge as are given to him with respect to state-county highways in section one hundred and twenty-five of this chapter. Upon the completion of such maps, plans, specifications and estimate, they are to be submitted to the board of supervisors for approval, and such board shall thereupon adopt a resolution providing for the construction or improvement of such bridge in accordance with such plans, maps, specifications and estimate, or in accordance with such maps, plans, specifications and estimate as may be approved by it. The board of supervisors shall award contracts for the construction or improvement of such bridge and the provisions of section one hundred and thirty of this chapter shall apply so far as may be to such contracts and the award, execution and fulfillment thereof. Such contract may be awarded to the town board of any town in which such bridge is located and the provisions of section one hundred and thirty-one of this chapter shall apply thereto. The board of supervisors shall determine the apportionment of the cost of the construction or improvement of such bridge to be borne by the county and the portion to be borne by the town or towns in which such bridge is located, or by the town or towns in which such bridge is not located but which are particularly benefited thereby. The amount to be borne by the county shall be levied and collected as a county charge and paid into the county treasury. The amount to be borne by a town shall be levied and collected as a town charge, and when collected shall be paid into the county treasury. If such bridge shall be located in a different position from an existing bridge, the board of supervisors shall acquire land for the requisite construction, and such board may also acquire land for the purpose of obtaining gravel, stone or other material when required for the construction or improvement of such bridge, together with a right of way to the bed, pit or quarry or other place where such gravel, stone or other material may be located; and the provisions of sections one hundred and forty-eight to one hundred and fifty-five both inclusive shall apply to the acquisition of such land as far as may be, except that the cost of such land and the expense incident to acquiring the same shall be deemed a part of the cost of the construction and improvement of such bridge under the provisions of this section. The board of supervisors may by resolution authorize the county treasurer of the county or the supervisors of the respective towns to borrow money on the faith and credit of the county and of such towns by temporary loans in anticipation of the next succeeding tax levy or an issue of bonds for such levy or by the issue and sale of bonds to pay the portion of the cost of the construction or improvement to be borne respectively by the county or such town or towns. Such resolution may also provide for the issue and sale of bonds and shall conform as nearly as may be to the provisions of the chapter relating to a resolution authorizing a town to borrow money to pay its share of the cost of construtcion or improvement of a county highway. The construction or improvement authorized by such resolution shall be done under the supervision and direction of the district or county superintendent. Payments therefor shall be made from time to time by the county treasurer upon the certificate of the district or county superintendent indorsed by the chairman of the board of supervisors. Such bridge when completed and accepted by the board of supervisors shall be thereafter repaired and maintained at the sole expense of the town or towns in which it is located unless the board of supervisors shall apportion a share of the expense of the repair and maintenance thereof upon the county, or upon the town or towns particularly benefited. [Highway Law, § 262a, as added by L. 1918, ch. 327.]

§ 14. CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE OF BRIDGES OVER WATERS BETWEEN TOWNS AND CITIES OF OVER 1,500,000 INHABITANTS.

Construction of bridges.— Whenever the highway commissioners having power in the premises under this act shall decide that the public convenience requires a bridge to be constructed over the stream or waters dividing a city from a town or any incorporated village in said town, the same shall be constructed under and according to the provisions of the Highway Law for the construction of bridges between towns, being article five of chapter nineteen of the general laws, the common council of the city being the highway commissioners of said city, and the board of village trustees of any incorporated village in the town being the highway commissioners of said village. [L. 1897, ch. 269, § 1.]

Purchase of land for approaches.—Any land required for the approaches to said bridges for a distance not exceeding three hundred feet from the bridge, may be bought by the commissioners of highway constructing the bridge, the approaches constructed and the cost thereof including the cost of the bridge. [Idem, § 2.]

Condemnation of land.— When an agreement cannot be made as to the price to be paid for the land for such approaches, the said land shall be condemned in the manner as provided by chapter ninety-five, laws of eighteen hundred and ninety, with the acts amendatory thereof. The expenses of said condemnation proceedings shall be included in and be a part of the cost of the bridge. [Idem, § 3.]

Issue and sale of bridge bonds.—In order to pay for the said bridges, the city and town shall each have the power to issue bonds, to be known as bridge bonds of the said city and town, respectively, by the officers thereof, and in the manner provided by law for the issue of other bonds of said city and of said town, to an amount necessary to pay their respective proportions of the said bridges, which shall be borne by said city and town in the proportion of their equalized assessed valuation of taxable property, at the time of the final resolution of said city and town, authorizing the construction of the said bridges. The total amount of such bonds to be issued by the city shall not exceed seventy-five thousand dollars, or by a town, twenty thousand dollars. Said bonds shall not be sold for less than the par value thereof, and accrued interest, if any shall mature and be payable at a time not over thirty years from date; be of such denomination and bear such interest, not to exceed five per centum per annum, as the common council of the city, in case of a city; or the town board, in case of a town, shall determine. The proceeds of the said bonds shall be paid to the proper officer for receiving funds of each municipality, and credited to a fund which shall be known as the bridge fund, and shall only be paid out by warrants as other funds of said city or town are paid out. [Idem, § 4, as amended by L. 1898, ch. 591; L. 1899, ch. 232, and L. 1902, ch. 301.]

Application of act.—This act shall apply only to towns from which at least one-quarter of the territory thereof has heretofore been taken for park purposes, and which also adjoin a city containing at the time of the taking of the last federal census a population of one and one-half million. [Idem, § 5.]

§ 15. RESOLUTION OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS FOR ABOLITION OF TOLL BRIDGES.

The board of supervisors of any county may, and upon the presentation of a petition signed by fifty per centum of the owners of real property and representing a majority of the assessed valuation of the town or city in which a toll bridge is wholly or partly situated must, except where such bridge extends between the state of New York and a foreign country, pass a resolution that public interest demands the abolition of such toll bridge situated wholly or partly within said county. In case of a toll bridge situated in two counties such resolution shall be a concurrent resolution passed by the boards of supervisors of the counties wherein said bridge is situated. Within ten days after the passage of such resolution the clerk or clerks of the board or boards of supervisors shall transmit certified copies thereof to the state commission of highways. Before transmitting such certified copy or copies to the state commission of highways, the board or boards of supervisors shall investigate as to the value of such toll bridge and shall prepare an estimate of the probable cost of acquiring the same, and the clerk or clerks shall transmit such estimate, together with any data in relation to the value of such toll bridge which the board or boards of supervisors may secure, to the state commission of highways with the certified copy or copies of such resolution. [Highway Law, § 263, as added by L. 1909, ch. 146, and amended by L. 1910, ch. 569, in effect June 21, 1910.]

§ 16. INVESTIGATION BY THE STATE COMMISSION OF HIGHWAYS.

The state commission of highways shall upon the receipt of such resolution or concurrent resolution, investigate and determine whether the bridge so sought to be abolished is of sufficient public importance to come within the provisions of this article, taking into account the use, location and value of such toll bridge for the purpose of common traffic and travel and shall also investigate as to the value of such toll bridge and from the estimate and data transmitted by the board or boards of supervisors, or from such other information as the commission may secure, prepare an estimate of the probable cost of acquiring such toll bridge. After such investigation such commission shall certify its approval or disapproval of such resolution. If it shall disapprove such resolution, it shall certify its reasons therefor to such board or boards of supervisors. If it shall approve such resolution it shall certify its approval thereof to the attorney-general, and shall transmit to him the estimate made by the commission of the probable cost of acquiring such toll bridge, together with any data the commission may have in its possession in relation to the value thereof. [Highway Law, § 264, as added by L. 1909, ch. 146, and amended by L. 1910, ch. 569, in effect June 21, 1910.]

§ 17. ACQUISITION BY ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

Upon the receipt of such certification of approval the attorney-general shall apply to the court, in the name of the people of the state, for the appointment of a commission to appraise the value of said toll bridge and the franchise thereof and proceed to acquire title to said toll bridge and its franchise rights in accordance with the provisions of the code of civil procedure for the condemnation of property for public purposes. When said commission shall have determined the value of such toll bridge, the attorney-general shall certify such determination to the comptroller and to the board or boards of supervisors of the county or counties wherein such toll bridge is situated. After the receipt thereof, upon a majority vote[10] of the board or boards of supervisors, they shall adopt a resolution approving the purchase of said toll bridge under the provisions of this article and providing for the payment of the county's share thereof and thereupon shall transmit a certified copy of such resolution to the state comptroller. The condemnation and purchase of toll bridges under the provisions of this article shall be taken up and carried forward in the order in which they are finally designated as determined by the date of the receipt in each case of the certified copy of the approval by the state commission of highways. [Highway Law, § 265, added by L. 1909, ch. 146; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2329.]

§ 18. PAYMENT OF EXPENSE OF ACQUISITION.

One-half of the expense incurred in the condemnation and acquirement of said toll bridge shall be paid by the state treasurer upon the warrant of the comptroller out of any specific appropriation made to carry on the provisions of this article, but no such payment shall be made until the county or counties in which said toll bridge is situate shall have complied with all the provisions hereof. One-half of the expenses thereof shall be a charge, in the first instance, upon the county or counties in which said toll bridge is situate, and the same shall be paid by the county treasurer upon the requisition of the comptroller, but the amount so paid shall be apportioned by the board of supervisors so that thirty-five per centum of such cost shall be a general county charge and fifteen per centum shall be a charge upon the town or towns or city or cities in which said toll bridge is wholly or partly located. In case a toll bridge is located in two counties the fifty per centum of the expense to be borne by the counties shall be apportioned between them on the basis of their assessed valuation and the fifteen per centum shall be apportioned by the board of supervisors upon the town or towns or city or cities in the same manner, the board of supervisors of a county, the town board of a town or the common council of a city may determine that the portion of the expense chargeable to such county, town, or city, as the case may be, shall be raised by taxation and levied and collected as other municipal taxes, or that the money therefor be raised by the issue and sale of municipal bonds. In the case of a town such bonds shall be issued and sold in the manner provided by law for the issue and sale of town bonds, under the town law, to pay judgments. [Highway Law, § 266, added by L. 1909, ch. 146, and amended by L. 1914, ch. 81; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2330.]

10. "Upon a majority vote," as used in this statute, means the same as though it provided that the resolution of approval may be adopted "if a majority so vote." The provision for approval is not a mandatory direction. Matter of State of New York, 207 N. Y. 582.

Highway Law, § 268.

§ 19. MAINTENANCE OF BRIDGE.

When a toll bridge shall have been acquired by the state under the provisions of this article it shall be maintained as a free bridge and the expense thereof shall be a charge upon the town or towns or city or cities within which it is situated. Upon the acquisition of any toll bridge as provided in this article, the board or boards of supervisors of the county or counties in which said toll bridge is located shall upon notice of such acquisition from the comptroller, accept and maintain the same as a part of the highway system of said county or counties and such acceptance shall be deemed to have been formally taken at the expiration of twenty days from the notice of said acquisition by the state comptroller.[11] [Highway Law, § 267, added by L. 1909, ch. 146; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2330.]

§ 20. USE OF TOLL BRIDGE BY PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATIONS; CONDITIONS; POWERS OF TOWN BOARD.

After a bridge shall be acquired by the state under the provisions of this article, the same shall not be used by any railroad, telephone, gas, electric light, heat or power company or any other public service corporation, for any purpose except upon such terms and the payment of such rental as shall be determined by the town board of the town or towns and the common council of the city or cities within which it is situated. The money received therefor shall be divided equally between the localities. The provisions of this section, however, shall not affect any existing contract for the use of such bridge by any other corporation, except that the compensation provided for such use in such existing contract shall be paid to the localities as herein provided. [Highway Law, § 268, as added by L. 1910, ch. 569, in effect June 21, 1910.]

§ 21. ACQUISITION OF CERTAIN TOLL BRIDGES AT THE EXPENSE OF THE STATE.

If a toll bridge for the traffic of vehicles and foot passengers constitutes a connecting link between two state routes as described in section one hundred and twenty of this chapter, or constitutes a part of a state route and is included in the description thereof, the board of supervisors of the county in which such bridge is situated, or if situated in two counties the boards of supervisors of such counties concurrently, may, by resolution, 11. Acquisition of toll bridge; payment.—Full payment must be made to complete the acquisition of a toll bridge under this section. Rept. of Atty. Genl., March 28, 1911.

Requisition on the county treasurer for the county's share should not be made by the comptroller, where no funds are available to pay the state's share. Rept. of Atty. Genl., March 28, 1911.

As to procedure for acquisition, see Matter of State of New York, 152 App. Div. 633, affd. 207 N. Y. 582.

petition the state commission of highways for the acquisition of such bridge by the state pursuant to this section. Within ten days after the passage of such resolution the clerk or clerks of the board or boards of supervisors shall transmit certified copies thereof to the state commission of highways together with an estimate of the probable cost of acquiring the same and any data in relation to the value thereof which the board or boards of supervisors may secure.

The state commissioner of highways shall upon receipt of such resolution or concurrent resolution, and within three months thereafter, investigate and determine whether the public interest demands the acquisition of such bridge by the state and shall also within said three months approve or disapprove of such resolution and if such resolution be approved shall prepare an estimate of the probable cost of acquiring such bridge. If such resolution be disapproved the commission shall certify its reason therefor to such board or boards of supervisors.

If it be approved the commission of highways is hereby authorized and empowered to agree with the corporation owning the said bridge upon the compensation which shall be made to it for the said bridge and its appurtenances, its franchises, its rights for the maintenance and use of said bridge, and any and all damage which shall result to said corporation so owning the said bridge by reason of the taking of such structure, and such agreement shall be reduced to writing and executed by the commission of highways in the name of the people of the state of New York and by the corporation owning the said bridge, and filed in the office of the comptroller of the state of New York.

In the event that no agreement is reached between said the commission of highways and the corporation owning the said bridge for such purchase as aforesaid, the commission shall certify its approval to the attorney-general and transmit to him the estimate made by the commission of the probable cost of acquiring such toll bridge, franchises and rights, and the amount of any and all damage incurred by such acquisition, together with all data the commission may have in its possession in relation thereto.

Upon the receipt of such certificate of approval, if and when sufficient money shall have been appropriated by the state therefor, the attorney-general shall apply to the court in the name of the people of the state for the appointment of a commission, in accordance with the provisions of the code of civil procedure for the condemnation of property for public purposes, to appraise the value of such bridge, its franchises, rights and any and all damage which shall result to such corporation so owning the said bridge by reason of the taking of the structure and its rights and franchises in connection therewith.

The amount agreed upon between the said commission of highways and the said corporation, pursuant to such agreement so filed as aforesaid, or if no agreement be reached, the amount so appraised and determined by such condemnation commissioners, with the expenses of such condemnation, shall be paid by the state treasurer upon the warrant of the comptroller out of the moneys appropriated for such purpose. Until payment to such corporation be made after such agreement of the amount therein agreed to be paid or upon condemnation the amount so appraised and determined in such condemnation proceedings, the corporation owning the said bridge shall be entitled to continue in possession and use thereof and of all the rights, privileges and franchises enjoyed by it in connection therewith, but upon such payment being made such bridge and all rights and franchises in connection therewith shall become the property of the state of New York and shall be maintained by the state as a free bridge and as a part of the state system of highways.

If such bridge be acquired by the state pursuant to this section the same shall not be used except as hereinafter provided by any railroad, telephone, gas, electric light, heat or power company or any other public service corporation for any purpose except upon such reasonable terms and the payment of such reasonable rental to the state as shall be determined by the commission of highways The money received therefor shall be paid into the state treasury and so much thereof as may be needed appropriated for the maintenance of such bridge. The provisions of this section, however, shall not affect any existing contract for the use of such bridge by any corporation except that the compensation provided for such use in such existing contract shall be paid to the state.

Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, if any such bridge be owned by a domestic corporation carrying on the business of operating a railroad and which operates cars thereover, the commission of highways in entering into such agreement or the commissioners in condemnation in making such appraisal and fixing such damages as aforesaid may take into consideration any bonds outstanding of such corporation which may have been authorized by any public service commission of this state to be issued by such corporation for the purchase of said bridge and its franchises or the stock of any corporation formerly owning the said bridge, and shall fix and determine in making such appraisal the amount of any and all damage which will result to such corporation so owning such bridge by reason of the taking of the said bridge and its rights and franchises in connection therewith, and such corporation when said bridge shall have been acquired and such compensation paid, and its successors, shall be permitted to continue to use said structure upon payment of such reasonable rental to the state for such use as shall be determined by the commission of highways, and further provided that if such corporation, or any successor thereof, should desire to use other parts or decks of such bridge or make such use thereof as would require the strengthening, reconstruction or change of the said bridge or its approaches, or the building of new approaches to the said bridge, such corporation or its successors may make such use thereof and strengthen, reconstruct or make such changes in the said bridge or its approaches or build new approaches to the said bridge and use the same in such manner upon filing with the commission of highways detailed plans for the proposed new use thereof, or for the strengthening, reconstruction of or changes in the said bridge or its approaches or for the building of new approaches to the said bridge, and upon obtaining the approval of such use and plans by the commission of highways and upon payment of such further reasonable rental to the state for any such additional use of said structure or such approaches as shall be determined by the commission of highways; provided further that the entire cost of any such strengthening, reconstruction, additions or changes of the said bridge or its approaches shall be paid exclusively by the corporation making such use of said bridge and shall be deemed to be an expenditure for capital purposes of such corporation paying the same for all purposes whatsoever. Any such corporation using such bridge at the time of the acquisition thereof by the state shall not be debarred from continuing such use by reason of such acquisition; but the failure or refusal to comply with such terms or to pay such rental shall forfeit the right of such corporation to use such bridge, and the state commission of highways is hereby authorized and empowered to close such bridge to the use of such offending corporation.

Any act or failure to act on the part of the commission of highways as in this section provided shall be reviewable by the supreme court of this state by mandamus or certiorari or such other appropriate remedy as the case may require. [Highway Law, § 269, as added by L. 1917, ch. 598.]

§ 22. BRIDGES IN CERTAIN COUNTIES.

Application of article.— So far as this article relates to a bridge wholly within a county its application is limited to a county having a population of less than two hundred thousand, adjacent to a city of the first class having a population of over three millions. So far as it relates to a bridge crossing the boundary line of two counties, its application is limited to such county and an adjoining county. A bridge, within the meaning of this article, shall be deemed to mean a bridge having a span of more than five feet. The provisions of sections two hundred and fifty-one to two hundred and sixty-two, inclusive, of this chapter, shall not apply to a bridge described in this or the next section. [Highway Law, § 269a, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

Construction, maintenance and control of bridges.— Bridges in any such county over streams or waterways intersecting or at the terminus of state highways, county highways or county roads shall be constructed, repaired and maintained by the county. Bridges connecting any such state or county highway or county road, over a stream or waterway, with a street, avenue, bridge or part of a bridge of an adjoining city of the first class or of a village or within an adjoining county, shall be constructed, repaired and maintained at the joint expense of such county and city or of such county and village or of such adjoining counties, as the case may be. The construction, repair and maintenance of a bridge wholly within the county shall be under the supervision of the county engineer. The construction, repair and maintenance of a bridge between a county described in section two hundred and sixty-nine-a and an adjoining county shall be under the supervision of the county engineers of the respective counties, unless they fail to agree in any matter and the state commissioner of highways may assume jurisdiction, in which case such commissioner shall have the supervision of such construction, repair or maintenance during such time as he shall consider advisable. The construtcion, repair and maintenance of a bridge connecting a state or county highway or county road, in any such county, with a street, avenue or bridge of an adjoining city of the first class shall be under the supervision of the county engineer of such county and the authorities of such city having control by law of its bridges, unless such authorities and county officer shall be unable to agree in any matter and the state commissioner of highways may assume jurisdiction, in which case such construction, repair or maintenance shall be under his supervision. The construction, repair and maintenance of a bridge connecting a state or county highway or county road in any such county, with a street, avenue or bridge of an adjoining village shall be under the supervision of the county engineer of such county, and the authorities of such village having control by law of its bridges. [Highway Law, § 269b, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

Plans and specifications to be prepared.— Plans, specifications and estimates for the repair or construction of any such bridge shall be prepared by the authorities having, in the first instance, supervision of such repair or construction. All such plans, specifications and estimates shall be submitted to the state commissioner of highways for approval, and the same shall not be used until approved by him. [Highway Law, § 269c, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

Condemnation of bridges.— The board of supervisors of such county shall cause an inspection to be made of any bridge which is reported to be unsafe for public use and travel by the county engineer or five residents of the county. If such bridge is found to be unsafe for public use and travel, said board of supervisors shall condemn such bridge and notify the county engineer of that fact. Such board of supervisors may direct the county engineer to prepare or cause to be prepared plans and specifications for the construction or reconstruction or repair of such bridge without delay. Upon receipt of such plans and specifications, such board of supervisors shall, after approving the same, procure estimates for the reconstruction or repair of such bridges as herein provided. [Highway Law, § 269d, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

Liability of county for damages.— The county shall be liable for damages suffered by any person from defects in any such bridge, located wholly within the county. Where such bridge is located in two counties, such counties shall be jointly and severally liable for such damages. [Highway Law, § 269e, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

Annual estimate of amount to be raised for bridge purposes.— The county engineer of such county shall, on or before December first in each year, prepare and submit to the board of supervisors of such county a statement of the amount necessary for the construction, improvement and maintenance of such bridges or parts of such bridges within the county. The county engineer of an adjoining county shall also, on or before such day in each year, prepare and submit to the board of supervisors of his county a statement of the amount necessary to be provided by the county for the construction, improvement and maintenance of bridges crossing the boundary between the latter county and the county first mentioned. Each statement provided for in this section shall show the total amount required and the location of the bridges for the repair, construction and maintenance of which such amount is necessary. [Highway Law, § 269f, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

Manner of providing money for bridges.— The board of supervisors of any such county shall, upon receipt of the county engineer's annual statement, consider the estimate made therein of moneys required for the construction, repair or maintenance of bridges. The board may by resolution adopted by a majority vote approve, increase or reduce the amount of any such estimate. All such estimates as finally adopted shall be signed in duplicate by the chairman and clerk of the board, and one copy thereof shall be filed with the county clerk and the other with the county treasurer. The board of supervisors shall thereupon cause the amounts of such estimates to be assessed, levied and collected in the same manner as other county charges; or the board may borrow on the credit of the county the amount of any estimate or estimates for construction or the permanent betterment of and such bridge or bridges. For that purpose it may direct the issue of bonds of the county by the county treasurer. Such bonds shall not bear interest at a greater rate than five per centum per annum, and no such bonds shall be for a longer term than twenty years. Such bonds shall not be sold for less than par. Moneys derived from such taxation or realized from the sale of such bonds shall be used exclusively for the objects and purposes of the tax or debt as provided in this article. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the board of supervisors from adding to the estimates of the county engineer, as contained in his annual statement, an item or items for the construction, repair or maintenance of a bridge or bridges not provided for in such report, or a gross sum of not exceeding two thousand dollars for emergency construction of or repairs to such bridges for the ensuing year. [Highway Law, § 269g, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

Construction of bridges to be by contract.—Whenever a bridge is to be constructed or any improvement or repairs made thereto by a county, under the provisions of this article, except ordinary repairs, such work shall be done by contract where the estimated cost exceeds five hundred dollars. Contracts shall be awarded for the performance of the work in accordance with the plans and specifications thereof prepared as provided in this article. The board of supervisors shall have charge of the letting of the contract. Any such contract shall be allowed to the lowest bidder, after advertisement once a week, for three successive weeks, in a newspaper published in the county. The bids for such work shall be opened in public and shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors. No such contract shall be awarded until the form and sufficiency of execution thereof shall have been approved by the board of supervisors. The person to whom such contract is awarded shall execute a bond to the county, in a sum equal to fifty per centum of the amount of the contract, with two or more sureties to be approved by the board of supervisors, conditioned for the faithful compliance with the terms of the contract and the plans and specifications and for the payment of all damages which may accrue to the county because of a violation thereof. Not more than ninety per centum of the contract price shall be paid before the completion of the work and its acceptance by the board of supervisors. The amounts due from time to time on the contract shall be paid out of moneys available therefor under the provisions of the preceding section. Payments upon such contracts, or for any other item of construction, maintenance or repair of such bridges, shall be made by the county treasurer upon certificates or warrants issued by the county superintendent, approved by the board of supervisors and the county comptroller. [Highway Law, § 269h, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

Reconstruction and repairs after condemnation.—Upon receiving notice of the condemnation of a bridge wholly within the county, the chairman of the board of supervisors shall call a meeting of the board, and such board shall appropriate and make immediately available the necessary moneys for the immediate rebuilding of such bridge. If the expense thereof shall not have been included in an estimate furnished by the county engineer in his annual statement, or as adopted by the board, or if there be no moneys in the county treasury available therefor, the board may cause the county treasurer to borrow on the credit of the county the moneys necessary to repair or rebuild the part so condemned, in the manner provided in section two hundred and sixty-nine-g. As soon as moneys are available therefor, the county engineer under the direction of the board of supervisors shall proceed with the repairing or rebuilding of such condemned bridge. [Highway Law, § 269i, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

Bridges upon county boundaries.—If the board or supervisors of a county described in section two hundred and sixty-nine-a and of an adjoining county, across whose boundaries any such bridge is located, shall by resolution concur in determining upon the construction or repair of such bridge, the respective board of supervisors of such counties may unite in a contract with a person, firm or corporation therefor. If any such bridge shall have been condemned under the provisions of this article and if such boards of supervisors shall fail to concur in ordering the necessary repairs to or rebuilding of such bridge within three months after the condemnation, or if within the same time after a demand therefor by the state commissioner of highways the board of supervisors of either county shall fail to make available the necessary moneys therefor, or if the board of supervisors of either county shall determine that such improvements or repairs are necessary, and if both counties fail to concur therein, the board of supervisors of the county making such determination may submit the same to the state commissioner of highways. If such determination be approved by such commissioner, the board of supervisors making such determination may cause notice in writing to be served upon the chairman of the board of supervisors of the other county demanding that such county concur therein. If such concurrence be withheld or if necessary moneys be not made available for such work by the board of supervisors of the county upon which such demand is served, the board of supervisors giving such notice may provide the necessary moneys for the entire work of such improvement or repairs. Where one county has provided all of the money for the construction or improvement of such joint bridge, it may maintain an action against the county in default and recover from the defendant one-half of the cost or expense of such work, with costs of the action and interest. It shall be necessary to a recovery for the plaintiff to prove that the repairs or improvements were reasonably necessary; but the approval of the state commissioner of highways of plaintiff's determination for such improvement or repairs shall be prima facie evidence of the reasonable necessity therefor. No such action for the expense of the construction of a new bridge at a new site between counties shall be maintained unless the boards of supervisors of both counties shall have determined, by concurrent resolution, upon the construction thereof.

The board of supervisors and the lawful authorities of an adjoining city of the first class or of an adjoining village may likewise concur in determining upon the construction, improvement or repair of a bridge between such county and city and may unite in a contract with a person, firm or corporation therefor. [Highway Law, § 269j, as added by L. 1917, ch. 589.]

CHAPTER LXIV.

FERRIES.

[Highway Law, art. XI.]

SECTION 1. Licenses.
2. Undertaking.
3. Appendages for rope ferries.
4. Superintendent of public works may lease right of passage.
5. When schedules to be posted.

§ 1. LICENSES.

The county court in each of the counties of this state or the city court of a city, may grant licenses for keeping ferries in their respective counties and cities, to such persons as the court may deem proper, for a term not exceeding five years.[1] No licenses shall be granted to a person, other than the owner of the land through which that part of the highway adjoining to the ferry shall run, unless the owner is not a suitable person or shall neglect to apply after being served with eight days' written notice[2] from such person of the time and place at which he will apply for such license, or having obtained such license, shall neglect to comply with the conditions of the license or maintain the ferry. Every license shall be entered in the book of minutes of the court by the clerk; and a certified copy thereof

1. Power to regulate. The state and not the federal government has power to regulate ferries. People v. Babcock, 11 Wend. 586 (1834). The county of Niagara may grant licenses to maintain ferries to the middle of the Niagara river, as far as the Canadian line; hence one operating a ferry across that river without a license, may be prosecuted. People v. Babcock, 11 Wend. 586 (1834).

2. Written notice need be given to the owners of the land only, and not to all who claim a right to the ferry nor to those who have obtained a license from another court for a ferry at the same place. Wiswall v. Wandell, 3 Barb. ch. 312. The application cannot be granted without proof that notice has been given by the applicant to the owner of the land, at least eight days before, of his intention to make such application. Matter of Talcott, 31 Hun 464.

shall be delivered to the person licensed. When the waters over which any ferry may be used shall divide two counties or cities, or a county and city, a license obtained in either of the counties or cities shall be sufficient to authorize transportation of persons, goods, wares and merchandise, to and from either side of such waters. [Highway Law, § 270; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2330.]

§ 2. UNDERTAKING.

Every person applying for such license shall, before the same is granted, execute and file with the clerk of the court his undertaking with one or more sureties, approved by the court, to the effect that he will attend such ferry with sufficient and safe boats and other implements, and so many men to work the same as shall be necessary during the several hours in each day, and at such rates as the court shall direct. [Highway Law, § 271; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2331.]

§ 3. APPENDAGES FOR ROPE FERRIES.

Any person licensed to keep a ferry may, with the written consent of the town superintendent of the town where such ferry may be, erect and maintain within the limits of the highway, at such point as shall be designated in such consent, a post or posts, with all necessary braces and appendages for a rope ferry. [Highway Law, § 272; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2331.]

§ 4. SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC WORKS MAY LEASE RIGHT OF PASSAGE.

The superintendent of public works, may, where ferries are now maintained at tide-water, lease the right of passage for foot passengers across state lands adjoining tide-water for a period not exceeding ten years, on such conditions as he may deem advantageous to the state. [Highway Law, § 273; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2331.]

§ 5. WHEN SCHEDULES TO BE POSTED.

of the rates of ferriage charges thereon, and authorized by law to be charged for ferriage over such ferry. If any such person shall fail to comply with the provisions of this section, or shall post a false schedule, he shall forfeit the sum of fifty dollars for each day's neglect or refusal to post such schedule or any of them, to be recovered by any person who shall sue therefor in any court of competent jurisdiction.[2] [Highway Law, § 274; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2331.]

§ 1. CONSTRUCTION OR IMPROVEMENT OF HIGHWAY BY COUNTY AND TOWN.

The board of supervisors of a county may provide for the construction or improvement of a highway or section thereof in one or more towns of the county or of a highway laid out along the boundary line between a city or village and a town or towns, at the joint expense of the county and town, as provided in this section. The board may, by resolution, direct the district or county superintendent to examine such highway or sections thereof, and report thereon, and if the board considers such highway or section thereof, to be of sufficient importance to be constructed or improved as provided herein, it shall direct such district or county superintendent to prepare or cause to be prepared maps, plans, specifications and estimates therefor and such district or county superintendent shall, subject to the direction and control of the board of supervisors, have the same powers and duties with respect to such highway or section thereof as are given the division engineer with respect to state and county highways in section one hundred and twenty-five of this chapter. Such maps, plans and specifications may provide for the change in grade of a highway already existing if thereby a lessened gradient may be obtained without decreasing the usefulness of the highway. Upon the completion of such preliminary maps, plans, specifications and estimates they shall be submitted to the board of supervisors for approval, and such board may thereupon adopt a resolution providing for the construction or improvement of such highway in accordance with such maps, plans, specifications and estimates or in accordance with such maps, plans, specifications and estimates as may be approved by it. The board of supervisors shall award contracts for the construction or improvement of such highway and the provisions of section one hundred and thirty of this chapter shall apply so far as may be to such contracts and the award, execution and fulfillment thereof. Such contract may be awarded to the town board of any town in which such highway or section thereof is located and the provisions of section one hundred and thirty-one of this chapter shall apply thereto so far as may be. The board of supervisors shall determine the portion of the cost of the construction or improvement of such highway to be borne by the county and the portion to be borne by the town or towns in which such highway is located. The cost of the portion constructed or improved within the boundaries of a city shall be borne by the county. The amount to be borne by the county shall be levied and collected as a county charge and paid into the county treasury. The amount to be borne by the town or towns in which the highway is located shall be levied and collected as a town charge and when collected shall be paid into the county treasury. If such highway or section thereof deviate from the line of a highway already existing, the board of supervisors shall acquire land for the requisite right of way, and such board may also acquire lands for the purpose of obtaining gravel, stone or other material, when required for the construction or improvement of such highway or section thereof, or for spoil banks, together with a right of way to such spoil banks and to any bed, pit, quarry or other place where such gravel, stone or other material may be located, and the provisions of sections one hundred and forty-eight to one hundred and fifty-five, both inclusive, shall apply to the acquisition of such lands as far as may be, except that the cost of such lands and the expenses incident to acquiring the same shall be deemed a part of the cost of the construction or improvement of such highway under the provisions of this section. If the construction or improvement of such highway involve the elimination of a grade crossing the portion of the cost of such elimination and the construction of a new crossing chargeable to the town in pursuance of law shall be deemed a part of the cost of the construction or improvement of such highway under the provisions of this section. The amount so paid by the town shall not be considered in determining the minimum amount to be levied and collected in each year for the repair and improvement of highways as provided in section ninety-four of this chapter nor shall such amount be considered in determining the amount to be paid by the state to the town for the repair and improvement of highways therein. The board of supervisors may by resolution authorize the county treasurer of the county or the supervisors of the respective towns to borrow money on the faith and credit of the county or of such towns by temporary loan in anticipation of the next succeeding tax levy or of an issue of bonds before such levy, or by the issue and sale of bonds, to pay the portion of the cost of such construction or improvement to be borne respectively by the county or such town or towns. Such resolution may also provide for the issue and sale of such bonds and shall conform so far as may be with the provisions of this chapter relating to a resolution authorizing a town to borrow money to pay its share of the cost of the construction or improvement of a county highway. The construction or improvement authorized by such resolution shall be done under the supervision and direction of the district or county superintendent. Payments therefor shall be made from time to time by the county treasurer upon the certificate of the district or county superintendent indorsed by the chairman of the board of supervisors. Such highways, when completed and accepted by the board of supervisors, shall be thereafter repaired and maintained by the towns wherein such highways are located in the same manner as all other town highways; except there shall be raised annually by the county and by the town a tax of not less than one hundred dollars per mile for each mile of highways improved in a town under the provisions of this section. The amount thereof to be borne by the county or by the town shall be apportioned by the board of supervisors. The portion to be borne by the county shall be levied and collected in the same manner as other county taxes and shall be paid into the county treasury. The resolution providing for the collection of such taxes shall also indicate the amount which shall be paid to each town and a certified copy thereof shall be filed with the county treasurer. The amount thereof to be borne by the town shall, by resolution of the town board, be paid from any funds in such town that may be legally used for highway purposes.[1] [Highway Law, § 320, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 534, L. 1914, ch. 198, and L. 1917, ch. 558; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2344.]

§ 1a. COUNTY SYSTEM OF ROADS.

The board of supervisors of a county may aid a town or towns in the construction or improvement of a highway or highways therein, and shall designate the highway or highways which the town or towns are to construct or improve by the aid of the county. Such county may prepare a map of the system of highways thus to be improved in that county.

The board may by resolution direct the county superintendent to supervise the preparation of grade and culvert work of a road so designated by said map for improvement, by the town superintendent of the town in which such improvement shall be made, and upon the completion thereof by the town, and the county superintendent's certification that the road is so prepared and the town is equipped with sufficient machinery to properly perform the work, such machinery to be furnished by the town and used during the road's construction, the board may, by resolution order the construction of an improved road under the direction of a committee known as the highway officials of the county as hereinafter provided. The construction work shall be under the charge and supervision of the town superintendent of the town in which the work is being done. If for any cause the town superintendent is incapacitated or in the opinion of the county superintendent is incompetent to properly take charge of the work, some competent person shall be designated by the county superintendent by and with the advice and consent of the town board and the compensation of the town superintendent or person in charge shall be a town charge.

The employment of convict labor on roads so constructed shall be authorized and permitted, in the discretion of the superintendent of state prisons, upon the requisition of the county superintendent of highways. The board of supervisors of Erie county shall have power, if they deem it proper, to employ convicts, sentenced to be confined in a penitentiary situate within the territorial limits of such county and liable to be employed at hard labor, upon any highway or work connected therewith within such county, and such board of supervisors shall have power to make all necessary appointments, rules and regulations for such employment within such county, including the right to fix a per diem compensation for such employment at a rate not to exceed ten cents.

1. This section is new in the Highway Law of 1908. It was inserted so as to permit a county to join with the towns therein, in constructing a system of highways at the joint expense of county and towns.

The highway officials of the county under this section shall consist of the county superintendent, three members of the board, appointed by the chairman. The supervisor of the town in which a road is being improved shall be a member of the said committee on all questions involving the work in the town of which he is the supervisor.

Unless the advice and direction of the highway officials shall be followed in the prosecution of the work, no liability therefor shall accrue to the county for its share of the cost of work.

Upon ordering the construction of an improved road under this section, the board of supervisors shall, by resolution, determine the proportions thereof to be borne by the county and town or towns respectively. The part, if any, to be borne by a town, as shown by such determination, may be a town charge, and the residue shall be a county charge. The amounts to be borne by the county shall be provided for by a tax, to be levied upon the taxable property of the county and collected in the same manner as for other county charges and shall be paid into the county treasury. The amount thereof to be borne by the town, by resolution of the town board, be paid from any funds in such town that may be legally used for highway purposes. The board of supervisors may, in its discretion, appropriate and make immediately available from county funds either the whole of the moneys to complete the construction of such road or the part thereof to be provided by the county. If it shall determine that sufficient moneys are not available to pay the amount appropriated, or a specified part thereof, after defraying other county expenses, it may direct the county treasurer to borrow the same, in anticipation of taxes or of the proceeds of bonds to be issued as hereinafter provided, and to pledge the faith and credit of the county for the payment of the amount when due, with interest, and issue temporary certificates of indebtedness therefor. The board may, by resolution, authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the county for the amount appropriated or for any part thereof, which may be the whole of such additional amount needed for the completion of such improvement or the county's share thereof or a part of such share. The proceeds of such bonds shall be paid into the county treasury and applied to the cost of such improvement or to the payment and redemption of certificates of indebtedness, if any, issued as above provided. The board of supervisors on petition of the town board of a town in which any part of the improved road is located, may by resolution authorize such town to borrow money on the faith and credit of the town by temporary loan in anticipation of the next succeeding tax levy to pay its share of the cost of the improvement which has been ordered by the board of supervisors. Town bonds may be issued and sold by the supervisors, in the name of the town, for the amount so authorized. The proceeds thereof shall be paid into the county treasury and be a part of a fund to be applied to the cost of such improvement within the town or to the payment and redemption of county bonds, if any, issued to pay the share of such town. County or town bonds issued under the foregoing provisions shall be payable not more than thirty years from their date and shall be sold for not less than par. The board of supervisors shall, from time to time, impose upon the taxable property of the county a tax sufficient to pay at maturity any such county bonds, and interest, and upon the taxable property of any town a tax sufficient to pay at maturity any such bonds of the town, and interest. Payments from time to time by the county treasurer of moneys provided for under this section shall be made for the prosecution of such work upon the certificate of the district or county superintendent countersigned by the chairman of the highway officials committee. Said orders shall be drawn to the order of the supervisors of the respective towns where roads are being constructed to be disbursed by them, upon the orders of the town superintendent or person designated in his stead, in accordance with the agreement as provided by section one hundred and five of this chapter and accounted for in the supervisor's annual report as provided by section one hundred and seven of this chapter.

Such highways, when completed and accepted by the board of supervisors, shall be thereafter repaired and maintained by the towns wherein such highways are located in the same manner as all other town highways; except there shall be raised annually by the county and by the town a tax of not less than one hundred dollars per mile for each mile of highways improved in a town under the provisions of this section. The amount thereof to be borne by the county or by the town or towns shall be apportioned by the board of supervisors. The part, if any, to be borne by a town or towns, as shown by such apportionment, shall be a charge against the town or towns and the residue shall be a county charge. The amount to be borne by the county shall be provided for by a tax to be levied upon the taxable property of the county and collected in the same manner as for other county charges and shall be paid into the county treasury. The amount thereof to be borne by the town shall, by resolution of the town board, be paid from any funds in such town that may be legally used for highway purposes. The resolution providing for such apportionment shall also indicate the amount which shall be paid to each such town, and a certified copy thereof shall be filed with the county treasurer. On receipt of such money the supervisor shall credit the amount to the town highway fund to be paid out on the written order of the town superintendent in accordance with agreement which is provided by section one hundred and five of this chapter and shall be accounted for in the supervisor's annual report as provided by section one hundred and seven of this chapter. [Highway Law, § 320a, as added by L. 1914, ch. 61, amended by L. 1915, ch. 556, L. 1916, ch. 458, L. 1917, ch. 231, and L. 1918, ch. 321.]

§ 2. WHEN COMMISSIONERS DO NOT ACT.

When a commissioner or other officer appointed by a court under this chapter shall neglect or be prevented from serving, the court which appointed him shall appoint another in his place. [Highway Law, § 321; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2345.]

§ 3. INTEMPERATE DRIVERS NOT TO BE ENGAGED.

No person owning any carriage for the conveyance of passengers, running or traveling upon any highway or road, shall employ, or continue in employment, any person to drive such carriage who is addicted to drunkenness, or to the excessive use of spirituous liquors; and if any such owner shall violate the provisions of this section, he shall forfeit at the rate of five dollars per day, for all the time during which he shall have kept any such driver in his employment. [Highway Law, § 322; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2345.]

§ 4. DRIVERS, WHEN TO BE DISCHARGED.

If any driver, while actually employed in driving any such carriage, shall be guilty of intoxication, to such a degree as to endanger the safety of the passengers in the carriage, the owner of such carriage shall, on receiving written notice of the fact, signed by any one of said passengers, and certified by him on oath, forthwith discharge such driver from his employment; and every such owner, who shall retain, or have in his service within six months after the receipt of such notice, any driver who shall have been so intoxicated, shall forfeit at the rate of five dollars per day, for all the time during which he shall keep any such driver in his employment after receiving such notice. [Highway Law, § 323: B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2345.]

§ 5. LEAVING HORSES WITHOUT BEING TIED.

No driver of any carriage used for the purpose of conveying passengers for hire shall leave the horses attached thereto, while passengers remain in the same, without first making such horses fast with a sufficient halter, rope, or chain, or by placing the lines in the hands of some other person so as to prevent their running; and if any such driver shall offend against the provisions of this section, he shall forfeit the sum of twenty dollars. [Highway Law, § 324; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2346.]

§ 6. OWNERS OF CERTAIN CARRIAGES LIABLE FOR ACTS OF DRIVERS.

The owners of every carriage running or traveling upon any turnpike, road or highway, for the conveyance of passengers, shall be liable jointly and severally, to the party injured, for all injuries and damages done by any person in the employment of such owners, as a driver, while driving such carriage, whether the act occasioning such injury or damage be wilful or negligent, or otherwise, in the same manner as such driver would be liable.[2] [Highway Law, § 325; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2346.]

§ 7. TERM "CARRIAGE" DEFINED.

The term "carriage" as used in this article shall be construed to include stage coaches, wagons, carts, sleighs, sleds, automobiles or motor vehicles, and every other carriage or vehicle used for the transportation of persons and goods, or either of them, and bicycles, tricycles and all other vehicles propelled by manumotive or pedomotive power, or by electricity, steam, gasoline or other source of energy.[3] [Highway Law, § 326; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2346.]

§ 8. ENTITLED TO FREE USE OF HIGHWAYS.

The commissioners, trustees or other authorities having charge or control of any highway, public street, park, parkway, driveway, or place, shall have no power or authority to pass, enforce or maintain any ordinance, rule

2. Application of section. This section does not apply to the employes of a street railway operating its cars in the public streets and highways. Whitaker v. 8th Ave. Ry. Co., 51 N. Y. 295; Isaacs v. 3d Ave. Ry. Co., 47 N. Y. 122.

At common law the owner was liable for the negligent but not wilful acts of his driver; the statute making the owner liable for wilful acts applies to owners of carriages for conveyance of passengers only. Wright v. Wilcox, 19 Wend. 343; Mali v. Lord, 39 N. Y. 381.

3. Section applied to a bicycle. Rooks v. Houston, West St. R. R. Co., 10 App. Div. 98, 41 N. Y. Supp. 824; Rogers v. City of Binghampton, 101 App. Div. 352, 92 N. Y. Supp. 170; Lechner v. Village of Newark, 19 Misc. 452, 44 N. Y. Supp. 556.

or regulation by which any person using a bicycle or tricycle shall be excluded or prohibited from the free use of any highway, public street, avenue, roadway, driveway, parkway, park, or place, at any time when the same is open to the free use of persons having and using other pleasure carriages, except upon such driveway, speedway, or road as has been or may be expressly set apart by law for the exclusive use of horses and light carriages. But nothing herein shall prevent the passage, enforcement or maintenance of any regulation, ordinance or rule, regulating the use of bicycles or tricycles in highways, public streets, driveways, parks, parkways, and places, or the regulation of the speed of carriages, vehicles or engines, in public parks and upon parkways and driveways in the city of New York, under the exclusive jurisdiction and control of the department of parks of said city, nor prevent any such commissioners, trustees or other authorities in any other city from regulating the speed of any vehicles herein described in such manner as to limit and determine the proper rate of speed with which such vehicle may be propelled nor in such manner as to require, direct or prohibit the use of bells, lamps and other appurtenances nor to prohibit the use of any vehicles upon that part of the highway, street, park, or parkway, commonly known as the footpath or sidewalk. [Highway Law, § 327; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2346.]

§ 9. DEPOSITING ASHES, STONES, STICKS, ETC., UPON THE HIGHWAY. Any person who shall deposit or throw loose stones in the gutter or grass adjoining a highway, or shall deposit or throw upon a highway, ashes, papers, stones, sticks, or other rubbish, shall be liable to a penalty of ten dollars to be sued for and recovered by the town superintendent. No stone or other rubbish shall be drawn to and deposited within the limits of any highway, except for the purpose of filling in a depression or otherwise improving the highway, without the consent and under the direction of the town superintendent. [Highway Law, § 328; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2347.]

§ 10. TRACTION ENGINES ON HIGHWAYS. The owner of a steam roller, steam traction engine, any other machinery propelled or driven by steam, or of any gasoline driven traction engine, his servant or agent shall not allow, permit or use the same, pass over, through or upon any public highway or street except upon railroad tracks, unless such owner or his agents or servants shall send before the same a person of mature age, at least one-eighth of a mile in advance, who shall notify and warn persons traveling and using such highway or street with horses or other domestic animals, of the approach thereof, and at night such person shall carry a red light, except in incorporated villages and cities.[4] [Highway Law, § 329, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 64; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2348.]

4. Penal provision. Section 1425 of the Penal Law contains the following subdivision. "A person who wilfully, ...

"11. Drives or leads along a public highway a wild and dangerous animal, or a vehicle or engine propelled by steam, except upon a railroad, along a public high-

§ 10a. LIGHTS ON VEHICLES.

Every vehicle on wheels whether stationary or in motion, while upon any public street, avenue, highway, or bridge, shall have attached thereto a light or lights so placed as to be clearly visible from the front and from the rear from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to a vehicle designed to be propelled by hand or to a vehicle designed principally for the trans-way, or causes or directs such animal, vehicle or engine to be so driven, led, or to be made to pass, unless a person of mature age shall precede such animal, vehicle or engine by at least one-eighth of a mile, carrying a red light, if in the night time, and giving warning to all persons whom he meets traveling such highways, of the approach of such animal, vehicle or engine;

Shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor."

Purpose and effect of section. Section is directed against traction engines, and does not include automobiles. Nason v. West, 31 Misc. 583, 65 N. Y. Supp. 651.

The mere presence and use, by a municipal corporation, on one of its public streets, of a steam roller does not render the street defective within the meaning of the statute (vide section 74 of the Highway Law). Mullen v. Village of Glens Falls, 11 App. Div. 275, 42 N. Y. Supp. 113.

Necessity of warning. Where a steam roller was being used on the streets and no notice or warning of its approach was given and the horses which the plaintiff was driving became frightened, it was held, in an action brought against the village to recover damages for personal injuries resulting from the negligence of the village, that it was proper to submit to the jury the question whether reasonable care required warning to be given of the approach of the steam roller. It was also held that upon the question whether a warning was necessary, it was proper to consider the fact that the above section of the Highway Law and of the Penal Law recognized the necessity of such a warning and that the failure to give it was made a misdemeanor, as indicating the view which the people of the state have taken as to the necessity of such warning. Mullen v. Village of Glens Falls, 11 App. Div. 275; 42 N. Y. Supp. 113; see, also, Rice v. Buffalo Steel House Co., 17 App. Div. 462; 45 N. Y. Supp. 277.

Damages for failure to comply. Where a steam roller is used upon the highway without sending a person ahead to warn travelers of its approach, and the plaintiff's horse is frightened thereby, a verdict for the plaintiff is warranted if there be no contributory negligence on his part. Buchanan's Sons v. Cranford Co., 112 App. Div. 278, 98 App. Div. 378. In case of failure to give warning and a person operating the steam roller is injured in a collision with a trolley car, the cir-portation of hay or straw while loaded with such commodities.[4a] Upon the written application and presentation of reasons therefor by the owner of the vehicle, the state commission of highways may in writing, and subject to such requirements as it may elect to impose, but without expense to the applicant, except said vehicle from the provisions of this section for such period of time as the commission may determine. The provisions of this section shall apply to all cities, towns, and villages of the state except the city of New York. Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the provisions of any existing statute, rule, or regulations requiring lights on motor vehicles or affecting the obligations of operators or occupants thereof. A person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not to exceed ten dollars. [Highway Law, § 329a, as added by L. 1914, ch. 32, amended by L. 1915, ch. 367, and L. 1918, ch. 258.]

§ 11. INJURIES TO HIGHWAYS.

Whoever shall injure any highway or bridge maintained at the public expense, by obstructing or diverting any creek, watercourse or sluce, or by dragging logs or timber on its surface, or by drawing or propelling over the same a load of such weight as to injure or destroy the culverts or bridges along the same, or of such weight that will destroy, break or injure the cumstance may be considered in determining the amount of damages and the liability therefor. Kelly v. New York State Railways, 207 N. Y. 342.

4a. Collision between automobile and unlighted wagon while passing at a turn in the road; contributory negligence; failure to have light on wagon. Where, in an action for negligence, it appears that the defendant's automobile, properly lighted, collided with decedent's horse-drawn wagon which carried no light, as required by statute, as they were passing at a turn in the road, due to the defendant's being too far toward the left side, it was error for the court to refuse to charge "that the failure to have a light on the plaintiff's vehicle is prima facie evidence of contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff." The absence of the light on the wagon surface of any improved state, county or town highway, or by any other act, or shall injure, deface or destroy any mile-stone or guide-post erected on any highway, shall for every such offense forfeit treble damages. [Highway Law, § 330, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 568; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2348.]

§ 12. WHEN TOWN NOT LIABLE FOR DAMAGES.

No town shall be liable for any damages resulting to person or property by the reason of the breaking of any bridge, sluice or culvert, by transportation on the same of any traction engine, portable piece of machinery, or of any vehicle or load, together weighing eight tons or over, but any owner thereof or other person engaged in transporting or directing the same shall be liable for all damages resulting therefrom.[5] [Highway Law, § 331; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2349.]

§12a. EXCESSIVE LOADS ON UNSAFE BRIDGES.

Whenever by order of the town board of any town in which a bridge, sluice or culvert is located or, if a bridge, sluice or culvert connects two towns, by order of the town boards of such towns, a notice shall be erected upon each end of such bridge, sluice or culvert prohibiting the use of such bridge, sluice or culvert for loads in excess of ten tons, any person, firm or corporation transporting or causing to be transported over any such bridge, sluice or culvert any traction engine, tractor, portable piece of machinery or any vehicle or load weighing ten tons or over shall be guilty was under the circumstances a contributory cause, for the statute intended that such a light should be a signal to aid a person operating a motor vehicle to "turn the same to the right of the center of such highway so as to pass without interference." Martin v. Herzog (1917), 176 App. Div. 614, 163 N. Y. Supp. 189.

5. Bridge maintained by railroad. The provisions of the above section exempting a town from damages resulting from the breaking of a bridge by a load weighing more than four tons does not apply to bridges constructed by a railroad as required by section 22 of the Railroad Law, but only to bridges of a town maintained at public expense. Bush v. D. L. & W. R. R. Co., 166 N. Y. 210; Lee v. D., L. & W. R. Co., 71 N. Y. Supp. 120. Section cited to show that a railroad company is required to construct bridges of such strength only as will support vehicles that ordinarily pass over highways. People ex rel. W. N. Y. & P. R. R. of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction of a first offense shall be liable to a fine of not to exceed twenty-five dollars. A second offense shall be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine or imprisonment or both. [Highway Law, § 331a, as added by L. 1917, ch. 568.]

§ 13. LAW OF THE ROAD.

1. Whenever any person traveling with any carriages, or riding horses or other animals, shall meet on any turnpike road or highway, the persons so meeting shall seasonably turn their carriages, horses, or other animals to the right of the center of the road, so as to permit such carriages, horses, or other animals to pass without interference or interruption.

2. Any carriage or the rider of a horse or other animal, overtaking another shall pass on the left side of the overtaken carriage, horse or other animal. When requested to do so, the driver or person having charge of any carriage, horse or other animal, traveling, shall, as soon as practicable, turn to the right, so as to allow any overtaking carriage, horse or other animal free passage on his left.

Excessive load. A verdict against a town for the death of a driver caused by the breaking of a bridge, will be reversed when it appears that the weight of the wagon and load was over four tons. Kelly v. Town of Saugerties, 110 App. Div. 561, 97 N. Y. Supp. 177.

In an action against a town, for injury received by the collapse of a bridge, it appeared that a traction engine weighing three and one-half tons was upon the bridge, that it was hauling a thresher weighing about one and one-half tons, and that at the time the accident occurred the engine alone was on the bridge; it was held that evidence may be introduced to show how much was added to the weight of the engine by reason of the effort of the engine to haul the weight of the thresher. Heib v. Town of Big Flats, 66 App. Div. 88, 73 N. Y. Supp. 86. See, also, Vandewater v. Town of Wappinger, 69 App. Div. 325, 74 N. Y. Supp. 699 (1902).

Application to bridges maintained by State, see O'Brien v. State of New York (1911), 148 App. Div. 542. Section is limited to town bridges and does not apply to state bridges over the Erie Canal. Murray v. State of New York (Court of Claims, 1916), 10 State Dept. Repts., 120.

Liability of the State for death of a person while driving a traction engine over a state bridge, see O' Bryan v. State of New York, 68 Misc. 618, 125 N. Y. Supp. 489.

3. In turning corners to the right, carriages, horses or other animals shall keep to the right of the center of the road. In turning corners to the left, they shall pass to the right of the center of intersection of the two roads.

4. Any person neglecting to comply with, or violating any provision of this section shall be liable to a penalty of five dollars to be recovered by the party injured, in addition to all damages caused by such neglect or violation.[6] [Highway Law, § 332; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2349.]

6. The amendment of 1902 to the former Highway Law materially changed the former law, which merely provided that persons meeting should seasonably turn their carriages to the right of the center of the road so as to permit such carriages to pass without interference or interruption. Under that law it was held that it was extremely doubtful whether the law in regard to keeping to the right on a public highway applies to any one except the drivers of vehicles of some kind. Mooney v. Trow, etc., Co., 2 Misc. 238; 21 N. Y. Supp. 957; Newman v. Ernst, 10 N. Y. Supp. 310; 31 N. Y. St. Rep. 1; Smith v. Dygart, 12 Barb. 613. But the present law applies to any person traveling with a carriage or riding horses or other animals.

For rule as to passing when going in the same direction, before the amendment of 1902, see Adolph v. Cen. Park, N. Y. & E. River R. R. Co., 76 N. Y. 530; Dudley v. Bolles, 24 Wend. 465; Savage v. Gerstner, 36 App. Div. 220, 55 N. Y. Supp. 306.

Right of the center of the highway. The rule requiring persons meeting to keep their vehicles to the right of the center of the road, does not apply in winter when the depth of the snow renders it impossible or difficult to ascertain the center thereof. It is a reasonable construction of the statute to define the center of the road in such a case, as the center of the traveled track regardless of the worked part of the road. Smith v. Dygert, 12 Barb. 613. The right of the center of the road, as used in this section, means the right of the worked part of the road and not the right of the most traveled part, although the whole of the traveled part may be on one side of the center. Earing v. Lansingh, 7 Wend. 185.

The rule with regard to keeping to the right does not apply when there are obstructions on that side of the highway. Mooney v. Trow Directory, Printing and Bookbinding Co., 2 Misc. 238, 21 N. Y. Supp. 957. The section applies to the case of vehicles passing each other on the same side of roads and streets so wide that there is no necessity for them to turn to the right of the center line of the highway in order to pass safely. Wright v. Fleischman, 41 Misc. 533, 85 N. Y. Supp. 62.

In approaching the intersection of roads a driver should keep to the right; if he turns to the left, and an automobile coming from behind, in attempting to pass to the left, as required in this section, strikes and injures the horse and wagon, the question as to the liability of the defendant is a question of fact for the jury. Mendleson v. Ran Rensselaer, 118 App. Div. 516, 103 N. Y. Supp. 577.

"Seasonably turn," as used in this section, means that travelers shall turn to the right in such season that neither shall be retarded in his progress by the § 14. TREES; TO WHOM THEY BELONG.

All trees standing or lying on land within the bounds of any highway, shall be for the proper use of the owner or occupant of such land, except that they may be required to repair the highway or bridges of the town.[7] Where a right of way has been or shall be acquired, under the provisions of this chapter, for a state or county highway, the owner of the fee shall have and may harvest for his own use the fruit upon all fruit-bearing trees left standing from time to time within the right of way so acquired, until forbidden in writing by the governing board of the political subdivisions in which the title to such right of way vests. [Highway Law, § 333, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 147; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2352.]

other occupying his half of the way, when he may have occasion to use it in passing. Spooner v. Brooklyn, etc., R. R. Co., 54 N. Y. 230.

Runaway horses should be guided to the right side of the road to avoid a collision. But if the horses are beyond the control of the driver and he uses due diligence and the best of his ability as a skillful driver to control them the law of the road does not apply. Cadwell v. Armheim, 81 Hun, 39; 30 N. Y. Supp. 573.

Rights of pedestrians. The law of the road does not apply to persons passing each other on foot on the sidewalk. Grant v. City of Brooklyn, 41 Barb. 381; nor does it apply to a carriage meeting a person on foot in the highway. Savage v. Gernster, 36 App. Div. 220, 55 N. Y. Supp. 306; although there can be no question as to the right of a person to pass along a highway on foot, and he is entitled to the exercise of reasonable care on the part of persons driving along the highway. Vehicles and pedestrians have equal rights in the highway, and both should exercise the care and caution that the circumstances demand.

A person on foot has a right to cross the street, not only at the crosswalk, but wherever he pleases; and one driving horses is bound to be watchful at all points so as not to injure persons crossing. Moebus v. Herrmann, 108 N. Y. 349. Footmen or vehicles have no superior right of way, the one over the other. Each has a right of passage in common, and in its use is bound to exercise reasonable care for his own safety, and to avoid injury to the other. For a person crossing a street on foot, where vehicles are numerous, to fail to look in both directions and ascertain if any vehicles are approaching, their rate of speed and distance from the crossing, is negligence. Barker v. Savage, 45 N. Y. 191. A person driving horses along the streets of a city is bound to look out for travelers on foot and must take reasonable care to avoid them. Murphy v. Orr, 96 N. Y. 14; Hyland v. Yonkers R. R. Co., 15 N. Y. St. Rep. 824, 1 N. Y. Supp. 363.

Abatement of tax for shade trees transplanted by the side of a highway by the owner of the adjoining premises. See Highway Law, sec. 63, ante, p. 835. The town superintendents of highways may authorize the owners of property adjoining highways to locate and plant trees. See Highway Law, sec. 61, ante, p. 834.

Shade trees. A right having once been given to the owner of lands adjoining a highway to plant and have shade trees along the highway, he is entitled to a continuance of the growth of such trees and is protected against their destruction by any person, including a highway officer. See Edsall v. Howell, 86 Hun, 424; 33 N. Y. Supp. 892. Although an owner does not own the fee of the highway in front of his lot, if he sets out shade trees along the highway in front of his premises, at his own expense and with the sanction of the municipal authorities, he is entitled to have such trees protected against negligent or wilful destruction at the hands of third parties and has a right in the nature of an

§ 15. INJURING FRUIT OR SHADE TREES.

It shall be unlawful for any person or persons whatsoever in this state to hitch any horse or other animal or to leave the same standing near enough to injure any fruit or forest tree growing within the bounds of the public highway, or used as a shade or ornamental tree around any schoolhouse, church or public building, or to cut down or mutilate in any way any such ornamental or shade tree; but the right of property owners along the highway to cultivate, train and use such shade trees shall not be impaired or abridged hereby. Any person or persons guilty of violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and shall be punishable by a fine of not less than five dollars, nor more than twenty-five dollars for each such offense, and in case of failure to pay any fine imposed, may be committed to jail, not exceeding one day for each dollar of such fine. Courts of special sessions having jurisdiction to try misdemeanors, as provided by section fifty-six of the code of criminal procedure, shall have exclusive jurisdiction to try offenders in all cases occurring in the same manner as in other cases, where they now have jurisdiction, and subject to the same power of removal, and to render and enforce judgments, to the extent herein provided. All fines collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid when the offense is committed in a town outside of incorporated villages, to the supervisor of the town, to be used as the town board and town superintendent may direct. When the offense is committed in any village of the county, which by law is constituted a separate road district, the fine shall be paid to the treasurer of said village, to be used as the board of trustees may direct. [Highway Law, § 334; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2352.]

§ 16. PENALTY FOR FALLING TREES.

If any person shall cut down any tree on land not occupied by him, so that it shall fall into any highway, river or stream, unless by the order and consent of the occupant, the person so offending shall forfeit to such occupant the sum of one dollar for every tree so fallen, and the like sum for every day the same shall remain in the highway, river or stream. [Highway Law, § 335; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2353.]

§ 17. FALLEN TREES TO BE REMOVED.

If any tree shall fall, or be fallen by any person from any inclosed land easement for which he may recover compensation if it is taken away from him. The unlawful cutting down of shade trees in a highway is deemed in equity irreparable injury. Lane v. Lamke, 53 App. Div. 395; 65 N. Y. Supp. 1090.

6a. Treble damages in action for trespass because of injury to shade trees, see Code Civil Procedure, §§ 1667, 1668. Actual damages may only be recovered where trees are within limits of highway, see Pfohl v. Rupp, 166 App. Div. 630, 152 N. Y. Supp. 47.

into any highway, any person may give notice to the occupant of the land from which the tree shall have fallen, to remove the same within two days; if such tree shall not be removed within that time, but shall continue in the highway, the occupant of the land shall forfeit the sum of fifty cents for every day thereafter, until the tree shall be removed. [Highway Law, § 336; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2353.]

§ 18. PENALTIES, HOW RECOVERED.

All penalties or forfeitures given in this chapter, and not otherwise specially provided for, shall be recovered by the town superintendent, in the name of the town in which the offense shall be committed; and when recovered, shall be applied by them in improving the highways and bridges in such town. [Highway Law, § 337; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2353.]

§ 19. ACQUISITION OF PLANK ROADS.

The board of supervisors of any county, except a county wholly within the city of New York, and except the county of Erie, may by a vote of a majority of the members thereof, by resolution, determine to acquire the rights and franchises of any individual or corporation, lawfully entitled to exact toll or charge for walking, riding or driving over any plank road or turnpike, or a bridge within such county, erected over any unnavigable stream, or over the Hudson river above Waterford. Upon the adoption of such resolution, the board of supervisors shall acquire such rights, franchises and property by purchase, if able to agree with the owners thereof, and otherwise by condemnation in the name of the county.[7] [Highway Law, § 338, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 200; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2354.]

§ 20. BORROWING MONEY; BONDS.

The board of supervisors of such county may borrow money for the acquisition of such rights, franchises, and property, and may issue the bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of the county therefor, but such bonds or other evidences of indebtedness shall not bear a rate of interest exceeding five per centum per annum and shall not run for a longer period than twenty years and shall not be sold for less than par. [Highway Law, § 339; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2354.]

§ 21. RAISING MONEY TO PAY BONDS AND INTEREST.

Except in the counties of Rensselaer, Onondaga, Albany and Columbia, the amount of such bonds in whole or in part together with the interest thereon may be apportioned by the board of supervisors upon the towns, cities and villages constituting separate highway districts, in which such plankroad, turnpike or bridge is located, in such proportions as the boards may deem just and the amount so apportioned to each municipality for the payment of the principal and interest of such bonds shall be annually levied and collected at the same time and in the same manner as money for other county charges. In the counties of Rensselaer and Columbia, the boards of supervisors, in making up the annual tax budget of the counties, shall each year levy and assess upon and against the taxable property in said counties, in addition to the amounts levied and assessed for other county charges, an amount sufficient to pay the interest falling due and payable on the said bonds during such year, and also an amount sufficient to pay the proportion of the years fixed at the time during which said bonds shall run from their issue to maturity. The amount raised by tax in each year for the payment of the principal of said bonds shall be preserved intact by the county treasurers of said counties until said bonds mature and are payable, and upon the maturity of said bonds, said county treasurer shall pay the same in full out of the moneys so raised by annual tax therefor and shall thereupon take back said bonds with receipts for the payment thereof and deliver them to the boards of supervisors of said counties for cancellation. Said county treasurer shall deposit at interest the said moneys yearly raised by tax for payment of the principal of said bonds in such bank or depository as shall be designated by the boards of supervisors of said counties, and the amount realized from the interest thereon shall be used for the purposes of the said counties under the direction of the said boards of supervisors. [Highway Law, § 340; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2354.]

7. See Matter of Saratoga Lake Bridge Co. v. Walbridge, 140 App. Div. 718, 821, 126 N. Y. Supp. 468.

§ 22. ROADS SO ACQUIRED TO BE PART OF HIGHWAY SYSTEM.

A plankroad, turnpike or bridge acquired pursuant to this article shall become a part of a highway system of such county and of the towns, cities and villages in which the same is located, and shall thereafter be repaired and maintained in the same manner as the other highways or bridges therein. [Highway Law, § 341; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2355.]

§ 23. WHEN ROAD IS IN TWO OR MORE COUNTIES.

When a plankroad, turnpike, toll road or bridge is partly in one county and partly in another, the boards of supervisors of the said counties shall act together in the manner prescribed above, and determine the amount to be paid to said plankroad, turnpike, toll road or bridge company, by each county, and such amount against each county, after such determination, shall be paid by each county. [Highway Law, § 342; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2355.]

§ 24. ALBANY POST ROAD; RAILROAD TRACKS THEREON.

The old established road along the valley of the Hudson river from the city of New York to the city of Albany, known as the Albany post road, shall be a public highway for the use of the traveling public forever. The said highway shall be kept open and free to all travelers, and shall not be obstructed in any way by any obstacle to free travel. No trustees of any village or corporation of any city upon its route, or town superintendents of highways of towns, or any other person or board whatever, shall have any power or authority to authorize or license the laying of any railroad track upon said highway, except to cross the same, and any such action shall be void and of no effect. This section shall not apply to any portion of said road within the city of New York or the city of Yonkers, south of Main street, nor shall it apply to the road of the president, directors and company of the Rensselaer and Columbia turnpike nor to the town of Cortland or the village of Sing Sing, in Westchester county. [Highway Law, § 343, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 658; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2355.]

§ 25. LIGHTING ROADS, HIGHWAYS AND BRIDGES.

The town board of any town, subject to the approval of the commissioner of highways, may from time to time provide for lighting dangerous portions of any road or highway defined by section three of this chapter or constructed or improved under the provisions of section three hundred and twenty of this chapter, and of bridges located thereon. The initial action of the board shall be in the form of a proposal for submission to the commissioner. The roads and portions thereof to be lighted, and the manner of lighting, shall be set forth in such proposal. Such proposal shall be embodied in a resolution. The lighting of one or more such roads, highways or bridges, or either, may be proposed in a single resolution. The board may provide for such lighting, if its proposal is so approved, or, if modifications are suggested by the commissioner, may adopt such modifications and provide for such lighting in conformity therewith. The expense of installing, maintaining and caring for such lights shall be a town charge, and the moneys therefor shall be provided and appropriated in the same manner as for other town expenses. The furnishing of light under this section may be provided for by contract or otherwise; but nothing herein contained shall be deemed to authorize the town board to acquire, construct or establish a gas or electric lighting plant for the above purposes. The installation of lights, fixtures and connection shall be done under the supervision of the county superintendent of highways. The town board may provide for the care of such lights in such manner as it may deem proper. The board may, in its discretion, at any time discontinue the lighting of any road, highway or bridge, or portion thereof, provided for under this section. [Highway Law, § 344, as added by L. 1917, ch. 367.]

Any investigation, examination or proceeding undertaken, commenced or instituted by the state engineer, county engineer or highway commissioner or either of them relating to highways or bridges may be conducted or continued to a final determination by the proper officer hereunder, in the same manner, and under the same terms and conditions, and with the same effect as though this chapter had not been passed. [Highway Law, § 353; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2357.]

§ 5. SAVING CLAUSE.

The repeal of a law, or any part of it specified in the annexed schedule shall not affect or impair any contract, or any act done, or right accruing, accrued or acquired or any penalty, forfeiture or punishment incurred prior to the time when this chapter or any section thereof takes effect, under or by virtue of the laws so repealed, but the same may be asserted, enforced, prosecuted, or inflicted, as fully and to the same extent, as if such laws had not been repealed. The provisions of this chapter shall not affect or impair any act done or right accruing accrued or acquired under or in pursuance of any resolution adopted by the board of supervisors of a county, on or before the thirty-first day of December, nineteen hundred and eight, requesting the construction or improvement of a highway therein, as provided in chapter one hundred and fifteen of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, and the acts amendatory thereof, or under or in pursuance of any resolution adopted on or before such date by a board of supervisors, under such act and the acts amendatory thereof, providing for the construction or improvement of a highway in a county in accordance with maps, plans and specifications submitted to such board by the state engineer, or under or in pursuance of any contract for the construction or improvement of a highway, awarded as provided in such chapter one hundred and fifteen of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-eight and the acts amendatory thereof. All further proceedings in respect to such highway shall be taken in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. [Highway Law, § 354; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2357.]

§ 6. COUNTY HIGHWAY MAPS PRESERVED.

The county highways to be selected by the commission for construction or improvement, as provided in this chapter, shall be the highways in the respective counties designated upon the map of the highways of the state, prepared by the state engineer as provided by law, and approved by the legislature by chapter seven hundred and fifteen of the laws of nineteen hundred and seven; except the highways on such map which have been designated and described as state highways by section one hundred and twenty of this chapter. Such map shall remain in full force and effect notwithstanding the repeal of such chapter seven hundred and fifteen of the laws of nineteen hundred and seven by this chapter; except that the board of supervisors of any county is hereby authorized to modify the designation of county highways on such map by resolution duly adopted by a majority vote of the members of such board provided the total mileage as originally designated upon the county map in such county is not thereby materially increased.[1] A certified copy of such resolution shall be transmitted to the commission or to the state engineer if the same be adopted prior to the appointment and qualifications of the commission. [Highway Law, § 355; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2358.]

1. Section does not apply to state highways specified in § 120 of the Highway Law. The map only relates to highways not designated and described as state highways. People ex rel. Wauful v. Reel, 157 App. Div. 128.

§ 7. CONSTRUCTION.

Wherever the term "state engineer" shall occur in any law, contract or document such term shall be deemed to refer to the state commission of highways as established by this chapter so far as such law, contract or document pertains to matters which are within the jurisdiction of such commission of highways. Wherever the term "county engineer" or "county superintendent of highways" is used in any such law, contract or document such term shall be deemed to refer to and include the county or district superintendent having jurisdiction of the matter contained in such law, contract or document.

The provisions of this chapter so far as they are substantially the same as those existing at the time they shall take effect, shall be construed as a continuation of such laws, modified or amended, according to the language employed in this chapter, and not as new enactments. References in laws not repealed to provisions of law incorporated in this chapter and repealed, shall be construed as applying to the provisions so incorporated. [Highway Law, § 356; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2358.]

§ 8. WHEN TO TAKE EFFECT.

This chapter shall take effect the first day of January, nineteen hundred and nine, except as to the provisions specified as follows:

1. The provisions of section forty-three, ninety, ninety-one, ninety-four, ninety-five, ninety-nine, and one hundred, relating to highway commissioners, estimates of expenditures, duties of town board in respect thereto, levy of taxes, the limitation of amounts to be raised, submission of propositions at town meetings, assessments of village property and statements by the clerk of the board of supervisors to the comptroller, shall take effect immediately.

2. The provisions of sections one hundred and thirty and one hundred and thirty-one of this chapter, pertaining to the award of contracts for the construction of county highways shall take effect immediately and shall apply to contracts to be awarded under chapter one hundred and fifteen of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-eight and the acts amendatory thereof, prior to January first, nineteen hundred and nine; and until the commission shall have been appointed and have duly qualified, the state engineer and surveyor shall exercise the powers and perform the duties conferred upon the said commission by the foregoing sections.

3. The provisions of section one hundred and seventy-nine, relating to the sprinkling of state and county highways and the removal of refuse therefrom; the provisions of section three hundred and twenty, relating to the construction or improvement of highways at the joint expense of a county and town, and the provisions of section three hundred and fifty-five relating to the modification of maps by boards of supervisors and the provisions of this section shall take effect immediately. [Highway Law, § 357; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2359.]

§ 9. LAWS REPEALED.

Of the laws enumerated by the schedule hereto annexed that portion specified in the last column is hereby repealed. Such repeal shall not revive a law repealed by any law hereby repealed, but shall include all laws amendatory of the laws hereby repealed. [The schedule of laws repealed is omitted.]

CHAPTER LXVII.

DUTIES OF BOARDS OF SUPERVISORS AS TO HIGHWAYS AND BRIDGES.

SECTION 1. When board of supervisors may lay out, open, alter or discontinue county highways or construct bridges.
2. Boards of supervisors may authorize the change of location or construction of bridges.
3. Board of supervisors may provide for construction of bridges destroyed by the elements, in certain cases.
4. Board of supervisors may aid towns in the construction and repair of bridges.
5. Apportionment of expenses when a bridge is intersected by town or county lines.
6. County's share of expenses to be raised and paid to the commissioners of highways of the towns.
7. Board of supervisors may authorize a town to construct a bridge outside of a boundary line.
8. Maintenance of bridges over county lines.
9. Boards of supervisors may map out streets and avenues in towns outside of city limits.
10. Board of supervisors may authorize commissioners of highways to cause survey of highways to be made.
11. Board of supervisors may regulate toll rates.
12. Powers of boards of supervisors as to highways in counties of more than 300,000 acres of unimproved land.
13. Appropriation of certain nonresident highway taxes.
14. Balance of state appropriations.
15. Alteration of state roads.
16. Further powers of board of supervisors as to highways.
17. Board of supervisors may pass laws as to use of wide tire on highways.
18. Use of abandoned turnpike, plank or macadamized roads.
19. Definition of "upon its borders."

§ 1. WHEN BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY LAY OUT, OPEN, ALTER OR DISCONTINUE COUNTY HIGHWAYS OR CONSTRUCT BRIDGES.

A board of supervisors shall, on the application of twenty-five resident taxpayers when satisfied that it is for the interest of the county, lay out, open, alter or discontinue a county highway therein, or cause the same to be done, and construct, repair or abandon a county bridge therein, or cause the same to be done, when the board shall deem the authority conferred on commissioners of highways insufficient for that purpose, or that the interests of the county will be promoted thereby.[1] All expenses so incurred shall be a county charge. Such powers shall not be exercised unless the applicants therefor shall prove to the board the service of a written notice, personally or by mail, on a commissioner of highways of each town in the county, at least twelve days prior to the presentation of such application, specifying therein the object thereof;

1. County road system. Boards of supervisors are authorized to adopt by a resolution the county road system, and may thereupon designate certain leading market roads in the county to be constructed and maintained at a county expense. Highway Law, sec. 320, ante, p. 961. Where a county road has been constructed by a county, without the aid of the state, the state is liable to pay a part of the cost of maintenance. Highway Law, § 178, ante, p. 904. Where a road in a county has been designated and constructed by the county, it may be altered, or discontinued in the manner provided in the above section. Such section would also seem to authorize a board of supervisors to lay out and open a new highway.

Power and liability of county as to highways and bridges. At common law the duty of repairing and constructing bridges rested upon the county, because of the fact that bridges were regarded as for the common good of the whole county. But the rule of the common law has never been in force in this state. As early as 1784 the care and reparation of highways, including bridges, were committed to town officers. Hill v. Board of Supervisors, 12 N. Y. 52. In this case Johnson, J., said: "It must, I think, be considered as settled, that the common law responsibilities of counties for the repair of bridges never prevailed in this state. Our statutory system introduced the primary responsibility of the towns in respect to the maintenance of highways and bridges; and in many cases where the burden was greater than could conveniently be borne by the towns, particular acts of the legislature have provided for the means and method of erecting and keeping in repair the public bridges."

County is not liable for failure of supervisors to maintain bridges in a safe condition. Ahern v. County of Kings, 89 Hun 148, 34 N. Y. Supp. 1023; Godfrey v. County of Queens, 89 Hun 18, 34 N. Y. Supp. 1052.

Streets and highways. Board cannot rescind a resolution to close a highway except on petition of property owners or certificate of the town officers as to its necessity. Schafhaus v. City of N. Y., 28 App. Div. 475, 51 N. Y. Supp. 111, affd. 159 N. Y. 557.

The legislature may delegate to the board of supervisors power to lay out streets and to levy and collect assessments therefor; and the board may by resolution appoint grading commissioners; nor is such resolution within the inhibition of the Constitution, Article 3, § 16, which applies only to acts of the legislature. Robert v. Supervisors of Kings, 3 App. Div. 366, 38 N. Y. Supp. 521, affd. 158 N. Y. 673.

The board may authorize improvement of highways in a town even though it contain a village, the highways in the village being under their control; and when the application is to lay out a highway, or construct a bridge, the route or location thereof; and in all other cases, a designation of the highway or bridge to be affected thereby. Whenever the board of supervisors of a county shall determine to construct a bridge in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this section, such board, on behalf of the county, and the town board of a town or in case of a city the board of aldermen or any similar board exercising the functions of aldermen, on behalf of such town or city, may enter into an agreement with the county, to the effect that such town or city will operate and maintain such bridge, in case the bridge is located wholly in a town or city. In case the bridge is constructed over a stream forming the boundary line between two towns or two cities or between a town and city, then they may agree with the county to operate and maintain such bridge jointly, in proportion to the assessed valuation of such town or city. The sum which the town or towns, city or cities are obliged to pay under such an agreement is a charge upon such towns or cities and shall be paid as other town or city charges are paid. [County Law, § 61, as amended by L. 1909, ch. 240, and L. 1914, ch. 233; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 752.]

§ 2. BOARDS OF SUPERVISORS MAY AUTHORIZE THE CHANGE OF LOCATION OR CONSTRUCTION OF BRIDGES.

The board may authorize the location, change of location and construction of any bridge, applied for by any town, or towns, jointly, or by other than a municipal corporation, created under a general law, or by any corporation or individual for private purposes;[3] and if a public bridge, erected

Bridges. In the absence of action by the supervisors the highway commissioner of a town is empowered to erect a bridge and make valid contracts therefor. Berlin Iron Bridge Co. v. Wagner, 32 N. Y. St. Rep. 407, 10 N. Y. Supp. 840. But see Birge v. Berlin Iron Bridge Co., 133 N. Y. 477, s. c. 45 N. Y. St. Rep. 874.

For form of application of taxpayers to board of supervisors, see Form No. 149, post; for form of notice to highway commissioners, see Form No. 150, post; for form of proof of service of notice, see Form No. 151, post; and for form of order and resolution adopted by board of supervisors, see Form No. 152, post.

3. Location of bridge; powers of board. The power to locate a bridge over a stream, where a highway on both sides thereof has been laid out and the town has voted to construct such bridge, is not exclusively vested in the board of supervisors. Huggans v. Riley, 125 N. Y. 88; 25 N. E. 993. In this case it was held in effect that the provisions of the act of 1875, ch. 482, sec. 1, sub. 3, from which the above section was derived, did not take away the power vested in the commissioners of highways as to the care and superintendence of the highways; and that under the power given to those officers to repair highways, the highway commissioner of a town may build a new bridge when necessary to connect the two portions of a highway interrupted by an intersecting stream. Boards of supervisors have been granted power to authorize the construction or location of a bridge, or to permit a change of location thereof by any town or towns in the county, or by an individual or corporation residing therein. But, as was said by Gray, J., in the case last cited: "The town has voted for a bridge in a certain locality and has assumed and provided for the expense of its location. For the court to hold that because the precise location had not been made and would not be made by the county other than by a municipal corporation, establish the rates of toll for crossing such bridge;[4] but if such bridge is to cross a navigable stream, provision shall be made in the resolution or permission authorizing the same, for the erection and maintenance of a suitable draw, to prevent any obstruction of the navigation of such stream; and if a private bridge, provision shall be made that the draw shall be kept open as may be required to permit all vessels to pass without loss of headway. When such bridge shall be intersected by the line of counties, the action of the board of supervisors of each county shall be necessary to give the jurisdiction herein permitted. If such bridge is to cross a stream which is navigable in fact, it, including its abutements, and piers, if any, shall be located and constructed in accordance with maps, plans and specifications to be approved by the state engineer and surveyor and by the superintendent of public works, and not otherwise, and copies of such maps, plans and specifications showing the location, character, design and dimensions of such bridge, and the fact of such approval, shall be filed in the offices of the state engineer and surveyor and of the superintendent of public works. [County Law, § 62, as amended by L. 1918, ch. 283; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 753.]

§ 3. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY PROVIDE FOR CONSTRUCTION OF BRIDGES DESTROYED BY THE ELEMENTS, IN CERTAIN CASES.

If any bridge within a county, or intersected by any boundary line of a county, shall be destroyed by the elements, and the board of supervisors of the county shall deem that the expenses of the construction of a new supervisors, no bridge can be constructed at all, would, in my opinion, be a view of the statutory regulations on that subject, which is quite unwarrantable. I do not think the legislature meant any such thing, and its acts are not susceptible of a construction which lodges such exclusive power in the county board of supervisors."

Construction by private individual. Any person owning lands on both sides of a stream may, without legislative authority and even in defiance of legislative prohibition, maintain a ferry or bridge for his own use, providing he does not interfere with the public easement. Such owner cannot, however, without legislative authority maintain a bridge or ferry for public use. Chenango Bridge Co. v. Paige, 83 N. Y. 178. And in the case of People ex rel. Howell v. Jessup, 160 N. Y. 249; 54 N. E. 682, it was held that the town of Southampton had, in the month of June, 1888, sovereign power as to lands under water in Great South Bay, and could give authority to an owner on the main land to construct a bridge to the sand bar on the opposite side of the bay, also owned by him, where such bridge was not an unreasonable obstruction to navigation.

4. Rates of toll. Boards of supervisors may regulate rates of toll. See County Law, sec. 72, post, p. 988; Transportation Corporations Law, sec. 136.

bridge at or near the site of the bridge so destroyed would be too burdensome upon the town or towns within such county, which would otherwise be liable therefor, the board of supervisors of any such county may provide for the construction and completion of a bridge and all necessary approaches thereto, at or near the site of the bridge so destroyed. If the bridge so destroyed shall have been constructed by a corporation created under a general law, and the site thereof, and the approaches thereto, or either, shall be the property of such corporation, such board of supervisors may purchase the interest of such corporation, or any other person, in such site or approaches, if such purchase can be accomplished upon reasonable terms; but if such site or approaches cannot be lawfully acquired by such purchase, or otherwise, upon reasonable terms, such board may acquire title to premises on either side of such site, and provide for the construction of a bridge and approaches thereto, at such place, at the expense of the county, or of the two counties jointly, as the case may be, provided such bridge shall be so located as not to increase the distance to be traveled upon the highway to reach each end of such bridge more than five rods. Any board of supervisors providing for the construction of any such bridge may determine by resolution whether the expenses of the maintenance and repair thereof shall thereafter be a county charge, or a charge upon such town or towns. [County Law, § 64; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 755.]

§ 4. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY AID TOWNS IN THE CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR OF BRIDGES.

If the board of supervisors of any county shall deem any town in the county to be unreasonably burdened by its expenses for the construction and repair of its bridges, the board may cause a sum of money, not exceeding two thousand dollars in any one year, to be raised by the county and paid to such town to aid in defraying such expenses.[5] [County Law, § 63; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 754.]

5. Unreasonable burden. Since 1801 statutes have existed relieving towns from unreasonable burdens in the construction of bridges. People ex rel. Root v. Supervisors of Steuben Co., 81 Hun 216, 30 N. Y. Supp. 729, affd. in 146 N. Y. 107; as to liability of county to contribute. See Hill v. Supervisors of Livingston, 12 N. Y. 52; People v. Supervisors of Dutchess, 1 Hill 50; Phelps v. Hawley, 52 N. Y. 27.

Aid of county. The board of supervisors may appropriate county moneys for the aid of a town which is unreasonably burdened by the construction of bridges, although the town has already bonded itself for such purpose. The money so appropriated may be expended for the payment of bonds. Knowles v. Board of Supervisors of Chemung Co., 112 App. Div. 138, 97 N. Y. Supp. 1111.

§ 5. APPORTIONMENT OF EXPENSES WHEN A BRIDGE IS INTERSECTED BY TOWN OR COUNTY LINES.

If any public free bridge, intersected by the boundary line of a county shall also be intersected by the boundary line of two or more towns in such county, the board of supervisors of such county shall apportion as it shall deem equitable, between such towns, their respective shares of the expenses of the construction, maintenance and repair of such bridge, and the amount to be received by each town of the money raised by the county to be paid toward defraying the expenses of constructing and repairing such bridge.[6]

The provisions of chapter four hundred and thirty-nine of the laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-one shall apply and continue in force so far as relates to or affects any bridges constructed thereunder before the sixth day of May, eighteen hundred and ninety. [County Law, § 65; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 755.]

§ 6. COUNTY'S SHARE OF EXPENSES TO BE RAISED AND PAID TO THE COMMISSIONERS OF HIGHWAYS OF THE TOWNS.

The board of supervisors shall cause to be raised and collected the amount to be paid by the county to any town toward the expenses of a bridge and when collected the same shall be paid to the commissioners of highways of the town, to be applied by them toward the payment of such expenses. [County Law, § 66; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 756.]

§ 7. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY AUTHORIZE A TOWN TO CONSTRUCT A BRIDGE OUTSIDE OF A BOUNDARY LINE.

The board of supervisors of any county may authorize any town, on a

6. Bridges over county boundaries are to be erected, maintained, and repaired by the towns, and the county is liable to pay not less than one-sixth of the expense of such erection, maintenance and repair. See Highway Law, sec. 130, ante, p. 945.

Apportionment of expense. Supervisors may apportion expense on their own motion. People ex rel. Morrill v. Supervisors of Queens, 112 N. Y. 585. The power of apportioning vested in the supervisors is permissive only. Surdam v. Fuller, 31 Hun 500. But see People ex rel. Root v. Supervisors of Steuben Co., 81 Hun 216, 30 S. Y. Supp. 729; People ex rel. Otsego Co. Bank v. Supervisors, 51 N. Y. 401.

Board of supervisors may compel erection of a bridge between towns and impose tax on such towns to pay cost thereof, notwithstanding one of the towns be opposed thereto. Town of Kirkwood v. Newbury, 122 N. Y. 571, affg. 45 Hun 323.

vote of a majority of the electors thereof voting at a regular town meeting, to appropriate a sum, or pledge its credit, partly or wholly construct and maintain a bridge outside the boundaries of the town or county, or from or within the boundary line of any town into another town or county, but forming a continuation of highways leading from such town or county, and deemed necessary for the public convenience. [County Law, § 67; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p 756.]

§ 8. MAINTENANCE OF BRIDGES OVER COUNTY LINES.

The board shall provide for the care, maintenance, preservation and repair of any draw or other bridge intersecting the boundary line of counties or towns, which bridge is by law a joint charge on such counties or towns, or on the towns in which it is situated; and to severally apportion, as it may deem equitable, the expenses thereof on the towns respectively liable therefor, or on the respective counties when liable; but when such bridge shall span any portion of the navigable tide-waters of this state, forming, at the point of crossing, the boundary line between two counties, such expense shall be a joint and equal charge upon the two counties in which the bridge is situated, and the board of supervisors in each of such counties shall apportion such expense among the several towns and cities in their respective counties, or upon any or either of such towns and cities, as in their judgment may seem proper; and if there be in either of said counties, a city, the boundaries of which are the same as the boundaries of the county, then it shall be the duty of the common council of such city, to perform the duty hereby imposed upon the boards of supervisors; but no town or city not immediately adjacent to such waters, at the points spanned by said bridge shall be liable for a larger proportion of such expense than the taxable property of such town or city bears to the whole amount of taxable property of such county.[7] The board of super-

7. Liability of counties; defective bridge. Whether the maintenance of highways and bridges is devolved as a duty upon the towns or upon the counties of the state, it must be regarded as a duty, in its nature, public and governmental; and this is especially so in respect to the duty imposed by the above section upon counties of maintaining a bridge which spans navigable waters of the state, forming a boundary line between two counties. Markey v. County of Queens, 154 N. Y. 675; 49 N. E. 71. In this case Gray, J., said: "The conclusion I have reached, after a careful consideration of the subject, is that, in the work of constructing the bridge in question, the board of supervisors were executing a certain public duty, imposed upon them as the proper visors of such counties or in any city embracing the entire county, and having no board of supervisors, the common council shall have full control of such bridges. No such bridge shall be constructed unless the board of supervisors in each of such counties, and the common council of the city whose boundaries are the same as the boundary of the other county adjacent to such waters, shall first by resolution determine that such bridge is necessary for public convenience, in which case such common council, with the consent of the mayor, may authorize the issue of bonds for the purpose of constructing such bridge, to be issued as other bonds are issued in said city. Whenever any bridge now spanning any such navigable tide-waters or hereafter erected across any such navigable tide-waters, shall be condemned by the United States authorities as an obstruction to navigation, and shall be ordered removed, the county and city authorities having charge of such bridge, if they shall determine that such bridge shall be rebuilt, shall, as soon as practicable after such determination, cause plans to be prepared for the erection of the new bridge and the removal of any bridge so condemned as foresaid, and within a reasonable time after the approval of any such plans by the United States authorities, the proper officers shall proceed with the construction of said new bridge. In case of any unreasonable delay on the part of the officer or officers charged with the duty of construction of such new bridge, such duty may be enforced by mandamus upon the application of any citizen interested in its performance. [County Law, § 68; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 756.]

public agents in that particular civil division of the state, and that the county could not be subjected to a private action for injuries occurring in, or by reason of, the performance of the work."

The liability only exists where there is a lawful highway which would be connected by a bridge over navigable waters dividing the counties. Beckwith v. Whalen, 70 N. Y. 430; People ex rel. Keene v. Supervisors, 151 N. Y. 190; 45 N. E. 453. In this case it appeared that a turnpike had been abandoned, and that its road had been carried over a navigable tidal stream forming the boundary between two counties by a bridge which had existed from 1836 to 1878; it was held that the turnpike upon its abandonment became a public highway, and that the statutory duty of rebuilding the bridge rests upon the boards of supervisors of the two counties.

city, has been mapped into streets and avenues pursuant to law, the board of supervisors may authorize the establishment of a plan for the grade of such streets and avenues; the alteration of such plan of grades, or of any plan thereof that shall have been established by law; the laying out, opening, grading, constructing, closing and change of line or width, of any one or more of them,[8] and provide for the assessment on property intended to be benefited thereby, and fixing assessment districts therefor, and for the levy, collection and payment of the amount of damages sustained and the charges and expenses incurred, or which may be necessary to incur in carrying out such provisions; the laying out of new or additional streets and avenues upon the established map or plan thereof, the acceptance by town officers of conveyances of lands, for public highways, the naming and changing of names of streets and avenues laid down on said map or plan, and the numbering or renumbering of houses and building lots fronting on such streets and avenues. But such last named power in regard to the alteration of said map or plan, laying out, opening, grading, constructing, closing and change of line, of such streets or avenues, or the numbering or naming thereof, or defraying the expenses thereof, shall only be exercised on the petition of the property owners, who own more than one-half of the frontage on any such street or avenue, or on a certificate of the town board and commissioners of highways of the town, that the same is, in their judgment, proper and necessary for the public interest. If the streets and avenues, in respect to which such action is proposed to be taken, shall lie in two or more towns, a like certificate shall be required of the town board and commissioners of highways, of each town. Before making such certificate, such town board, or boards and commissioners of highways, shall give ten days' notice by publication in one of the daily papers of the county, and by conspicuously posting in six public places in each of such towns, of the time and place at which they will meet to consider the same, at which meeting the public, and all persons interested, may appear and be heard in relation thereto. No such street or avenue shall be laid out, opened or constructed, upon or across any lands acquired by the right of eminent domain, and held in fee for depot purposes by any railroad corporation, or upon or across any lands now held by a corporation formed for the purpose of improving the breed of horses, without the consent of such corporations. No town officer shall charge anything for his services under this section,

8. Under the Constitution, Article 3, § 27, the legislature is empowered to grant the powers herein provided. A resolution is not objectionable which embraces more than one street, under Article 3, § 16, of the Constitution, the Constitutional inhibition applying only to acts of the legislature. Robert v. nor shall any charge be made against any such town or the property therein, for the expense of the publication of the notice herein required. [County Law, § 70; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 758.]

§ 10. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY AUTHORIZE COMMISIONERS OF HIGHWAYS TO CAUSE SURVEY OF HIGHWAYS TO BE MADE.

The board may authorize and direct the commissioners of highways of any town to cause a survey to be made, at the expense of the town, of any or all of the highways therein, and to make or complete a systematic record thereof, or to revise, collate and rearrange existing records of highways, and to correct and verify the same by new surveys and to establish the location of highways by suitable monuments. Such records so made, or revised, corrected and verified, shall be deposited with the town clerk of the town, and shall thereafter be the lawful records of the highways which they describe; but shall not affect rights pending in any judicial proceeding commenced before the deposit of such revised records with the town clerk. [County Law, § 71; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 760.]

§ 11. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY REGULATE TOLL RATES.

Such boards shall have power, by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to authorize an alteration, reduction or change of the rates of toll charged or received by any turnpike, plank or gravel road, or other toll road within such county, or by any bridge company or ferry within such county, or, if within more than one county, then by joint action with the supervisors of such counties, provided such alteration shall be asked for by the directors, trustees or owners of such road, bridge or ferry;[9] but that no increase of toll shall be so authorized unless notice of intention to apply for such increase shall have been published in each of the newspapers published in such county, once in each week for six successive weeks next before the annual election of supervisors in such county; and any alteration in rates of toll authorized by any board of supervisors may be changed or modified by any subsequent board, on their own motion, by a like vote of two-thirds of all of the members elected to such board; but nothing herein contained shall affect or abridge the powers of any city. [County Law, § 72; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 760.]

9. Tolls of plank road, turnpike and bridge corporations are also to be regulated and controlled under Transportation Corporations Law, sec. 136. Rates of ferriage to be posted. Highway Law, sec. 274, ante, p. 959.

§ 12. POWERS OF BOARDS OF SUPERVISORS AS TO HIGHWAYS IN COUNTIES OF MORE THAN 300,000 ACRES OF UNIMPROVED LAND.

The board may establish separate highway districts in counties containing more than three hundred thousand acres of unimproved unoccupied forest lands, for the purpose of constructing highways through such lands; such highway districts to be established upon the application of the owners of more than one-half of the non-resident lands therein. Any such highway district shall consist of contiguous tracts or parcels of land, and may include parts of one or more towns; and they may be changed, altered or abolished at any time by the board. Such board may appoint one or more commisioners to lay out and construct such highways in any such district, and prescribe the powers and duties, and direct the manner in which highway taxes shall be assessed, levied and collected upon the lands within the district, and the manner of expenditure thereof.

They may also authorize such commissioners to borrow money on such terms as they may deem just, but not exceeding the amount of ten years' highway taxes upon such lands; and may, for the purpose of repaying such loan, set apart and appropriate the highway taxes upon such lands, for a period not exceeding ten years from the time of making such loan. [County Law, § 73; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 760.]

§ 13. APPROPRIATION OF CERTAIN NONRESIDENT HIGHWAY TAXES.

The board may, upon the application of the owners representing a majority in value, as shall be ascertained from the last annual assessment-roll of the real estate lying along the line of any highway, laid out through unimproved lands, in cases not provided for in the last preceding section authorize the appropriation of the non-resident highway tax on the lands lying along such line, for the improvement of such highways. [County Laws, § 74; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 761.]

§ 14. BALANCE OF STATE APPROPRIATIONS.

The board may direct the expenditure of any non-resident highway or bridge tax, set apart by an act of the legislature, in counties wherein such nonresident lands are situated, when the official life of commissioners appointed to receive and expend such taxes has expired. [County Law, § 75; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 761.]

§ 15. ALTERATION OF STATE ROADS.

The board may authorize the commissioners of highways of any town in their county to alter or discontinue any road or highway therein, which shall have been laid out by the state under the same conditions that would govern their actions in relation to highways that have been laid out by local authorities. [County Law, § 76; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 761.]

§ 16. FURTHER POWERS OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS AS TO HIGHWAYS.

The board may make such other local and private laws and regulations concerning highways, alleys, bridges and ferries within the county, and the assessment and apportionment of highway labor or taxes therefor, not inconsistent with law, as it may deem necessary and proper, when the purposes of such laws and regulations cannot be accomplished under the foregoing provisions or the general laws of the state. [County Law, § 77; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 761.]

§ 17. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY PASS LAWS AS TO USE OF WIDE TIRE ON HIGHWAYS.

The board of supervisors may enact local and private laws regulating the width of tires used on vehicles built to carry a weight of fifteen hundred pounds or upwards, and may provide penalties for the violation thereof. [County Law, § 78; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 762.]

§ 18. USE OF ABANDONED TURNPIKE, PLANK OR MACADAMIZED ROADS.

Boards of supervisors shall have power to provide for the use of abandoned turnpike, plank or macadamized roads within any town as public highways; but jurisdiction in such a case shall not be exercised without the assent of two-thirds of all the members elected to such board, to be determined by yeas and nays, which shall be entered on its minutes. [County Law, § 79; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 762.]

§ 19. DEFINITION OF "UPON ITS BORDERS."

Whenever the words "upon its borders" are used in this article in reference to the boundary line between two towns, the same are and were intended and shall be construed to mean "upon," "along," and "across its borders." [County Law, § 80; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 762.]

CHAPTER LXVIII.

RAILROADS CROSSING HIGHWAYS.

SECTION 1. Steam surface railroads not to cross highways at grade; public service commission to determine manner of crossing.
2. Laying out new streets or highways over railroads; notice to railroad company; manner of crossing.
3. Changes in existing crossings; application to public service commission; notice; decision; appeal.
4. Acquisition of land right, or easement in crossing.
5. Repair of bridges and subways at crossing.
6. Payment of cost of construction.
7. Proceedings of public service commission for alteration of grade crossings.
8. Proceedings to compel compliance with recommendations of board of public service commission.
9. Town, village or city may borrow money and issue bonds.

§ 1. STEAM SURFACE RAILROADS NOT TO CROSS HIGHWAYS AT GRADE; PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION TO DETERMINE MANNER OF CROSSING.

All steam surface railroads built after the first day of July, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, except additional switches and sidings, must be so constructed as to avoid all public crossings at grade, whenever practicable so to do. Whenever application is made to the public service commission under section nine of this chapter there shall be filed with the commission a map showing the streets, avenues, highways and roads proposed to be crossed by the new construction, and the commission shall determine whether such crossings shall be under or over the proposed railroad, except where the commission shall determine such method of crossing to be impracticable. Whenever an application is made under this section to determine the manner of crossing, the commission shall designate a time and place when and where a hearing will be given to such railroad company, and shall notify the municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the streets, avenues, highways or roads proposed to be crossed by the new railroad. The commission shall also give public notice of such hearing in at least two newspapers, published in the locality affected by the application, and all persons owning land in the vicinity of the proposed crossing shall have the right to be heard. Upon such a notice and after a hearing, the public service commission may determine that alterations or changes may be made in any existing highway, at or in the vicinity of a proposed crossing for the purpose of avoiding a crossing at grade.

The decision of the commission rendered in any proceedings under this section shall be communicated, within twenty days after final hearing, to all parties to whom notice of the hearing in said proceedings was given, or who appeared at said hearing by counsel or in person. [Railroad Law, (L. 1910, ch. 481), § 89, as amended by L. 1913, chs. 425, 744, and L. 1914, ch. 378.]

§ 2. LAYING OUT NEW STREETS OR HIGHWAYS OVER RAILROADS; NOTICE TO RAILROAD COMPANY; MANNER OF CROSSING.

When a new street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of a street, avenue, highway or road, or a state or county highway or county road deviating from the line of an existing highway or road, shall hereafter be constructed across a steam surface railroad, other than pursuant to the provisions of section ninety-one of this chapter, such street, avenue, highway or road or portion of such street, avenue, highway or road, shall pass over or under such railroad or at grade, as the public service commission shall direct. Notice of intention to lay out such street, avenue, highway, or road, or new portion of a street, avenue, highway or road, across a steam surface railroad shall be given to such railroad company by the municipal corporation at least fifteen days prior to the making of the order laying out such street, avenue, highway or road by service personally on the president or vice-president of the railroad corporation, or any general officer thereof. In case of the construction of a state or county highway which deviates from the line of an existing highway across a steam surface railroad, a like notice shall be given to such railroad company by the state commission of highways at least fifteen days prior to the adoption of the maps, plans and specifications for such state or county highway by such commission. Such notice shall designate the time when and place where a hearing will be given to such railroad company, and such railroad company shall have the right to be heard before the authorities of such municipal corporation upon the question of the necessity of such street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road, or before the state commission of highways in case of a state or county highway, on the question of the location of such highway. If the municipal corporation determines such street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road to be necessary, or if the state commission of highways determines that such state or county highway which deviates from the line of an existing highway shall be constructed across such railroad at the place indicated in the maps, plans and specifications therefor, such municipal corporation or commission of highways shall then apply to the public service commission before any further proceedings are taken, to determine whether such street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road shall pass over or under such railroad or at grade. The public service commission shall thereupon appoint a time and place for hearing such application, and shall give such notice thereof as it shall judge reasonable, not however less than ten days, to the railroad company whose railroad is to be crossed by such new street, avenue, highway or road, or new portion or additional width of a street, avenue, highway or road, to the state commissioner of highways, or in the case of a state or county highway which deviates from the line of an existing highway, to the municipal corporation and to the owners of land adjoining the railroad and that part of the street, avenue, highway or road to be opened, extended or constructed. The public service commission shall determine whether such street, avenue, highway or road, or new portion or additional width of a street, avenue, highway or road, or state or county highway shall be constructed over or under such railroad or at grade. If said commission shall determine that such street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road shall be carried across such railroad above grade, then said commission shall determine the height, the length and the material of the bridge or structure by means of which such street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road shall be carried across such railroad, and the length, character and grades of the approaches thereto. If said commission shall determine that such street, avenue, highway or road shall be constructed or extended below the grade, said commission shall determine the manner and method in which the same shall be so carried under, and the grade or grades thereof, and if said commission shall determine that said street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road shall be constructed or extended at grade, said commission shall determine the manner and method in which the same shall be carried over said railroad at grade and what safeguards shall be maintained. The decision of the commission as to the manner and method of carrying such new street, avenue, highway or road, or new portion or additional width of a street, avenue, highway or road, or state or county highway which deviates from the line of an existing highway, across such railroad shall be final, subject however to the right of appeal hereinafter given. The decision of said commission rendered in any proceeding under this section shall be communicated within twenty days after final hearing to all parties to whom notice of the hearing of such proceedings was given, or who appeared at such hearing by counsel or in person.[1a] [Railroad Law (L. 1910, ch. 481), § 90, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 744, and L. 1914, ch. 378.]

1. Necessity of notice. Notice must be given to the railroad company over whose tracks it is proposed to lay out a highway, although proceedings to lay out such highway were instituted prior to the Grade Crossing Act of 1897, which added the above section to the Railroad Law. Matter of Ludlow Street, 59 App. Div. 180; 68 N. Y. Supp. 1046; see, also, Matter of Village of Waverly, 35 App. Div. 38; 54 N. Y. Supp. 368.

§ 3. CHANGES IN EXISTING CROSSINGS; APPLICATION TO PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION; NOTICE; DECISION; APPEAL.

The mayor and common council of any city, the president and trustees of any village, the town board of any town, the board of supervisors of any county within which a street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of a street, avenue, highway or road crosses or is crossed by a steam surface railroad at grade, below or above grade by structures heretofore constructed, or any steam surface railroad company, whose road crosses or is crossed by a street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, high-

1a. Application must be made to public service commission to determine whether street crossing shall be under or over railroad tracks, or at grade, before proceeding to acquire railroad lands by condemnation. Matter of City of New York, 204 N. Y. 465, revg. 143 App. Div. 258, 128 N. Y. Supp. 589.

Matters of public convenience always yield to matters of public safety. Even though a proposed highway duly laid out by a town board must cross railroad tracks at grade in order to serve the convenience of the public desiring access to a neighboring cold storage plant which is the chief purpose of the highway, the Public Service Commission may, nevertheless, require that the highway be taken across the railroad tracks on a viaduct if a crossing at grade will be dangerous. Matter of Town Board of Royalton, 138 App. Div. 412, 122 N. Y. Supp. 844.

Lands may be used for railroad purposes and for a highway crossing at the same time. When lands in use as a railroad right of way are taken by condemnation for the purpose of opening a street across such right of way, the municipality ordinarily obtains a common right with the railroad company for the use of the land condemned and the railroad company continues to use its right of way for its corporate purposes not inconsistent with its use as a street crossing. After the fee of land over which a highway is to be opened is obtained, if the municipality decides that the public interest does not require that the lands be immediately opened as a public highway, and it consequently delays opening the same, it does not thereby either lose the title to

way or road at grade, below or above grade, may bring their petition in writing to the public service commission, therein alleging that public safety requires an alteration in the manner of such crossing, its approaches, the method of crossing, the location of the crossing, a change in the existing structure by which such crossing is made, the closing and discontinuance of a crossing and the diversion of the travel thereon to another street, avenue, highway, road or crossing, or if not practicable to change such crossing from grade, below or above grade or to close or discontinue the same, the opening of an additional crossing for the partial diversion of travel from the grade below or above grade crossing, and praying that the same may be ordered. Where a street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of a street, avenue, highway or road in a city, village, town or county, which crosses or is crossed by a steam surface railroad at grade, below or above grade, is a part of a highway which the state commission of highways shall have determined to construct or improve as a state or county highway, as provided in article six of the highway law, such commission of highways may bring a petition containing any of the allegations above specified and praying for a like order. Upon any such petition being brought the public service commission shall appoint a time and place for hearing the petition, and shall give such personal notice thereof as it shall judge reasonable, of not less than ten days, however, to such petitioner, the railroad company, the municipality in which such crossing is situated, and if such crossing is in whole or part in an incorporated village having not to exceed twelve hundred inhabitants, also to the supervisor or supervisors of the town or towns in which such crossing is situated; and in all cases to the owners of the lands adjoining such crossing and adjoining that part of the street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road to be changed in grade or location, or the land to be opened for a new crossing, and to the state commission of highways in case of a state or county highway. The public service commission shall cause notice of said hearing to be advertised in at least two newspapers published in the locality affected by the applicaction. Upon such notice and after a hearing the public service commission shall determine what alterations the land or its right to open the same to public use. New York Cent. & H. R. R. R. Co. v. City of Buffalo, 200 N. Y. 113.

An appeal from an order of the Public Service Commission providing that a proposed highway shall cross railroad tracks on an elevated viaduct of certain clearance, does not lie if the commission reserved its decision as to the length, character and grades of the approaches to the viaduct — matters which the statute requires it to determine. Matter of Town Board of Royalton, 138 App. Div. 412, 122 N. Y. Supp. 844.

or changes, if any, shall be made.[2] If the application be made by the state commission of highways in respect to a street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of a street, avenue, highway or road proposed to be constructed or improved as a part of a state highway, the decision shall state whether such highway shall cross such railroad above or below the grade of the highway; in case of a county highway, such decision shall state whether such highway shall cross such railroad at grade, or above or below the grade of the highway. The decision of said public service commission rendered in any proceeding under this section shall be communicated within twenty days after final hearing to all parties to whom notice of the hearing in said proceeding was given, or who appeared at said hearing by counsel or in person. Any person aggrieved by such decision, or by a decision made pursuant to sections eighty-nine and ninety hereof, and who was a party to said proceeding, may within sixty days appeal therefrom to the appellate division of the supreme court in the department in which such grade crossing is situated, and to the court of appeals, in the same manner and with like effect as is provided in the case of appeals from an order of the supreme court. [Railroad Law (L. 1910, ch. 481), § 91, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 141, L. 1913, chs. 354, 744, and L. 1914, ch. 378.]

Extension of street across a railroad by an overhead bridge; easements of abutting landowner; injunction requiring elimination of crossing in event of non-payment of damages. Where a street, which did not theretofore cross a railroad, was extended and carried over the railroad tracks by an overhead bridge, the opening of the street across the railroad was the opening of a new street, or new portion of a street, within the statute, and the erection of the bridge and its approaches without the consent of the public service commission was an unlawful obstruction of the highway, and an owner of abutting land, whose easements of light, air and access to the street were injuriously affected by such bridge and approaches, has a right of action on account of the resulting injury. He is not entitled, however, to an absolute judgment requiring the elimination of the overhead crossing in the event of the non-payment of his damages, but only for its elimination if it is not now or hereafter made satisfactory to the public service commission. The judgment should be modified so as to enjoin the railroad company from maintaining the bridge across its railroad unless and until the said bridge and its approaches shall receive the sanction of the public service commission under section 90 of the Railroad Law. Brush v. New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R. Co. (1916), 218 N. Y. 264, modfg. 162 App. Div. 731.

2. The words " street, avenue or highway " import ways of a public character and no other ways whatsoever. This section has no application to private rights of way and does not authorize the elimination of such rights. Hence, no party

§ 4. ACQUISITION OF LAND, RIGHT OR EASEMENT IN CROSSING.

The municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the street, avenue, highway or road and in which the highway crossing is located, or the state commission of highways in case of a street, avenue or highway or road to be constructed or improved as a part of a state or county highway, may with the approval of the railroad company acquire by purchase any lands, rights or easements necessary or required for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of sections eighty-nine, ninety and ninety-one of this chapter, but if unable to do so shall acquire such lands, rights or easements by condemnation either under the condemnation law or under the provisions of the charter of such municipal corporation. The railroad company shall have notice of any such proceedings and the right to be heard therein.[2a] [Railroad Law (L. 1910, ch. 481), § 92, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 744.]

can be chargeable thereunder with any portion of the expense of closing ways which are wholly private. Matter of New York Cent. & H. R. R. R. Co., 200 N. Y. 121.

Power of Public Service Commision. The Public Service Commission, under this section, has power to make an order directing a railroad company to close a highway or divert travel to another highway in order to eliminate a railroad crossing, by removing a bridge in a street and building an embankment across the street; and the work done by the railroad company in obedience to such an order cannot be regarded either as an unlawful obstruction of the street or an actionable nuisance. Danner v. N. Y. & Harlem R. Co., 73 Misc. 113, aff'd. 213 N. Y. 117. The Railroad Law prescribes the method of defraying the expense of altering old crossings and contsructing new ones, and the Public Service Commission cannot go beyond its provisions. Matter of New York Cent. & H. R. R. R. Co., 200 N. Y. 121. The State Highway Commission, with the consent of a railroad company, has power to enter into negotiations for the purchase of such lands and easements as may be necessary to eliminate a grade crossing, and by and with the consent of the railroad, may agree upon the value thereof, and if said values cannot be agreed upon, as above stated, then it becomes necessary to institute condemnation proceedings through the attorney-geneal's office. Rept. of Atty.-Genl., March 23, 1911.

Objections first raised on appeal. The objection that a petition filed by the town board of the town of Schaghticoke, for the abolition of a railroad crossing at Melrose, N. Y., is insufficient in that it does not allege that Melrose is in the town of Schaghticoke, and the further objection, interposed by a party represented at the hearing, that proper notice was not given of the hearing before the railroad commissioners, cannot be raised for the first time on an appeal from the order granting the prayer of the petition. Matter of Town Board v. Fitchburg R. R. Co., 53 App Div. 16, 65 N. Y. Supp. 498.

2a. The words "municipal corporation in which the highway crossing is located" are broad enough to include a county, and the board of supervisors may apply for the appointment of commisioners to condemn lands necessary to change a grade crossing. County of Nassau v. Luessen, 69 Misc. 184, 125 N. Y. Supp. 206.

Damages for closing highway. While this section covers the right of access, an owner of lands adjacent to a street is not entitled to damages for closing the street where he is given an improved street in its place, and his street facilities are better and safer, although he is further removed from the street. City of Corning v. O'Neill (1917) 180 App. Div. 454.

Mandamus should not be issued to compel institution of condemnation proceedings until every reasonable effort has been made to acquire the lands by purchase. People ex rel. Mott Wheel Works v. Hayes (1917), 178 App. Div. 301.

§ 5. REPAIR OF BRIDGES AND SUBWAYS AT CROSSINGS.

When a highway crosses a railroad by an overhead bridge, the framework of the bridge and its abutments shall be maintained and kept in repair by the railroad company, and the roadway thereover and the approaches thereto shall be maintained and kept in repair by the municipality having jurisdiction over and in which the same are situated; except that in the case of any overhead bridge constructed prior to the first day of July, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, the roadway over and the approaches to which the railroad company was under obligation to maintain and repair, such obligation shall continue, provided the railroad company shall have at least ten days' notice of any defect in the roadway thereover and the approaches thereto, which notice must be given in writing by the town superintendent of highways or other duly constituted authority, and the railroad company shall not be liable by reason of any such defect unless it shall have failed to make repairs within ten days after the service of such notice upon it. When a highway passes under a railroad, the bridge and its abutments shall be maintained and kept in repair by the railroad company, and the subway and its approaches shall be maintained and kept in repair by the municipality having jurisdiction over and in which the same are situated. In case such highway is a part of a state or county highway constructed or improved as provided in article six of the highway law, the roadway over such railroad or the subway underneath the same, and the approaches thereto, shall be maintained and kept in repair under the supervision and control of the state commission of highways in the manner provided by the highway law for the maintenance and repair of state and county highways where such roadway, subway or approaches, or any of them, have been constructed or improved as a part of a state or a county highway.[3] [Railroad Law (L. 1910, ch. 481), § 93, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 744, and L. 1916, ch. 484.]

§ 6. EXPENSE OF CONSTRUCTING NEW CROSSINGS.

1. Whenever under the provisions of section eighty-nine of this chapter, a new railroad is constructed across an existing highway, the ex-

3. Application. This section is not limited in its application to railroads constructed subsequent to its enactment or to bridges over crossings thereafter constructed, but applies to all bridges constituting the highway at railroad crossings, whether constructed before or after the law went into effect. City of Yonkers v. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. Co., 165 N. Y. 142.

Maintenance and repair of bridge and abutments is at the expense of the railroad company, but the approaches must be maintained at the expense of the state, where pense of crossing above or below the grade of the highway including any expense incurred in altering or changing the highway under a determination of the public service commission shall be paid entirely by the railroad corporation.

2. Whenever under the provisions of section ninety of this chapter a new street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road is constructed across an existing railroad, the railroad corporation shall pay one-half and the municipal corporation having jurisdiction over such street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road shall pay the remaining one-half of the expense of making such crossing above or below the grade of the railroad.

3. Whenever a change is made as to an existing crossing or structure in accordance with the provisions of section ninety-one of this chapter, fifty per centum of the expense thereof shall be borne by the railroad corporation, twenty-five per centum by the municipal corporation and twenty-five per centum by the state; except that whenever an existing crossing, in which a change is made under the provisions of section ninety-one, is located wholly or partly within an incorporated village having not to exceed twelve hundred inhabitants, the portion of expense herein required to be borne by the municipal corporation shall be borne by the town or towns in which such crossing is situated.[4]

4. Whenever under the provisions of sections ninety and ninety-one of this chapter a highway is constructed across an existing railroad and is a part of a state or county highway constructed or improved as provided in the highway law, one-half of the expense of making such crossing above or below grade or changing or rebuilding the existing structure by which such crossing is made, shall be paid by the railroad corporation, and the remaining one-half of such expense shall be paid by the state in the case of a state highway, and jointly by the state, county and town in the case of a county highway, in the same proportion and in the same manner as the cost of construction or improvement of such state or county highway is paid.

5. Whenever in carrying out the provisions of sections ninety or ninety-one of this chapter two or more lines of steam surface railroad, owned and operated by different corporations, cross a highway at a point where a change in grade is made, each corporation shall pay such proportion of fifty per centum of the expense thereof as shall be determined by the public service commission.

6. In carrying out the provisions of sections eighty-nine, ninety and ninety-one of this chapter the work shall be done by the railroad corporation or corporations affected thereby, subject to the supervision and approval of the public service commission; and in all cases, except where the entire expense is paid by the railroad corporation, the expense of construction shall be paid primarily by the railroad company, and the expense of acquiring additional lands, rights or easements shall be paid primarily by the municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the street, avenue, highway or road or new portion or additional width of such street, avenue, highway or road or, in case of a state or county highway, upon the order of the state commission of highways out of moneys available therefor. Plans and specifications of all changes proposed under sections ninety and ninety-one of this chapter and an estimate of the expense thereof shall be submitted to the public service commission for its approval before the letting of any contract. If such changes are proposed in a highway which is to be constructed or improved as a state or county highway, such plans and specifications shall also be submitted to the state commission of highways for its approval before the letting of any contract. In case the work is done by contract the proposals of contractors shall be submitted to the public service commission, and if the commission shall determine that the bids are excessive it shall have the power to require the submission of new proposals. The commission may employ temporarily such experts and engineers as may be necessary properly to supervise any work that may be undertaken under sections eighty-nine, ninety and ninety-one of this chapter, the expense thereof to be paid by the comptroller upon the requisition and certificate of the commission and included in the cost of the particular change in grade or in the structure above or below grade on account of which it is incurred and finally apportioned in the manner provided in this section.

7. Upon the completion of the work and its approval by the public service commission an accounting[5] shall be had between the railroad corporation and the municipal corporation or the state commission of highways of the amounts expended by each with interest, and if it shall appear that the railroad corporation or the municipal corporation or the state commission of highways has expended more than its proportion of the expense of the crossing as herein provided a settlement shall be forthwith made in accordance with the provisions of this section. At any time after the work of elimination of a crossing has been commenced the public service commission may, upon its own motion or upon the petition of the railroad company or of any municipality interested or of the state commission of highways, make an order for an intermediate settlement and direct payments to be made in connection therewith as in this section provided for a final accounting. All items of expenditure shall be verified under oath, and in case of a dispute between the railroad corporation and the municipal corporation or the state commission of highways as to the amount expended, any judge of the supreme court in the judicial district in which the municipality or the state or county highway is situated may appoint a referee to take testimony as to the amount expended, and the confirmation of the report of the referee shall be final. In the event of the failure or refusal of the railroad corporation to pay its proportion of the expense, the same with interest from the date of such accounting may be levied and assessed upon the railroad corporation and collected in the same manner that taxes and assessments are now collected by the municipal corporation within which the work is done; and in the event of the failure or refusal of the municipal corporation to pay its proportion of the expense an action may be maintained by the railroad corporation for the collection of the same with interest from the date of such accounting, or the railroad corporation may offset such amount with interest against any taxes levied or assessed against it or its property by such municipal corporation.

5. Interest on claim against state. Although the statute makes no provision for interest where the state fails to pay its proportion of the cost of construction, it contemplates the payment of interest up to the time when the accounting is made, where the railroad company has acted in good faith. The interest is a part of the cost or expense of the work and where the accounting is delayed by reason of a mutual mistake, there is no reason why it should not be allowed. Matter of State Commission of Highways (1918) 182 App. Div. 108.

8. In the event of the appropriation made by the state in any one year being insufficient to pay the state's proportion of the expense of any change that may be ordered the first payment from the appropriation of the succeeding year shall be on account of said change, and no payment shall be made on account of any subsequent change that may be ordered, nor shall any subsequent change be ordered, until the obligation of the state on account of the first named change in grade has been fully discharged, unless the same shall be provided for by an additional appropriation to be made by the legislature. The state's proportion of the expense of changing any existing grade crossing or the structure of any existing crossing above or below grade shall be paid by the state treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller, to which shall be appended the certificate of the public service commission to the effect that the work has been properly performed and a statement showing the situation of the crossing or structure that has been changed, the total cost and the proportionate expense thereof; and the money shall be paid in whole or in part to the railroad corporation or to the municipal corporation as the public service commission may direct, subject, however, to the rights of the respective parties as they appear from the accounting or intermediate accounting to be had as hereinbefore provided for.

9. No claim for damages to property on account of the change or elimination of any crossing or change in structure under the provisions of this article shall be allowed unless notice of such claim is filed with the public service commission within six months after completion of the work necessary for such change or elimination. [Railroad Law (L. 1910, ch. 481), § 94, as amended by L. 1911, ch. 141, L. 1913, chs. 354, 425, 744, L. 1914, ch. 378, and L. 1915, ch. 240.]

§ 7. PROCEEDINGS BY PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION FOR ALTERATION OF GRADE CROSSINGS.

The public service commission may, in the absence of any application therefor, when in its opinion public safety requires an alteration in an existing grade crossing or a change in any existing structure above or below grade, institute proceedings on its own motion for an alteration in such grade crossing, or structure, upon such notice as it shall deem reasonable, of not less than ten days however, to the railroad company, the municipal corporation and the person or persons interested, and proceedings shall be conducted as provided in section ninety-one of this chapter. The changes in existing grade crossings or structures authorized or required by the commission in any one year shall be so distributed and apportioned over and among the railroads and the municipalities of the state as to produce such equality of burden upon them for their proportionate part of the expenses as herein provided for as the nature and circumstances of the cases before it will permit. [Railroad Law (L. 1910, ch. 481), § 95, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 354.]

§ 8. PROCEEDINGS TO COMPEL COMPLIANCE WITH RECOMMENDATIONS OF PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

It shall be the duty of the corporation, municipality or person or persons to whom the decisions or orders of the public service commission are directed, as provided in sections eighty-nine, ninety, ninety-one and ninety-five of this chapter, to comply with such decisions and orders, and in case of their failure so to do the commission shall thereupon take proceedings to compel obedience to the decisions and orders of the commission. The supreme court at a special term shall have the power in all cases of such decisions and orders by the public service commission to compel compliance therewith by mandamus, or under the provisions of the public service commissions law, subject to appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court and the court of appeals in the same manner with like effect as is provided in case of appeals from an order of the supreme court. [Railroad Law (L. 1910, ch. 481), § 96.]

§ 9. TOWN, VILLAGE OR CITY MAY BORROW MONEY AND ISSUE BONDS.

Whenever in carrying out any of the provisions of sections eighty-nine to ninety-six inclusive of this chapter any municipality shall incur any expense or become liable for the payment of any moneys, it shall be lawful for such municipality temporarily to borrow such money on the notes or certificates of such municipality, and to include the amount of outstanding notes or certificates, or any part thereof, in its next annual tax levy for municipal purposes, or in the discretion of the common council in case of a city, the board of trustees in case of a village, the town board in case of a town, or the board of supervisors in the case of a county, to borrow the same, or any part thereof, on the credit of the municipality, and to issue bonds therefor, which bonds shall be signed by the mayor and clerk in case of a city, the president and clerk in case of a village, the town board in case of a town and the board of supervisors in the case of a county, and shall be in such form and for such sums and be payable at such times and places with interest not exceeding five per centum per annum, as the common council in case of a city, the board of trustees in case of a village, the town board in case of a town and the board of supervisors in the case of a county, shall direct. [Railroad Law (L. 1910, ch. 481), § 97, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 744, and L. 1914, ch. 498.]

3. To each district having an assessed valuation of forty thousand dollars or less, but exceeding twenty thousand dollars, one hundred and seventy-five dollars.

4. To each district having an assessed valuation of sixty thousand dollars or less, but exceeding forty thousand dollars, and to each Indian reservation for each teacher employed therein for a period of one hundred and eighty days or more, one hundred fifty dollars. [Subd. amended by L. 1917, ch. 74.]

5. To each of the orphan asylums which meet the conditions mentioned in article thirty-five of this chapter, one hundred and twenty-five dollars.

6. To each of the remaining districts and to each of the cities in the state one hundred twenty-five dollars. The apportionment provided for by subdivisions two, three, four, five and six shall be known as district quotas.

7. To each such districts, city and orphan asylum for each additional qualified teacher and his successors by whom the common schools have been taught during the period of time required by law, one hundred dollars. The apportionment provided for by this subdivision shall be known as the teachers' quota.

8. To a school district or a city which has failed to maintain school for one hundred eighty days or which has employed an extra teacher for a shorter period than one hundred eighty days such part of a district or teacher's quota as seems to him equitable when the reason for such failure is in his judgment sufficient to warrant such action; but in case such failure to maintain a school in such district or city for a period of one hundred eighty days was caused by the prevalence of an infectious or contagious disease in the community, the commissioner may in his discretion apportion to such district or city full district and teachers' quotas. [Subd. amended by L. 1917, ch. 74.]

9. To each separate neighbourhood such sum as in his opinion it is equitably entitled to receive upon the basis of distribution established by this article.

10. All errors or omissions in the apportionment whether made by the commissioner of education or by the school commissioner shall be corrected by the commissioner of education. Whenever a school district has been apportioned less money than that to which it is entitled the commissioner of education may allot to such district the balance to which it is in his judgment entitled and the same shall be paid from the contingent fund. Whenever a school district has been apportioned more money than that to which it is entitled the commissioner of education may, by an order under his hand, direct such moneys to be paid back into the hands of the county treasurer by him to be credited to the school fund, or he may deduct such amount from the next apportionment to be made to said district.

11. The commissioner of education may also in his discretion excuse the default of a trustee or a board of education in employing a teacher not legally qualified, legalize the time so taught and authorize the payment of the salary of such teacher. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 491.]

§ 3. CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH CITIES AND DISTRICTS ARE ENTITLED TO AN APPORTIONMENT FROM THE APPROPRIATION FOR THE SUPPORT OF COMMON SCHOOLS.

1. The commissioner of education shall make no allotment of a supervision quota to any city or district unless satisfied that such city or district employs a competent superintendent whose time is exclusively devoted to the supervision of the public schools of such city or district; nor shall he make any allotment to any district in the first instance without first causing an enumeration of the inhabitants to be made which shall show the population thereof to be at least five thousand, the expense of such enumeration, as certified by said commissioner, shall be paid by the district in whose interest it is made. The population shown by the last state or federal census or village enumeration may be accepted by said commissioner whenever the village and school district boundaries coincide.

2. No district shall be entitled to any portion of such school moneys on such apportionment unless the report of the trustee for the preceding school year shall show that a common school was supported in the district and taught by a qualified teacher or by successive qualified teachers for at least one hundred and eighty days, inclusive of legal holidays that may have occurred during the term of said school and exclusive of Saturdays. [Subd. amended by L. 1913, ch. 511.]

3. No Saturday shall be counted as part of said one hundred and eighty days of school and no school shall be in session on a legal holiday, except general election day, Washington's birthday and Lincoln's birthday. A deficiency not exceeding six days during any school year caused by a teacher's attendance upon teachers' conferences held by district superintendents of schools within a county, shall be excused by the commissioner of education. In common school districts the term of school shall begin each year on the first Tuesday of September. [Subd. amended by L. 1913, ch. 511, Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 492.]

§ 4. APPORTIONMENT OF MONEYS APPROPRIATED TO CITIES, ACADEMIES, ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS AND SCHOOL LIBRARIES.

The commissioner of education shall apportion the money annually appropriated for the support of cities, academies, academic departments and school libraries in accordance with regulations established or to be established by him as follows:

1. To each city, union school district and nonsectarian academy maintaining an academic department, a quota of one hundred dollars for each such academic department maintained therein. This apportionment shall be known as the academic quota.

2. To each nonsectarian private academy an allowance equal to the amount raised from local sources but not to exceed two hundred fifty dollars annually for approved books, reproductions of standard works of art and apparatus. [Subd. amended by L. 1914, ch. 216.]

3. To each city an allowance equal to the amount raised from local sources but not to exceed eighteen dollars and two dollars additional for each duly licensed teacher employed therein for the legal term, and two hundred fifty dollars for each academic department maintained by it for approved books, reproductions of standard works of art and apparatus. [Subd. amended by L. 1914, ch. 216.]

4. To each union free school district maintaining an academic department an allowance equal to the amount raised from local sources, but not to exceed two hundred sixty-eight dollars annually and two dollars additional for each teacher employed in said district for the legal term for approved books, reproductions of standard works of art and apparatus. [Subd. amended by L. 1914, ch. 216.]

5. To all other school districts an allowance equal to the amount raised from local sources but not to exceed eighteen dollars annually and two dollars additional for each duly licensed teacher employed in said district for the legal term for approved books, reproductions of standard works of art, geographical maps, a globe and school apparatus. [Subd. amended by L. 1914, ch. 216.]

6. To each city and union school district maintaining an academic department, twenty dollars per year for at least thirty-two weeks' instruction or a proportionate amount if for eight weeks or more for each nonresident pupil attending the academic department of such school from districts not maintaining such academic departments and who shall be admitted to such academic department without other expense for tuition than that provided herein. But pupils residing in districts not maintaining a four-year curriculum may be included in this apportionment after having completed the course of study prescribed for the school in the district in which they reside. In the apportionment to cities and union school districts, whose customary charge for nonresident pupils is greater than the sum provided by this subdivision, the commissioner of education may permit the sum so apportioned to be applied upon such customary charge for such non-resident pupils, provided the balance of such customary charge shall be assumed by the school district in which such non-resident pupil is resident, and the payment thereof shall have been provided for at a school district meeting held in such district or the said balance shall have been paid by the parents or guardians of such pupils to the proper officer of the city or district maintaining the high school or academic department attended by such pupils. [Subd. amended by L. 1912, ch. 276, L. 1913, ch. 399, and L. 1915, ch. 214.]

7. After the payment of the allowances herein provided for the balance shall be divided among the several cities, school districts and academies maintaining academic departments on the basis of aggregate days' attendance of academic pupils therein.

8. The commissioner shall set aside at the beginning of the fiscal year a sum which in his opinion will be sufficient to pay the allowances for books and apparatus herein provided before making the other apportionments as directed by this article. The allowance for books and apparatus shall be apportioned and paid as often during each year as the commissioner may determine. All other apportionments above provided for shall be made so far as possible during the month of October each year on the basis of the reports of the previous year.

9. To entitle a city, academy, academic department or school library to an apportionment from this fund the school authorities having control must render a satisfactory report for the preceding year to the commissioner of education before the twentieth day of September in each year unless such neglect is excused by the commissioner for sufficient reason. They must also have complied with all regents' laws and ordinances during the preceding academic year. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 493.]

§ 5. MANNER OF CERTIFYING AND PAYING APPORTIONMENT PROVIDED FOR IN PRECEDING SECTION.

Payment from this fund shall be made to the county treasurer of each county for all schools located in such county, by the state treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller or the certificate of the commissioner of education.

The commissioner of education immediately after making an apportionment shall certify or cause to be certified to the county treasurer of every county included in such apportionment, excepting those counties included within the territory of the city of New York, with respect to his county, the name of each academy, the number of each school district and the town in which it is situated and the name of each city to which money has been allotted and the amount allotted to each. The county treasurer shall, upon the receipt of such certificate and payment from the state treasurer, pay to the treasurer, if there be one, otherwise to the disbursing officer or collector of each school district, academy and city named in the certificate of the commissioner of education, the amount to which said district, academy or city is entitled as shown by such certificate.

Any apportionment which shall be made to the city of New York shall be certified and paid to the chamberlain of the city of New York, and any apportionment which shall be made to any private academy situated within the territory of the city of New York, shall be certified and paid directly to the disbursing officer of the academy to which the apportionment is made. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 494, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 77.]

§ 6. COUNTY TREASURERS TO RENDER ANNUAL REPORT.

The county treasurers of the state shall, upon the first day of October of each year and at such other times as the commissioner of education may require, make a report for the preceding year to the commissioner of education, showing the amount of money received by them from this fund and the school districts, cities or academies to which such money has been paid and the amount paid to each, and the amount, if any, remaining in their hands unclaimed by any school district, city or academy together with any other fact relative to the disbursement of this fund which said commissioner may require. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 495.]

§ 7. CERTIFICATE OF APPORTIONMENT BY COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION.

As soon as possible after the making of any annual or general apportionment, the commissioner of education shall certify it, or cause it to be certified, to the county clerk, county treasurer, district superintendents, and city treasurer or chamberlain, in every county in the state; and if it be a supplemental apportionment, then to the county clerk, county treasurer and district superintendents of the county in which the school-house of the district concerned is situated. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 496, as amended by L. 1912, ch. 77.]

§ 8. MONEYS APPROPRIATED, WHEN AND HOW PAYABLE.

At least one-half of the moneys so annually apportioned by the commissioner of education shall be payable on or before the first day of March and the remaining part of such moneys on or before the fifteenth day of May, in each year, next after such apportionment, to the treasurers of the several counties and the chamberlain of the city of New York, respectively; and the said treasurers and the chamberlain shall apply for and receive the same as soon as payable. The county treasurer shall pay to the city treasurer of each city and the treasurer of each union free school district having a population of five thousand or more inhabitants and in which a superintendent of schools has been appointed, situated within his county, all school moneys apportioned to such city or district as provided by sections four hundred and ninety-one, four hundred and ninety-two and six hundred and four of this chapter. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 497, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 52.]

§ 9. APPORTIONMENT OF SCHOOL MONEYS BY DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENTS.

The district superintendent of schools shall, on or before the fifteenth day of February in each year, apportion the supervision, district and teachers' quotas to the several districts entitled thereto, within his supervisory district, as shown by the certificate of the commissioner of education to the said district superintendent. He shall procure from the supervisors of the towns in his district a transcript showing the unexpended moneys in their hands applicable to the payment of teachers' salaries. The amounts in each supervisor's hands shall be charged as a partial payment of the sums apportioned to the town teachers' salaries.

He shall procure from the county treasurer a full list and statement of all payments to him of moneys for or on account of fines and penalties, or accruing from any other source, for the benefit of schools and of the towns or districts for whose benefit the same were received. Such of said moneys as belong to a particular district, he shall set apart and credit to it; and such as belong to the schools of a town he shall set apart and credit to the schools in that town, and shall apportion them together with such as belong to the schools of the county as hereinafter provided for the payment of teachers' salaries.

He shall sign, in duplicate, a certificate, showing the amounts apportioned and set apart to each school district and part of a district, and the towns in which they were situated, and shall forthwith deliver one of said duplicates to the treasurer of the county and transmit the other to the commissioner of education.

He shall certify to the supervisor of each town, in his supervisory district the amount of school moneys apportioned to each district or part of a district of his town for teachers' wages. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 498, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 130.]

§ 10. DUTY OF AND PAYMENT TO SUPERVISOR.

On receiving the certificate of the school commissioners, each supervisor shall forthwith make a copy thereof for his own use, and deposit the original in the office of the clerk of his town; and the moneys so apportioned to his town shall be paid to him immediately on his compliance with the requirements of section three hundred and sixty-three of this chapter. [Education Law, (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 499.]

§ 11. POWER OF COMPTROLLER TO WITHHOLD PAYMENT OF SCHOOL MONEYS.

The comptroller may withhold the payment of any moneys to which any county may be entitled from the appropriation of the incomes of the school fund and the United States deposit fund for the support of common schools, until satisfactory evidence shall be furnished to him that all moneys required by law to be raised by taxation upon such county, for the support of schools throughout the state, have been collected and paid or accounted for to the state treasurer. [Education Law, (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 500.]

§ 12. UNION FREE SCHOOL DISTRICT AND CITY, A SCHOOL DISTRICT.

Every union free school district and every city having an organized city system of schools shall, for all the purposes of the apportionment, distribution, payment and withholding of school moneys, be regarded and recognized as a school district. [Education Law, (L. 1910, ch. 140) 501.] 501.]

§ 13. SUPERVISOR TO GIVE BOND BEFORE RECEIVING SCHOOL MONEYS; REFUSAL TO GIVE BOND A MISDEMEANOR.

1. Immediately on receiving the school commissioners' certificates of apportionment, the county treasurer shall require of each supervisor, and each supervisor shall give to the treasurer, in behalf of the town, his bond, with two or more sufficient sureties, approved by the treasurer, in the penalty of at least double the amount of the school moneys set apart or apportioned to the town, and of any such moneys unaccounted for by his predecessors, conditioned for the faithful disbursement, safe-keeping and accounting for such moneys, and of all other school moneys that may come into his hands from any other source.[1]

2. If the condition shall be broken the county treasurer shall sue the bond in his own name, in behalf of the town, and the money recovered shall be paid over to the successor of the supervisor in default, such successor having first given security as aforesaid.[2]

3. Whenever the office of a supervisor shall become vacant, the county treasurer shall require the person elected or appointed to fill such vacancy to execute a bond, with two or more sureties, to be approved by the treasurer, in the penalty of at least double the sum of the school moneys remaining in the hands of the old supervisor, when the office became vacant, conditioned for the faithful disbursement and safe-keeping of and accounting for such moneys. But the execution of this bond shall not relieve the supervisor from the duty of executing the bond first above mentioned. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 363.]

The refusal of a supervisor to give such security shall be a misdemeanor and any fine imposed on his conviction thereof shall be for the benefit of the common schools of the town. Upon such refusal, the moneys so set apart and apportioned to the town shall be paid to and disbursed by some other officer or person to be designated by the county judge, under such

Undertaking of supervisor. Each supervisor is required to make and deliver to the town clerk of the town his undertaking, with such sureties as the town board shall prescribe, conditioned for the faithful keeping and accounting for all moneys and property, including the local school fund, belonging to his town and coming into his hands as such supervisor. See Town Law, sec. 100, ante, p. 304. The undertaking required by the above section is in addition to his regular official undertaking and runs to the county treasurer rather than to the town. The form of an official undertaking of a town officer, and the liability of sureties thereon are prescribed by section 13 of the Town Law, ante, p. 311. As to general provisions respecting official undertakings, see Public Officers Law, secs. 10–13, ante, p. 312.

2. Liability on bond. The fact that the supervisor of a town in good faith deposited as a general deposit the school moneys received by him with a reputable firm of individual bankers, believed to be solvent, and that thereafter such firm failed and such moneys were lost, is not a defense to an action brought upon the bond of such supervisor given pursuant to the provisions of the above section. Tillinghast v. Merrill, 77 Hun, 481; 28 N. Y. Supp. 1089.

regulations and with such safeguards as he may prescribe, and the reasonable compensation of such officer or person, to be adjusted by the board of supervisors, shall be a town charge.[3] [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 364.]

§ 14. REPORT BY SUPERVISORS TO DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENTS.

On the first Tuesday of February in each year, each supervisor shall make a return in writing to the district superintendent of schools of the supervisory district in which the town is situated, showing the amounts of school moneys in his hands not paid on the orders of trustees for teachers' salaries, and the districts to which they stand accredited, and if such moneys remain in his hands, he shall report that fact; and thereafter he shall not pay out any of said moneys until he shall have received the certificate of the next apportionment; and the moneys so returned by him shall be reapportioned as directed in article eighteen of this chapter. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 365, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 130.]

§ 15. GRANT, BEQUEST OR DEVISE OF PROPERTY TO TOWNS FOR BENEFIT OF SCHOOLS.

Real and personal estate may be granted, conveyed, devised, bequeathed and given in trust and in perpetuity or otherwise, to the state, or to the regents or to the commissioner of education for the support or benefit of the common schools, within the state, or within any part or portion of it, or of any particular common schools within it; and to any county, or the school comissioners of any county, or to any city or any board of officers thereof, or to any school commissioner district or its commissioner, or to any town, or supervisor of a town, or to any school district or its trustees, for the support and benefit of common schools within such county, city, school commissioner district, town or school district, or within any part or portion thereof respectively, or for the support and benefit of any particular common schools therein. No such grant, conveyance, devise or bequest shall be held void for the want of a named or competent trustee or donee, but where no trustee or donee, or an incompetent one is named, the title and trust shall vest in the people of the state, subject to its acceptance by the legislature, but such acceptance shall be presumed. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 520.]

3. Refusal to give bond. It is provided by section 1820 of the Penal Law that a person who executes any functions of a public office without having executed and duly filed the required security is guilty of a misdemeanor. But the acts of the supervisor are not invalidated because of his failure to execute the bond. See Penal Law, § 1821.

The legislature may control and regulate the execution of all such trusts; and the commissioner of education shall supervise and advise the trustees, and hold them to a regular accounting for the trust property and its income and interest at such times, in such forms, and with such authentications, as he shall, from time to time, prescribe. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 521.]

The common council of every city, the board of supervisors of every county, the trustees of every village, the supervisor of every town, the trustees of every school district, and every other officer or person who shall be thereto required by the commissioner of education, shall report to him whether any and if any, what trusts are held by them respectively, or by any other body, officer or person to their information or belief for school purposes, and shall transmit, therewith, an authenticated copy of every will, conveyance, instrument or paper embodying or creating the trust; and shall, in like manner, forthwith report to him the creation and terms of every such trust subsequently created. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 522.]

§ 17. SUPERVISOR TO REPORT TO SUPERINTENDENT AMOUNT OF GOSPEL SCHOOL FUNDS IN HIS HANDS.

Every supervisor of a town shall report to the commissioner of education whether there be, within the town, any gospel or school lot, and, if any, shall describe the same, and state to what use, if any, it is put by the town: and whether it be leased, and, if so, to whom, for what term and upon what rents; and whether the town holds or is entitled to any land, moneys or securities arising from any sale of such gospel or school lot, and the investment of the proceeds thereof, or of the rents and income of such lots and investments, and shall report a full statement and account of such lands, moneys and securities.[4] [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 523.]

§ 17. DISPOSITION OF FINES AND PENALTIES FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE COMMON SCHOOLS; DISTRICT ATTORNEY TO REPORT TO BOARD OF SUPERVISORS FINES COLLECTED; FINES TO BE PAID TO COUNTY TREASURER.

Whenever, by any statute, a penalty or fine is imposed for the benefit of common schools, and not expressly of the common schools of a town or school district, it shall be taken to be for the benefit of the common schools of the county within which the conviction is had; and the fine or penalty, when paid or collected, shall be paid forthwith into the county treasury, and the treasurer shall credit the same as school moneys of the county, unless the county comprise a city having a special school act, in which case he shall report it to the commissioner of education, who shall apportion it upon the basis of population by the last census, between the city and the residue of the county, and the portion belonging to the city shall be paid into its treasury. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 850.]

Every district attorney shall report, annually, to the board of supervisors, all such fines and penalties imposed in any prosecution conducted by him during the previous year; and all moneys collected or received by him or by the sheriff, or any other officer, for or on account of such fines or penalties, shall be immediately paid into the county treasury, and the receipt of the county treasurer shall be a sufficient and the only voucher for such money.[5] [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 851.]

Whenever a fine or penalty is inflicted or imposed for the benefit of the common schools of a town or school district, the magistrate, constable or other officer collecting or receiving the same shall forthwith pay the same to the county treasurer of the county in which the school house is located, who shall credit the same to the town or district for whose benefit it is collected. If the fine or penalty be inflicted or imposed for the benefit of the common schools of a city having a special school act, or of any part or district of a city, it shall be paid into the city treasury. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 852.]

Whenever a penalty or fine is imposed upon any school district officer for a violation or omission of official duty, or upon any person for any act or omission within a school district, or touching property or the peace and good order of the district, and such penalty or fine is declared to be for the use or benefit of the common schools of the town or of the county, and such school district lies in two or more towns or counties, the town or county intended by the act shall be taken to be the one in which the school house, or the school house longest owned or held by the district, is at the time of such violation, act or omission. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 853.]

5. Money received by district attorney for penalties. The district attorney is required to pay all money received for a penalty or forfeiture belonging to the county to the county treasurer, and must render an account to the first term of the County Court of his county held in each calendar year of all money collected by him from any person belonging to the county or to the state. See County Law, § 201.

§ 18. SUPERVISOR TO ANNUALLY RETURN TO DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENT AMOUNT OF SCHOOL MONEYS REMAINING IN HIS HANDS.

On the first Tuesday of February in each year, each supervisor shall make a return in writing to the district superintendent of schools of the supervisory district in which the town is situated, showing the amounts of school moneys in his hands not paid on the orders of trustees for teachers' salaries, and the districts to which they stand accredited, and if such moneys remain in his hands, he shall report that fact; and thereafter he shall not pay out any of said moneys until he shall have received the certificate of the next apportionment; and the moneys so returned by him shall be reapportioned as directed in article eighteen of this chapter.[6] [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 365, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 130.]

§ 19. DISBURSEMENT OF SCHOOL MONEYS; PAYMENT OF MONEYS TO DISTRICT COLLECTOR OR TREASURER; LIBRARY MONEYS; ACCOUNTS OF SCHOOL MONEYS; PAYMENT OF MONEYS BY PREDECESSOR.

It is the duty of every supervisor:

1. To disburse the school moneys in his hands applicable to the payment of teachers' wages, upon and only upon the written orders of a sole trustee or a majority of the trustees, in favor of qualified teachers. But whenever the collector in any school district shall have given bonds for the due and faithful performance of the duties of his office as disbursing agent, as required by section two hundred and fifty-three or whenever any school district shall elect a treasurer as provided in this chapter, the said supervisor shall, upon the receipt by him of a copy of the bond executed by said collector or treasurer as herein required, certified by the trustees, pay over to such collector or treasurer, all moneys in his hands applicable to the payment of teachers' wages in such district, and the said collector or treasurer shall disburse such moneys so received by him upon such orders as are specified herein to the teachers entitled to the same.

2. To pay over all the school money apportioned to a union free school district, to the treasurer of such district, upon the order of its board of education.

3. To keep a just and true account of all the school moneys received and disbursed by him during each year, and to lay the same, with proper vouchers, before the town board or board of town auditors at each annual meeting thereof.[7]

4. To provide a bound blank book, the cost of which shall be a town charge, and to enter therein all his receipts and disbursements of school moneys, specifying from whom and for what purposes they were received, and to whom and for what purposes they were paid out; and to deliver the book to his successor in office.

5. To make out a just and true account of all school moneys received by him and of all disbursements thereof, within fifteen days after the termination of his office and to deliver the same to the town clerk, to be filed and recorded, and to notify his successor in office that such account has been made and filed.

6. To deliver to his predecessor the county treasurer's certificate showing that he has given to such treasurer the bond required by section three hundred and sixty-three of this chapter and that such bond has been approved by such treasurer, and to procure from the town clerk a copy of his predecessor's account, and to demand and receive from him all school moneys remaining in his hands.

7. To pay to his successor upon receipt of such certificate all school moneys remaining in his hands, and to forthwith file the certificate in the town clerk's office.[8]

8. To sue for and recover, in his name of office, when the duty is not elsewhere imposed by law, all penalties and forfeitures imposed by this chapter, and for any default or omission of any town officer or school district board or officer under this chapter; and after deducting his costs and expenses to report the balances to the school commissioner.

9. To act, when legally required, in the erection or alteration of a school district, as provided in article five of this chapter, and to perform any other duty which may be devolved upon him by this chapter, or any other act relating to common schools. account to the town board or board of town auditors for all moneys received and disbursed by them at the meeting of such board held on the Tuesday preceding the biennial meeting and on the corresponding date in each alternate year, or in towns holding town meetings at the same time with the general election, on the third Tuesday of December in each year. See Town Law, sec. 132, ante, p. 376, and the notes thereunder relating to accountings by town officers to the town board.

8. Payments to successor. It is provided in section 91 of the Town Law (see ante, p. 356), that every supervisor going out of office, when so required, shall deliver upon oath to his successor all the records, books and papers in his possession or under his control belonging to the office held by him, and shall at the same time pay over to his successor the moneys belonging to the town remaining in his hands. If a supervisor shall refuse to deliver books and papers

§ 20. ALTERATIONS OF SCHOOL DISTRICTS; REFUSAL OF TRUSTEES TO CONSENT; SUPERVISORS OF TOWNS TO BE ASSOCIATED WITH DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENT TO HEAR OBJECTIONS AND DETERMINE.

1. With the written consent of the trustees of all the districts to be affected thereby, the district superintendent may make an order altering the boundaries of any school district within his jurisdiction, and fix in such order a day when the alteration shall take effect.

2. With the written consent of the board of education of a union free school district having a population of five thousand or more, and employing a superintendent of schools, and the written consent of the board of education or trustees of a district in a supervisory district adjoining such union free school district, the district superintendent having jurisdiction may make an order altering the boundaries of such districts, and fix in such order a day when the alteration shall take effect. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140), § 123, as amended by L. 1914, ch. 154.]

If the trustees of any district affected thereby refuse to consent, the school commissioner may make and file with the town clerk his order making the alteration, but reciting the refusal, and directing that the order shall not take effect until a day therein to be named, and not less than three months after the date of such order. [Idem, § 124.]

1. Within ten days after making and filing such order the school commissioner shall give at least a week's notice in writing to the trustees of all districts affected by the proposed alterations, that at a specified time, and at a named place within the town in which one of the districts to be affected lies, he will hear the objections to the alteration.[9]

2. The trustees of any district to be affected by such order may request the supervisor and town clerk of each of the towns, within which such districts shall wholly or partly lie, to be associated with the school commissioner.

3. 4. In the election of such district superintendent the vote shall be by ballot and the person receiving a majority of all votes cast shall be elected. Each school director shall be entitled to one vote in such election.

5. The clerk of such board shall file a copy of the proceedings of each meeting and each election, certified by himself and the chairman, in the office of the clerk of the county in which such meeting or election is held within three days after the close thereof.

§ 27. UNPAID SCHOOL TAXES, COLLECTOR TO RETURN ACCOUNT OF TO TRUSTEES; TRUSTEES TO TRANSMIT ACCOUNT WITH CERTIFICATE TO COUNTY TREASURER.

If any tax on real estate placed upon the tax-list and duly delivered to the collector, or the taxes upon nonresident stockholders in banking associations organized under the laws of congress,[12] shall be unpaid at the time

12. Bank shares, now taxed. Under section 24 of the Tax Law, ante, p. 520, the rate of tax upon the shares of stock of banks and banking associations is one per centum upon the value thereof. Such tax is in lieu of all other taxes including those for school purposes. Under such section the board of supervisors is required to ascertain the tax rate of each of the several towns, village, city, school and other tax districts in the county for the

the collector is required by law to return his warrant, he shall deliver to the trustees of the district an account of the taxes remaining due, containing a description of the lands upon which such taxes were unpaid as the same were placed upon the tax-list, together with the amount of the tax so assessed, and upon making oath before any justice of the peace or judge of a court of record, notary public or any other officer authorized to administer oaths, that the taxes mentioned in any such account remain unpaid, and that, after diligent efforts, he has been unable to collect the same, he shall be credited by said trustees with the amount thereof. year for which the tax is imposed and the proportion of the tax on bank stock to which each of such districts shall be respectively entitled. This proportion is to be ascertained by taking such proportion of the tax upon the shares of stock as the tax rate of the school district shall bear to the aggregate tax rate of all the tax districts in which such shares of stock shall be taxable. The evident meaning of this provision is that if the tax rate of a town is five mills, that of a village is five mills, and that of a school district is five mills, that the school district will be entitled to one-third of the tax paid upon the stock of the bank located in the tax district. The board of supervisors is required by such section of the Tax Law to issue its warrant to the county treasurer directing him to pay to the collector or treasurer of the school district the proportion of such tax ascertained by it to belong to such school district.

13. Duty of county treasurer. Under the provisions of the above section, which require the treasurer of a county to pay to the trustees of a school district, out of any moneys in the county treasury raised for contingent expenses, the amount of taxes upon lands of non-residents returned by such trustees as unpaid, the authority of the county treasurer is limited to the particular fund specified; and if no such fund has been raised, or if it has been exhausted, he has no authority, and consequently no duty is imposed upon him to pay.

It is provided by section 242 of the County Law, ante, p. 50, that: "In order to enable the county treasurer to pay such expenses as may become unpaid, the treasurer shall pay to the district treasurer, if there be such an officer, otherwise to the collector, the amount of the taxes so returned as unpaid, and if there are no moneys in the treasury applicable to such purpose, the board of supervisors, at the time of levying said unpaid taxes, as provided in the next section, shall pay to the district treasurer, if there be such an officer, otherwise to the collector of the school district the amount thereof which has been relevied, by voucher or draft on the county treasurer, in the same manner as other county charges are paid, and the collector shall be charged by the trustees with the amount so relevied. [Idem, § 435, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 284, and L. 1915, ch. 136, in effect Sept. 1, 1915.]

§ 29. COUNTY TREASURER TO LAY ACCOUNT OF UNPAID SCHOOL TAXES BEFORE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS; ACTION OF BOARD THEREON; COLLECTION OF SUCH TAXES.

Duties of board of supervisors.—Such account, affidavit and certificate shall be laid by the county treasurer before the board of supervisors of the county, who shall cause the amount of such unpaid taxes, with seven per cent. of the amount in addition thereto, to be levied upon the lands on which the same were imposed; and if imposed upon the lands of any incorporated company, then upon such company; and when collected the same shall be returned to the county treasurer to reimburse the amount so advanced, with the expenses of collection. [Education Law, (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 436.]

When owner may pay school tax to county treasurer.—Any person whose lands are included in any such account may pay the tax assessed thereon, with five per centum added thereto, to the county treasurer, at any time before the board of supervisors shall have directed the same to be levied. [Idem, § 437.]

Collection of unpaid tax, how made.—The same proceedings in all respects shall be had for the collection of the amount so directed to be raised by the board of supervisors as are provided by law in relation to the county taxes; and, upon a similar account, as in the case of county taxes of the arrears thereof uncollected, being transmitted by the county treasurer to the comptroller, the same shall be paid on his warrant to the treasurer of the county advancing the same; and the amount so assumed by the state shall be collected for its benefit, in the manner prescribed by law in respect to the arrears of county taxes upon land of non-residents; or if any part of the amount so assumed consisted of a tax upon any incorporated payable from time to time, the board of supervisors shall annually cause such sum to be raised in advance in their county, as they may deem necessary for such purpose."

company, the same proceedings may also be had for the collection thereof as provided by law in respect to the county taxes assessed upon such company. [Idem. § 438.]

§ 30. SPECIAL PROVISIONS OF THE EDUCATION LAW APPLICABLE TO TOWN OFFICERS.

Liability of officers for loss of school moneys.—Whenever the share of school moneys or any portion thereof, apportioned to any town or school district, or any money to which a town or school district would have been entitled, shall be lost, in consequence of any wilful neglect of official duty by any school commissioner, town clerk, trustees or clerks of school districts, the officer guilty of such neglect shall forfeit to the town, or school district so losing the same, the full amount of such loss with interest thereon. [Education Law (L. 1910, ch. 140) § 855.]

Penalty for refusal or neglect to sue for penalty imposed for benefit of schools.—Where any penalty for the benefit of a school district, or of the schools of any school district, town, school commissioner district or county, shall be incurred, and the officer, whose duty it is by law to sue for the same, shall wilfully and unreasonably refuse or neglect to sue for the same, such officer shall forfeit the amount of such penalty to the same use, and it shall be the duty of his successor in office to sue for the same. [Idem, § 856.]

Actions against school officers, including supervisors.—1. In any action against school officers, including supervisors of towns, in respect to their duties and powers under this act, for any act performed by virtue of or under the color of their offices, or for any refusal or omission to perform any duty enjoined by law, and which might have been the subject of an appeal to the commissioner of education; no costs shall be allowed to the plaintiff, in cases where the court shall certify that it appeared on the trial that the defendants acted in good faith.

2. The provision of subdivision one of this section shall not extend to suits for penalties, nor to suits or proceedings to enforce the decisions of the commissioner of education. [Idem, § 857.]

§ 1. PREPARATION OF GRAND JURY LISTS BY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS; PERSONS TO BE PLACED ON LISTS.

Unless otherwise specially provided by law, the supervisors of the several counties of this state, except the county of New York, at their annual meetings in each year, shall prepare a list of the names of three hundred persons, to serve as grand jurors at the terms of the supreme court and county courts, to be held in their respective counties during the then ensuing year and until new lists shall be returned [Code Crim. Pro., § 229-a.]

In preparing such lists the said boards of supervisors shall select such persons only, whose names appear upon the last assessment roll of the town or ward, as they know, or have good reason to believe, are possessed of the qualifications by law required of persons to serve as jurors for the trial of issues of fact, and are of approved integrity, fair character, sound judgment and well informed. [Idem, § 229-b.]

Persons exempt by law from serving as jurors for the trial of issues of fact, shall not be placed on any list of grand jurors, required by the preceding provisions.[2] [Idem, § 229-c.]

The lists so made out by the said boards of supervisors shall contain

1. Duties of supervisors as to grand juror lists. This section of the Criminal Code makes it the duty of boards of supervisors to prepare a grand jury list for the county at each annual session of the board. The number of grand jurors, unless increased as hereinafter provided, is limited to three hundred. The board should, by a committee appointed for that purpose, apportion the grand jurors among the several towns and the wards of the several cities according to the population thereof, or by some other just and equitable method of apportionment. The apportionment having been made, it is the usual practice for the supervisor of each town and ward to present to the board a list of the persons who, in his judgment, are qualified to serve as grand jurors. These lists are usually accepted by the board, although the primary duty of making the selection rests with the board itself. Notwithstanding the practice of each supervisor preparing the list from his own town or ward, selection of the jurors and the adoption and preparation of the list is the act of the board and this should plainly appear upon the record, and in the public proceedings of the board.

There is usually in each board a committee on grand juries. The lists presented to the board by the individual supervisors should be submitted to this committee, and the committee should carefully consider the qualifications of the persons included in each list, and thereupon consolidate the lists and make a report to the board. Upon the adoption of the report by the board the lists as so consolidated and prepared will become the grand jury list for the county. Such list should then be certified by the clerk of the board of supervisors and filed in the office of the clerk of the county on or before the 10th day of December in each year.

The above statute as to the preparation of grand jury lists by boards of supervisors does not apply where the office of commissioner of jurors has been established, under L. 1899, ch. 441. See post, p. 1036.

2. As to exemptions from serving as jurors for the trial of issues of fact, see Judiciary Law, § 546, post, p. 1032.

the christian and surnames, at length, of the persons named therein, their respective places of residence, and their several occupations; it shall be certified by the clerk of the board of supervisors and shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county on or before the tenth day of December in each year.[3] [Idem, § 229-d.]

§ 2. INCREASE IN NUMBER OF JURORS; DUTIES OF SUPERVISORS.

If the county judge of any county of this state, except the county of New York, shall at any time be of opinion that a greater number of persons than that herein required, should be returned to serve as grand jurors in their county, he may, by an order under his hand, direct such number to be increased; but such increase shall not exceed one-half the number herein required to be selected for such county. [Idem, § 229-f.]

Upon any order which is authorized by the two last sections, being served upon the board of supervisors, they shall at their next annual meeting, increase the number of persons returned by them to serve as grand jurors, pursuant to such order. [Idem, § 229-g.]

§ 3. INSERTING NEW NAMES IN BOX WHEN LIST IS NEARLY EXHAUSTED.

When it shall appear upon the representation of a county clerk, that there are less than fifty names remaining in the box containing the names of persons returned to serve as grand jurors, the judge of the county court may select from the citizens of the county qualified to serve as grand jurors, and who shall not have served during the preceding twelve months, the names of fifty persons, to serve as grand jurors.

Such names shall be certified to the county clerk, who shall file such certificate in his office, and shall cause such names to be written on distinct pieces of paper, and deposited in the box containing any undrawn names of persons returned to serve as grand jurors, or if there be none, then in a proper box; and from such box, in either case, the clerk shall draw a grand jury to serve for any court to be held immediately after such drawing.

3. Defective list. Where it appears that a few persons named in a grand jury list are not possessed of the qualifications required by law, the whole list is not therefore to be declared irregular and null and void, especially when it appears that the names were so added without fraud or design, but by accident or oversight. Dolan v. People, 64 N. Y. 485.

4. The power formerly conferred upon the judges of common pleas of the several counties is now imposed upon the county judge of the county.

Such drawing shall be made at the time, and in the same manner, in all respects, as herein provided in respect to persons returned by the supervisors, and the persons drawn shall be summoned in like manner, and subject to the same penalties for neglect. [Idem, § 229-r.]

§ 4. SUPERVISOR, TOWN CLERK AND ASSESSORS TO MAKE LISTS OF TRIAL JURORS; NAMES TO BE TAKEN FROM ASSESSMENT-ROLL.

The supervisor, town clerk and assessors of each town must meet on the first Monday of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, and in each third year thereafter, at a place within the town, appointed by the supervisor; or, in case of his absence, or of a vacancy in his office, by the town clerk; for the purpose of making a list of persons to serve as trial jurors for the then ensuing three years. If they fail to meet on the day specified in this section, they must meet as soon thereafter as practicable.[5] [Judiciary Law, § 500; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2829.]

At the meeting specified in the last section, the officers present must select from the last assessment-roll of the town, and make a list of the names of all persons whom they believe to be qualified to serve as trial jurors, as prescribed in this article. [Judiciary Law, § 501; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2829.]

Y. 125. The statutes as to selecting, drawing and summoning jurors are merely directory. Friery v. People, 2 Abb. Ct. App. Dec. 215.

[Judiciary Law, § 502; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2829.]

Kelly v. People, 55 N. Y. 565. Mere possession of the amount of property is not enough. It must be assessed to him upon the town assessment-roll. Valton v. Nat. L. F. Ass. Soc., 17 Abb. 268.

filed in the office of the county clerk. [L. 1899, ch. 441, § 3, as amended by L. 1900, ch. 320.]

Salary.—A commissioner of jurors shall be entitled to receive an annual salary payable monthly by the county treasurer.

1. In counties having a population of one hundred thousand and not more than one hundred and fifty thousand, fifteen hundred dollars.

2. In counties having a population of more than one hundred and fifty thousand and not more than three hundred thousand, not exceeding three thousand dollars to be fixed by the resolution creating the office.

3. In counties having a population less than one hundred thousand a sum to be fixed by the resolution creating the office, except in the counties of Nassau, Niagara, Saratoga, Herkimer and Schenectady, where it shall be fixed by the board which makes the appointment, not exceeding twenty-five hundred dollars. [Idem, § 4, as amended by L. 1903, ch. 201, L. 1905, ch. 102, L. 1906, ch. 221, L. 1911, ch. 705, and L. 1914, ch. 375.]

Rooms and accommodations.—In the city of New York, the municipal assembly shall provide suitable rooms and accommodations for the commissioner of jurors in each county within such city, and shall also make provision for necessary printing and advertising, and for supplying him with necessary books, stationery and other articles. In any other county such rooms, accommodations and supplies shall be provided for by the board of supervisors. Until such provision has been made a commissioner of jurors shall use the county clerk's office of his county to transact the necessary duties of his office and shall be supplied by the county clerk with necessary books and other articles, which shall be a county charge. [Idem, § 5.]

§ 13. ASSISTANTS AND CLERKS.

A commissioner of jurors in a county of more than sixty-five thousand population according to the last preceding state or federal census may appoint one assistant commissioner of jurors whose compensation shall be fixed by the board appointing the commissioner, and one clerk whose compensation shall be fixed in the same manner; such compensation shall be paid by the county in equal monthly installments and an assistant commissioner of jurors may be designated by the commissioner appointing him to perform any of the duties of a commissioner of jurors in his absence. A commissioner of jurors, or an assistant whom he designates for the purpose by a certificate filed in the office of the county clerk, may administer an oath or affirmation in relation to any matter embraced within the provisions of this act. [L. 1899, ch. 441, § 6, as amended by L. 1906, ch. 222.]

§ 14. SELECTION OF TRIAL JURORS; AID OF TAX OFFICERS.

Trial jurors must be selected by the commissioner of jurors, who must alone decide upon their qualifications and exemptions, except as otherwise expressly prescribed by law. But this section does not impair the right to challenge a particular juror at the trial. The commissioner may issue, to a person entitled to an exemption, a certificate of that fact, which exempts the person to whom it is granted from jury duty during the time limited therein. He must keep a record of all proceedings before him, or in his office. [L. 1899, ch. 441, § 7.]

Tax officers to give aid.—The president and commissioners of the department of taxes and assessments in the city of New York must render to the commissioner of jurors of each of the counties of Richmond and Queens all the assistance in their power to enable him to procure the names of persons liable to serve as trial jurors, and in the other counties of this state in which commissioners of jurors shall be appointed in pursuance of this act, the supervisors, town clerk and assessors of each town must furnish like assistance. The officers herein mentioned shall forthwith upon the request of the commissioner of jurors of any county furnish him a jury list made by selecting and entering thereon from the last revised assessment-roll in their possession the names of all persons whom they believe possess the qualifications for trial jurors as prescribed by law; such a list must show the places of residence and other proper additions of each person so selected, so far as these particulars can be conveniently ascertained, and must be certified by the officers making the same. [Idem, § 8.]

§ 15. PREPARATION OF LIST OF TRIAL JURORS; NOTICE TO JURORS.

List of trial jurors.— Immediately upon the receipt of the list mentioned in the last section, the commissioner of jurors must commence the preparation of the list of trial jurors in his county, and for that purpose the names of persons liable to serve as trial jurors must be entered in suitable books alphabetically with the occupation, places of business and residence of each as far as those particulars can be conveniently ascertained. Upon the completion of such list by the commissioner he shall give notice by mail to the persons named in said list, that their claims for exemption will be heard by him upon a day named in said notice, and he may also include in said notice such portions of the law relating to jurors as may seem to him proper and expedient. He must hear and determine all claims for exemption and must keep a record of all persons exempted and the period of time for which exemption is allowed. In the county of Queens the hearing of claims for exemption shall in the first instance be had in at least two convenient places within the ward in which the persons named in said list reside, and the commissioner shall hold a sufficient number of evening sessions from seven o'clock to ten o'clock to permit such persons to appear and be heard. Any person who, after having been notified to attend, shall fail to appear at such hearing held within the ward in which he resides shall be heard at the office of the commissioner. [L. 1899, ch. 441, § 9, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 438.]

Notice to jurors, etc.—The commissioner may cause to be personally served, upon any person within the county, a notice requiring him to attend at the commissioner's office at a specified time, not less than twenty-four hours after service of the notice, for the purpose of testifying concerning his own liability, or the liability of any other person to serve as a juror. A person so notified must attend and testify accordingly. If he fails to attend, as specified in the notice, for any cause, except physical inability, or if he refuses to be sworn or to answer any legal and pertinent question put to him by the commissioner, he forfeits fifty dollars for each failure or refusal. One or more successive notices may be served upon the same person, where he fails to attend, as required by a former notice, and he is liable to the same penalty for each failure so to attend. But the commissioner may, in his discretion, dispense with the personal attendance of a person so notified, where another person cognizant of the facts is produced and testifies in his stead; and where a person has so attended twice they cannot be required to attend again in the same jury year. [Idem, § 10.]

§ 16. LISTS TO BE FILED.

On or before the first day of December in each year the commissioner must return to the county clerk, to be filed in his office, certified copies of the lists prepared by him of the persons liable to serve as trial jurors in the courts of record for the ensuing jury year. Before filing such certified lists, however, he must select therefrom and strike off therefrom, two hundred persons for each district of the Municipal Court of the city of New York in his county, if he be commissioner for a county in the city of New York, and he must on or before the first day of December in each year file with the respective justices of said Municipal Court, in his county, certified lists of the persons so selected and struck off by him—the persons so selected to be residents of the Municipal Court district for which they are selected. The list so filed shall constitute the jury lists for trials in the respective districts where they are filed until a new list shall be filed in accordance with the provisions of this act. He may from time to time thereafter strike from the list kept by him the name of a person who is found by him to be exempt or disqualified, in that case he must record the reason why the name is struck off as exempt or disqualified. [L. 1899, ch. 441, § 11, as amended by L. 1901, ch. 172.]

In a county which has a commissioner of jurors, other than a county included in the city of New York, the commissioner shall, on or before the fifteenth day of December, in each year, file with each town and city clerk in such county a list of the names of the residents of such town or city which have been placed by him on the trial jury list for such county. [Idem, § 12.]

§ 17. LIST OF GRAND JURORS.

In a county which has a commissioner of jurors such commissioner and the board appointing him shall prepare in the month of December of each year from the trial jury list filed as herein provided a list of the names of three hundred persons to serve as grand jurors in said county during the next ensuing jury year, and until a new list shall be returned. The list shall contain the christian names and surnames at length of persons named therein, their respective places of residence, and their several occupations. It shall be certified by said board and filed in the office of the county clerk within ten days thereafter. [Idem, § 13.]

L. 1899, ch. 441, §§ 14–17; Code Civ. Proc., § 3313.

§ 18. DRAWING JURORS; BALLOTS.

Ballots for drawing grand jurors.—The county clerk on the last day of December after the list has been transmitted to him, must prepare suitable ballots by writing, on a separate piece of paper, the name of each person thus selected, as contained in the list, with his place of residence and other additions. The ballots must be uniform in appearance as nearly as may be, and the clerk must deposit them in the boxes now required by law to be kept for the purpose of drawing grand and trial jurors. The county clerk before depositing the ballots, must destroy each ballot remaining in either of the boxes kept by him, and containing the name of a resident of a town for which a new list has been transmitted. [L. 1899, ch. 441, § 14.]

Drawing jurors.—The grand and trial jurors shall be drawn as now provided by law by the county clerk in the presence of the county judge, the sheriff and the commissioner of jurors, or a majority of them. [Idem, § 15.]

§ 19. REMOVAL OF COMMISSIONER.

Any commissioner of jurors appointed pursuant to the provisions of this act may be removed for cause by the board by whom the appointment was made. He may also be removed upon order of the appellate division of the Supreme Court of the department embracing the county in which he resides. The commissioner is entitled to notice of application to the appellate division for his removal. [L. 1899, ch. 441, § 16.]

§ 20. APPLICATION OF ACT.

This act shall not apply to the counties of New York, Kings, Erie, Monroe, Onondaga, Westchester or Rensselaer. [L. 1899, ch. 441, § 17, as amended by L. 1900, ch. 320.]

§ 21. FEES OF TRIAL JURORS.

A trial juror, in an action or a specal proceeding, in a court of record, is entitled, except as otherwise specially prescribed by statute in a particular court, or a particular county, to the following fees: twenty-five cents for each cause in which he is empanelled, to be paid by the party noticing the cause for trial; or, if it is noticed by more than one party, by the party whom the court directs to pay it. [Code Civ. Proc., § 3313.]

§ 22. SUPERVISORS MAY MAKE ALLOWANCE TO GRAND AND TRIAL JURORS.

1. In the counties within the city of New York the board of aldermen and in any other county the board of supervisors, may direct that a sum, not exceeding four dollars in addition to the fees prescribed in the last section, or in any other statutory provision, be allowed to each grand juror, and each trial juror for each day's attendance at a term of a court of record, of civil or criminal jurisdiction, held within the county, and in any county wherein the court holds evening or night sessions, or in any county in which the grand jury holds evening or night sessions, the board of supervisors may direct that a sum, not exceeding one dollar and fifty cents in addition to the fees prescribed in this section or the last section, or in any other statutory provision, be allowed to each grand juror and to each trial juror for each evening or night's attendance at a term of a court of record of civil or criminal jurisdiction held within their county. If a different rate is not otherwise established as herein provided, each juror is entitled to five cents for each mile necessarily traveled by him in going to and returning from the term; but such board of aldermen or board of supervisors may establish a lower rate.

2. A juror is entitled to mileage for actual travel once in each calendar week during the term, except that in the counties of Queens, Rockland and Orange grand and trial jurors may be paid four cents a mile for each mile necessarily traveled in going to and returning for each day of actual travel during the term in lieu of any other mileage. The sum so established or allowed must be paid by the county treasurer upon the certificate of the clerk of the court, stating the number of days that the juror actually attended, and the number of miles traveled by him in order to attend. If a juror in attendance at a term of a court of record cannot reach his home upon the day he is excused from attendance, he shall be entitled to compensation for an additional day, and the clerk shall certify accordingly upon satisfactory proof of such fact by affidavit. The amount so paid must be raised in the same manner as other county charges are raised. [Code Civ. Pro., § 3314, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 257, and L. 1917, ch. 209, and L. 1918, ch. 638.]

§ 23. EXTRA ALLOWANCE TO TRIAL JURORS.

Where the trial, by a jury, of an issue of fact, in either a civil or a criminal action or special proceeding, in a court of record, occupies more than thirty days, the court, by an order entered in the minutes, may fix and allow, to each juror, such an extra compensation as it deems reasonable for his services thereupon; the amount of which compensation, together with the expenses actually and necessarily incurred, for food for the jurors during the trial, is a county charge. [Code Civ. Pro., § 3315.]

PART XI.

PROVISIONS RELATING TO COUNTIES AND TOWNS.

CHAPTER LXXII.

ACTIONS BY AND AGAINST TOWN AND COUNTY OFFICERS.

SECTION 1. Investigation by Supreme Court into the expenditure of town moneys by town officers.
2. Actions against town and county officers to prevent illegal acts; bonds; order restraining improper audit or fraudulent judgments; books, papers, etc., open to inspection.
3. Actions against municipal officers to prevent waste, etc.
4. Actions by and against certain town officers in their official capacities.
5. Officer, how described in summons.
6. Successor, when to be substituted.
7. When execution upon judgment cannot be issued against officer personally.

§ 1. INVESTIGATION BY SUPREME COURT INTO THE EXPENDITURE OF TOWN MONEYS BY TOWN OFFICERS.

If twenty-five freeholders in any town or village shall present to a justice of the Supreme Court of the judicial district in which such town or village is situated, an affidavit, stating that they are freeholders and have paid taxes on real property within such town or village within one year, that they have reason to believe that the moneys of such town or village are being unlawfully or corruptly expended, and the grounds of their belief, such justice, upon ten days' notice to the supervisor, and the officers of the town disbursing the funds to which such moneys belong, or the trustees and treasurer of the village, shall make a summary investigation into the financial affairs of such town or village, and the accounts of such officers, and, in his discretion, may appoint experts to make such investigation, and may cause the result thereof to be published in such manner as he may deem proper.[1]

The costs incurred in such investigation shall be taxed by the justice, and paid, under his order, by the officers whose expenditures are investigated, if the facts in such affidavit be substantially proved, and otherwise, by the freeholders making such affidavit. If such justice shall be satisfied that any of the moneys of such town or village are being unlawfully or corruptly expended, or are being appropriated for purposes to which they are not properly applicable, or are improvidently squandered or wasted, he shall forthwith grant an order restraining such unlawful or corrupt expenditure, or such other improper use of such moneys.[2] [General Municipal Law, § 4; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2108.]

1. Taxpayer's action to restrain the unlawful expenditure of town and county money by public officers. See General Municipal Law, § 51, and Code Civ. Proc., sec. 1925.

2. Object and nature of proceedings. The above section provides for a judicial investigation of the financial affairs of a town or village, and is a remedial statute. It is designed to: (1) Prevent the present or future illegal appropriation of public moneys; and (2) determine the financial condition of the town and prevent future illegal appropriations of public moneys by pointing out what proper and what improper charges may have been allowed by a former town board. Thus, while the proceeding must be based upon present acts which contemplate the unlawful expenditure of money already on hand, or which may thereafter be produced from the sources of revenue of the town, the experts in their investigation are not limited to the particular year in which the illegal appropriation sought to be restrained is made. Matter of Town of Hempstead, 36 App. Div. 320; 55 N. Y. Supp. 345; affd., 160 N. Y. 685.

A justice has no power to investigate or correct evils resulting from mere error in judgment upon the part of the town officers; it is only unlawful or corrupt expenditures of public moneys which come within the terms of the statute. See Matter of East Syracuse, 20 Abb. N. C. 131. The proceeding should not be instituted unless it can be shown that the officer acted illegally and without statutory authority; the proceeding will not be sustained in case it be shown that the officer acted in good faith and without intent to defraud the taxpayers. See N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. Co. v. Maine, 54 N. Y. St. Rep. 384; 24 N. Y. Supp. 962.

Appeal. An order made by a justice of the Supreme Court, and affirmed by the Appellate Division, determining the result of a summary investigation into the financial affairs of a town or village, instituted by taxpayers and freeholders under the above section, is reviewable by the Court of Appeals as a final order in a special proceeding. Matter of Taxpayers of Plattsburg, 157 N. Y. 78; 51 N. E. 512, revg. 27 App. Div. 353, 50 N. Y. Supp. 356. A proceeding under the above section is a special proceeding within the definition contained in sections 3333 and 3334 of the code, and the decision of the justices therein is not, under section 2121 of the code, reviewable by a writ of certiorari. People ex rel. Guibord v. Kellogg, 22 App. Div. 177; 47 N. Y. Supp. 1023; see, also, Matter of Town of Hempstead, 32 App. Div. 6; 52 N. Y. Supp. 618, in which case it

§ 2. ACTIONS AGAINST TOWN AND COUNTY OFFICERS TO PREVENT ILLEGAL ACTS; BONDS; ORDER RESTRAINING IMPROPER AUDIT OR FRAUDULENT JUDGMENTS; BOOKS, PAPERS, ETC., OPEN TO INSPECTION.

All officers, agents, commissioners and other persons acting, or who have acted, for and on behalf of any county, town, village or municipal corporation in this state, and each and every one of them, may be prosecuted, and an action may be maintained against them to prevent any illegal official act on the part of any such officers, agents, commissioners or other persons, or to prevent waste or injury to, or to restore and make good, any property, funds or estate of such county, town, village or municipal corporation by any person or corporation whose assessment, or by any number of persons or corporations, jointly, the sum of whose assessments shall amount to one thousand dollars, and who shall be liable to pay taxes on such assessment in the county, town, village or municipal corporation to prevent the waste or injury of whose property the action is brought, or who have been assessed or paid taxes therein upon any assessment of the above-named amount within one year previous to the commencement of any such action. Such person or corporation upon the commencement of such action, shall furnish a bond to the defendant therein, to be approved by a justice of the supreme court or the county judge of the county in which the action is brought, in such penalty as the justice or judge approving the same shall direct, but not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, and to be executed by any two of the plaintiffs, if there be more than one party plaintiff, providing said two parties plaintiff shall severally justify in the sum of five thousand dollars. Said bond shall be approved by said justice or judge and be conditioned to pay all costs that may be awarded the defendant in such action if the court shall finally determine the same in favor of the defendant. The court was held that the proper way to review the order of a justice in such proceedings was by an appeal.

Costs. Since the proceeding under the above section is a special proceeding the costs are to be awarded in the discretion of the court at the rates allowed for similar services in an action brought in the same court; in the absence of a stipulation stenographers' fees cannot be taxed as costs in such a proceeding; but the fees of the experts employed therein are to be treated as similar to those of a referee, and are, therefore, properly taxable. The costs of such an investigation cannot be taxed against the officers of the town, who were not made parties to the proceeding, although their bills may have been found to be irregular. Matter of Town of Hempstead, 36 App. Div. 321; 55 N. Y. Supp. 345.

The costs of an investigation, if any are awarded, must be restricted by force of § 3240 of the Code of Civil Procedure to those allowed for similar services in an action. Matter of taxpayers of Plattsburgh, 157 N. Y. 78, revg. 27 App. Div. 353, 50 N. Y. Supp. 356, on other points.

shall require, when the plaintiffs shall not justify as above mentioned, and in any case may require two more sufficient sureties to execute the bond above provided for. Such bond shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the action is brought, and a copy shall be served with the summons in such action. If an injunction is obtained as herein provided for, the same bond may also provide for the payment of the damages arising therefrom to the party entitled to the money, the auditing, allowing or paying of which was enjoined, if the court shall finally determine that the plaintiff is not entitled to such injunction. In case the waste or injury complained of consists in any board, officer or agent in any county, town, village or municipal corporation, by collusion or otherwise, contracting, auditing, allowing or paying, or conniving at the contracting, audit, allowance or payment of any fraudulent, illegal, unjust or inequitable claims, demands or expenses, or any item or part thereof against or by such county, town, village or municipal corporation, or by permitting a judgment to be recovered against such county, town, village or municipal corporation, or against himself in his official capacity, either by default or without the interposition and proper presentation of any existing legal or equitable defenses, or by any such officer or agent, retaining or failing to pay over to the proper authorities any funds or property of any county, town, village or municipal corporation, after he shall have ceased to be such officer or agent, the court may, in its discretion, prohibit the payment or collection of any such claims, demands, expenses or judgments, in whole or in part, and shall enforce the restitution and recovery thereof, if heretofore or hereafter paid, collected or retained by the person or party heretofore or hereafter receiving or retaining the same, and also may, in its discretion, adjudge and declare the colluding or defrauding official personally responsible therefor, and out of his property, and that of his bondsmen, if any, provide for the collection or repayment thereof, so as to indemnify and save harmless the said county, town, village or municipal corporation from a part or the whole thereof; and in case of a judgment the court may, in its discretion, vacate, set aside and open said judgment, with leave and direction for the defendant therein to interpose and enforce any existing legal or equitable defense therein, under the direction of such person as the court may, in its judgment or order, designate and appoint. All books of minutes, entry or account, and the books, bills, vouchers, checks, contracts or other papers connected with or used or filed in the office of, or with any officer, board or commission acting for or on behalf of any county, town, village or municipal corporation in this state are hereby declared to be public records, and shall be open, subject to reasonable regulations to be prescribed by the officer having the custody thereof, to the inspection of any taxpayer.[2a] This section shall not be so construed as to take away any right of action from any county, town, village or municipal corporation, or from

2a. The right to inspect books and papers filed with an officer, board or commissioner acting on behalf of a county, town or other municipality, which is given by this section, is as broad as the language used to bestow it and there is no limitation thereof save that found in the provision itself. Matter of Egan (1912), 205 N. Y. 147.

any public officer, but any right of action now existing, or which may hereafter exist in favor of any county, town, village or municipal corporation, or in favor of any officer thereof, may be enforced by action or otherwise by the persons hereinbefore authorized to prosecute and maintain actions; and whenever by the provisions of this section an action may be prosecuted or maintained against any officer or other person, his bondsmen, if any, may be joined in such action or proceeding and their liabilities as such enforced by the proper judgment or direction of the court; but any recovery under the provisions of this article shall be for the benefit of and shall be paid to the officer entitled by law to hold and disburse the public moneys of such county, town, village or municipal corporation, and shall, to the amount thereof, be credited the defendant in determining his liability in the action by the county, town, village or municipal corporation or public officer. The provisions of this article shall apply as well to those cases in which the body, board, officer, agent, commissioner or other person above named has not, as to those in which it or he has jurisdiction over the subject-matter of its action.[3] [General Municipal Law, § 51; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2122.]

3. The object of the act is to secure the protection of public property, and to subordinate the acts of officials in its disposition or appropriation to the restraint of the law. It must be liberally construed and applied to carry this object into effect. Starin v. Mayor, 42 Hun, 549; 4 N. Y. St. Rep. 588; revd. on other grounds, 112 N. Y. 206. In the case of People v. N. Y. & M. B. Ry. Co., 84 N. Y. 565, it was held that the act of 1875, similar in many respects to the above act, was for the main purpose of authorizing the pursuit of the funds wrongfully abstracted from municipal treasuries into the hands of officials or other persons who wrongfully obtained or received them. Such statutes are intended to provide ample remedy and protection to taxpayers against all wrongful acts to their prejudice of the officers and agents of a municipal corporation, affecting not only its property rights but its credit; and every process or means by which the corporation can be charged pecuniarily, or the taxable property within its limits be burdened, are embraced within their provisions. Ayers v. Lawrence, 59 N. Y. 192.

In speaking of the above act Judge O'Brien says, in the case of Talcott v. City of Buffalo, 125 N. Y. 280; 26 N. E. 263: "In a single section, authority was given to any person residing in the county, town or municipal corporation, assessed for and liable to pay taxes therein, or who had paid taxes therein within one year previous to maintain an action against all officers, agents, commissioners and other persons acting for or in behalf of such county, town or municipal corporation, to prevent waste or injury to any property, funds or estate of such county, town or municipal corporation. That this legislation was aimed at 'frauds, embezzlements, and wrongful acts of public officers and agents,' as indicated by the title, is also clear when the causes that moved the legislature to its enactment and which are matters of public history are considered. The origin of the statute is to be found in certain well known fraudulent and corrupt acts on the part of officers and commissioners in the

§ 3. ACTIONS AGAINST MUNICIPAL OFFICERS TO PREVENT WASTE, ETC.

An action to obtain a judgment, preventing waste of, or injury to, the city and county of New York, whereby public funds were abstracted from the treasury mainly by the audit and allowance of fictitious claims and corrupt contracts, and the proceeds converted to the individual benefit and use of these officers and agents. The terms 'waste' and 'injury' used in this statute comprehend only illegal, wrongful or dishonest official acts, and were not intended to subject the official action of boards, officers or municipal bodies acting within the limits of their jurisdiction and discretion, but which some taxpayer might conceive to be unwise, and improvident or based on errors of judgment, to the supervision of the judicial tribunals. It is believed that no action was ever maintained under this statute with the sanction of this court, without some proof or allegation that the official act or proceeding complained of was without power or was tainted by corruption or fraud."

This section should be construed with section 1925 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which is contained in the section immediately following.

The equitable remedy of an injunction under the General Municipal Law is to be granted or withheld in accordance with the general principles which govern the exercise of equitable jurisdiction. Mere inaction by a public officer will not justify the intervention of a court of equity where the legal remedy by mandamus is available and adequate. Southern Leasing Co. v. Ludwig (1916), 217 N. Y. 100, revg. 168 App. Div. 233, 153 N. Y. Supp. 545.

Neither the above act nor section 1925 of the code were intended as a mode of putting an incapable or a confiding official under the protecting guardianship of the court, and of making him a ward in chancery to be shielded from the effects of his own folly, nor to enable a taxpayer to try a question of fraud between the officer and those who are dealing with him. If the officer is honest and faithful no suit against him is needed. The taxpayer may explain to him the facts and discover to him the fraud and the courts are open for his protection and the means of redress are at hand. It is only when, in the face of explanation and knowledge, he still refuses to act and persists in carrying out the wasteful contract that the action against him is needed; and then it rests upon his misconduct, upon his collusion and fraud, which must be alleged and proved. The legislature could not have intended that the courts should supply intelligence and prudence to incapable officials at the demand of a taxpayer, but manifestly did intend to give the latter protection against the dishonesty or fraud of the municipal agents. Finch, J., in Ziegler v. Chapin, 126 N. Y. 342, 348; 27 N. E. 471. The only acts which can be complained of and against which the above statute may be invoked are those performed by municipal officers in the exercise of their official duties. See Potter v. Collis, 19 App. Div. 392; 46 N. Y. Supp. 471; affd., 156 N. Y. 16; Sheehy v. McMillan, 26 App. Div. 140; 49 N. Y. Supp. 1088; Paul v. City of New York, 46 App. Div. 69; 61 N. Y. Supp. 570.

The word " otherwise " in the phrase " by collusion or otherwise, contracting, auditing, etc.," is to be interpreted according to the rule of ejusdem generis. It does not mean any auditing, but an audit due to some sinister or improper motive and in violation of a public trust. The allegation that a member of a board of supervisors consisting of three members, presented his own fraudulent bills to the board estate, funds or other property of a county, town, city or incorporated for audit, is not a sufficient declaration as against the two members not presenting claims, to hold them liable for the amount of the claims presented. Wallace v. Jones, 83 App. Div. 152, 82 N. Y. Supp. 449.

Who may bring the action. The action can only be brought by one who is a taxpayer, acting in good faith to protect his interests. Hull v. Ely, 2 Abb. N. C. 440. The object of the action being to prevent waste or injury to the property, funds or estate of a municipal corporation, it is the duty of the court to see to it that he who undertakes to champion the public cause is actuated by public motives, and that he is not making use of the power of the court to accomplish some private end. Kimball v. Hewitt, 17 N. Y. St. Rep. 743; 2 N. Y. Supp. 697; affd. 15 Daly, 124.

In a taxpayer's action under this act the plaintiff is not bound to show that he will suffer peculiar injury; he is appearing in behalf of himself and all other taxpayers, and it is enough for him to show that he has the status of a taxpayer which the statute prescribes, and that the act of the defendant is one which the law forbids. Rogers v. Board of Supervisors, 77 App. Div. 501, 78 N. Y. Supp. 1081. Motive of plaintiff is immaterial. Kingsley v. Bowman, 33 App. Div. 1, 53 N. Y. Supp. 426 (1898). And injury to him as an individual need not be shown. Warrin v. Baldwin, 105 N. Y. 534, revg. 35 Hun, 334; Gerlach v. Brandreth, 34 App. Div. 197, 54 N. Y. Supp. 479.

The legal capacity of a plaintiff to maintain such an action is not affected by the mere fact that he is a tenant in common of the lands assessed on which he has paid the taxes, and that they are listed on the assessment rolls in the name of the estate of plaintiff's ancestor. Smith v. Hedges (1915), 169 App. Div. 115, 154 N. Y. Supp. 867.

Bond to be furnished by plaintiff. The bond given by the plaintiff in bringing an action under the above act must be in the form prescribed by the act or it will not be sufficient to comply with the provisions of sections 620 and 621 of the Code of Civil Procedure as to bonds in injunction proceedings. Tappen v. Crissey, 64 How. Pr. 496.

When action may be maintained. The taxpayer's action was not intended as a substitute for the action to restrain public nuisances, brought by public authorities, nor as a substitute for an action maintainable by an individual who has suffered, or is likely to suffer special injury therefrom. Gallagher v. Keating, 40 App. Div. 81; 57 N. Y. Supp. 632. In this case a taxpayer, who did not claim to be the owner of property abutting on an avenue upon which it was proposed to erect an elevated railroad, sought to restrain the erection of such railroad and to enjoin the city from authorizing the construction thereof, and it was held that such an action would not lie under this statute, especially since it appeared that the proper city officers had issued a permit for the construction of such railroad more that a week before the commencement of the suit.

The statute giving a taxpayer a right of action was not intended to subject the official acts of boards, officers or municipal bodies acting within their jurisdiction and discretion to the supervision of the courts, simply because some taxpayer might conceive the same to be unwise, improvident or based on errors of judgment. McBride v. Ashley (1915), 91 Misc. 585, 154 N. Y. Supp. 1010.

To justify an injunction it is not necessary that both illegal acts and waste or injury are threatened. Either is sufficient. Bull v. Miller, 140 App. Div. 602, 125 N. Y. Supp. 865. But relief by injunction should not be granted against mere village of the state, may be maintained against any officer thereof, or any irregularities of taxation, without fraud, corrouption or waste amounting to bad faith. Falhys & Co. v. Vaughn, 68 Misc. 541, 125 N. Y. Supp. 280.

A taxpayer may maintain an action under this section to enjoin either an illegal act by municipal officers, or a waste of or injury to public property or funds. Brill v. Miller, 140 App. Div. 602, 125 N. Y. Supp. 865.

Bad faith and breach of official duty is sufficient under the above act to enable a taxpayer to maintain an action against municipal authorities. Adamson v. Union R. R. Co., 74 Hun, 3; 56 N. Y. St. Rep. 214; 26 N. Y. Supp. 136.

An action pursuant to this section is maintainable only when the official act complained of is illegal or wrongful; thus, the mere disregard by a common council of a city of legal formalities or orderly mode of procedure prescribed by its charter will not necessarily render a resolution "illegal" within the meaning of this section. Faley v. City of Lockport, 61 Misc. 417; 113 N. Y. Supp. 702.

Action will only lie where the acts complained of are without power or where corruption, fraud or bad faith amounting to fraud is charged. It will not lie to restrain a board of town highway commissioners from granting a franchise to a lighting company without compensation. Craft v. Lent, 53 Misc. 484; 103 N. Y. Supp. 366.

A taxpayer's action may be maintained to restrain the collection of rents by the comptroller of the city of New York under leases of certain lands of a defunct town to whose rights the city has succeeded, which were invalid for collusion of the former town officers. In such an action the proper parties defendant are the comptroller as the acting fiscal official, the city of New York, and the lessees and other successors in interest. The officers of the former town are neither necessary nor proper parties. Any resident taxpayer of the city of New York, who is assessed the required amount, may maintain the action. Wenk v. City of New York, 171 N. Y. 607, reversing 69 App. Div. 621, 75 N. Y. Supp. 1135, 36 Misc. 496, 73 N. Y. Supp. 1003.

In the case of Kittenger v. Buffalo Traction Co., 160 N. Y. 377; 54 N. E. 1081, it was held that a taxpayer was not entitled to maintain an action under the above act to procure a judgment declaring a consent already obtained by a traction company for the construction and maintenance of a street surface railroad, to be illegal and void, and to enjoin in such an action the building of the road.

In the case of Ziegler v. Chapin, 126 N. Y. 342; 27 N. E. 471, it was said that an action ought not to be maintained by a taxpayer to restrain the purchase of property by municipal trustees merely on the ground that the proposed price is an extravagant one, and that the proceedings of the municipal officers show a want of prudence and good judgment. The action can only be sustained upon allegations of fraud, collusion, or bad faith. And facts must be alleged showing that the officer acted fraudulently, collusively, and in bad faith; it will not be sufficient to allege, as a mere conclusion, that he so acted. Wallace v. Jones, 82 N. Y. Supp. 449 (App. Div., 2d Dept., May 28, 1903).

Where public officials are in good faith insisting upon a right of property in the municipality against a person, although they may be wrong in their legal position, the act does not authorize another taxpayer to interfere to restrain them, nor can the person against whom the right is asserted interfere in his right as a taxpayer merely. Rogers v. O'Brien, 1 App. Div. 397; 37 N. Y. Supp. 353. The authority conferred by the act extends only to official acts which, if performed, would produce a public injury, and the remedy for which by injunction was previously available to the attorney-general or some body or officer acting on behalf of the public. Rogers v. O'Brien, 153 N. Y. 357; 47 N. Y. Supp. 456.

agent, commissioner, or other person, acting in its behalf, either by a

A taxpayer's action cannot be maintained under the above act to set aside grants of franchises by municipal authorities to street railway companies because they were made for a less sum in return to the municipality than might, by the exercise of due diligence, have been obtained, and because of fraud, there being no charge of corruption and the proceedings being regular. Adamson v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 89 Hun, 261; 34 N. Y. Supp. 1073.

Where a bid of a corporation for street lighting was the lowest and was made in good faith, it was held that a taxpayer's action to restrain the municipality from entering into the contract could not be maintained, on the ground that the corporation had no right to erect its poles in the streets, and that hence the contract would be illegal. The corporation would be bound on entering into the contract to obtain the necessary rights to enable it to perform. Boyle v. Grant, 12 N. Y. Supp. 801; 36 N. Y. St. Rep. 207.

Although a mere error in judgment as to price on a proposed purchase by a municipality may not suffice to sustain a taxpayer's action, yet an excessive valuation so large as to indicate that the officers acting are not exercising the same fidelity, care, and caution as would be expected of an individual purchasing for himself with his own money, will sustain an action to enjoin the purchase. Winklen v. Summers, 22 Abb. N. C. 80; 5 N. Y. Supp. 723. In the case of Warrin v. Baldwin, 105 N. Y. 534; 12 N. E. 49, it appeared that a county treasurer had been in the habit of paying himself the fees allowed by law upon the sale of lands for unpaid taxes out of the trust funds belonging to the town chargeable with such fees which were in his possession, without previous audit by the board of supervisors. It was held that an action was maintainable under the Taxpayers' Act of 1881, by a taxpayer of the town to restrain such illegal payment.

A taxpayer may maintain an action to annul a contract made by a town board which creates a monopoly of lighting the town for the specified period as an act tending to injure the taxpayers, though the direct effect is not a loss or a waste of public property. Parfitt v. Ferguson, 3 App. Div. 176; 38 N. Y. Supp. 463; affd. 159 N. Y. 111.

Individual taxpayers cannot maintain an action against the school commissioner of a school district in which they live and certain villages which had been created as separate school districts therein to restrain the defendant school commissioner from declaring the villages to be separate districts, or from taking any other proceedings in that respect, on a complaint alleging that the villages had been created in pursuance of a fraudulent scheme on the part of their residents to avoid their due share of taxation for school purposes. Such a writ is not within the scope of this section. Prankard v. Cooley, 147 App. Div. 145.

An action to restrain the nomination and election of delegates to a constitutional convention cannot be maintained under this section. Schieffelin v. Komfort (1914), 212 N. Y. 520.

A taxpayer's action may be brought to restrain a county clerk from appointing deputies and assistants in contravention of the civil service law. Olmstead v. Mealil (1916) 219 N. Y. 270.

Taxpayers' action may be brought to compel restoration of town funds paid upon purchase price of steam roller under conditional contract of sale, void under the Highway Law. Shoemaker v. Buffalo Steam Roller Co. (1915), 165 App. Div. 836, 151 N. Y. Supp. 207.

Where a taxpayer's action brought under this section, proceeds upon the assumption that the scheme of assessment adopted by the board of estimate and apporcitizen, resident therein, or by a corporation, who is assessed for and is tionment of the city of New York for raising money to defray the cost of extending Seventh avenue and widening Varick street is illegal, but there is no evidence that such scheme is unfair, that the percentage assessed by way of special benefit is greater than should justly be borne by the property within the special assessment district, or that the percentage of the cost assessed on each three boroughs is in fact excessive or unequal, the complaint should be dismissed upon the merits. Goodale v. City of New Iork (1914), 85 Misc. 603; 148 N. Y. Supp. 1076.

The term " waste or injury " as used in this section includes only illegal, wrongful or dishonest acts. Daly v. Haight (1915), 170 App. Div. 459; 156 N. Y. Supp. 538.

The mere illegality of an official act in and of itself does not justify injunctive relief in the actions authorized to be brought by a taxpayer under this section, but when waste or injury is not involved, it must appear that in addition to being an illegal official act the threatened act is such as to imperil the public interests or calculated to work public injury or produce some public mischief. Altschul v. Ludwig (1916), 216 N. Y. 459; affg. 170 App. Div.; 155 N. Y. Supp. 1091.

A taxpayer's action is maintainable either to prevent an illegal act against, or waste or injury to, the property of a municipality. Carpenter v. Wise (1915), 92 Misc. 246; 155 N. Y. Supp. 996.

A taxpayer may by action under this section prevent any illegal official act or waste or injury and may compel the restoration of all property and funds. But it is only when the waste or injury is by collusion or otherwise or by default in permitting a wrongful judgment or by retaining or failing to pay over any public funds or property that the court will enforce the restitution and recovery, and also in its discretion declare the official responsible, financially, therefor. Daly v. Haight (1915), 170 App. Div. 469; 156 N. Y. Supp. 538.

Action against state officers. This section authorizes actions only against municipal corporations and their officers, not against state officers. Hence, an action to restrain the expenditure of state moneys on highways can only be brought by the people of the state. County of Albany v. Hooker, 204 N. Y. 1.

Action to restrain execution of illegal contracts. A taxpayer may bring an action under the above act to enjoin the execution by public officials of an illegal contract. Armstrong v. Grant, 56 Hun, 226; 9 N. Y. Supp. 388.

A city council will be enjoined at the suit of taxpayers from making a contract for paving streets with a specified material, which is the subject of a monopoly, although two-thirds of the abutting property owners petitioned for the use of such material, and the city charter provides that, in such case, the council has no power to contract for a different kind of pavement. Boon v. City of Utica, 26 N. Y. Supp. 932; 5 Misc. 391.

A taxpayer may, under the above statute, maintain an action to enjoin a municipality from paying for the services of an officer appointed in violation of the Civil Service Law. Rogers v. Common Council of Buffalo, 22 Abb. N. C. 144; 2 N. Y. Supp. 326; Chittenden v. Wurster, 152 N. Y. 345, 368. In the case of Peck v. Belknap, 130 N. Y. 394; 29 N. E. 977, it was held that such an action could be maintained against city officials to restrain them from entering into a contract of employment, in a position where a civil service examination is required, with one who has not passed the examination, or to restrain the payment of the salary of such an employee out of the funds of the city. It is not a defense liable to pay, or, within one year before the commencement of the

to such an action that the employment by the city of some person for the purpose specified is proper and lawful, and that the compensation agreed to be paid was not extravagant.

Action to restrain letting of contract. Where it appears that a contract was let to a person bidding a number of thousand dollars lower than his nearest competitor, an action will not lie against the officers authorized to award the contract because of a failure to comply with certain technicalities not involving the merits of the transaction. So an action cannot be maintained by a taxpayer to set aside a contract awarded to a bidder because of the fact that the bid was not deposited in the proper box, or because it was not opened immediately, as required by the rules and regulations of the board awarding the contract. McCord v. Lauterbach, 91 App. Div. 315; 86 N. Y. Supp. 503.

Where a statute under which a county or town officer or board acts requires a contract to be let to the lowest responsible bidder, an action under the above act will lie to restrain the awarding of such a contract to a person who does not appear to be the lowest bidder. As, for instance, a board of supervisors had four bids for work on a county building, but refused to award the contract to the lowest bidder because of his refusal to contract to employ only union labor, the grounds of such action being a resolution of the board that only union labor should be employed, and that, if non-union men were employed, the work might be delayed by strikes. It was held that a taxpayer's action would lie to prevent waste of the county funds and to restrain the awarding of the contract to a higher bidder, which contract contained the clause as to the employment of union labor objected to by the lowest bidder. Davenport v. Walker, 57 App. Div. 221; 68 N. Y. Supp. 161. See, also, Larned v. City of Syracuse, 17 App. Div. 19; 44 N. Y. Supp. 857. But the determination of the question as to what constitutes the lowest bid is quasi judicial and will not be reviewed by the courts in a taxpayer's action. Moran v. Trustees of White Plains, 12 N. Y. Supp. 61; 35 N. Y. St. Rep. 335; affd. 128 N. Y. 578.

Action to enjoin purchase of site and erection of school building. An action will not lie on behalf of a taxpayer to enjoin a board of education from purchasing a site and erecting a school building thereon, where it appears that the application is based solely upon the objection that the board of education had not strictly complied with all the required technical and legal formalities, if there has been a substantial compliance with the law, and the facts show that public necessity requires the construction of the school building, and that there is no bad faith upon the part of the board. Lawson v. Lincoln, 86 App. Div. 217, 83 N. Y. Supp. 667; affd. 178 N. Y. 636.

Action restraining payment or audit of claim. Where expenses are not a proper charge against a town, or are unauthorized, their audit is illegal, and payment of such expenses may be enjoined at the suit of a taxpayer Rockefeller v. Taylor, 69 App. Div. 176; 74 N. Y. Supp. 812. A preliminary injunction will be granted in taxpayer's action to restrain payment of unauthorized claim for compensation. Beresford v. Donaldson, 54 Misc. 138; 103 N. Y. Supp. 600.

A board of supervisors in auditing claims against a county exercise a judicial function; and if they act within their jurisdiction they cannot be held personally responsible for their audits. Wallace v. Jones, 122 App. Div. 497, 499; 107 N. Y. Supp. 288.

action, has paid, a tax therein.[4] This section does not affect any right

Under the act of 1872, similar in some respects to the above act, it was held that a taxpayer might properly maintain an action to vacate an audit by a town board of a claim which the board had no authority to allow, or where the audit was fraudulent and collusive. Osterhoudt v. Rigney, 98 N. Y. 222. But it was also held in the same case that the statute did not abrogate the rule that the acts of a board of audit within its jurisdiction, in the absence of fraud or collusion, are final and conclusive and cannot be questioned in a collateral proceeding. An excessive allowance or an erroneous conclusion by the board upon the facts, does not constitute waste or injury to the property of the town within the meaning of the act.

A complaint in a taxpayer's action brought against the supervisor, auditors and clerk of a town, which in substance merely alleges that during a certain year the supervisor unlawfully paid the town clerk a certain sum of money and that the town auditors unlawfully audited the claim, fails to state a cause of action. It is necessary to set out facts showing the illegality or fraudulent character of the claim.

A taxpayer in order to maintain an action against the supervisor and auditors of a town must specifically allege facts which entitle him to maintain the action under the provisions of the Taxpayers' Acts. Persons to whom payments have been made by the supervisor of a town upon an alleged illegal audit by the board of auditors are necessary parties to a taxpayer's action brought against the supervisor and board of auditors. Daly v. Haight (1914), 163 App. Div. 234; 148 N. Y. Supp. 42.

In an action brought by a taxpayer against a town supervisor and the superintendent of highways to compel them to restore moneys to the town, the town itself is not a necessary party. It seems, however, that the town may voluntarily come in and make itself a party. Neither need the persons to whom the illegal payments are alleged to have been made be necessarily joined as defendants, for the action is not to cancel a contract or to annul their personal rights. An allegation that the moneys were misapplied and illegally paid with knowledge that it was without warrant of law is sufficient, and it need not be averred in the words of the Code that the misappropriations were "waste or injury to" the funds of the town, for that would be a mere conclusion of law. Hicks v. Cocks (1915), 167 App. Div. 862; 153 N. Y. Supp. 776.

A member of the board of supervisors cannot act as attorney for the board. See Penal Law, § 1868. In the case of Beebe v. Supervisors of Sullivan County, 64 Hun, 377; 19 N. Y. Supp. 629; affd., 142 N. Y. 631, it appeared that a board of supervisors, desiring to take proceedings against a county treasurer to recover money not accounted for by him, employed one of its members, an attorney, to bring the action. The attorney subsequently presented a bill for his services which was audited by the board. The attorney did not vote upon his own appointment, nor upon the audit of his account. It was held that an action might be maintained by a taxpayer to restrain the payment of such claim, and that the contract between such board and one of its members, involving the services of a member and the payment by the county therefor, was against public policy and was void.

Where mandamus to compel payment by a town of notes made by its supervisor eleven years before had been denied, and the order of denial affirmed on the ground that the claim was unauthorized in its origin, was barred by the of action in favor of a county, city, town or incorporated village, or any public officer.[5] [Code Civ. Pro., § 1925.]

statute of limitations, and questionable on its merits, and where pending an appeal from such order to the Court of Appeals the board of town auditors allowed the claim on an oral assurance that the appeal would be withdrawn, two of them having an interest in the transaction, it was held that an action would lie at the suit of a taxpayer to restrain a payment of the order for the amount of the claim. Webb v. Bell, 22 App. Div. 314; 47 N. Y. Supp. 989.

An action may be brought by a taxpayer to set aside audits made by the board of supervisors and to recover on behalf of the county moneys alleged to have been allowed to a supervisor for services in preparing the tax rolls of the town, where certain items for which payment had been made were not properly chargeable to the county under section 23 of the County Law. Smith v. Hedges (1915), 169 App. Div. 115; 154 N. Y. Supp. 867; reversed on other grounds, 223 N. Y. 170, in which it was held that the court has no power in a taxpayer's action to re-audit a claim except on findings of fact showing that the audit was illegal either for fraud or collusion or for lack of jurisdiction, thus precluding on honest mistakes on the facts merely, as a basis of the audit.

Where in a taxpayer's action against a supervisor and a person employed pursuant to a resolution of the town board to recover town moneys paid by the former to the latter for services rendered the court finds that there was no intentional wrongdoing by either of the defendants; that all the moneys were paid before the commencement of the action, and that the supervisor did not receive any of them, it was error to give judgment for the plaintiff. Daly v. Haight (1915), 170 App. Div. 469; 156 N. Y. Supp. 538.

Action to prevent payment of salaries to public officers. A taxpayer's action cannot be brought under the above act to restrain the payment of salaries to public officers holding presumptively valid appointments in the civil service, upon the ground that although the appointments are valid in form, they are invalid in fact. When the question of title to the office is not collateral or incidental, but is the central and pivotal question, the proper remedy is a proceeding by quo warranto. Greene v. Knox, 175 N. Y. 432; affirming 76 App. Div. 405, 78 N. Y. Supp. 779.

Action in relation to town bonds. A taxpayer may maintain an action under the above act to restrain the payment of town bonds, illegally issued; such an action is not subject to the objections which would defeat an action dependent upon the general equity power of the court, nor is it barred by any of the statutes of limitation. Strang v. Cook, 47 Hun, 46. But such an action will not lie to restrain a town supervisor from paying over the interest on town bonds, from moneys in his hands levied and collected for that purpose, where the bonds are apparently valid and have been so treated by the town and its taxpayers, and where no fraud is imputed. Calhoun v. Millard, 121 N. Y. 69; 24 N. E. 27.

Any taxpayer residing in any municipality which has, in compliance with the Railroad Bonding Act of 1869, ch. 907, as amended, issued its bonds to aid in the construction of a railroad, may, by petition, institute proceedings to compel the county treasurer to observe the duties imposed upon him by such statute requiring him to use and invest the moneys paid to him, derived from taxes upon the railroads aided in their construction to the redemption of the bonds. Spaulding v. Arnold, 24 N. Y. St. Rep. 897; 6 N. Y. Supp. 336.

As to pleadings and practice in actions brought under the above section, see cases cited under section 1925 of the Code of Civil Procedure in Gilbert's Code (1910).

4. The above section is evidently supplemental to § 51 of the General Mu-

Code Civ. Proc., §§ 1926, 1927.

§ 4. ACTIONS BY AND AGAINST CERTAIN TOWN OFFICERS IN THEIR OFFICIAL CAPACITIES.

An action or special proceeding may be maintained, by the trustee or trustees of a school district; the overseer or overseers of the poor of a village or city; the county superintendent or superintendents of the poor; or the supervisors of a county, upon a contract, lawfully made with those officers or their predecessors, in their official capacity; to enforce a liability created, or a duty enjoined, by law, upon those officers, or the body represented by them; to recover a penalty or a forfeiture, given to those officers, or a body represented by them; or to recover damages for an injury to the property or rights of those officers, or the body represented by them; although the cause of action accrued before the commencement of their term of office.[6] [Code Civ. Pro., § 1926.]

An action or special proceeding may be maintained, against any of nicipal Law relating to actions to restrain unlawful acts by municipal officers. The cases already cited under such act are in a measure applicable to proceedings instituted under the above section of the code.

Boundary lines. It was held in the case of Govers v. Supervisors of Westchester County, 171 N. Y. 40, that the authorized action of a board of supervisors in ascertaining and locating a boundary line established and settled by statute between towns within the county by reference to ancient maps, cannot in the absence of fraud, collusion or bad faith on the part of the board, be attacked in an action brought under section 1925 of the code since the words "waste and injury" used in that section include only illegal, wrongful or dishonest action.

5. For construction of code provisions see Gilbert's Code (1910).

Action under § 1925 of Code of Civil Procedure. A taxpayer's action to restrain waste or injury to the property or funds of a municipality, or to prevent any illegal official act on the part of the officers of such municipality, will, in a proper case, lie under the provisions of section 1925 of the Code of Civil Procedure, or section 51 of the General Municipal Law. The provisions of section 51 of the General Municipal Law are somewhat broader in their scope, and provide somewhat more specifically for an action to prevent illegal official acts, and, in a proper case, restitution; but the principles governing an action brought under either of the aforesaid provisions are substantially the same. McBride v. Ashley (1915), 91 Misc. 585, 154 N. Y. Supp. 1010.

6. Application of section. In respect to an action brought by a supervisor it was held, prior to the amendment of 1897, that the section merely prescribes the mode of enforcing such rights and claims as belong to the supervisor of the town without defending them or declaring their nature or extent. Bidelman v. State, 110 N. Y. 232; 18 N. E. 115. The section does not create new causes of action, but confers upon the officers named the right to maintain actions in their own name upon existing causes of action in favor of the bodies represented by them, or of predecessors, or upon a contract made by them. Chrigstrom v. McGregor, 74 Hun, 343; 26 N. Y. Supp. 517.

the officers specified in the last section, upon any cause of action, which accrues against them or has accrued against their predecessors, or upon a contract made by their predecessors in their official capacity and within the scope of their authority. [Idem, § 1927.]

The last two sections do not apply to a case, where it is specially prescribed by law, that an action may be maintained, by or against the body, represented by an officer designated in those sections; but, in such a case, the prosecution or defence of the action, as the case may be, must be conducted by the persons then in office, who represent that body. [Idem, § 1928.]

§ 5. OFFICER, HOW DESCRIBED IN SUMMONS.

In an action or special proceeding, brought pursuant to section one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six or section one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven of this act, the officer, by or against whom it is brought, must be described in the summons, or other process by which it is commenced, and in the subsequent proceedings therein, by his individual name, with the addition of his official title. An objection growing out of an omission to join any officer, who ought to be joined with the others, must be taken by the answer, or, in a special proceeding, before the close of the case, on the part of the defendant; otherwise it is waived.[7] [Code Civ. Pro., § 1929.]

§ 6. SUCCESSOR, WHEN TO BE SUBSTITUTED.

In such an action or special proceeding, the court must, in a proper case, substitute a successor in office, in place of a person made a party

Section 11 of the Town Law, ante, p. 393, provides that an action on a contract made with any of the officers by whom a town is represented to enforce the liability of the town thereon, shall be in the name of the town. This section of the Town Law requires that an action on a contract of a town overseer of the poor shall be against the town and not against such officer although there is no express repeal of the above section of the code in the Town Law. This is so since section 1928 of the code provides that sections 1926 and 1927 do not apply to a case where it is especially provided by statute that an action may be maintained by or against the body represented by the officers designated in such sections. Miller v. Bush, 87 Hun, 507; 34 N. Y. Supp. 286. The effect of such section of the Town Law would seem to supersede as to all officers named in the above section of the code the power of town officers of maintaining actions on contracts in their own names.

7. Actions against county. In a suit against a county, the board of supervisors should be named as defendants and the individual members of the board should not be named. Hill v. Supervisors of Livingston County, 12 N. Y. 52; see, also, Wilde v. Supervisors of Columbia County, 9 How. Pr. 315.

in his official capacity, who has died or ceased to hold office; but such a successor shall not be substituted as a defendant, without his consent, unless at least fourteen days' notice of the application for the substitution, has been personally served upon him. [Code Civ. Pro., § 1930.]

An execution cannot be issued upon a judgment for a sum of money, rendered against an officer in an action or special proceeding, brought by or against him, in his official capacity, pursuant to this article, except where it is rendered against the trustee or trustees of a school district, or the commissioner or commissioners of highways of a town. In either of those cases, an execution may be issued against and be collected out of the property of the officer, and the sum collected must be allowed to him, in the settlement of his official accounts, except as otherwise specially prescribed by law. [Code Civ. Pro., § 1931.]

1. Power to borrow money. According to a large number of decided cases in this and other states, the power to borrow money, if not expressly granted by charter or by statute, does not exist by implication in a municipal corporation. See Mayor of Nashville v. Ray, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 468; Police Jury v. Britton, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 566; Wells v. Supervisors, 102 U. S. 625; Minot v. West Roxbury, 112 Mass. 1; 17 Am. St. Rep. 52; Hawkins v. Carroll County, 50 Miss. 762; Hackettstown v. Swackhamer, 37 N. J. L. 191; Wells v. Town of Salina, 119 N. Y. 280; 23 N. E. 870.

The case of Wells v. Town of Salina, supra, is the leading New York case upon this subject. In this case Judge Earl says: "It is the policy of the laws that town charges shall be met by annual recurring taxation, and thus extravagance and improvidence are in some degree checked, as those who create town charges or are the taxpayers when they arise, must bear the burden of taxation to meet them. It is quite easy for the taxpayers of to-day to create a debt which they are not to feel and which the taxpayers of the future are to discharge. The system of laws relating to towns requires that all bills for moneys expended or materials furnished, or services rendered to the town shall be verified and presented to the board of town auditors and audited by them, and then enforced by warrants of the board of supervisors against the taxpayers of the town. This whole system would be subverted if towns could borrow money upon credit to meet town charges. Then the money would have to be repaid whether the town had had the benefit thereof or not, and the wise provisions of the statutes to secure economy and safety by the audit of accounts would be entirely frustrated."

In the case of Starin v. Town of Genoa, 23 N. Y. 439, Lott, J., said: "The towns of this state have not the general power to borrow money, nor are their officers, in the exercise of their ordinary duties, authorized to issue bonds or any other evidence of indebtedness in the name of the towns represented by them, for loans or other debts contracted or incurred on their behalf."

And in the case of Parker v. Supervisors of Saratoga County, 106 N. Y. 392; 13 N. E. 308, Andrews, J., said: "The contention that boards of supervisors have no inherent power to borrow money or to issue negotiable paper, accords with the general understanding and with the tenor of the adjudged cases and the course of legislation which pre-supposes the necessity of express legislative sanction in order to justify the exercise of this authority. In this state the powers of boards of supervisors are not only the subject of the corporation. [General Municipal Law, § 5, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 166; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2109.]

§ 2. FUNDED DEBT NOT TO BE CONTRACTED EXCEPT FOR SPECIFIC OBJECT.

A funded debt[2] shall not be contracted by a municipal corporation, except for a specific object, expressly stated in the ordinance or resolution proposing it; nor unless such ordinance or resolution shall be passed by a two-thirds vote of all the members elected to the board or council adopting it, or submitted to, and approved by the electors of the town or county, or taxpayers of the village or city when required by law; provided, however, that a funded debt contracted by a city of the second class for the building of a school building or for the construction or reconstruction of a school building shall require for its passage only a majority vote of all the members elected to the common council adopting it. Such ordinance or resolution shall provide for raising annually, by tax, a sum sufficient to pay the interest and the principal, as the same shall become due. Whenever bonds have been issued and sold, prior to January first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, pursuant to this section, by a city of the second class, located in a county having a population of not less than two hundred thousand nor more than two hundred and fifty thousand, the proceeds or any part thereof may be used for any purpose for which bonds may be issued if authorized by a two-thirds vote of all the members elected to the common council and such action of the common council is ratified by a two-thirds vote of the members of the board of estimate and apportionment of such city.[3] [General Municipal Law, § 6, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 677, and L. 1918, ch. 210; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2110.]

of express affirmative definition, but for the purpose of confining the action of these bodies to the exercise of enumerated powers, it is declared that 'no county shall possess or exercise any corporate powers, except such as are enumerated or shall be specially given by law, or shall be necesary to the exercise of the powers so enumerated or given.' The power of borrowing money is incident to the powers of a business corporation, unless excluded by its charter. Boards of supervisors have the recourse of taxation for the raising of money for county purposes. The power to borrow money is not necessary to the execution of powers expressly given. But the denial of this power to those quasi public corporations also stands strongly upon considerations of public policy, and the doctrine that they have no implied power to borrow money is an important safeguard to the protection of political communities against the creation of ruinous liabilities through the action of incapable, negligent or unfaithful public agents. We concur, therefore, with the proposition that the power of the board of supervisors to extend the original debt by means of new loans, or by renewals of prior obligations, if it existed, must be found in the statute, given either expressly or by implication."

The above section of the General Municipal Law expressly limits the power of municipal corporations to borrow money upon a temporary loan except where taxes have been levied for the current fiscal year, and then only can money be borrowed for the purposes for which such taxes were expressly levied. The object and intent of the statute was to limit the power of municipal corporations to borrow money to those cases where the obligation of the municipality had been recognized and steps had been taken for the raising of money by taxation to meet such obligation.

By subdivision 6 of section 12 of the County Law, ante, p. 55, boards of supervisors are authorized to borrow money for certain specified purposes and to issue county obligations therefor, and may authorize a town to borrow money and issue its obligations for town uses and purposes.

§ 3. MUNICIPAL BONDS, HOW PAID.

Where the bonds of a municipal corporation have been lawfully issued, and the payment of the principal or interest thereof shall not have been otherwise paid or provided for, the same shall be a charge upon such cor-

2. Funded debt. The words "funded debt," as used in the above section include all municipal indebtedness embraced within or evidenced by a bond, the principal of which is payable at a time beyond the current fiscal year of its issue, with periodical terms for the payment of interest, and where provision is made for payment by the raising of the necessary funds by future taxation and the quasi pledging, in advance, of the municipal revenue. People ex rel. Peene v. Carpenter, 31 App. Div. 603; 52 N. Y. Supp. 781. Where a proposition to establish village water works and issue bonds to be refunded by an annual tax upon property within the village is submitted to voters at a special election, the bonds when issued become "a funded debt." Gould v. Village of Seneca Falls, 137 App. Div. 417, 121 N. Y. Supp. 723, affd. 200 N. Y. 523.

A fund raised by a fire district under a duly adopted resolution is a funded debt within the meaning of this section. American Metal Ceiling Co. v. New Hyde Park Fre District (1915), 91 Misc. 236, 154 N. Y. Supp. 661.

3. For form of resolution providing for the issue of town and county bonds adopted by a board of supervisors, see Form No. 115, post. Each such resolution must contain a provision for raising annually by taxation a sum sufficient to pay the interest and the principal as the same shall become due. Without such provision the bonds issued pursuant to the resolution would be of doubtful validity.

Application. This section does not apply to a proposition submitted to taxpayers to acquire property at a maximum figure, since the extent of the liability therefor cannot be ascertained at the time of the passage of the resolution. Village of Waverly v. Waverly Water Co., 127 App. Div. 440, 444, 112 N. Y. Supp. 1149.

When municipal improvements are voted with the provision that 90 per cent. of their cost shall be borne by abutting property owners and 10 per cent. by the village at large, bonds for the whole cost are not authorized by such vote; but where legislative authority is subsequently given for an issue of bonds for the whole amount of certain of the improvements, and bonds for the full amount of the remainder of the improvements are expressly authorized by a subsequent vote of the electors, they may constitute valid obligations of the municipality. Matter of Village of Kenmore, 59 Misc. 388, 110 N. Y. Supp. 1008.

This section does not require the resolution to specify the sum which shall be raised. Thus, a bonding proposition submitted to the taxpayers of a village which provides for "a sum to be raised annually by levying a tax on all taxable property in said village sufficient to pay the interest and principal of all said bonds as the same become due, complies with this section. Village of Branxville v. Seymour, 122 App. Div. 377, 106 N. Y. Supp. 834.

Where a resolution proposing an issue of bonds does not comply with the provisions of the above section to the effect that such resolution shall provide for raising annually by a tax a sum sufficient to pay the interest and the principal of such bonds as the same shall become due it is fatally defective. A statement in a resolution "that a sum sufficient to pay the interest and principal of said bonds as the same shall become due, be raised by an annual tax, as other taxes for general purposes in said village are raised," is not sufficient. It should state the installments in which the bonds were to be made payable and the number which were to be met in each year. Village of Canandaigua v. Hayes, 90 App. Div. 336, 85 N. Y. Supp. 488. See Lyon v. Binghamton, 160 App. Div. 222, 145 N. Y. Supp. 424.

poration, and shall be levied and assessed, collected and paid the same as other debts and charges. When for any reason any portion of the principal or interest due upon such bonds shall not have been paid, the same shall be assessed, levied and collected at the first assessment and collection of taxes by such corporation after such omission.[4] [General Municipal Law, § 7; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2110.]

§ 4. RETIREMENT OF BONDS BY NEW ISSUE; SALE OF NEW BONDS; CERTIFICATE OF AMOUNT OF EXISTING BONDS; TOWN MEETING MAY AUTHORIZE ISSUE OF BONDS.

The bonded indebtedness of a municipal corporation, including interest due or unpaid, or any part thereof, may be paid up or retired by the issue of the new substituted bonds for like amounts by the board of supervisors or supervisor, board, council or officers having in charge the payment of such bonds. Such new bonds shall only be issued when the existing bonds can be retired by the substitution of the new bonds therefor, or can be paid up by money realized by the sale of such new bonds. Where such bonded indebtedness shall become due within two years from the issue of such new bonds, such new bonds may be issued and sold to provide money in advance to pay up such existing bonds when they shall become due. Such new bonds shall contain a recital that they are issued pursuant to this section, which recital shall be conclusive evidence of their validity and of the regularity of the issue; shall be made payable not less than one or more than thirty years from their date; shall bear date and draw interest from the date of the payment of the existing bonds, or the receipt of the money to pay the same, at not exceeding the rate of five per centum per annum, payable quarterly, semi-annually or annually; and an amount equal to not less than two per centum of the whole amount of such new bonds may be payable each year after the issue thereof. Such new bonds shall be sold and negotiated at the best price obtainable, not less than their par value; shall be valid and binding on the municipal corporation issuing them. All bonds and coupons retired or paid shall be immediately canceled. A certificate shall be issued by the officer, board or body issuing such new bonds, stating

4. Payment of town bonds. It is the duty of a town to provide means for the payment of its bonds lawfully issued. In case of failure to perform its duty, the holder of the bonds may maintain an action against the town thereon, and this, although by the act under which they were issued, it is made the duty of the board of supervisors of the county to impose and levy a tax to pay the bonds. Such settled and admitted obligations of the town need not be audited and allowed by the board of town auditors. Marsh v. Town of Little Valley, 64 N. Y. 112; see, also, Horn v. Town of New Lots, 83 N. Y. 100.

the amount of existing bonds, and of the new bonds so issued, which shall be forthwith filed in the office of the county clerk. Except as provided in this section, new bonds shall not be issued in pursuance thereof, for bonds of a municipal corporation adjudged invalid by the final judgment of a competent court. A majority of the taxpayers of a town, voting at a general town meeting, or special town meeting duly called, may authorize the issue in pursuance of this section of new bonds for such invalid bonds, and each new bond so issued shall contain substantially the following recital: "The issue of this bond is duly authorized by a vote of the taxpayers of the said town," which shall be conclusive evidence of such fact. The payment, adjustment or compromise of a part of the bonded indebtedness of a municipal corporation shall not be deemed an admission of the validity or a recognition of any part of the bonded indebtedness of such municipal corporation not paid, adjusted or compromised.[5] All bonds of a municipal corporation, until payable, shall be exempt from taxation for town, county, municipal or state purposes. [General Municipal Law, § 8; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2111.]

§ 5. MUNICIPAL BONDS, HOW ISSUED.

Each bond issued by a municipal corporation shall be signed by each officer issuing the same, with the designation of his office; and the interest coupons attached thereto, if any, shall be signed by one of their number. Each such bond shall state the place of payment and, if no coupons are attached thereto, the name of the payee shall be inserted therein and registered with the treasurer, chamberlain, comptroller, supervisor, clerk or other designated official of such municipal corporation before any interest shall be paid thereon

All bonds hereafter issued by any municipal corporation, or by any school district or civil division of the state, shall be sold, in the case of a city of the first class as required by its charter or by any special act under which such bonds are issued, in the case of a city of the second class as required by section sixty-one of the second class cities law, and in all other cases at public sale not less than five or more than thirty days after a notice of such sale, stating the amount, date, maturity and rate of interest, has been published at least once in the official paper or papers, if any, of any such municipality, provided that if there is no official paper, then such notice of sale shall be published in a newspaper published in the county in which such bonds are to be issued, or a copy thereof shall be sent to and published in a financial newspaper published and circulating in New

5. Issue of new bonds for existing bonds. The law, as it existed prior to the amendment of 1897 to the section of the former law, did not expressly permit the issue of new bonds by a municipal corporation to take the place of bonds which had been declared invalid. But under the law prior to such amendment it was held that where bonds were issued in exchange for others, which were contested, and the validity of which was in dispute, the town will be deemed to have elected to compromise by the issue of the new bonds, and cannot thereafter contest the validity of such new bonds on the ground of the illegality of those which had been retired. Hills v. Peekskill Sav. Bank, 101 N. Y. 490; 5 N. E. 327.

Wherever under the present law it is sought to cure the defects in existing bonds by the issue of new bonds the provisions of the above section relating thereto must be complied with.

York city.[6] [General Municipal Law, § 9, as amended by L. 1917, ch. 534; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2112.]

§ 6. MUNICIPAL BONDS MAY BE REGISTERED; FEES FOR REGISTRY; EFFECT OF REGISTRY.

Each municipal corporation shall keep in the office of its clerk suitable books, in which shall be entered a full description of the amount, rate of interest, class, number, date of issue, pursuant to what law and maturity of all bonds issued by any of its officers and, if such statement is not already

6. Compliance with statute. The rule is settled in this state, that to entitle a party to recover in an action upon bonds issued by a municipality there must be affirmative and extrinsic proof that all the preliminary conditions required to authorize the issue of such bonds have been complied with. Dodge v. County of Platte, 82 N. Y. 218; Town of Venice v. Woodruff, 62 N. Y. 465; People v. Mead, 24 N. Y. 114; Starin v. Town of Genoa, 23 N. Y. 439.

Although where towns are authorized to issue bonds under special statutes to pay the expenses of improvements, the holder of the bonds must show that the requirements of the law have been complied with, yet where the plaintiff shows the taking of the oath by the commissioners appointed to carry out the improvement, that they entered upon the discharge of their duties, that the improvement was made by them, and that the bonds were issued by the town on the requisition from the commissioners for such improvement, and the defendants admit that the bonds set forth in the complaint were made, signed and countersigned as therein mentioned, a prima facie case of the due and proper issue of the bonds is established. Manhattan Sav. Inst. v. Town of East Chester, 44 Hun, 537.

The fact that the names of the commissioners authorized to issue the bonds were lithographed on the coupons of such bonds was held not to make them invalid, as the commissioners adopted and delivered as their own the signatures in that form. Beattys v. Town of Solon, 64 Hun, 120; 19 N. Y. Supp. 37.

Execution by two of three commissioners. Where town bonds are executed by two only of three commissioners authorized to issue such bonds, it will be presumed, in absence of any proof to the contrary that the third commissioner had notice of the meeting when the bonds were issued, and consulted with those who acted; and the absence of his signature will not, therefore, invalidate the bonds. Hilis v. Peekskill Sav. Bank, 46 Hun, 180.

Recital in bonds. The recital contained in a municipal bond should show the authority under which the officer acted who executed the bond. It was held in the case of Dodge v. Platt, 82 N. Y. 218, 230, that since the recital in the bonds did not show or tend to establish any power or authority to issue the same, that the plaintiff could not be regarded as a bona fide holder of the coupons for value without notice; for no presumption is to be indulged in favor of the validity of bonds issued under statutory authority where the recital is such as to put the holder upon inquiry. A recital that all necessary legal steps and proceedings have been taken to comply with the laws under which the bonds were issued, does not estop the town board from disputing their validity, even in the hands of a bona fide holder. Starin v. Town of Genoa, 23 N. Y. 439; Craig v. Town of Andes, 93 N. Y. 405.

Services in sale of bonds. An express power in a board of water commissioners to sell water bonds carries with it the implied power to employ such reasonable or proper assistance as may be requisite to bring about an advantageous sale; and this power is not limited to the employment of a broker to sell the bonds. Armstrong v. Village of Ft. Edward, 159 N. Y. 315; 53 N. E. 1116, revg. 34 Hun, 261, 32 N. Y. Supp. 433.

entered, of all bonds converted from coupon into registered bonds. A bond to which no coupons are attached may be registered, at the request of the payee, in the books so kept in the office of such clerk, and a certificate of such registry shall be indorsed upon the bond by such clerk, and attested by his seal, if he has one. The clerk shall be entitled to a fee of twenty-five cents for each bond so registered. The principal and interest of a registered municipal bond shall be payable only to the payee, his legal representatives, successors or assigns, and shall be transferable only upon presentation to such clerk, with a written assignment duly acknowledged or approved. The name of the assignee shall be entered upon such bond so transferred and the books so kept in the office of the clerk. It shall be the duty of the clerk or other officer having charge of the office where such registry is kept, to transmit a statement of such indebtedness to the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county in which such office is situated, annually, on or before the first day of November. Except that in cities of the second class, the books of the municipal corporation in which there shall be entered a description of the amount, rate of interest, class, number, date of issue, pursuant to what law, and the maturity of all bonds issued by any of its officers, and of all bonds converted from coupon into registered bonds, as above provided, shall be kept in the office of the comptroller of said city instead of in the office of the city clerk, and all the duties to be performed by the clerk of the municipal corporation, as hereinbefore provided, shall, in cities of the second class, be performed by the comptroller of said city instead of by the clerk; and all municipal bonds in cities of the second class shall be registered with the comptroller instead of with the clerk. And, except further, that in the case of the issuance of county bonds the books in which there shall be entered a description of the amount, rate of interest, class, number, date of issue, pursuant to what law, and the maturity of all bonds issued by any of its officers and of all bonds converted from coupons into registered bonds, as above provided, shall be kept in the office of the county treasurer of such county and all the duties to be performed by the clerk of the municipal corporation, as hereinbefore provided, shall, in the case of county bonds, be performed by the county treasurer of such county; and all such county bonds shall be registered by the treasurer of the county instead of the clerk of such municipal orporation. [General Municipal Law, § 10, as amended by L. 1910, ch. 129, and L. 1915, ch. 382; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2113.]

§ 7. COUPON BONDS MAY BE CONVERTED INTO REGISTERED BONDS.

When the owner of coupon bonds of a municipal corporation shall present any such bonds to the officers who issued the same, or their successors, with a written request for their conversion into registered bonds, such officer shall cut off and destroy the coupons and stamp, print or write upon each of the bonds a statement, properly dated, of the amount and value of such coupons, and that the interest, at the rate and on the date, as was provided by the coupons, as well as the principal, is to be paid to such owner, his legal representatives, successors or assigns, at a place therein stated, which shall be the place stated in the coupons, unless changed with the written consent of the owner; and thereupon such bonds may be registered in the office of the clerk of the municipal corporation. This section shall not apply

Duty to provide for payment. It is the duty of a town to provide means for the payment of its bonds lawfully issued. In case of failure to perform this duty the holder of the bonds may maintain action against the town thereon, even if it is made the duty of the Board of Supervisors to levy a tax to pay the bonds. Marsh v. Town Little Valley, 64 N. Y. 112.

Town bonds are not negotiable paper. There can be no bona fide holder of town bonds within the meaning of the law applicable to negotiable paper, as they can only be issued by virtue of special authority conferred by some statute, and are only binding upon the town when issued in a way pointed out by the statute. Persons taking them must show that the provisions of the statute are complied with. Cagwin v. Town of Hancock, 84 N. Y. 532.

where provision is otherwise made by law or local ordinance, for the conversion or exchange of coupon for registered bonds. [General Municipal Law, § 11; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2113.]

§ 8. MUNICIPAL BONDS NOT INVALIDATED BY CERTAIN DEFECTS.

When the bonds of a municipal corporation have been issued and sold by the proper authorities, and the time fixed for their maturity shall be for a longer period than provided by the law under which they were issued, a variance of not exceeding sixty days shall not affect their validity. [General Municipal Law, § 12; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2114.]

§ 9. LIMITATION OF INDEBTEDNESS OF TOWN AND COUNTY UNDER AUTHORITY OF BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

An issue of town or county obligations shall not be authorized when such issue, with the amounts issued and outstanding under any previous or other authority of the board, shall exceed ten per centum of the assessed valuation of the real estate of such town or county, as it shall appear on the last assessment-rolls thereof, except that in towns such obligation may be issued in excess of such amount with the assent of a majority of the electors of such town whose credit is proposed to be given, voting on the question at a regular town meeting of such town; but in no case shall the amount of such town obligations, issued and outstanding, exceed one-third of such assessed valuation. This section shall not include any case where special authority has been given by the legislature to issue such town obligations in excess of the amounts herein authorized. [County Law, § 13; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 716.]

§ 10. LIMITATION OF INDEBTEDNESS IN COUNTY CONTAINING CITY OF MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND INHABITANTS.

No county containing a city of more than one hundred thousand inhabitants, nor any such city shall contract any debt, the amount of which, exclusive of its outstanding debt shall exceed a sum equal to five per centum of the aggregate valuation of the real property within its bounds, as assessed for state and county purposes upon the then last corrected assessment-roll, nor shall it contract any such debt if the amount thereof inclusive of its outstanding debts shall exceed a sum equal to ten per centum of such valuation. This section shall not be construed to prevent the issuing of certificates of indebtedness or revenue bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes of amounts actually contained or to be contained in the taxes for the year when such certificates or revenue bonds are issued and payable out of such taxes. Nor shall this section be construed to prevent the issuing of bonds to provide for the supply of water, but the term of the bonds issued to provide for the supply of water shall not exceed twenty years, and the sinking fund shall be created on the issuing of said bonds for their redemption by raising annually a sum which will produce an amount equal to the amount of the principal of said sum and interest of said bonds at their maturity. This section shall not apply to debts contracted for the purpose of retiring or paying any existing indebtedness pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. [General Municipal Law, § 3; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2108.]

§ 11. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS AS TO LOAN OF CREDIT OR GIFTS BY TOWNS, CITIES AND COUNTIES; LIMITATION OF INDEBTEDNESS.

No county, city, town or village shall hereafter give any money or property, or loan its money or credit to or in aid of any individual, association or corporation, or become directly or indirectly the owner of stock in, or bonds of, any association or corporation; nor shall any such county, city, town or village be allowed to incur any indebtedness except for county, city, town or village purposes.[7]

7. County, city or town purposes. The credit of the county, city or town cannot be loaned, nor can any such county, city or town incur any indebtedness except for a county, city or town purpose. Such a purpose is one which is necessary for the common good and general welfare of the municipality sanctioned by its citizens, public in character and authorized by the legislature. Sun Printing Co. v. Mayor, 152 N. Y. 257; 46 N. E. 499. In the case of Parsons v. Van Wyck, 56 App. Div. 329, 337; 67 N. Y. Supp. 1054, the court said: "Speaking generally, what undoubtedly was aimed at by the constitutional provision, was to prevent the appropriation of moneys raised by taxation for private enterprises and purposes as distinguished from public, and although every public purpose is not necessarily a city purpose, yet where the object sought is to promote the welfare of all the citizens and the advantages to be derived from the proposed appropriation are common property and are within the legitimate scope of municipal enterprises in the way of securing the advancement, education, the convenience or health of the people and the adornment of the city, it is competent for the legislature to authorize the expenditure." This remark is evidently as appropriate in the case of a town or county purpose as in that of a city purpose. In this case it was held that an act authorizing the construction of a soldiers' monument and the issue of bonds in payment thereof are a proper exercise of legislative function, and that the bonds so issued were for a legitimate city purpose.

In the case of Deady v. Village of Lyon, 39 App. Div. 139; 57 N. Y. Supp. 448, Constitution, art. 8, § 10.

This section shall not prevent such county, city, town or village from making such provision for the aid or support of its poor as may be authorized by law. No county or city shall be allowed to become indebted for any purpose or in any manner to an amount which, including existing indebtedness, shall exceed ten per centum of the assessed valuation of the real estate of such county or city subject to taxation, as it appeared by the assessment rolls of said county or city on the last assessment for the state or county taxes prior to the incurring of such indebtedness; and all indebtedness in excess of such limitation, except such as now may exist, shall be absolutely void, except as herein otherwise provided. No county or city whose present indebtedness exceeds ten per centum of the assessed valuation of its real estate subject to taxation, shall be allowed to become indebted in any further amount until such indebtedness shall be reduced within such limit. This section shall not be construed to prevent the issuing of certificates of indebtedness or revenue bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes for amounts actually contained, or to be contained in the taxes for the year when such certificates or revenue bonds are issued and payable out of such taxes; nor to prevent the city of New York from issuing bonds to be redeemed out of the tax levy for the year next succeeding the year of their issue, provided that the amount of such bonds which may be issued in any one year in excess of the limitations herein contained shall not exceed one-tenth of one per centum of the assessed valuation of the real estate of said city subject to taxation. Nor shall this section be construed to prevent the issue of bonds to provide for the supply of water; but the term of the bonds issued to provide the supply of water, in excess of the limitation of indebtedness fixed herein, shall not exceed twenty years, and a sinking fund shall be created on the issuing of the said bonds for their redemption, by raising annually a sum which will produce an amount equal to the sum of the principal and interest of said bonds at their maturity. All certificates of indebtedness or revenue bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes, which are not retired within five years after their date of issue, and bonds issued to provide for the supply of water, and any debt hereafter incurred by any portion or part of a city if there shall be any such debt, shall be included in ascertaining the power of the city to become otherwise indebted; except that debts incurred by the city of New

it was held that an expenditure of money by a village for the purpose of retaining a county court house therein, and preventing its removal to another village, is in violation of the provisions of the above section to the effect that no county, city, town or village shall "give any money or property, or loan its money or credit to, or in aid of, any individual, association or corporation;" this prohibition includes gifts to public as well as to private corporations.

York after the first day of January, nineteen hundred and four, and debts incurred by any city of the second class after the first day of January, nineteen hundred and eight, and debts incurred by any city of the third class after the first day of January, nineteen hundred and ten, to provide for the supply of water, shall not be so included; and except further that any debt hereafter incurred by the city of New York for a public improvement owned or to be owned by the city, which yields to the city current net revenue, after making any necessary allowance for repairs and maintenance for which the city is liable, in excess of the interest on said debt and of the annual instalments necessary for its amortization may be excluded in ascertaining the power of said city to become otherwise indebted, provided that a sinking fund for its amortization shall have been established and maintained and that the indebtedness shall not be so excluded during any period of time when the revenue aforesaid shall not be sufficient to equal the said interest and amortization instalments, and except further that any indebtedness heretofore incurred by the city of New York for any rapid transit or dock investment may be so excluded proportionately to the extent to which the current net revenue received by said city therefrom shall meet the interest and amortization instalments thereof, provided that any increase in the debt incurred power of the city of New York which shall result from the exclusion of debts heretofore incurred shall be available only for the acquisition or construction of properties to be used for rapid transit or dock purposes. The legislature shall prescribe the method by which and the terms and conditions under which the amount of any debt to be so excluded shall be determined, and no such debt shall be excluded except in accordance with the determination so prescribed. The legislature may in its discretion confer appropriate jurisdiction on the appellate division of the supreme court in the first judicial department for the purpose of determining the amount of any debt to be so excluded. No indebtedness of a city valid at the time of its inception shall thereafter become invalid by reason of the operation of any of the provisions of this section. Whenever the boundaries of any city are the same as those of a county, or when any city shall include within its boundaries more than one county, the power of any county wholly included within such city to become indebted shall cease, but the debt of the county, heretofore existing, shall not, for the purposes of this section, be reckoned as a part of the city debt. The amount hereafter to be raised by tax for county or city purposes, in any county containing a city of over one hundred thousand inhabitants, or any such city of this state, in addition to providing for the principal and interest of existing debt, shall not in the aggregate exceed in any one year two per centum of the assessed valuation of the real and personal estate of such county or city, to be ascertained as prescribed in this section in respect to county or city debt. stitution, art. 8, § 10, as amended by vote of the people, November, 1909. in effect January 1, 1910.]

§ 12. RESOLUTIONS OF BOARDS OF SUPERVISORS AUTHORIZING ISSUE OF OBLIGATIONS BY TOWN OR COUNTY OFFICERS.

Every resolution of any such board, authorizing the issue of such obligations, shall specify the form thereof, the place of payment, in annual instalments or otherwise, within a period not exceeding thirty years from the date of such obligation, and the rate of interest to be paid thereon, not exceeding the legal rate; and no such obligation shall be sold for less than par. Such resolution shall also contain a provision requiring adequate security to be given by the officer, or board of officers authorized to issue such obligations, for the faithful performance of his, or their duty, in issuing the same, and the lawful application of the funds arising therefrom, and of the funds which may be raised by tax for the payment thereof, which may come into their hands.[8] [County Law, § 14; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 717.]

§ 13. ACTIONS BY BOND HOLDERS AND MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS AGAINST OFFICERS FOR MISFEASANCE, MALFEASANCE OR NEGLIGENCE OF OFFICERS IN RELATION TO THE ISSUE OF MUNICIPAL BONDS.

Recovery against officer by bona fide holder.—Any bona fide purchaser and holder of any bonds or other obligations for the payment of money payable to bearer and transferable by delivery, and any such purchaser and holder of any interest-bearing coupon or obligation originally attached to such bonds, which said bonds or coupons shall have been issued or put in circulation by means of the misfeasance, malfeasance, or negligence of any public officer, of any of the civil or municipal divisions of this state, whose right of recovery or cause of action upon any such bond or coupon has been, or shall be determined by the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction in any suit or action, or who has been or shall be a privy to such suit or action, may within three years after the determination of said right of recovery and cause of action begin an action against such officer, and recover all damages which said purchaser, holder or privy shall have suffered because of the misfeasance, malfeasance or negligence of such public officer. [General Municipal Law, § 52; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2128.]

Recovery against officer by municipal corporation.—Any municipal corporation within this state, or any civil division of this state, which has been or shall be compelled to pay any negotiable bond, or any coupon originally attached to such bond, by the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, because of the misfeasance, malfeasance, or negligence of any public officer or agent of such municipal corporation or civil division, may within three years from the time when such payment shall have been compelled as aforesaid, begin an action against any such officer in any court of competent jurisdiction and recover the amount so paid with interest from the time of such payment. [General Municipal Law, § 53; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2129.]

Statute of limitations.—No limitation of the time for commencing an action shall affect any of the actions hereinbefore mentioned except as herein provided, and in such action an order of arrest and an execution against the person of the defendant may be issued in the manner and form provided by the Code of Civil Procedure against a person who shall have wrongfully misappropriated money held by him in a fiduciary capacity. [General Municipal Law, § 54; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2129.]

Appeals.—In any suit or action upon any coupon hereinbefore mentioned, or upon any bonds hereinbefore mentioned, or to recover any damages hereinbefore mentioned, any party to such action shall have and is hereby granted a right of appeal, to the general term or appellate division of the Supreme Court from the judgment of any trial court, or to the Court of Appeals from any judgment of the general term or of the appellate division of the Supreme Court, althongh the amount in controversy in such action has been or may be, less than five hundred dollars. Appeals from any inferior court to any appellate court, including an appeal to the Court of Appeals although the amount in controversy may be less than five hundred dollars, from any judgment in any suit or action to recover against any municipal corporation or civil division of this state upon any negotiable bonds or upon any coupon originally attached thereto, issued or put in circulation by the agents or officers of such municipal corporation or civil division of this state, may be taken by any person who has been or shall be bound as a privy by such judgment within sixty days after such privy shall have been served by any of the parties to such civil action, with a copy of the said judgment and with a written notice of the entry thereof, and said appeal may be taken in the name of such party without entering an order of substitution as such party by said person so bound as a privy, upon his giving the security and serving the notices of appeal prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure concerning an appeal by a party to such an action, and also upon giving to the party in whose name such an appeal is taken an undertaking with two sufficient sureties conditioned in the penal sum of five hundred dollars, to save such party to such action in whose name such appeal shall be taken harmless of and from all costs and disbursements which may be recovered against him upon such appeal, which said undertaking shall be approved as to its form and as to the sufficiency of the sureties thereon by justices of the Supreme Court. Said appeal when so taken by said privy shall be conducted and determined in the same manner as if taken by said party of the said action, except as herein otherwise provided. [General Municipal Law, § 55; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2129.]

§ 14. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS MAY ABOLISH OFFICE OF RAILROAD COMMISSIONER.

The board of supervisors of any county may, upon the application of the auditing board of any municipal corporation therein, by resolution, abolish the office of railroad commissioners of such municipal corporation, and direct the manner of the transfer of their duties to the supervisor of the town, or the treasurer of the municipal corporation other than a town, and upon his compliance with such directions, such transferee shall be vested with all the powers conferred upon such railroad commissioners and subject to all the duties imposed upon them.[10] [General Municipal Law, § 16; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2117.]

9. Right of appeal. The provision of the act for the protection of bona fide holders of negotiable municipal bonds put in circulation through official misfeasance to the effect that a party or privy of a party to any action upon such bonds, or upon coupons thereof is given a right of appeal to the several appellate courts of the state, including "an appeal to the Court of Appeals, although the amount in controversy may be less than $500," applies to those actions only in which the right of appeal had not been exhausted when the act was passed. Germania Sav. Bank v. Supension Bridge, 159 N. Y. 362; 54 N. E. 33.

10. Office of railroad commissioner abolished. The above section of the General Municipal Law was inserted as a new section by the Statutory Revision Commission. See report of Statutory Revision Commission, 1892. General Municipal Law, §§ 226–230, authorizes towns having railroad commissioners to transfer the powers and duties of such officers to the supervisors of such towns, and to abolish the office of railroad commissioner. The above section of the General Municipal Law would seem to provide additional means for abolishing the office of railroad commissioner, and notwithstanding this enactment action may properly be taken under §§ 226–230. Such sections are, therefore, inserted and are as follows:

"Transfer of powers of railroad commissioner to supervisor. Every town in which railroad commissioners heretofore appointed or elected under the provisions of any general or special statute of this state authorizing towns to incur indebtedness in aid of the construction of any railroad, remain in office, and in which the duties imposed by such statutes, upon such commissioners, are not yet fully performed, is hereby authorized and empowered, at an annual town meeting, or at a special town meeting called for such purpose in the manner prescribed by law, to authorize the transfer of the powers and duties of such railroad commissioner or commissioners to the supervisor of such town, by a resolution to such effect passed and adopted by a majority vote of all persons voting at such town meeting. [General Municipal Law, § 226; B. C. & G. Cons L., p. 2152.]

" Supervisor's bond. Within twenty days after the passage of such resolution at such town meeting the said supervisor shall file in the office of the town clerk of said town a bond running to the people of the state of New York, executed by himself and two or more sureties, in a penalty to be fixed by the board of town auditors of said town as hereinafter provided, and conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of railroad commissioners transferred to him under said resolution, and the payment over according to law of all moneys coming into his hands by reason of such transfer; such bonds also to be approved as to form and sufficiency of sureties by the county judge of the county in which said town is located. [General Municipal Law, § 227; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2152.]

" Transfer, when to take effect. Forthwith, upon the filing of such bond as aforesaid, the town clerk of the town shall indorse upon copies of such bond to be provided by the said supervisor, a certificate to the effect that the said bond has been filed in the office of such town clerk, and said supervisor shall serve such copies and certificate upon the railroad commissioners respectively, and thereupon it shall be the duty of such railroad commissioners to pay over to such supervisor all moneys remaining in their hands as railroad commissioners of such town, and to deliver all books, papers, securities and other property belonging to said town and remaining in their hands as such commissioners unto the said supervisor, and to take his receipt therefor, which receipt shall be to them a proper and sufficient voucher. Immediately upon the delivery of said moneys and property by the said railroad commissioners to the supervisor, as aforesaid, and in the manner aforesaid, the office of railroad commissioner of such town shall wholly cease, and the said supervisor shall thereupon be invested with all the powers conferred upon such railroad commissioners by the statute and proceedings under and by which they were appointed, and shall be subject to all the duties imposed upon such commissioners by such statute, and all securities and evidences of debt transferred by said commissioners to said supervisor as aforesaid, which by the terms thereof are payable to the said railroad commissioners, shall be paid when due to said supervisor, upon his indorsement as supervisor, in the same manner and to the same effect as if indorsed by said railroad commissioners. Such commissioners shall hold their office for five years, and until others are appointed by the county judge, unless their duties shall be sooner performed, or the office shall be abolished, who shall also, in like manner, fill any vacancies that may exist therein. Such commissioners shall each receive the sum of three dollars per day for each day actually engaged in the discharge of their duties, and the necessary disbursements to be audited and paid by the usual auditing and disbursing officers of such municipal corporation. A majority of such commissioners, at a meeting of which all have notice, shall constitute a quorum.[11] [General Municipal Law, § 14; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2116.]

purpose of fixing the penalty of the bond of said supervisor, as provided in section two hundred and twenty-seven of this article, at the office of the town clerk within ten days after the town meeting at which the resolution hereinbefore provided for was passed, upon a day to be fixed by said town clerk, whereof each member of said board shall be notified by said clerk either personally or by mail, at least three days before the time fixed for said meeting. In fixing the penalty of the bond to be given by said supervisor under the provisions of section two hundred and twenty-seven of this article, said board of town auditors shall take into consideration the amount of moneys likely to come into the hands of such supervisor by reason of the additional duties imposed upon him by this article. Hereafter, in a town in which the duties of railroad commissioner have been transferred to the supervisor, the general bond given by such officer, conditioned to safely hold and pay over all moneys coming into his hands and belonging to said town, shall be deemed to include and be a security for the payment over of all moneys coming into the hands of such supervisor under and by reason of the provisions of this article. [General Municipal Law, § 229; B. C. and G. Cons. L., p. 2154.]

"Additional compensation of supervisor. For the performance of the additional duties devolved upon him under the provisions of this article, such supervisor shall be entitled to reasonable compensation, to be fixed by the board of town auditors of such town." [General Municipal Law, § 230; B. C. and G. Cons. L., p. 2154.]

11. Commissioners not town officers. Under the former law it was held that town commissioners are not town officers and that a town was not bound by the acts of its commissioners beyond the authority of the act under which they were appointed. Horton v. Town of Thompson, 71 N. Y. 513.

[General Municipal Law, § 15; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2117.]

§ 17. WHEN RAILROAD STOCK AND BONDS MAY BE SOLD OR EXCHANGED; DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS OF SALE.

The railroad commissioners or officers of a municipal corporation, having the lawful charge and control of any railroad stock or bonds, for or in payment of which the bonds of such municipal corporation have been lawfully issued in aid of such railroad corporation, may exchange the stock or bonds of such railroad corporation for and in payment of such bonds, or the new substituted bonds of such municipal corporation, when such exchange can be made for not less than the par value of the stocks or bonds so held by them. If they cannot make such exchange they may sell such stocks or bonds at not less than par; but they may, on the application and with the approval, of the governing board of the municipal corporation, owning such stock or bonds, exchange, sell or dispose of such stock or bonds, at the best price and upon the best terms obtainable, for the municipal corporation they represent, and shall execute to the purchaser the necessary transfers therefor. All moneys received for any stock or bonds shall only be applied to the payment and extinguishment of the bonds of the municipal corporation, lawfully issued in aid of any such railroad, or substituted therefor; except that if the bonds so issued or substituted have all been paid, or the moneys so realized shall be more than sufficient to pay them in full, and all the costs and expenses of the sale, such proceeds or balance thereof shall be paid by the officers making the sale, to the supervisor of the town, or the treasurer of the municipal corporation, and applied to such lawful uses as the governing board of the municipal corporation, entitled to the same, may direct. The provisions of this section shall apply to all such commissioners or officers of a muunicipal corporation elected or appointed or acting under the provisions of any special act, and the authority hereby conferred shall not be limited by the provisions of any such special act. [General Municipal Law, § 17; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2117.]

§ 18. ANNUAL REPORT OF RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS AND PAYMENT OF RAILROAD BONDS.

The railroad commissioners of a municipal corporation, having in charge the moneys received and collected, and who are responsible for the payment of the interest of the bonds lawfully issued by such municipal corporation, in aid of railroads, shall annually report to the governing board of the municipal corporation, the total amount of the municipal indebtedness of the municipal corporation they represent, upon such bonds or such new bonds substituted therefor, the date of the bonds and when payable, the rate of interest thereon, the acts under which they were issued, the amount of principal and interest that will become due thereon before the next annual tax levy and collection of taxes for the next succeeding year, and the amount in their hands applicable to the payment of the principal or interest thereon. Each year such governing board shall levy and collect of the municipal corporation sufficient money to pay such principal and interest, as the same shall become due and payable. When collected, such moneys, with the unpaid sums on hand, shall be forthwith paid over to such commissioners, and applied by them to the purposes for which collected or held. When paid, such bonds shall be presented by such railroad commissioners to the governing board of the municipal corporation, at least five days before the annual town meeting, village or city election, or meeting of the board of supervisors, next thereafter held, who shall cancel the same, and make and file a record thereof in the clerk's office of the municipal corporation, whose bonds were so paid or cancelled. [General Municipal Law, § 18; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2118.]

§ 19. ACCOUNTS AND LOANS BY RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

Such railroad commissioners shall present to the auditing board of the municipal corporation they represent, at each annual meeting of such board, a written statement or report, showing all their receipts and expenditures, with vouchers. They shall also loan on proper security or collaterals, or deposit in some solvent bank or banking institutions, at the best rate of interest they can obtain, or invest in the bonds of the municipal corporation they represent, or in bonds of the state, or of any town, village, city or county therein, issued pursuant to law, or in the bonds of the United States, all moneys that shall come into their hands by virtue of their office, and not needed for current liabilities; and all earnings, profits or interest accruing from such loans, deposits or investments, shall be credited to the municipal corporation they represent, and accounted for in their annual settlement with the governing board thereof. [General Municipal Law, § 19; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2118.]

§ 20. RE-ISSUE OF LOST OR DESTROYED BONDS.

When any bonds lawfully issued by a municipal corporation in aid of any railroad, or in substitution for bonds so issued, shall be lost or destroyed, the railroad commissioners may issue new bonds in the place of the ones so lost or destroyed, at the same rate of interest, and to become payable at the same time, upon the owner furnishing satisfactory proof by affidavit, of such ownership, and loss or destruction, and a written indemnity, with at least two sureties, approved as to form and sufficiency, by the county judge of the county in which such municipal corporation is situated. Every new bond so issued shall state upon its face the number and denomination of the bond for which it is issued, that it is issued in the place of such bond claimed to have been lost or destroyed, that it is issued as a duplicate thereof, and that but one is to be paid. Such affidavit and indemnity, duly indorsed, shall be immediately filed in the county clerk's office. [General Municipal Law, § 20; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2119.]

§ 21. PAYMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST TOWN OR COUNTY.

When a final judgment for a sum of money shall be recovered against a municipal corporation, and the execution thereof shall not be stayed pursuant to law, or the time for such stay shall have expired, the treasurer or other financial officer of such corporation having sufficient moneys in his hands belonging to the corporation not otherwise specifically appropriated, shall pay such judgment upon the production of a certified copy of the docket thereof.[12] [General Municipal Law, § 70; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2130.]

§ 21a. LEVY OF TAX TO PAY A FINAL JUDGMENT.

If a final judgment for a sum of money, or directing the payment of money shall have been, or shall hereafter be recovered against any county, town, city or incorporated village within this state, and the same remains, or shall hereafter remain unpaid, and the execution thereof is not, or shall not be stayed as required by law, or if so stayed, the stay has expired, or shall hereafter expire, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors, if the judgment is, or shall be, recovered against a county or town, or of the common council of the city, or the board of trustees of the village, if the judgment is, or shall be, recovered against a city or an incorporated village, and the said board of supervisors, common council or board of trustees is hereby empowered to assess, levy, and cause to be collected at the same time and in like manner as other moneys for the necessary expense of the county, town, city or village, as the case may be, are then next thereafter to be assessed, levied and collected, and in addition to the moneys now authorized by law to be assessed, levied and collected for that purpose, a sum of money sufficient to pay the said judgment with the interest thereupon, and the fees and expenses chargeable by law upon the execution, if any, issued to collect the same. The moneys so assessed and levied as soon as collected and paid to the proper receiving and disbursing officer, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall from time to time, be paid by him to the judgment creditor, administrator or assignee, or other person entitled to receive the same by reason of the said judgment, without any deduction for his fees or commissions. [General Municipal Law, § 82.]

§ 22. LIABILITY FOR DAMAGES BY MOBS AND RIOTS.

A city or county shall be liable to a person whose property is destroyed or injured therein by a mob or riot, for the damages sustained thereby, if the consent or negligence of such person did not contribute to such destruction or injury, and such person shall have used all reasonable diligence to prevent such damage, shall have notified the mayor of the city, or sheriff of the county, of a threat or attempt to destroy or injure his property by a mob or riot, immediately upon acquiring such knowledge, and shall bring an action therefor within three months after such damages were sustained. A mayor or sheriff receiving notification of a threat or attempt to destroy or injure property by a mob or riot shall take all lawful means to protect such property; and if he shall neglect or refuse, the person whose property shall be destroyed or injured, may elect to bring his action for damages against such officer instead of the city or county.[13] [General Municipal Law, § 71; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 2131.]

12. Judgments against county and town. By section 240 of the County Law, ante, p. 37, a judgment against the county is made a county charge, and by section 170 of the Town Law, ante, p. 388, a judgment against a town is made a town charge. Money may be borrowed by a town to pay a judgment. See Town Law, sec. 139, post, p. 399a.

13. Quelling riots and mobs. It is provided in section 106 of the Code of Criminal Procedure that "when persons to the number of five or more armed with dangerous weapons, or to the number of ten or more whether armed or not, are unlawfully or riotously assembled in a city, village or town, the sheriff of the county and his under-sheriff and deputies, the mayor and aldermen of a city, or the supervisor of a town, or president or chief executive officer of a village, and the justices of the peace or police justices of the city, village or town, or such of them as can forthwith be collected, must go among the persons assembled, and command them, in the name of the people of the state, immediately to disperse."

If any of such officers having notice of an unlawful or a riotous assembly, neglect to perform their duties under the above section, he is guilty of a misdemeanor. Code Crim. Proc., sec. 109. Such officers may arrest the persons so assembled and for that purpose may command the aid of all persons present or within the county. If a person commanded to aid neglects to do so, he is deemed one of the rioters and is punishable accordingly. See Code Crim. Proc., secs. 107, 108.

The governor may declare the county in a state of insurrection whenever it appears that the power of the county has been exerted and is insufficient to quell a riot or enforce obedience to lawful mandates. After a proclamation issued by the governor, he may call out the militia. See Code Crim. Proc., secs. 115–117.

Riot defined. Section 2090 of the Penal Law defines a riot as follows: "Whenever three or more persons, having assembled for any purpose, disturb the public peace, by using force or violence to any other person, or to property, or threaten or attempt to commit such disturbance, or to do any unlawful act by the use of force or violence, accompanied with the power of immediate execution of such threat or attempt, they are guilty of riot."

Liability of municipality for damages. The above section makes a county liable for damages occasioned by a mob or riot. It has been held that such

A municipal corporation authorized by law to take and hold real property for the uses and purposes of the corporation, may, if it is unable to agree with the owners for the purchase thereof, acquire title to such property by comdemnation. liability exists although the trespassers in doing the damages did not commit the crime of riot or any other offense. To recover for such damages it is only necessary to show, by a preponderance of evidence, facts and circumstances from which the jury might infer that the property was destroyed by a mob or riot within the spirit, true intent and meaning of the statute. Marshall v. City of Buffalo, 50 App. Div. 149; 64 N. Y. Supp. 411. In this case it appeared that the property destroyed consisted of several unoccupied buildings, located in a residence and business part of the defendant city. There was evidence that one morning a crowd of men, women, boys and girls appeared upon the premises with shovels, axes and other tools and commenced to abolish the buildings and take the material away in wagons; that from one to two hundred people were engaged in the work of destruction, which continued for three days, until only the foundation walls were left. It was held that there was sufficient evidence to warrant the jury in finding that the buildings were unlawfully and with force and violence demolished and removed by a riotous and disorderly mob or in a riotous and disorderly manner by a mob in the execution of a common purpose in defiance of law and order. It was further held that where the property of an individual is destroyed by a mob, without any previous threat or attempt to injure it, and without any warning or notice to the owner thereof until after the damage is done, the city or county in which the property is situated is liable to the owner under the above section. This liability exists whether or not the authorities had notice or could have prevented the damages.

In the case of Solomon v. City of Kingston, 24 Hun, 562, the facts were as follows: A building in which the plaintiff occupied a store caught fire; the fire not having as yet reached his store, he remained in it keeping the shutters and doors closed. A crowd which had assembled to see the fire, having shown an inclination to break into the store, the chief engineer turned a stream of water upon them, whereupon he was struck with a brick and went away to get a revolver. While he was gone a crowd burst open the door, went into the store and broke the show cases therein, threw and left upon the floor a portion of the plaintiff's goods and carried other portions of them away. It was held that the plaintiff could recover; that the fact that the crowd assembled for a lawful purpose, that is, to see the fire, did not constitute a defense, since they afterward united in unlawful conduct and wrongfully entered the store; and that under the circumstances the plaintiff was not bound to notify the mayor or the sheriff of the threatened danger to his property.

In the case of Marshall v. City of Buffalo, above cited, Laughlin, J., in speaking of the liability of cities and counties for damages occasioned by mobs and riots uses the following language, which seems to appropriately define the purpose and intent of the above statute: " The liability does not depend upon the diligence of the public authorities. It is an extension of the ancient English law which made the inhabitants of the respective hundreds liable for burglaries and unlawful destruction of property. The theory of the statute is that it is the duty of municipalities to preserve the peace and protect the property of all persons within their limits, and that imposing such liability would not only tend to incite the citizens and officials to greater vigilance, but that the compulsory payment of losses occasioned by riots would be a proper and just penalty for the negligence of which they have been presumptively guilty. The statute was intended to punish the inhabitants for permitting riots and unlawful assemblages and to incite them to prevent and suppress the same by making it a matter of interest to the taxpayers to give their moral support to the enforcement of law and order."

The following cases are cited in this connection: Darlington v. Mayor, 31 N. Y. 164; Ely v. Supervisors of Niagara County, 36 N. Y. 297; Sarles v. Mayor, 47 Barb. 447; Moody v. Supervisors of Niagara County, 46 Barb. 659; Luke v. City of Brooklyn, 43 Barb. 54; Wolfe v. Supervisor of Richmond County, 11 Abb. Pr. 270; Eastman v. Mayor, 5 Robt. 389; Davidson v. Mayor, 2 Robt. 258. In the case of Duryea v. Mayor, 10 Daly, 300; affd., 100 N. Y. 625, it was held that the city was not liable where it appeared that three or four boys in the day time, without any tools or implements, began tearing down the stoop of an old unoccupied wooden building. They were soon joined by from fifty to seventy-five other boys, ranging in age from eight to seventeen years. It was shown that they had no common purpose and were merely gratifying individual propensities. The work was continued for only an hour and the boys fled on the arrival of a police officer.

What constitutes destruction by riot. The destruction of an unoccupied frame building by a varying crowd of young men and boys numbering from eight to thirty, there being no evidence of any purpose to accomplish the destruction by violence and in spite of any resistance does not constitute the destruction of a building by a riot rendering the city liable for the damages sustained thereby. Adamson v. City of New York, 188 N. Y. 255, affg. 110 App. Div. 58, 96 N. Y. Supp. 907.

Evidence. Where there is no dispute that the property of the plaintiff was destroyed unlawfully by a mob, the fact that the mob proceeded to accomplish the purpose for which it was gathered as peaceably as might be, in the absence of any opposition to its course, and that it had no malice towards the plaintiff or anyone else, but simply a desire to possess itself of the material of which the buildings destroyed were made, does not affect the plaintiff's right to recover. Marshall v. City of Buffalo, 63 App. Div. 603, 71 N. Y. Supp. 719, affd. 176 N. Y. 545.

Judgments rendered pursuant to this section for riot damages have the same force against the property of a city as judgments recovered for any other cause of action. Darlington v. Mayor, etc., of New York, 31 N. Y. 164.

§ 25. SUPERVISOR TO REPORT TO BOARD OF SUPERVISORS AMOUNT OF TOWN BONDS OUTSTANDING; FORM OF REPORT; PUBLICATION.

When a town has a public debt, consisting of bonds, or other evidence of debt issued on the credit of the town, the supervisor thereof, shall make a report to the board of supervisors of the county, at every annual session thereafter, of the amount of such indebtedness.[14] [Town Law, § 190; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6200.]

Such report shall be in tabular form, specifying the different acts under which the bonds or debts were issued, with the rate of interest thereon, the amount unpaid at the time of the election of the supervisor, and the amount of debt paid at the date of his report, and coming due during his term of office. [Idem, § 191; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6200.]

The report so made, shall be published in the annual report of the proceedings of the board of supervisors. [Idem, § 192; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6201.]

§ 26. DUPLICATE REPORT TO BE PRESENTED TO TOWN MEETING AND FILED IN THE OFFICE OF TOWN CLERK.

The supervisor shall also, at the expiration of his term of office, at the biennial town meeting, make and present thereto a duplicate copy of such report to the board of supervisors, including and adding thereto the amount of bonds issued, and the amounts and interest paid, since the date of the report up to the day and date of the expiration of his term of office, duly attested before a justice of the peace of his town, which report shall be filed in the town clerk's office of the town, subject to the inspection by any elector thereof. [Town Law, § 193; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6201.]

§ 27. TOWN BOARD TO CANCEL BONDS AND COUPONS WHICH HAVE BEEN PAID.

All such bonds and coupons thereof paid, shall be canceled by the town board of the town, at a meeting thereof to be held for that purpose, within ten days previous to the annual town meeting; and a record thereof shall be filed, signed by the board, in the office of the clerk of the town. [Town Law, § 194; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6201.]

§ 28. LIMITATION OF INDEBTEDNESS.

No town including a portion of the Adirondack park and having state lands within the boundaries of the town shall hereafter contract any debt or debts which shall exceed the sum of three thousand dollars, except upon the duly verified petition of the owners of at least sixty-five per centum of the taxable real property therein, as such real property appears on the last preceding completed assessment-roll of such town. For the purposes of this article the consent of the comptroller shall be deemed to be the consent of the state. This section shall not apply to debts contracted for the purpose of retiring or paying any existing indebtedness pursuant to law, nor shall it apply to any town within the boundaries of which there is wholly or partly contained an incorporated village having a population of least three thousand inhabitants as shown by the last preceding state or federal census. [Town Law, § 195, as amended by L. 1913, ch. 116, and L. 1917, ch. 120; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 6201.]

14. For form of annual report of town indebtedness, see Form No. 155, post.

§ 29. LEGALIZING BONDS OF MUNICIPALITIES; PROCEDURE.

Legalizing proceedings.— Proceedings heretofore or hereafter taken by a municipal corporation authorized by law to issue bonds, or by its officers, agents or voters, pursuant to a statute authorizing or requiring such proceedings, may be legalized and confirmed by the supreme court in the manner and with the effect provided by this article. A proceeding may be instituted hereunder for the purposes of legalizing and confirming such proceedings taken prior to the issuance and sale of such bonds, or for the purpose of legalizing and confirming such preliminary proceedings and also the issuance, sale and form of such bonds. Such a proceeding may be instituted by the officer or officers of such municipal corporation authorized or required by law to sell such bonds, or if the purpose of such proceeding also includes the legalizing and confirming of the proceedings in respect to the issuance, sale and form of such bonds, by any taxpayer of the municipal corporation or by a purchaser or holder of such bonds. [General Municipal Law, § 22, as inserted by L. 1911, ch. 769.]

Petition.— The officer or person commencing such proceeding shall present a verified petition to a special term of the supreme court held within the judicial district in which such municipal corporation is wholly or partly situated, stating the statute under which it is proposed to issue such bonds or under which such bonds were issued, the purpose thereof, the aggregate amount of bonds proposed to be issued or issued, the time when such bonds are payable, and all proceedings that have been taken by the municipal corporation, or by its officers, agents or voters, in respect to the issuance and sale of such bonds, and praying that such court shall investigate the law and facts in relation to such proceedings and determine whether such proceedings substantially complied with the statute under which it is proposed to issue and sell such bonds, or under which such bonds were issued and sold. Such petition may also state any particular in which the petition deems that such proceedings may not have complied with the statute under which it is proposed to issue and sell such bonds or under which the same were issued and sold. [Id. § 23, as inserted by L. 1911, ch. 769.]

Notice of presentation of petition; filing; answer.—A notice stating the time and place of the presentation of such petition and briefly describing the proceedings sought to be legalized and confirmed shall be published at least twice in a newspaper, if any, published in the municipal corporation, or if no newspaper be published therein, in a newspaper published in the city, village or town nearest to such municipal corporation. Such publication shall be made at least twenty and not more than thirty days prior to the date of such hearing. Such notice shall also be posted in at least ten conspicuous public places in the municipal corporation. If such proceeding be instituted by a taxpayer, or a purchaser or holder of bonds which have been issued, such notice shall also be served upon the mayor of a city, the president of a village, the supervisor of a town, or the officer, board or commission authorized or required by law to sell such bonds, and upon any known purchaser or holder of such bonds. Such notice shall be so served personally or by mail at least twenty days before the date of such hearing and shall be accompanied by the petition proposed to be presented at such hearing, and at least ten days prior to such hearing such municipal corporation may serve on the petitioner a verified answer to such petition. If such proceeding be instituted by a municipal officer or officers, a copy of the petition proposed to be presented at the hearing shall be filed in the office of the officer or officers authorized or required by law to sell such bonds. At any time prior to such hearing a taxpayer of such municipality, or if such bonds have been issued, a holder or purchaser may file in such office a verified answer to such petition. [Id. § 24, as inserted by L. 1911, ch. 769.]

Hearing.—At the time of such hearing any taxpayer of the municipal corporation, or if such bonds have been issued, any holder or purchaser thereof may intervene and with the consent of the court be made a party thereto. Upon such hearing any party to such proceeding may appear, by counsel, and may produce and examine witnesses as to the proceedings taken in respect to the issue and sale of such bonds. Such witnesses shall be subject to cross-examination by any party appearing at such hearing.

The court may appoint a referee to take testimony in respect to the proceeding for the issuance and sale of such bonds and may otherwise require the parties thereto to produce proof, by affidavit or otherwise, of any facts which may tend to enable the court to make a full and complete determination in respect to the proceedings for the issuance and sale of such bonds. [Id. § 25, as inserted by L. 1911, ch. 769.]

Determination of court.—If, after such hearing and investigation, such court is satisfied that the statute under which such proceedings were taken authorized bonds to be issued by the municipal corporation for the aggregate amount for which it is proposed to issue the same, or for the amount of bonds issued and sold thereunder if such bonds have been already issued and sold, and that the proceedings taken by such municipal corporation, its officers, agents or voters, prior to the issuance and sale of such bonds, or including the issuance and sale of such bonds have been already issued, substantially complied with the statute under which it is proposed to issue such bonds, or under which such bonds were issued and sold, the court may, by order, legalize and confirm the proceedings taken prior to the issue and sale of such proposed bonds, or if such bonds have been issued, including the proceedings on the issuance and sale thereof and the form of the bonds issued thereunder, with the same force and effect as though all the provisions of law in relation to such proceedings and form had been strictly complied with. The court may determine that such statute was substantially complied with if it authorized the aggregate amount of bonds proposed to be issued or issued thereunder, that the proposition to issue such bonds was adopted at the election, if any, to which it was submitted or by the required vote of the meeting of the body or board to which it was submitted, and that such bonds, if issued and sold were sold at not less than par and at a rate of interest no greater than was authorized by the statute under which such bonds were issued, notwithstanding any irregularity or technicality in the form of proposition or resolution proposing or authorizing such issue, or in the notice of the election or of the meeting of the board or body adopting such reslution or authorization, or in the time or manner of service thereof, or in the conduct of the election or meeting at which such proposition or authorization was adopted, or in that such proposition was submitted more than once within one year or other shorter period than authorized by law, or, if such bonds have already been issued in the manner of issuance or sale thereof, or in the time or times of payment thereof, or notwithstanding any other technical or formal irregularity of like nature in such proceedings. If the court is satisfied that the proceedings for the issuance and sale of such bonds did not substantially comply with the statute under which it was proposed to issue and sell the same or under which the same were issued and sold he may make an order accordingly specifying the particulars in which he deems that such proceedings failed to comply with such statute. [Id. § 26, as inserted by L. 1911, ch. 769.]

Appeal.—An appeal may be taken to the appellate division from the order of the supreme court legalizing and confirming such proceedings, or refusing to legalize and confirm the same. Such appeal must be taken within ten days after the entry of the order, by the service of the notice of appeal upon all the parties to such proceeding who appeared personally or by counsel at the hearing before the supreme court. The decision of the appellate division thereon shall be final. [Id. § 27, as inserted by L. 1911, ch. 769.]

General Municipal Law, §§ 28, 29, 21, 88.

Effect of determination. If the order of the supreme court legalizes and confirms such proceedings, upon the expiration of the time to appeal therefrom if no appeal be taken, or upon the entry of the final order of the appellate division confirming such order of the supreme court, such proceedings shall be deemed legalized and confirmed. If such proceeding was instituted to legalize and confirm proceedings prior to the issuance and sale of such bonds, the officer or officers of such municipal corporation authorized to issue such bonds may issue and sell the same accordingly, and the validity of such bonds shall not thereafter be in any manner questioned by reason of any defect or irregularity in such preliminary proceedings, and notwithstanding any such irregularity or defect shall be binding and legal obligations upon the municipal corporation issuing and selling the same. If such proceeding was instituted to legalize and confirm the proceedings for the issue and sale of bonds that were issued and sold at the time such proceeding was instituted, such bonds shall be valid and binding obligations upon the municipal corporation, in like manner, and the validity thereof shall not in any manner be questioned by reason of any irregularity or defect in the proceedings for the issue and sale of such bonds, or in the form thereof. [Id., § 28, as inserted by L. 1911, ch. 769.]

Definitions. The term "municipal corporation" as used in this article includes a city, county, village, town, school district, sewer district, water district, lighting district or any other district or territory authorized by law to issue bonds.

The term "bonds" as used in this article includes bonds, corporate stock, certificates of indebtedness or any other obligations whereby a municipal corporation agrees to pay a stated sum of money. [Id., § 29, as inserted by L. 1911, ch. 769.]

§ 30. MAXIMUM RATE OF INTEREST ON MUNICIPAL BONDS.

If in any general or special law passed before January first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, authorizing or requiring an issue of bonds by a municipal corporation, or by any department, board, commission, or officer thereof, a maximum rate of interest on the bonds to be issued thereunder be prescribed, the rate of interest on such bonds hereafter issued in pursuance of such general or special law may be fixed by the department, board, commission or officer charged by law with the duty of issuing such bonds at any rate not more than the legal rate of interest, notwithstanding the provisions of such general or special law prescribing a different maximum rate. The term "municipal corporation" as used in this section includes a city, county, village, town, school district, sewer district, water district, lighting district or any other district or territory authorized by law to issue bonds, and the term "bonds" includes bonds, corporate stock, certificates of indebtedness or any other obligation whereby a municipal corporation agrees to pay a stated sum of money. [General Municipal Law, § 21, as added by L. 1911, ch. 573, and amended by L. 1918, ch. 23.]

§ 31. SEPARATE SPECIFICATIONS FOR CERTAIN CONTRACT WORK.

Every officer, board, department, commission or commissions, charged with the duty of preparing specifications or awarding or entering into contracts for the erection, construction or alteration of buildings in any county or city, or the borough of any city, when the entire cost of such work shall exceed one thousand dollars, must have prepared separate specifications for each of the following branches of work to be performed:

1. Plumbing and gas fitting.
2. Steam heating, hot water and ventilating apparatus.

Such specifications must be so drawn as to permit separate and independent bidding upon each of the classes of work enumerated in the above sub-divisions. All contracts hereafter awarded by any county, city or borough, or a department, board, commission, or commissioner or officer thereof, for the erection, construction or alteration of buildings or any part thereof, shall award the respective work specified in the above sub-divisions separately to responsible and reliable persons, firms or corporations. Nothing in this section shall be constructed to prevent the authorities in charge of any county or municipal building from performing any such branches of work by or through their regular employees, or in the case of public institutions, by the inmates thereof. [General Municipal Law, § 88, as added by L. 1912, ch. 514.]

§ 32. RETAINED PERCENTAGES UNDER CONTRACTS MAY BE WITHDRAWN.

A clause may be inserted in any contract hereafter made or awarded by any municipal corporation, or any public department or official thereof, providing that the contractor may, from time to time, withdraw the whole or any portion of the amount retained from payments to the contractor pursuant to the terms of the contract, upon depositing with the comptroller or disbursing officer of the municipality, corporate stock or bonds of the municipality of a market value equal to the amount so withdrawn. The said clause may further provide that the municipality shall, from time to time, collect all interest or income on the stock or bonds so deposited, and shall pay the same, when and as collected, to the contractor who deposited the stock or bonds. The said clause may further provide that if the deposit be in the form of coupon bonds, the coupons as they respectively become due shall be delivered to the contractor. The said clause may further provide that the contractor shall not be entitled to interest or coupons or income on any of the deposited stock or bonds, the proceeds of which shall be used or applied by the municipality, pursuant to the terms of the contract. [General Municipal Law, § 86b, as added by L. 1916, ch. 176.]

§ 33. WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE ON PUBLIC WORKS.

[General Municipal Law, § 90, as added by L. 1916, ch. 478.]

[Penal Law, § 1833; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4043.]

A grant, appointment, or deputation, made contrary to the provisions of either of the last two sections is avoided and annulled by a conviction for the violation of either of those sections, in respect to such grant, appointment or deputation; but any official act done before conviction, is unaffected by the conviction. [Idem, § 1834; B. C. & G. Cons. L., p. 4044.]

§ 9. MISAPPROPRIATION OF PUBLIC FUNDS AND FALSIFICATION OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS BY PUBLIC OFFICERS.

A public officer, or a deputy, or clerk of any such officer, and any other person receiving money on behalf of, or for account of the people of this state, or of any department of the government of this state, or of any bureau or fund created by law, and in which the people of this state are directly or indirectly interested, or for or on account of any city, county, village or town, who

2. Application of section. The assignment to the superintendent of the poor of a claim for services in finding homes for orphans is not prohibited by this section. People ex rel. Spaulding v. Supervisors, 66 App. Div. 117, 72 N. Y. Supp. 782. Assignment in contravention of section. Banigan v. Village of Nyack, 25 App. Div. 150, 49 N. Y. Supp. 199.

A contract between a board of supervisors and one of its members an attorney at law, for legal services to be rendered the board, is void. Beebe v. Board, etc., 19 N. Y. Supp. 629, 630.

A contract made by a board of supervisors for the necessary purchase of Mazda lamps, at their fair market value, with relator, a corporation of which a member of the board of supervisors is a stockholder, officer and director, is clearly illegal under section 1868 of the Penal Law; such contract is unenforcible because the said member of the board of supervisors had some, though not necessarily a money, interest in conflict with his duty as a public officer. Schenectady Illuminating Co. v. Supervisors of Schenectady (1914), 88 Misc. 226, 151 N. Y. Supp. 830, affd. 166 App. Div. 758.

Purchase from corporation of which supervisor is officer. A board of supervisors acting for a county cannot make a valid contract to purchase chattels from a corporation of which a member of the board is an officer and stockholder. And this is true although the supervisor knew nothing of the transaction and did not participate therein personally on behalf of either party, and although the sum involved is insignificant and the goods were fully worth the contract price. People ex rel. Schenectady Illuminating Co. v. Board of Supervisors (1915), 166 App. Div. 758.

While there is no express provision of law as to the manner in which the State Superintendent shall enforce the performance of their statutory duty by the county and city sealers, yet his general powers of supervision over them and over the standards of the State are sufficient to support his authority to direct them in the performance of their duties and to insist that the mandates of the statute be observed. CHAPTER LXXV-A.

FORESTS; PREVENTION OF FIRE.

Section 1. Communal forests.
3. Fire districts and fire towns.
4. Fire moneys and accounts.
5. Forest fire prevention.
6. Railroads in forest lands.
7. Damages on account of forest fires.

§ 1. COMMUNAL FORESTS.

A county, city, town, or school district may acquire by purchase, or gift, or take over lands in its possession within the boundaries thereof and use the same for forestry purposes.

1. Power and authority. The governing board of a county, city, town or school district may appropriate money or issue bonds either for purchase of lands for the purposes herein provided, to establish forest plantations or for the care and management of forests. Such boards may undertake such work at regular or special meetings by majority vote of such board after two weeks public notice setting forth the fact that such plan is contemplated and that moneys are to be appropriated for such purpose.

2. Assistance and trees. The conservation commission may assist and advise such boards in its reforesting work, and the commission may furnish trees for reforesting such publicly owned lands without charge provided they are planted in accordance with the instructions of the commission.

3. Use. Such governing board shall have full power and authority to acquire, maintain, manage and operate such forests for the benefit of the inhabitants of the district.

4. Revenue. The net income from such lands shall be paid into the general fund of such municipal division and shall be used only upon order of its governing board. [Conservation Law, § 60, as amended by L. 1916, ch. 451.]

§ 3. FIRE DISTRICTS AND FIRE TOWNS.

The following classification of districts is made for the purpose of protecting the forests from fire.

1. Forest preserve. The forest preserve shall include the lands owned or hereafter acquired by the state within the county of Clinton, except the towns of Altona and Dannemora, and the counties of Delaware, Essex, Franklin, Fulton, Hamilton, Herkimer, Lewis, Oneida, Saratoga, Saint Lawrence, Warren, Washington, Greene, Ulster and Sullivan, except

(a) Lands within the limits of any village or city, and

(b) Lands not wild lands and not situated within either the Adirondack park or the Catskill park acquired by the state on foreclosure of mortgages made to loan commissioners. [Subd. as amended by L. 1917, ch. 266.]

2. Fire districts. The commission may establish a forest fire protective system in such other parts of the state as it may deem necessary where there are contiguous areas of forest land aggregating seventy-five thousand acres or upwards. In such regions the commission may establish, equip and operate fire observation stations with the necessary accessories, prepare and post fire notices, organize a fire protective force, and require the town authorities to perform their duties in forest fire protection. If the town supervisor fails to certify to the conservation commission by February fifteenth of any year a list of the fire wardens for such town then the conservation commission may appoint necessary fire wardens.

3. Towns generally. In the towns other than the fire towns the town supervisor shall be superintendent of fires in his town and he shall be charged with the duty of preventing and extinguishing forest fires. He shall have the power and is hereby required to appoint necessary and competent fire wardens. On or before February fifteenth of each year, the town supervisor shall state to the commission, in writing, the names of the persons whom he appoints to act as fire wardens during the current calendar year. [Conservation Law, § 52, as added by L. 1916, ch. 451.]

In order to carry into effect the provisions of this article the following is prescribed.

1. Temporary loan. The state comptroller shall have, subject to the approval of the governor, the authority to make, on behalf of the state, a temporary loan not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars in any fiscal year, for the use of the conservation commission in protecting the forests and extinguishing fires as provided by this article upon the certification of the conservation commission that an emergency exists whereby through insufficiency of appropriations it is found to be impossible to protect the forests from fire. The comptroller shall thereupon borrow such sums as may be directed by the governor for such purposes and shall report such transactions to the legislature which shall thereupon appropriate the moneys borrowed. Section thirty-five of the finance law shall not apply to any indebtedness so incurred.

2. Payment of fire bills. All salaries and other expenses incurred by the commission and its employees in protecting the forests in the fire towns from fire shall be paid by the state.

The commission shall, on or before November twentieth of each year, transmit to the clerk of the board of supervisors of each county containing fire towns a summary statement of expenses incurred together with the amount charged against each town in such county. The said clerk shall immediately deliver such statement to the board of supervisors who shall thereupon levy the said amount due from each town to the state upon the taxable property of such town by including the said amount in the sums to be raised and collected in the next levy and assessment of taxes therein, and the same shall be collected as other town taxes are collected and the amount due the state shall be paid by the supervisor to the conservation commission on or before May first following the levy thereof.

4. May pay accounts. If any person incurs expenses fighting forest fires in a fire town, the commission may upon the receipt of satisfactory proof and accounts filed in its offices within sixty days from the time the expense was incurred audit and pay all or such portion thereof as in its judgment the public interest requires.

5. Recovery of expenses. Any moneys necessarily expended by the state, a municipality, or any person in fighting forest fires may be sued for by the state, municipality or person expending the same and recovered from the person causing the fire. Such actions may be maintained in addition to other actions for damages or penalties and may be demanded in the same or separate actions.

6. Certain towns raise fire fund. Towns other than fire towns may raise necessary funds for prevention and extinguishment of forest fires in their towns either by levy or by the supervisor making temporary loans.

7. Advance by comptroller. The comptroller may upon request of the conservation commission advance, not to exceed five thousand dollars at any time, to said commission for the purpose of facilitating payment of fire accounts. [Conservation Law, § 53, as added by L. 1916, ch. 451.]

§ 5. FOREST FIRE PREVENTION.

The following provision* shall apply in protecting forests from fire:

1. Proclamation by governor. Whenever, by reason of drought, the forests of the state are in danger of fires which may be caused by hunters, fishermen, trappers, or campers, the governor shall have the power to determine and shall determine and declare that such pursuits are contrary to the public interest, and shall have the further authority to forbid by proclamation any person or persons carrying on such pursuits in so much of the territory included within the fire towns as he deems the public interest requires. Such proclamations shall be in full force and effect at the expiration of twenty-four hours after notice is given in the manner the governor may determine.

* So in original.

2. Top lopping evergreen trees. Every person who shall within any of the fire towns fell or cause to be felled or permit to be felled any evergreen tree for sale or other purposes shall cut off or cause to be cut off from the said tree at the time of felling the said tree, unless otherwise authorized by the commission before the trees are felled, all the limbs thereof up to a point where the trunk of the said tree has a longest diameter which does not exceed three inches, unless the said tree be felled for sale and use with the limbs thereon or for use with the limbs thereon.

3. Fires generally. No fires shall be set on or near forest land and left unquenched; no fire shall be set which will endanger the property of another; no person shall set forest land on fire; no person shall negligently suffer fire on his own property to extend to property of another; no person shall use combustible gun wads or carry naked torches on forest lands; no fire shall be set in or near forest land in connection with camping without all inflammable material having first been removed for a distance of three feet around the fire; no person shall drop, throw, or otherwise scatter lighted matches, burning cigars, cigarettes or tobacco; no person shall deface or destroy any notice posted containing forest fire warnings, laws, or rules and regulations.

6. Protection on steam plants. No device for generating power which burns wood, coke, lignite or coal shall be operated in, through or near forest land, unless the escape of sparks, cinders or coals shall be prevented in such manner as may be required by the commission.

7. Material adjoining rights of way. In fire any of the towns, brush, logs, slash or other inflammable material resulting from the cutting of trees hereafter shall not be left or allowed to remain on land within twenty-five feet of the right of way of a railroad or within twenty feet of the right of way of a public highway.

8. Deposit of inflammable material. No person shall deposit, and leave in any of the fire towns, brush or inflammable material upon the right of way of highways. [Conservation Law, § 54, as added by L. 1916, ch. 451, and amended by L. 1917, ch. 266.]

§ 6. RAILROADS IN FOREST LANDS.

In order to secure proper protection to the forests from fire the railroads which operate through such territory shall be subject to the following restrictions.

1. Railroad patrol. All railroads shall, on such parts of their rights of ways as are operated through forest lands, maintain from April first to November fifteenth of each year a sufficient number of competent fire patrolmen unless relieved by the commission. The railroad shall file in the office of the commission on or before April first of each year a complete list of such patrol indicating the names of the men, their post-office addresses and portion of right of way assigned to each patrolman. If any changes are subsequently made similar data shall be furnished on request of the commission.

2. Clearing rights of way. The right of way of all railroads which are operated through forest lands shall be kept cleared of all inflammable material whenever required by the commission.

3. Locomotives to be equipped. No locomotive shall be operated unless equipped with fire protective devices of ash pan and front end which have been approved by the commission. Such devices shall be maintained and properly used.

4. Reports of fires. A verified report of every forest fire which originates on the right of way or within two hundred feet thereof, in any of the fire towns or protected forest lands, shall be prepared by the railroad concerned, upon blanks furnished by the commission, and filed in the office of the commission within ten days after such fire occurs.

5. Examination of engine and records. Every railroad company shall examine each coal burning locomotive each day it is operated between March first and December first, and record the condition of the fire protective devices in a book, or books, kept for that purpose. Such book, or books, shall be kept on file at such place or places in this state, as may be selected by each railroad company, and shall at all times at such places be accessible to inspectors of the conservation commission. Each railroad company shall within thirty days after the taking effect of this act file with the conservation commission a statement of the place or places at which it keeps such books; and in the event of a change of such place or places by said company, it shall file a statement of such change within five days after such change takes effect. [Subd. 5, amended by L. 1917, ch. 266.]

6. Deposit of coals, et cetera. Fire, live coals or hot ashes shall not be deposited unless properly protected upon any track or right of way on or near forest land.

7. Use of protective devices. Employees of a railroad shall at all times use in a proper and effective manner the fire protective appliances provided by such railroad. [Conservation Law, § 55, as added by L. 1916, ch. 451.]

§ 7. DAMAGES ON ACCOUNT OF FOREST FIRES.

In case of damages by forest fires negligently caused the injured party may maintain actions in accordance with such of the following provisions as are applicable thereto and shall have redress therefor.

1. Injury to state lands. Any person who causes a fire which burns on or over state lands shall be liable to the state for treble damages and, in addition, to a penalty of ten dollars for every tree killed by such fire.

2. Injury to municipal or private lands. Any person who causes a fire which burns on or over lands belonging to another person or to a municipality shall be liable to the party injured for actual damages in case of fire negligently caused or for damages at the rate of one dollar for each tree killed or destroyed in case of fire wilfully caused.

3. Recovery for damages from fires. The state, a municipality or any person may sue for and recover under subdivision one or two of this section, however distant from the place where the fire was set or started and notwithstanding the same may have burned over and across several separate, intervening and distinct tracts, parcels or ownerships of land.

4. Method of computing value of state property. Damages to state lands and timber shall be ascertained and determined at the same rate of value as if such property were privately owned.

5. Prima facie cause on right of way. The fact that a fire originates upon the right of way of a railroad shall be prima facie evidence that the fire was caused by negligence of the railroad company.

6. Prima facie cause in clearing lands. Whenever a fire has been set for the purpose specified in subdivision five of section fifty-four in any of the fire towns it shall be prima facie evidence that the fire was started by the owner or occupant of the land.
